Booby Trap Kills 3 British Police In Jerusalem

Blast Occurs During Raid On Suspected Arms Cache

Jerusalem, Nov. 9 —(CP)— Three British policemen were killed, one was seriously wounded and several Jewish civilians were hurt early today when a booby trap exploded during a raid on a suspected arms dump in the Bukharian quarter of Jerusalem.

An official source said the heavy explosion, which was heard throughout the city, was caused by a booby trap connected to a door behind which some time ago an arms dump of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, was believed hidden.

Police said the raid was made as a result of mysterious information received by authorities last night.

Material damage was small, except at one nearby house where a part of the ceiling fell, injuring several Jews sleeping there.

The booby trap, it was learned, consisted of an explosive charge of gelignite and amolite in a petrol can, bricked up in the wall, and a wire attached to the door to detonate the charge.

Today's violence, one high British officer pointed out, was the first to occur on the Jewish Sabbath.

Georgia Charges Ku Kluxers With Trying to Merge

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 9 (AP)— The State of Georgia charged the Ku Klux Klan today with attempting a 1940 merger with the German-American Bund, and accused the hooded order of seeking to weld ultra-nationalist veterans' groups and anti-semitic, anti-negro anti-catholic factions.

The charges were an amendment to an earlier suit to revoke the Klan's charter. A hearing of demurrers to the original petition is due Nov. 25.

The amended petition was introduced coincident with state legislation to revoke the charter of a new anti-negro, anti-Jewish organization called "Columbians, Inc."

The petition alleges:

In 1940, certain local Klans on the eastern seaboard made "a definite, planned effort" to combine the Klan and the German-American Bund into one "all-aryan" organization, and undertook joint operations to boycott Jewish, Roman Catholic and Negro-owned business.

The petition continues:

Samuel Stout, 3rd, of Philadelphia, Klan Grand Dragon of Pennsylvania, worked and collaborated with Edward James Smythe, director of the protestant war veterans; August Kapprott, deputy national Fuehrer of the German-American Bund; Arthur H. Bell, Grand Kleagle of New Jersey; and James A. Colescott, Imperial Wizard of the Invisible Empire, in arranging a joint meeting of the German-American Bund and the Ku Klux Klan Aug. 19, 1940, at Camp Noroland, Andover, N.J.

"As early as 1934, Dr. Edward Rumely, probably the most highly-paid German agent in America during the First World War, appeared at such meetings," the petition states.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 9—(CP)—Synopsis: Cool moist air continues to flow into the Great Lakes region from the Northwest. Skies are generally overcast throughout this area. The shower activity has ended except for a few snowflurries in northern Kirkland Lake, White River and James Bay regions. Skies will clear in southwestern Ontario tonight as the northwesterly flow of air begins to give way to a south or southeasterly flow. A storm centre over New Mexico gives indications of moving northeast. At present it is causing snow as far north as South Dakota and Nebraska and it will likely cause increasing high cloud over Southwestern Ontario Sunday, with rain Sunday night or Monday morning. The trend to lower temperatures will steady off today and become a little warmer Sunday.

C.G.E., Workers Still Negotiating

Toronto, Nov. 9. (CP)—Negotiations between the Canadian General Electric Company and the United Electrical Workers Union (C.I.O.) "are continuing and are in the same category as they have been all week," Jack Douglas, of Toronto, publicity agent for the Union, said today.

He mentioned a mess meeting that Union officials have called at Peterborough for Sunday, and added: "If developments at the closed meeting (today) are sufficiently good to warrant the recommendation af acceptance by the (Union) committee, the possibility of a strike will be definitely off the agenda."

He said only three alternatives would come out of today's meeting between the company, Union and Labor Minister Daley. These were: "Continuing negotiations, acceptance or the picket line."

Mr. Daley is acting as chairman and conciliator in the talks, which primarily concern Union security and 13-cent-an-hour wage increase. His office said the talks might continue until 2 p.m.

Charges Grossly Exaggerated, Says Police Chief

Vancouver, Nov. 9 (CP)— The Vancouver Police Commission Friday received from Police Chief A. G. MacNeil a report on recent charges of drinking and general misconduct of pupils of Kitsilano and Lord Byng High Schools which said the complaints were more than two years old and said the charges were "grossly exaggerated."

The Vancouver Sun in a recent newspage story charged that certain Vancouver bootleggers were doing "big business" selling cheap "vino" to high school students. The paper said the students went on wild, weekend drinking parties unknown to their parents.

The report disclosed that as a result of police investigations of the charges, one woman living on East Cordova Street had been charged with selling liquor to juveniles. Her case is pending in juvenile court.

School principals, the report said, "were satisfied with the conduct of their students and had every respect for their parents."

PAY TRANSPORTATION COSTS

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP)—The Ontario Department of Agriculture announced last night that they will pay transportation costs of all exhibits considered worthy of entry in the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago, Nov. 30 to Dec. 7. A special prize will also be offered by the department to any Ontario exhibitor winning a first prize and another to Ontario exhibitors winning highest awards in various classes.

21 PASSENGERS BURNED AND CUT IN TRIPLE CRASH

Collacutt Bus Collides With Car and Careens Into Truck Near Brighton

Brighton, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP) — Burned and cut in a triple crash on the western outskirts of this Northumberland county town, 21 passengers of an eastbound Toronto-Gananoque bus today praised bus driver Russell Edward McMaster of Gananoque, for helping them from his flame-swept vehicle and averting more serious injuries.

The crash occurred last night when the Collacutt Coach Lines bus driven by McMaster smashed into the rear of an automobile operated by Gilbert Carpenter of Toronto which had stopped behind another of the firm's buses of which Frank Hoag of Oshawa was in charge, police said.

McMaster's has ricocheted off the rear of the Carpenter car and careened into the path of a westbound gravel truck driven by Wilfred Levere of Cloyne, Ont. In a split second, roaring flames enveloped car, bus and truck.

Almost as quickly, McMaster started his passengers scrambling out. McMaster himself suffered burns about the hands and face as he helped passengers from the blazing bus.

Two in Car Hurt

Two passengers in Carpenter's car were hurt. They were Donald G. Huyck, Toronto, who suffered head injuries, and Anna Murray of Brighton, cut about the head.

"It was a terrifying experience but I can't remember what happened," said Mrs. James McQuoid of Brighton. 'I think I fell out through the flames but I can't remember whether anyone helped me out or not. I didn't even notice how the others were getting out."

"I don't think I went through a window. I'm not sure but I believe part of the side of the bus was torn away and I went out through there. I was so excited I can't remember just what happened but I think I got out before the bus caught fire."

No Provision For Women To Serve in Beverage Rooms

Toronto, Nov. 9—(CP) — Ontario government sources said yesterday that there is no provision in the Ontario Liquor Control Act which would permit women to serve beer in women's beverage rooms. William D. Kearns, business agent for the International Beverage Dispensers' Union (A F L) Thursday night told a meeting of Toronto Trade Unionists that the Liquor Authority Control Board was considering introduction of women waiters.

MASTER OF KING'S MUSICK TO JUDGE FESTIVALS

Ottawa, Nov. 9 (CP)— The Master of the King's Musick, E. Stanley Roper, will visit Canada with other distinguished British musicians to judge next year's series of Dominion music festivals.

His visit, believed the first for a Master of the King's Musick during his term of office, was announced today by the Ottawa Music Festival Association.

Specialist in Making of 'Loaded' Dice Wants Old Job Back Again

Kansas City, Nov. 9. (AP)— Julian E. Tierney, an ex-serviceman who describes himself as a "master craftsman," has filed suit against his pre-war employer because he allegedly was not offered his old job back.

Loading dice—to make the celluloid cubes roll seven when the player is straining for little Joe or big 10—comes under the classification of "precision" work, says Tierney.

He added that he spent long and tedious training learning his profession.

They are made, he said, only "for expose purposes and non-gambling tricks."

Governor Thos. Dewey Close to Presidency Following Elections

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Nov. 9 (CP)— Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 44 years old, son of Michigan weekly newspaper editor, today probably stands closer to the Presidency of the United States than any other man except President Truman himself.

He is in that position by virtue of his record-breaking majority in Tuesday's elections when he overcame powerful opposition from metropolitan New York City to win re-election as Governor of the State with the greatest majority ever recorded.

Gov. Dewey is the national leader of the Republican Party — if there is a leader—because he won the Republican nomination for President in 1944 and lost by only 3,500,000 votes when President Roosevelt won his fourth term election.

Today Gov. Dewey was in New York with his wife and two sons, preparing to leave for a vacation in Sea Island, Ga., and not at all anxious to talk politics or his 1948 chances for Presidential nomination.

To win the nomination in 1948 Gov. Dewey would have to overcome the party's tradition of never re-nominating a one-time loser. Many think that tradition will not stand in his way.

The last men to try that comeback trail was the late Wendell Willkie who wrested the party nomination from Gov. Dewey in 1940 and was defeated by President Roosevelt's third term victory.

Lost Out in Primaries

Wilkie went out for it again in the 1944 campaign but he lost out in the primaries long before the convention, retired from the fight, sickened and died—many said from a broken heart.

Gov. Dewey won his first fame, when, as New York's special prosecutor, he successfully waged a fight against well-trenched gangsters mobs, and beat them.

He is only five feet eight inches tall, slim and dapper. He has sharp dark eyes, overhanging eyebrows, a sharp nose, smooth black hair and a small black moustache.

The Governor is one of the best dressed men in the United States but he would like to be a few inches taller.

Gov. Dewey is a good friend of Canada and Canadians, and has personal experiences in that country which left pleasant memories.

He is on record as favoring an alliance of the English-speaking peoples for the good of the whole word, as a result of his support of such an arrangement at the Republican Party's postwar advisory council meeting at Mackinac, Mich., in 1943.

Against Isolation

He said Americans were determined there would be no third world war. "This time must be the last time," he said.

"We know that we cannot make good that resolve by any effort to withdraw or isolate ourselves from the rest of the world."

Gov. Dewey may have to fight such conservative aspirants as Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, John Bricker, a newly-elected Senator from Ohio who was his running mate in 1944, and Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, for the presidential nomination.

But if those old timers cannot get the nomination they are likely to support Mr. Dewey against the other youthful, liberal aspirant, Cmdr. Harold Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota, who is actively and openly campaigning now for the 1948 nomination.

His small stature kept Mr. Dewey off the football team at Columbia although he tried hard. But it did not keep him from facing up to New York's most feared gangsters and has, apparently, not hurt him politically in his adopted state.

He is an accomplished musician and almost went in for a career as a singer on the concert stage. He abandoned that idea and chose law, but his singing associations brought him his wife, Miss F. Ellen Hutt of Sapulpa, Okla., whom he met at classes and with whom he sang in church choirs. They were married in New York on June 16, 1928.

COTTON IS CITED AS MAJOR FACTOR IN PRICE POLICY

Donald Gordon Says Relaxation of Price Control Would Increase Price of Shirts

Ottawa, Nov. 9 (CP)—Cotton was cited as a major factor in Canada's price policy by Donald Gordon, Prices Board Chairman, in the third of a series of nation-wide broadcasts last night.

In the event of price control relaxation, shirts which now sell at $2.50 would be up 40 per cent, said Mr. Gordon. Men's combinations selling at $2.25 would rise by 33 per cent; women's cotton house dresses selling at $2 would jump 38 per cent; bed linen would go up 42 per cent and babies' diapers 40 per cent.

Canada, growing no cotton, was "at the mercy" of foreign markets as to the price and supply of this vital raw material, Mr. Gordon said.

The United States recently had closed the cotton markets because they had been so "wildly speculative."

"I leave it with you, therefore the question—would it be wise to move out of our position of relative stability now and subject ourselves to the speculative influences of such highly uncertain conditions or, does it seem wiser to wait a while in the expectation that these wild market flurries will calm down and enable this country to proceed with an orderly adjustment to post-war conditions?

Mr. Gordon said that cotton played so important a part in Canadian daily living that any substantial rise in its price would "serously affect our every day cost of living."

When the price ceiling was established in 1941 some way had to be found to stabilize the price of cotton and an agreemen was made with the cotton mills whereby the board agreed to supply the mills with raw cotton at an average fixed price.

"The government simply paid part of the cost of cotton in the form of a subsidy to prevent prices rising for clothing and other textiles," Mr. Gordon said. "Through this method of subsidy control of cost, the consumer has not been influenced by the wide swings in prices in the United States and in Brazil."

CEASE FIRE ORDER SET BY NANKING FOR NOON MONDAY

Skeptical Minority Parties Are Called to Work as Team for Peace

Nanking, Nov. 9. (AP)— The government today set noon Monday as the hour to cease firing in China's civil war and called skeptical minority parties into conference to urge them to work as a team for peace.

Before the meeting opened both the Communists and the Third Party Democratic League expressed doubt that Chiang Kai-Shek's surprise truce order Friday would help much in healing the wounds of civil conflict.

President Chiang has called the assembly to write China's new constitution. So far both the Communists and the League have refused to name delegates, insisting first on an armistice.

Sun Fo, president of the legislative Yuan (Council) and son of the founder of the Chinese Republic, was scheduled to address today's session with Communist and League representatives. He was expected to urge the two groups to take part in the assembly, and to attempt to allay their doubts as to the government's sincerity.

President Chiang, in his order of the day to his armies, directed them to "remain at your respective positions in order to show the government's sincerity and patience in achieving peace."

The order covered government armies spread over half a dozen fronts, from the Yangtze River in both China to Manchuria.

The cease fire order met only a part of the objections of the Communists, who now find the government at their throats both in their mountainous redoubts in Shantung Province and in South Manchuria.

Besides cease fire order, the Communists have insisted that government troops give up much of the land they have won in months of campaigning in the north—the citadel of Kalgan, for example.

The Communists now complain that the cease fire order was unilateral—taken by President Chiang without consulting Communist representatives in Nanking.

RECOMMENDATION ON MINESWEEPING SENT TO ALBANIA

Britain Concerned About Destroyers Which Struck Mines In Corfu Channel

London, Nov. 9 — (CP) — A Foreign Office spokesman reported today that Britain has sent a note to Albania making clear recommendations for minesweeping in the Corfu Channel where two British destroyers struck mines Oct. 22 with the loss of 38 dead and 45 wounded.

The note, dispatched today, will be delivered by Charles Peake, British Minister in Belgrade, to Albanian authorities. Britain has no representation in Albania.

After the Oct. 22 explosions which damaged the destroyed Saumarez and blew off the bow of the destroyer Volage, the Foreign Office reported Albania had protested to the United Nations against what it termed "repeated provocative interventions" by the British Navy in Albanian waters.

The British move follows the recall by the United States of George Henderson, American political representative in Tirana, Albania's capital. Mr. Henderson was recalled because of Albania's recalcitrance in recognizing pacts with the United States, it was announced in Washington yesterday.

UNRRA officials in Albania had reported for months that their movements were hampered and their actions watched. Members of the United States political mission had been kept under virtual confinement in Tirana.

Murder Charge Laid Against Winnipeg Men

Winnipeg, Nov. 9 (CP)—City police today laid a charge of murder against John Ferguson, 38, and Thomas Daniel, 37, in connection with the death of David Gentles, 47-year-old department store clerk and veteran of two wars.

A coroner's jury, enquiring into how he died Sunday night in the rear seat of an automobile in suburban Tuxedo, last night returned a verdict of "strangulation while in the company of John Ferguson and Thomas Daniel."

Both Ferguson, a movie projectionist, and Daniel, a mechanic, in whose car Gentles died, have been held since without charge on a coroner's warrant.

POMP AND PAGEANTRY OF LORD MAYOR'S PARADE REVIVED

London, Nov. 9 —(AP)— The pre-war pomp and pageantry of the City of London's traditional annual Lord Mayor's show was revived today for the first time in eight years in a two-mile long, three-hour parade.

Spectators, braving a grey sky and a bitterly cold wind, jammed the circuitous six-mile route from Guildhall, seat of the city government, to Mansion House, residence of Lord Mayor Sir Bracewell Smith, whose inauguration for the next year caused the celebration.

Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 9 (AP)— By rights, this dispatch should bear a hungry harbor dateline, for a survey today showed more than one Alaska community hungry for fresh supplies of all kinds after being isolated by the Maritime strikes.

Territorial Governor Ernest H. Gruening is in Washington seeking federal aid in dispatching necessities to Alaska to bolster the small amount which dribbles in under high freight charges, by air and in small craft and Alaska communities reported their varied shortages had reached the acute stage.

Ketchikan—Proximity of British Columbia and Seattle assures limited supplies of foodstuffs, but other businesses are hard hit. Merchants joined housewives in complaining about the high prices they must charge. Many, unable to afford beef, are eating venison.

Cordova—Hamburger is 90 cents a pound and other meats run $1.40 a pound because of air freight costs. Some goat meat is available but other game is out of season. Fresh fish and canned crab now are dinnertable mainstays here. Stores have been out of flour, sugar, salt, fats, oils, dried fruits, beans and rice for more than a fortnight.

Juneau—Feed for dairy cows is about all gone here. But the building materials and plumbing supplies shortage is the one worst feared as workers are being laid off. Merchants warn that no matter how much they might have on their shelves, shoppers can't buy unless they are earning money.

Rays of Hope

Seattle reported that a United States L.S.T., cleared by the strikers' committee, would sail today with 1,000 tons of livestock feed and other supplies in addition to its navy supply cargo.

And from Great Falls, Mont., 14,000 pounds of meat were en route to Alaska today, inaugurating an Alaska trucking service under a new Canadian-United States agreement permitting taxfree hauling through Canada on the U.S.-built Alaska highway. Worth $9,000 in Great Falls, the five-ton refrigerator truck's load will be worth an estimated $13,000 when it reaches Fairbanks, the truck pilots said.

Foreign Ministers Likely to Scrap Plan for Trieste

Hope Italy, Yugoslavia Can Settle Own Dispute

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Toy western diplomats predicted today that the Big Four foreign ministers will scrap the elaborate plan for internationalizing Trieste if Italy and Yugoslavia can produce a new formula for settling their bitter border dispute between themselves.

Rome reported a possible visit by Italy's Foreign Minister Pietro Nenni to Belgrade and several other developments presaged vigorous efforts to a real break in the east-west deadlock over the Adriatic port city. One of the latest was a decision by the foreign ministers here to by-pass the Trieste problem and go on to other issues

The decision was reached last night at a session of the Big Four council in which Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain virtually accused Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia of holding in "contempt" the decisions of the Paris peace conference. Mr. Molotov denied the charge.

The question arose over a relatively little known issue having to do with retoration of property stolen from Jews in wartime Romania. The Paris conference by a two-third vote recommended a restoration clause in the Romanian peace treaty. Mr. Bevin and State Secretary Byrnes of the United States backed it and Mr. Molotov objected.

Opposes Provision

Western power informants at the meeting said Mr. Bevin told Mr. Molotov last night that to strike the article from the treaty would be to treat the Paris conference almost with contempt; that he opposed the provision because it was unnecessary, the problem being covered elsewhere.

By-passing the Trieste issue plunged the foreign ministers into another old stalemate which the Big Four has battled through in every peacemaking session leading up to the one here.

The issue is that of free navigation on the Danube The United States and Britain want it; Russia opposes writing it into the Balkan peace treaties.

Mr. Bevin said he did not really care whether a free Danube was guaranteed in the treaties or in some other way, but that Britain would insist upon it.

This issue, like all others in the Romanian treaty with one exception, was passed over for lack of agreement. The one exception provided for United Nations to seize as reparations any Romanian artistic properties within their countries.

NO WORD OF PROPOSED VISIT

Calgary, Nov. 9 — (CP)—No official word of the proposed visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor has been received at the E. P. Ranch near High River, it was learned today.

Press reports indicated the Duke and Duchess expected to visit their ranch before spring. Ranch officials suggested it was highly unlikely the Ducal party would visit the ranch during the winter months as the ranch house was a summer building.

DOMINION WILL ASSIST POLES TO SOLVE MYSTERY

Govt. Official Claims Canada Cannot be Held Responsible for Disappearance of Treasures

By GEORGE RONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 9 (CP)—Despite the blunt statement of a high government official that Canada "is not conceivably responsible" for the disappearance of Polish art treasures from hiding-places in Ottawa and Ste. Anne De Beaupre, Que., the possibility remained today that the Dominion will intervene to help solve the mystery.

The first pointed implication to Canadian authorities came last night from London, where an official of the Polish Embassy said Poland holds the Canadian government responsible for allowing the 32 trunks of "priceless' treasuers to be lost.

The Canadian spokesman said there was no basis for that statement. The Dominion was "sorry" for the present Polish Legation in Ottawa and would do everything possible to assist in recovery of the treasures but would accept no responsibility.

Still on the books was the meeting next Tuesday morning between Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, Under-Secretary of State and Dr. Alfred Fiderkiewicz, the new Polish Minister to Canada.

But indications were that their talks might be only a general discussion of the situation. The External Affairs spokesman who announced the meeting said Mr. Pearson still had no official knowledge of the disappearance of the treasures.

These were th eapparen tfac's 2 1-2 days after the story became known: 24 trunks are missing from a church at the famous shrine town of Ste. Anne de Beaupre; eight trunks are missing from the convent of the Precious Blood in Ottawa South; two trunks were found undisturbed in the vaults of the Sparks Street Branch of the Bank of Montreeal here but as yet have not been returned to Polish custody.

Other statements, not proven to be fact, added confusion to the already complicated picture.

One came from a former Polish Officer in Montreal who said th etransfer of the 34 trunks from the original cache in the central experimental farm here was carried out under the directio nof "high Vatican authorities".

This officer said the "Polish Patriotic Organization" intended to ship the treasures to Rome if necessary to keep them out of the hands of the present Polish government, described by Poles here as "puppet Russian-dominated".

The statement involving the Roman Catholic Church was a direct contradiction of Dr. Fiderkiewicz' remark yesterday that there was "no friction" between the present Polish government and the Roman Catholic Church.

He said he did not believe the treasures—he described them of "monumental value"—were still missing because the Roman Catholic Church was defying the legally-constituted government of Poland.

Cannot Be Reached

And he told of a letter from Cardinal Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec, last summer saying

MERCHANTS TO DISCUSS LATE CLOSING FOR CHRISTMAS SEASON

Directors of the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce met for their regular dinner meeting on Friday and under the chairmanship of Harold Seldon discussed several matters pertaining to retail matters which will be brought up for decision at the next general meeting scheduled for Nov. 18th. At this meeting the matter of late closing for the Christmas season will be fully discussed.

Directors of the retail division on Friday discussed whether recommendations coming from the division should first receive the sanction of the parent Chamber of Commerce body before being passed on to council. The decision was that such recommendations would go direct to council unless otherwise specified.

RONNIE BUNNETT FRACTURES ANKLE

Ronnie Bunnett, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bunnett, 55 George Street, was admitted to hospital yesterday afternoon suffering with a fractured leg sustained during a football practice.

Young Bunnett was playing at a physical training session of classes at the Belleville Collegiate Institute when he slipped and fell. He was taken to hospital where the injured member was placed in a cast under supervision of Dr. Russell Scott. Bunnett will likely leave for his home today.

FRESH BERRIES ARE PICKED AT CARRYING PLACE

Maybe the Carrying Place is that elusive corner around which a far-away Spring is already hiding.

For Morley and John Goodman are picking fresh raspberries and strawberries these days, believe it or not, and thus far Kilroy has not been noted in the vicinity.

Mrs. Marie Lockwood, a sister of the boys, brought a large cluster of raspberry canes loaded with fully-matured berries into town this morning. The berries were of good size and fine quality. She also had a bunch of strawberry plants white with blossom and bearing early fruit. She expects to have sufficient fruit to make a couple of pies by the end of next week.

Obituary

ALEX. LAWSON JOSS

Alexander Lawson Joss of this city died early Saturday morning in the Military Hospital at Kingston where he was a patient for the past eighteen months.

Born in Scotland 74 years ago the late Mr. Joss was a son of the late William and Agnes Joss. For many years he made his home here. During the First Great War he enlisted with the 155th. Battalion and served overseas. He was a member of the Canadian Legion and in religion he was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Surviving him are one brother, David Joss, and one sister Miss Agnes Joss, both of Belleville.

Light Farm Horses From Canada Are Welcomed by Poles

Guelph, Nov. 9 — (CP)—Poland needs light farm horses and welcomes those shipped from Canada, Alan McKay, who returned to the Ontario Veterinary College here after accompanying a shipment of horses to Poland, said today.

The people of Poland were not starving, the second-year student at the college found. However, few luxuries were available and theatres were closed. Basic foods were provided and taverns and cafes did a good business.

Russian soldiers were well behaved and well-disciplined, McKay found.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Brantford, Nov. 9 — (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. James Willis, both 86, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary tomorrow. They have three children — Mrs. Ursula Tanner of Calgary, Mrs. Aldon Jackson of Hamilton, and Mabel Willis, Brantford.

City and District Vets to Observe Remembrance Day

City and district veterans of two world wars will observe a Memorial and Remembrance weekend with fitting ceremonies.

At eleven o'clock Sunday morning war veterans and ladies auxiliaries of all organizations as well as unaffiliated old soldiers will unite in attending a church parade with service to be held in St. Thomas Church, Church Street. Major the Rev. Arthur Smith, an overseas padre, and rector of the church will officiate at the service.

Members of the City Council, service clubs and the general public are cordially invited to attend this service, one of the most impressive of the year.

Parading veterans will gather at the Armouries at 10.45 Sunday morning and be ready to move off to the church a few minutes later. The Belleville Municipal Band will be in attendance.

On Monday morning, Remembrance Day, veterans will again gather with city organizations and private individuals to pay reverent tribute to the 100,000 gallant Canadians who laid down their lives in two world wars.

Veterans and representatives of city organizations will meet at the Armouries at 10 a.m. and move off to the Station Street Cenotaph at 10.30 where fitting ceremonies and a brief service will be held, as a city pauses, at eleven o'clock. Wreaths will be deposited following service which will be conducted by the Rev. Grant Sparling, of Christ Church.

Apples, Cider, Fowl Features Of City Market

Offering of apples featured the local produce market Saturday morning as district farmers displayed the customary fall varieties with top prices ranging up to $3.25 per hamper for best grade McIntosh and Delicious.

Snows sold readily at 60 cents the six quart basket for first grade; Greenings were $2.50 the bushel and Talman Sweets ranged up to $2.75 per hamper. Apple cider was 50 cents the gallon, plus container.

On the inside market eggs held firm at 50 cents the dozen with mediums being quoted at 45 cents and extras at 55 cents the dozen. Fowl seemed quite plentiful with heavy well-finished birds ranging up to $2.75 each with general prices ranging from 38 to 40 cents the pound.

Potatoes were plentiful at prices up to $1.40 per hamper and up to $1.65 per bag; carrots were 35 cents per basket; beets 40 cents and Spanish onions 65 cents the basket, or $3.25 per bushel. Cauliflower sold up to 40 cents while sauerkraut brought 15 cents the quart.

Maurice Wessels Suffers Gash In Car Accident

Maurice Wessels, age 22, of 44 Ponton Street, sustained a six-inch gash in his head early Saturday morning when the automobile he was driving went out of control at the eastern limits of the city and after striking the highway "flasher" crossed the highway to the north onto the property of the county home.

Low-hanging branches of a roadside tree ripped through the roadster top of the auto with the driver suffering gashes from the broken windshield glass. He was admitted to Belleville General Hospital where Dr. Gibson is in attendance. A passenger in the Wessels' vehicle suffered an injured foot but after a check at the hospital was permitted to go home.

According to reports Wessels had been driving west when his auto swung onto the boulevard between the double lane highways where it struck and broke the highway flasher, then veering to the north side of the road. Provincial Constable Sam Ervine investigated the accident.

Former Belleville, District Girls Win Tennis Title

Belleville and district, which definitely in this case includes Trenton, is not only productive of feminine pulchritude but also garnishes her winsome daughters with large portions of athletic ability, so it would seem.

Take for instance Fay Black, sister of Art Black, Trenton, and Florence Skelcher, daughter of Mrs. Adeline Skelcher, 138 Chatham Street. These two young ladies have earned laurels for themselves by winning the Province of Quebec Intermediate Doubles Tennis Championship. Both girls are associated with the Sun Life Assurance Company in Montreal.

And they won their court glories the hard way. Years ago they set their respective tennis caps at the elusive provincial title and three times they tried. The first time they met elimination in the first stages. The next year they came back and made he semi-final round going down to defeat. This year, more determined than ever, they swept aside stiff opposition and emerged the victors with titular spoils.

The girls enjoy a widespread popularity among members of the Sun Life staff down Montreal way. The boys in the office, who were so gifted, came through with some valuable tennis coaching and time came when their individual names were posted as singles champion, mixed doubles champion or ladies' doubles champion. Both girls were on the Sun Life team which captured the inter-club title in Montreal in 1940.

Then Flo joined the RCAF and at once swept to the top in athletic circles of that member of the armed services. Stationed at Trenton, she was a partner of the teams in mixed doubles, 1943 and ladies' doubles, 1944, that won these No. 1 Air Command titles for her station.

Recently she met her friend the enemy, Fay, in the singles championship series of the Sun Life. Flo won.

BUTTER PRODUCTION LAGS

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP)—Production of butter in Ontario continues to run behind that of last year, but the marked decline of the previous month appears to have stopped, C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying for Ontario said yesterday. Production during the past three weeks of the month was not more than five per cent below that of the same period in 1945, this being a decided improvement over last months' record.

TAXI SIGN MUST BE USED

Toronto, Nov. 9 —(CP)—When taxis start to cruise in the downtown area after Jan. 1, they must cary an illuminated "taxi" sign on the front, the board of police commissioners decided yesterday. That, the commissioners agreed, would prevent "female citizens from being enticed into private cars for immoral purposes."

Fire Causes Some Damage To Partition

Oil Company employees discovered the fire shortly after reporting for work at nine o'clock and sought to extinguish the blaze with fire extinguishers. Fearing that the blaze might get out of control the fire department was promptly notified and with the assistance of the booster pump the fire was brought under control before it spread into the warehouse proper where naptha gas, oil and other highly inflammable materials were stored.

The warehouse office was damaged considerably as result of water, while firemen had to tear out the partition between the office and the warehouse in order to control the flames.

Fearing a dangerous gas fire such as destroyed the Cities Service warehouse some years ago, off-duty members of the fire department promptly answered the alarm although their services were not required.

Veterans to Hold Social Evening Remembrance Day

War veteran organizations of the city will formally observe Remembrance Day on Monday with fitting remembrance services in the morning and social activities at night.

Belleville Branch of the Canadian Legion is holding a banquet at the Armouries at which four hundred veterans of both wars and from all parts of the district will be present.

The guest speaker for the occasion will be Air Vice Marshal Middleton, commanding officer of No. 1 Training Command R.C.A.F. at Trenton. Other high ranking service and ex-service officials of the city and district will be present. An outstandng program of entertainment has been provided for the occasion which will get under way at 8 p.m.

The Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, Belleville Branch No. 201; is also arranging for marked social activities in their Front Street club rooms. There will be a banquet and quite likely an outstanding guest speaker, while President Bill McKenna and his entertainment entertaining program of amusement.

STORES TO CLOSE

Brantford, Nov. 9 (CP) — The majority of local merchants will close their stores all day on Monday, Remembrance Day, M. W. Book, chairman of the Retail Merchants Section of the Brantford Board of Trade, said today.

STIRLING

Canadian Legion Holds Inaugural Meeting in Hall

Stirling—The Stirling branch of the Canadian Legion held its first meeting in their new club room on Tuesday, Nov. 5th, with about thirty members present. Following the reports of the Treasurer and Auditor, various points of business were discussed with Rev. A. M. Laverty, President, in the chair. Dr. C. F. Walt, Claire West and J. Munro were appointed as trustees of the Legion Hall and its contents. The question of the Stirling Branch entering a Legion hockey team in a newly formed league was discussed and it was decided that no entry be made this year. Plans were made for the setting up of a Memorial Corner in the Legion club room, an annual Poppy Day sale this Saturday and for a Legion parade to St. Paul's Church on Sunday. The president expressed the appreciation of the Legion to those who had helped decorate the club room. It was pointed out to the veterans that any wishing to pay their membership fees may do so by calling on Claire West at the creamery office. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rodgers and Rosilyn accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rodgers and Miss Dora Rodgers spent Sunday in Cannifton visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Rodgers.

Mrs. J. C. McGee underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston early Thursday morning and is reported to be progressing favorably.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bateman are on a business trip in Toronto this week.

The household property of the late Mrs. J. C. Potts was disposed of at a very successful auction sale on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Barton Haggerty was the auctioneer and many antique buyers from out of town attended.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. O'Donnell and Rev. Father Lesage attended the chicken supper under the auspices of Sacred Heart Church in Marmora on Wednesday evening.

Members of the Stirling Women's Institute gathered at the home of Mrs. Henry Cooke on Thursday evening in honor of her son, Mr. Robert Cooke and his bride, the former Jean Dafoe.

A short program of contests and readings was enjoyed under the direction of the Institute Secretary, Mrs. Wm. West. The readings were given by Mesdames Clute, Foster, Nicolson and E. Cooke. This was followed by an address read to the guests of honor by Mrs. Hiram Rodgers and the presentation of a silver bread tray to the young couple by Mrs. Louis Rodgers. After Jean and Bob had voiced their appreciation, delicious refreshments were served by the ladies.

W. A. Meeting

The November meeting of St. Paul's Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Guy Bradshaw on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 5th, with a splendid attendance. The meeting opened with the singing of the theme song, and the Thanksgiving prayer read in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, along with all other communications received during October. The secretary also reported 12 cards sent. The visiting committee reported ten calls made during the past month. Mrs. S. I. Hatton and Mrs. L. Fair will act as the visiting committee for November. The treasurer Mrs. J. B. Thompson presented a very complete financial report. Mrs. W. Preston, convener of the Friendly Worker's Group brought a very interesting and complete report of their work. This very energetic group gave another donation of fifteen dollars, making a total of $80.00 they have given to the W. A. since organizing last February. Complete arrangements were made for the bazaar to be held in the church parlors on Thursday, Nov. 14th. A slate of officers was prepared for the year 1947 and will be presented at the December meeting.

The program of the day was capably directed by Mrs. Arthur Scott, convener of the Program Committee. After the singing of a hymn, Mrs. W. L. Fox read the scripture lesson which was followed by prayer said by Mrs. G. H. Luery. Mrs. J. L. Good delivered an outstanding address on "Friendship" and Mrs. A. Scott read an interesting article entitled "When Friends Drop In". The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. Dainty refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Mrs. C. F. Linn voiced the gratitude of the W. A. to the hostesses, Mrs. G. Bradshaw and Mrs. M. Bradshaw, to all who took part in the program and the committee in charge.

Lions Club to Be Organized

International Officer, Russell F. Hunter of Napanee, Ont., Governor of District "A-4" Ontario-Quebec, International Association of Lions Clubs, was in town last Thursday making final arrangements for chartering the Lions Club in Stirling. District officers from Toronto, International Officer Russell Hunter of Napanee, and Mr. Frank Sherbert, President of Trenton Lions Club will be on hand Friday night, November 15th for the initial meeting of the local Lions which will be held in the Stirling Community Hall.

Charged With Swearing False Affidavits

Vancouver, Nov. 9 —(CP)—Trial of Robert (Soup) Bracken and Oswald Thomas on charges of perjury opened in police court Friday and was adjourned by Magistrate H. S. Wood to Nov. 14.

Both men are charged with swearing false affidavits that price lists for whisky imported to the United States were printed prior to April, 1943, when the United States office of Prices Administration set whisky price ceilings. The Crown contends the price lists were printed in 1944.

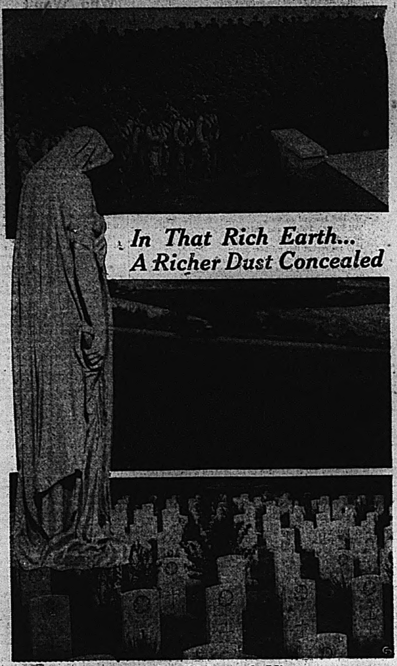
Remembrance Day, 1946



From the Ridge of Vimy

It's lonely for me up here on the Ridge, lonely and solemn and sad. Restful, too, for on the Eleventh of November, Nineteen-Forty-Six, millions of people in scores of countries will briefly take over my task, and I can relax and think.

They won't keep to the task long, I'm afraid, not enough of them anyway. A few will, those whose husbands and fathers, sons and brothers are among the multitude over which I keep watch, but it seems hard for most people to remember this legion—and the things for which they made their sacrifice—except briefly on a day like today. That, I suppose, is why I'm here, why I've spent the years looking out over this lovely French hill and valley that is actually Canadian soil. It's easier to remember your dead when you've raised a stately monument above their graves.

I've a great many dead around me, Canadian dead and others, sturdy sons of the Dominion, who wrote a page of martial glory for their country over these very ridges on which I stand. Others too, for we brought them from a dozen battlefields to rest here in the soil of France, nameless, weary warriors who left their well-loved shores to plunge themselves into the holocaust, and who could not return.

I've only a small part of the shadowy legion in my keeping, of course. Their comrades are scattered over many a country and many an ocean, but standing here as I do, majestic and lovely as befits a memorial to heroes, perhaps I've a better chance than others to impress the careless and remind the forgetful of the price their brothers paid that they and their way of living could survive. It seems the nations must have forgotten once; yet how could they forget that those who sleep around my feet—and the others of many tongues, of many creeds, of many colors—had given over their very lives that the world should be freed of war? I saw, from my blood-bought hill, the new holocaust roll up, watched the mad fury of destruction and death, and yes, the white flame of honor and sacrifice and self-abnegation below me in the green fields.

This was war again, and again the sons of the Dominion were here to lay their sacrifice on the altar. The battle names were a bit different this time—Caen and Falaise, Ortona, Rimini, the Scheldt instead of Arras, Ypres, Passchendale and Hill 70—but the old spirit was in this new generation and like their fathers they spent their life's blood freely. There are a lot of new crosses scattered over this battered globe now.

I won't have to remind anyone today, for today they will remember their dead. The anguish has not yet dulled and the peoples of the earth, the great as well as the small will pay their homage. I may even have a few visitors. Frenchmen from the little farms in the folds of these hills, a sprinkling of Canadians still far from home, perhaps an official party bearing flowers to lay on my base, but I will get less attention than usual. The dead whom I am here to honor will get their due.

It is better that way and I am content. Kings and rulers, the great men of earth and the little people who follow, have stood in awe of my grandeur; for I am a stately and beautiful thing, but I am only a symbol. Tomorrow, perhaps, I must take up my task once more, must try again to impress on the peoples they served so well, that the legions I stand to honor must not be forgotten.

There, that French peasant plowing his field on the slope of the valley, those war-tired, impatient men rebuilding the shell-shattered gasworks on the edge of yonder town, have halted their labors and are silent.

This day they remember their dead.

Appeal Against Murder Conviction Is Dismissed

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP)—Appeal of Mrs. Marie Desmeules, under sentence to be hanged Nov. 26, was dismissed by the Supreme Court of Ontario Thursday and a court announcement Thursday night said the decision was unanimous — rendering appeal to a higher court impossible for the 37-year-old Fort William mother.

Sentence is scheduled to be carried out at Port Arthur for the murder June 29 of her 65-year-old landlady, Susie Thoms. Mrs. Desmeules is the mother of a 19-month-old son.

Decision of the court said only: "We are of the opinion that this appeal should be dismissed." It was signed by Chief Justice R. S. Robertson and Justices R. G. Fisher, W. T. Henderson, J. A. Hope and F. D. Hogg.

Remembrance

Once again Canada prepares to observe Remembrance Day in memory of her gallant dead of two world struggles against the forces of wrong and lust of power over which the Allied and United Nations triumphed at a great cost of life and labor and treasure. On November 11, 1918, the guns ceased fire for the Armistice and in 1945 again the guns ceased to boom as Germany and Japan were beaten down.

The day of the First Great War's end in time grew into a day of memory for the gallant dead and so deeply has it moulded the thoughts and minds of the people that this day is continued to commemorate also the sacrifice of the men of the services in the second titanic conflict. The spirit of this day has deeply permeated the life of this land and of other lands and the thinking of the peoples who dared all to save freedom.

On this occasion the great gallant company of young men and members of the women services who gave their lives are in the thought of their fellowmen and of the people of the Allied Nations. They made an imperishable name by their devotion and sacrifice and they consecrated with their lives their country to the continued cause of freedom in the spirit of the hymn:

"O valiant hearts who to your glory came,
Through dust of conflict and through battle flame,
Tranquil ye lie, your knightly virtue proved,
Your memory hallowed in the land you loved."

On the foundation of their lives and service Canada is building a future that will be imperishable and a nationhood that will stand forever in the van of progress of humanity. These heroes have given inspiration to those who live now and who will live after. To the ideals they stood for, this people is forever dedicated. So on the anniversary of the day when the first World War came to an end it is apt that this nation rededicate herself to her task with all her strength and wisdom. A noble heritage her gallant dead have bequeathed to Canada, they call us in their faith to complete the unfinished task of bringing about a lasting peace. It is those who remain who are to live devoted to freedom and justice and on the anniversary of the day on which her heroic dead are especially remembered, this country rededicates herself to the future with confidence that the things for which her gallant sons served and died will be made lasting and will lead all humanity to security and brotherhood.

In Promotion of Safety

In the analysis of statistics relating to motor vehicle traffic accidents in Ontario last year, issued by the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Department of Highways appear these paragraphs in the foreword, which deals with the causation of accidents. They should be read by every driver of a motor vehicle, every pedestrian and every user of a bicycle, which means everyone. These paragraphs read:

"It is generally recognized that failure of the human element—the drivers and in some cases, the pedestrians or bicyclists involved—is the predominating factor in the causation of accidents and undoubtedly this factor will continue to predominate in importance despite improvements in motor vehicle design and highway facilities.

"The greatest difficulty in the promotion of safety is not the criminally reckless, drunken or wilfully negligent driver. The relatively small number within this category are undeniably a menace to safe travel but their removal from the road is largely a problem for the police. A much larger number comprises the people who lack a proper understanding of the rules of safe practice and those who due to improper attitude towards other users of the road fail to practise these rules. Every driver, pedestrian and bicyclist within this group must have his attention and interest aroused by some means that will continually register in his mind the fact that the motor traffic hazard is real and ever-present, and he must be brought to understand that only through his acceptance of responsibility, his willingness to police his own behavior and his co-operation for safety will better traffic conditions be brought about."

Weather and Driving Hazards

Responsibility rests upon those who use the highways and roads for the exercise of the greatest care at this period of the year when weather conditions add to the hazard of the traffic ways. Rain, mist, fog, frost, snow, low visibility as late afternoon and early evening approach are the added hazards which lay a heavy obligation upon the car driver, the pedestrian and the bicyclist to be cautious.

At this time of the year and from now on to spring the low visibility is marked. Everyone knows how at any time during the wet spells driving becomes very difficult owing to the trouble drivers have of seeing the way even with the best of lights for the darkness and wet roadways seem actually to devour the rays from the auto lamps.

There has not yet been frost, which in early evenings often makes the roadways very slippery and often renders a driver powerless on a hill or grade, while rain, a light fall of snow or wet leaves also add to the necessity for more than usual care. There have been several nights of dense fog of late and on these occasions speed was out of the question and only the snail's pace was the safe rate.

Water Route to Switzerland?

Switzerland sees a potential direct water route to the Mediterranean in the Italian Government's recent appointment of a commission to draw up plans for a major canal between Milan and Cremona. The primary purpose of the Italian plan would be to make industrial Milan accessible to smaller seagoing ships from the Adriatic by way of the Po River to Cremona. But the canal could be extended to Lake Maggiore, making Locarno, near the lake's head, a Swiss port. Financing of the canal project, which may be handled by Swiss banks, is expected to be discussed at an early meeting between an Italian and a Swiss commission.

Deterrent to War

The world food shortage, cause of so much anxiety, suffering, philanthropy and rationing, may be the world's best safeguard against an early war.

At least, so argues Percy Philip, Ottawa correspondent for the New York Times, who recently gave members of the Montreal Rotary Club his impressions of the Paris Peace Conference and the prospects of renewed hostilities on the grand scale.

Mr. Philip pointed out that all the combat geared nations lack one essential of warfare today—food. They have munitions, guns and men, but they couldn't feed an army in the field.

—Montreal Herald.

Robert A. Caughey of the Souhegan Mills, Wilton, N.H., told the American Society for Mechanical Engineers recently that molded boards can be made from the softwood shavings of a planing mill at a price to compete with plywood and even with lumber. Resin is used as a binder, and the molded result is cured at the right temperature and pressure. Sawdust can be similarly utilized. Mr. Caughey thinks that much wood waste could be converted into molded board, says the New York Times.

THE HOODLUM COMIC

If we are questioned over there,
When life on earth is done,
About the way we stood to care
And what we did for fun,
I want to say at journey's end:
Though fond was I of play,
I never slipped behind a friend
And pulled his chair away.

When Peter makes that final check,
To him I would reply:
I never hugged a comrade's neck
And cut away his tie.
I never thought it funny quite,
A sleeping friend to call
And rouse him in the dead of night
With no excuse at all.

Though on my record will be stains
That I shall long regret,
If to my credit this remains:
A passing laugh to get,
A blow upon another's back
Was never struck by me;
For all my sins, however black,
Forgiven I may be.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did "magnolia" originate?

Certain North American and Asiatic flowering trees and shrubs were given the generic name "magnolia" by the Swedish botanist Linnaeus from the surname of Pierre Magnol (1638-1715), professor of medicine and prefect of the botanic garden at Montpellier in France, who had developed considerable study to the ancient family of plants to which the magnolias belong. Literally the word signifies "high-souled."

Early botanists who visited the southern part of the United States were struck by the great variety of magnolias, with their creamy white and fragrant blossoms and large, glossy green, smoothly contoured leaves that often remain on the trees throughout the year. The magnolia is the State flower of both Mississippi and Louisiana. Popularly magnolias are sometimes called "wild cucumbers" from the scarlet, cucumber-like seeds borne by trees of this family.

Do human beings inherit the fear of snakes?

All evidence points to the conclusion that human beings do not inherit the fear of snakes. This fear is generally acquired early in life through the example and direct teaching of older persons. As a rule children left to themselves in this regard are not more afraid of snakes than of other creatures. Apes and monkeys, on the other hand, seem to be born with an instinctive fear of serpents of all kinds.

What country was named after a circle around the earth?

The Republic of Ecuador (La Republica del Ecuador in Spanish) was named after the Equator because that country is crossed by the great circle of the earth. "Equator" is spelled "Ecuador" in Spanish. In French the South American country is called "Equateur" and in Italian "Equatore." Although the Equator crosses Brazil, Colombia and some territory long claimed by Peru, the name was applied to what is now Ecuador because the Spanish first approached the region from the west and Ecuador is the only South American country whose Pacific coastline is intersected by the Equator.

Before it became an independent nation in 1830, Ecuador was one of the three great departments of the Republic of Colombia. In 1937 the Ecuadorean government erected on the Equator near Quito a monument of pink granite surmounted by a globe.

RECORD OF WAGE RISE

Hamilton, Nov. 9 — (CP) — From 12½ cents an hour for a 12-hour day and a seven-day week in 1897, to 80 cents an hour for an eight-hour day is the record of Edward Theaker, who has retired at 71 as motorman and conductor on the Hamilton Street Railway after nearly 50 years of service.

BEGIN TO INSTALL PARKING METERS

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP)—Construction for the installation of parking meters in suburban New Toronto was begun yesterday marking introduction of the pay-while-you-park system in the Toronto area. Nearest municipality to Toronto to use parking meters is Barrie, 60 miles to the north.

Memories of Flanders Fields

In Flanders Fields the poppies grew
Through twenty years of a life we knew,
We held the torch, or so we thought
Its symbol and meaning our children taught,
Hold high "the torch," we said with pride,
That our loved ones have not vainly died.

We taught our children to rhyme it off,
The words were empty, mere parrot talk,
Yes: We broke faith with those who died
Our souls had withered up inside,
Our constant pledge did not renew,
Now "we have paid with World War Two."

Remember the blood, the sweat, the tears,
That have cursed our life for six long years,
Remember Pearl Harbor, Dunkirk and Dieppe,
The cry of children and those that wept,
And Coventry, Stalingrad and Hong Kong,
The prisoners that suffered much too long.

The bitter irony of a lesson, we thought
We had learned so well,
Till France, Poland and Belgium,
Beneath the heel fell.
Will we repeat this mistake again
Of neglecting our duty, to our fellow men
And to our loved ones who so bravely fell
That we might live in peace, and not in hell.

Give us a code, a saintly creed,
The Atlantic Charter is what we need,
If, carried through by Worthy Men
Peace will reign on earth again.
Again in Flanders Fields the poppies grew,
More crosses have been added "row on row"
Must Christ be crucified again?
"No," let us pick up the torch. Amen.

Written in memory of those that died.
Thos. V. Wilkinson, CJBQ, Belleville.

PALLIATIVE FOR DECREPITUDE

Many poets, physicians and philosophers have talked a lot about "the cold gradations of decay" as though three score and ten were synonymous with decrepitude. Yet if we look around us we find plenty of folk of that age or older who are vigorous, active and wiry, and not just for show purposes either. Moreover, as statistics show, more people now live past seventy than ever before, since reliable statistics have been kept. In fact, the steadily increasing proportion of elderly persons in the general population of the United States and Canada is beginning to complicate the problem of old age pensions and security.

Now if the scientists or the doctors talk about it and a certain newspaper quack pretends he can do something about it, don't take him seriously. Of course he doesn't know anything about retarding old age or prolonging youth than poor old Elie Mechnikoff or Ponce de Leon did—Metchnikoff attained a bare 71 years and de Leon turned up his toes at the tender age of 61. Barring accidents, such as murder, which many freak healers and clinic racketeers would consider a fitting culmination of my career, I shall be seriously annoyed if I peter out before I reach eighty.

In preceding articles I described (1) the old age prophylactic (iodin ration) and (2) the old age corrective (vitamin and mineral supplement for the everyday diet). Next in my course of treatment comes the old age palliative.

A palliative is something that eases without curing, something that mitigates, makes less harsh or less rigorous The palliative I recommend for old folks is alcohol—two glasses of wine, ale or beer with food every day.

Frankly I have not yet tried this on the dog—I feel just fine and dandy, so why should I take a palliative? But I have studied the effect of this palliative in many cases and I am convinced of its value. However, I feel bound to mention here that one young chap on the bowling green who not only delivers a wicked wood but commands the affection and admiration of all his playmates, is 81 years old and has not yet felt the need of a palliative. So I leave it at that glass of beer, ale or wine twice a day with food, never on empty stomach and never more than one glass. At what age should one begin taking this solvent? When one begins to be a bit peevish, santakerous, unreasonable, difficult to live with. In view of my octogenarian friend's example I refrain from committing myself about that—but it is my belief that no one less than fifty years of age has any reasonable excuse for taking alcohol in any form or in any circumstance.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Polyp

Had polyp removed from intestinal tract. It wasn't malignant but had reached serious stage. No cancer in family. Is such a growth liable to recur? Is it liable to become cancerous? Doctor advised semi-annual check-up. What other advice can you give? I'm not the worrying type but I want to take every necessary precaution. (M.W.S.)

Answer—It is neither liable to recur nor liable to become cancerous. My advice is that you report to the physician for examination at least twice a year, and otherwise dismiss it from your mind.

Mumps

Husband had mumps, also a cold at the time. He was very ill. Since then we have been told there will be no children.

Mr. G|J.M.)

Answer—Your use of the term "cold" in this instance makes the question obscure. If the mumps was complicated by orchitis, that would not affect potency, virility or fertily unless perchance both tested were involved in unusually severe inflammation. If only one gland was involved there would be no such ill effect.

One Hunter Who Won't Hunt Again

(From The St. John Telegraph-Journal)

It is gratifying to be able to point to a hunting accident—fortunately not fatal, although all too nearly so—that has ended with the lesson obviously driven home and displayed for all to read and profit by. The fault the negligence was the common one of firing at a moment in the bushes, of not waiting until the target is clearly disclosed for what it is.

A hunter from across the border, aided by a New Brunswick guide, was after deer. They parted company for the guide to head off a deer which had taken cover after being sighted. In due course the hunter fired a shot which pierced the guide's windbreaker, shirt and underwear and seared his chest, knocking him over. How near that shot came to bringing about tradgedy anybody can imagine.

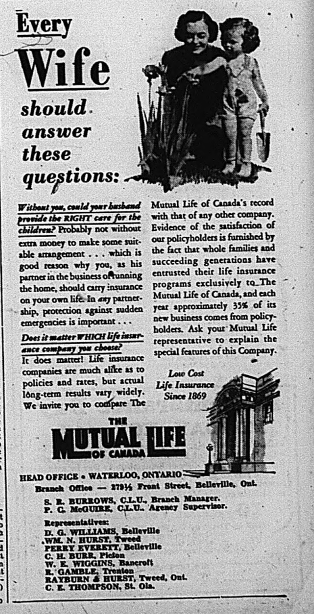
It is recorded that the hunter was "shaking like a leaf" when he realized what he had done. He made what restitution he could, including payment of duty on his new rifle which he presented to a man he had so nearly killed.

This he did in earnest of his resolve never to hunt again. He was shocked into realizing that nobody of his excitable temperament, nobody who will take a snap shot at a mere movement in the bushes, should go after game. It was a happy ending, but it came terribly close to a killing. An inch deflection would have spelled death of the guide.

The point is that hunters and would-be hunters should take serious stock of themselves. They know, or should know, what others can at the most only gues: Whether, when the moment to aim and fire seemingly arrives they act calmly and with minds clear. They alone can decide, because often the man whom many would term nervous becomes perfectly collected and deliberate at the call of action, while the man of the opposite type, normally excited and even slow will act on blind impulse.

The hunter who, after serious self-communion admits that he does not trust himself to behave as all hunters should, to act with complete self-control and in rigid obedience to the rules of hunting, should give away or sell his rifle and never hunt again.

The hunter in this case is to be congratulated on admitting that he is not the type who should go after game with firearms. There must be many others who should follow his example, before, not after, an accident occurs. If the lure of the woods is still not to be denied, they can go hunting with a camera.



Every Wife should answer these questions:

Without you, could your husband provide the RIGHT care for the children? Probably not without extra money to make some suitable arrangement . . . which is good reason why you, as his partner in the business of running the home, should carry insurance on your own life. In any partnership, protection against sudden emergencies is important . . .

Does it matter WHICH life insurance company you choose? It does matter! Life insurance companies are much alike as to policies and rates, but actual long-term results vary widely. We invite you to compare The Mutual Life of Canada's record with that of any other company. Evidence of the satisfaction of our policyholders is furnished by the fact that whole families and succeeding generations have entrusted their life insurance programs exclusively to The Mutual Life of Canada, and each year approximately 35% of its new business comes from policyholders. Ask your Mutual Life representative to explain the special features of this Company.

Orange Lodge Holds Election

The Trenton Loyal Orange Lodge No. 206, held its annual election of officers on November 4th and there were a large number of members in attendance.

Worshipful Master W. Wellman declined further office, due to pressure of business and domestic sickness, after having been Master for two successive years. He has been greatly instrumental in bringing the lodge up to its present strength and growth, holding the record in Ontario East this past year. W. Bro. W. Wellman and J. Groves also were commended for their efforts in soliciting a substantial sum of money for Orange Trenton Memorial Hospital Fund, some of which was donated by non-Orange members. One initiation was made and it was remarked that eight members who were awarded the Blue Degree at the last meeting constituted almost a record in Trenton Lodge for sometime.

Worshipful Master: Albert Nancarrow.

Deputy Master: W. J. Spicer.
Chaplain: R. Palmor.
Recording Secretary: R. McFarlane.
Financial Secretary: J. M. Tymn.
Treasurer: E. A. Barker.
Marshal: Carman Reid.
Tyler: Russ Reid.
First Lecturer: J. Foote.
Second Lecturer: Gerald Campney.

Committee: Clifford Reid, A. McKinnon, E. Weller, A. Reid, H. Nelson.

PICTON

Dr. V. Douglas Describes Trip

Picton, Nov. 8 — A description of her trip to Europe during the summer months was given at the first meeting of the Tennyson Club, held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. G. H. Swayne by Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, Dean of Women at Queen's University. She had visited the Continent as a delegate to the conference at Zurich, Switzerland, of the International Federation of University Women, and she also visited the offices of the World Student Relief Organization at Geneva. Of England, Dr. Douglas observed that the lack of trust on the part of Russia is weighing heavily on the British people. She felt it a great disillusionment after the way Britain had aided Russia during the war.

"The Swiss people," said the speaker, "believe in the philosophy of neutrality." To protect that belief they have an efficiently trained army, and she had noted gun emplacements and tank traps. The Swiss have been generous in their help to other countries, she stated.

Dr. Douglas said there was much suffering in Poland. Forty per cent of the teachers and pupils had not survived the German occupation. There had been systematic destruction of everything pertaining to Polish culture. The food situation is depressing.

German occupation of Holland had also seriously affected the country and its people, the speaker said, telling how their eating of bulbs had saved many lives.

Problem Serious One.

As a result of the war, the problem of juvenile delinquency is a serious one in those countries that had been occupied. Condition then have trained youth so that they do not have proper respect for law and order.

The speaker told of help given universities by the World Student Relief Organization. Books, food and clothing had been supplied. People found it difficult to throw off the spirit of despair which had gripped and grown into the life of so many individuals of occupied countries. However, it is reassuring that Christian individuals are going to work to salvage other individuals, and to try and build up a spirit of co-operation and goodwill.

Dr. W. B. Lane thanked Dr. Douglas for the interesting address. President W. H. Swayne was in charge. Mrs. G. L. Madden gave selections from Dr. Drummond. A social time was spent. This is the 45th season of the Tennyson Club which is devoted to literary, musical and social topics.

Apple Shippers Of Nova Scotia Want Contract

By IRVING WHEYNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Kentville, N.S., Nov. 8 (CP)—As Nova Scotia apple shippers work overtime to catch up on shipments to the flourishing domestic market and at the same time fulfill their heavy British commitments, anxious Annapolis Valley orchardist look ahead with some concern at the market situation for next season's harvest.

This year an average crop of 1,800,000 barrels found ready sale on the domestic and British counters. But pessimistic growers point out that they are losing contact with other foreign markets by sending their entire exports to British buyers.

As a result they are pressing for an immediate long-term agreement with the British for apples similar to one in operation between Britain and Canadian prairie wheat farmers.

The present year to year uncertainty was indicated last spring when prospects for the valley farmers were none too bright because loss of the British market loomed as a dark possibility.

The apple picture here brightened, however, when the usually heavy British crop failed to produce a normal yield. Britain immediately turned to Nova Scotia with a request for more than 500,000 barrels of Annapolis Valley fruit.

Now again Annapolis Valley growers are fearing loss of their historic British sales spot if the English crop is back to normal next season.

They feel this is the logical time to negotiate a pact. The trade conference scheduled to be held in Washington some months ago has been postponed and they fear that after the conference has been held long-term contracts may not be possible.

"We have had inquiries from China, India, all parts of Europe, the Mediterranean, South Africa and most parts of South America, asking for our apples," one Marketing Board official said.

"Britain can't expect us to stay out of these markets all the time because if her requirements are seriously lowered some year we will be without market connections in other parts of the world.

"What we're seeking is a minimum supply to be determined each year in advance but we wouldn't mind increasing our shipments if the British crop had a slack year. We want a contract for about a million barrels annually."

Tustin Claims King Govt. Is "Pretty Weary"

Picton.— 'When Mr. Mackenzie King feels that he can go to the polls and not fare too badly, then he will do it,' declared George J. Tustin, M.P., at the annual meeting of Prince Edward-Lennox Progressive Conservative Association here Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Tustin stated that the King administration was "pretty weary", and that at the present time, 'Mr. King is having a tough time courting for the favors of the C.C.F. which may be called the Leftist group of the Liberal party'.

Mr. Tustin charged that wartime extravagance was being continued, and that the government is being run by an army of wartime bureaucrats.

'Although 65 per cent of those in the Armed Services come from the small towns, do we find any wartime housing being given to them there?' Mr. Tustin asks. 'The worst offender in the black market of houses and building materials is the government itself,' he stated.

Mr. Tustin thought that many government controls could well be removed, and the civil service of more than 150,000 reduced.

Lauds Premier Drew

James deC. Hepburn lauded the leadership of Premier G. A. Drew. He spoke of the work of the Tourist and Publicity Department as outstanding, and felt the tourist industry would become even bigger than agriculture.

A recommendation was passed that it would be in the best interests of the Party to have all local Associations hold annual meetings and report to the secretary of the Riding Association, the names and officers after each meeting. Local Associations which have not held annuals this year were asked to do so.

Officers elected were —President, D. W. Young, South Fredericksburgh; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Ross Bush, Consecon; Mrs. Albert Beckwith, Cherry Valley; Mrs. Lachlan McLean, Napanee; Allan Weese; Secretary-Treasurer, Harold Webster, Napanee; Assistant Secretary, Warden Earl Brummell, Cherry Valley.

Delegates elected to attend the Provincial convention in Toronto in December—were Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Young, C. F. Evans, Clarence Milligan with Mrs. L. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brummell and Clayton McCaw as alternates.

Jerusalem, Nov. 8 (AP)—A 30-yard section of railway track near Ramble was ripped up shortly before dawn today by the explosion of a time bomb.

Military authorities said the explosion occurred shortly before the scheduled passage of a train and speculated that the bomb had been timed to demolish it. Palestine railways changed their schedules only yesterday, however, eliminating night trains because of five attacks on trains by explosives in 10 days.

Irgun Zvai, Jewish underground organization, in a manifesto put out last night in Tel Aviv, said it had stopped mining roads. The group explained that it was "lifting its Curfew against British soldiers" because the British authorities three days ago lifted their curfew allowing only military vehicles on roads by night. Irgun Zavi Leumi said it still would attack railroad trains.

Meantime, a British police commission, consisting of Scotland Yard personnel under Sir Charles Hicks, was reported in the Holy Land to assay the strength of Jewish and Arab armed forces.

NEW PASSENGER AGENT

Kingston, Nov. 8 (CP)— Employee of the Canadian National Railways since 1916, C. A. Baker, former travelling passenger agent will begin duties as city passenger and ticket agent here Nov. 11. He has been stationed during his railroad service, in Windsor, Toronto and Guelph.

Colony Control of Mining Favored

London, Nov. 8 (Reuters)—Britain's colonial office has informed colonial governments it favors taking over all mining rights by colonial governments —where crown rights do not already exist—if this benefits the colony concerned, it was learned here.

The statement was made in a circular to colonial governers which added that the government's policy was to leave ownership or concession rights in their present hands if the colony was to derive greater benefit in this way.

In all cases, the colonial government would retain sufficient control at all levels to ensure that mining was carried out in the interests of the comunity.

Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary Holds Social Evening

The Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary held a dinner party at the Centre, previous to their regular meeting, Thursday evening. About fifty members sat down to the bountiful dinner and an hour of fellowship and fun was enjoyed along with the fine food provided. At the conclusion of the dinner, Mrs. J. Marsh graciously thanked Mrs. Frank Stevens, for catering for them.

President Ethel Stiver, then conducted the meeting, and opened with all singing "O Canada". Five new members were welcomed and numerous items of business were discussed. Plans were made for holding a special bridge and euchre as a finale to the year's activities.

Sewing Club Started

A sewing club for girls has been started at the Centre, and donations of clean, used clothing which could be re-made, was requested. Any one desiring to contribute, may leave it there or call 1000, and Mr. Stevens will call for it. The results of the election of the new officers show, Ella Trepanier, Flossie Smith, Chris Logan, Nancy Fozard, Vi Kuntze and Erma Reid as directors for 1947. The president and secretary-treasurer will be chosen from these nominees at a special meeting.

Games Conducted

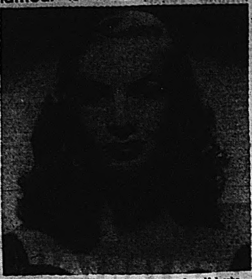
After the close of the meeting, games and contests, directed by Vi Kuntze and Beryl Bateman, provided amusing entertainment. Prize winners were Ella Trepanier, Julia Tice and Gertrude McKenna. The quilt which was made and donated by the members, was won by Margaret Black.

DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Peterboro, Nov. 9 — (CP) — Robert Jamieson of Peterboro, an Old Age pensioner, died en route to hospital last night after being knocked down by a car police said was driven by J. W. Flagler of Peterboro.

Mr. Jamieson suffered multiple injuries in the accident, including a fractured skull and hip. Flagler was charged with reckless driving. An inquest was ordered by Dr. H. G. Carleton, coroner.

Glamour is What You Make It



By HELEN FOLLETT

IT SEEMS that some glamor girls resent being called glamorous! Fancy that, my little chickadees! They claim it suggests the old beautiful-but-dumb adage which is pretty silly. A good-looking girl is as likely to have brains working as the plain one. What has the alabaster brow, the curly locks, the svelte shape got to do with what goes on inside the head?

There are plenty of glamor girls in Hollywood who are smart enough to pull down plenty of cash-coin-spending-change. Some of them are top-notch business women. Mary Pickford, for instance. Her good looks are lasting through the years.

Smart Appearance

The smarter a woman is the more likely she is to stress the importance of smart appearance. Good looks mean a lot to any girl no matter what her position in life may be. The standard is high right now. You have to be something more substantial than a wide-eyed dolly with fluttering eyelashes and soulful orbs.

Some of the most successful actresses are not beautiful, yet they have glamor; it is their stock in trade. Always, they have cultivated beautiful, graceful movement. No clumsy girl could possibly get by.

The bathing beauty type that wins pulchritude laurels usually appeals to the adolescent type of male, but the woman who is distinctive, makes the grade through personality, is admired by all ages.

Illusion of Beauty

It is possible to create the illusion of beauty. That trick is known to many actresses whose features are not so wonderful individually.

Energy is a valuable quality for cultivating good appearance. It makes a girl vibrant. The highly energized girl is likely to be witty, her brain also having energy, quickness of thought.

Physical energy shows that everything is all right with the body. If the human machine is not clicking just right, good looks soon start skidding.

Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E. Holds Bridge and Tea

Sponsored by the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E. on the afternoon of November 7, a very successful bridge and tea was held in the Officers' Mess at the Armouries on Bridge Street East, where a glowing grate-fire gave added warmth to the gracious welcome afforded all guests by the Regent, Mrs. Gordon Miller.

Mrs. G. M. Davison was convener of the tea room, where the table was most attractively arranged, with its beautiful handmade lace scarf, centred with a colorful collection of gourds and fruits, on either side of which stood tall ivory tapers in silver holders.

During the first hour tea was poured by Mrs. W. N. Ponton and Mrs. E. A. Geen, who were later relieved by Mrs. B. C. Sisler and Mrs. R. B. Chadwick. All members of the chapter assisted with the serving and replenishing of the plates.

Bridge games were arranged by Mrs. N. Wilbur and Mrs. J. Howard. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. A. Newman and Mrs. Shaw, with the consolation prize going to Mrs. J. F. Murray.

A home-cooking table was convened by Mrs. Porritt, and the fancy work by Mrs. Shiels. In a draw for a duck and a chicken the lucky ticket was in the hands of Mrs. F. McKeown, who won the duck, with Mrs. Keel winning the chicken.

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. Keel, who reports the results of the venture entirely gratifying to all concerned.

The Experts Say

BY KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov 8 —(CP)— The butter ration may be slim, and the grocer may say "no" when begged for shortening, but nevertheless careful housewives still are turning out successful pies and cakes. They're using every kind of fat they can get their hands on as replacement for butter and shortening quantities in recipes.

Experts of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, say clarified pork fat or lard makes excellent pastry or cakes.

The flavor of fat from smoked pork blends well with meat and therefore can be used to advantage for pastry for meat-pies or sausage rolls. It can also be used in any recipe for spice cookies or gingerbread which contains spices or molasses.

Any clarified fat or dripping may be substituted for shortening measures in all cooking except baking where large amounts of fat are used and a definite texture is desired.

Chicken fat with its bland flavor and soft texture can be used immediately upon being rendered for all types of cooking.

Beef dripping is too hard to use satisfactorily in cooking, but two cups rendered beef fat melted with one cup pork fat or lard and stirred occasionally while cooling to prevent separation gives a soft pliable fat.

Lamb fat is hard with a distinctive flavor. While not satisfactory for use in baked products it goes well in the preparation of meat dishes. However, if after clarified lamb fat is mixed with a soft fat in the proportion of one part lamb to seven parts soft fat it can be used in baking.

Veal fat is soft and mild flavored, and when rendered is excellent for cooking. Different fats vary in shortening power. To substitute for shortening use: 7-8 cup clarified pork fat or lard; 3-4 cup chicken fat; 1 cup beef dripping

A cheap cake that's easy to make and guaranteed not to flop in the centre has been the dream of housewives since time immemorial. Here is a one-egg cake which we believe really fills the bill..

Quantities: 1-2 cup butter (or equivalent; 1 cup granulated sugar; 1 egg; 3-4 cup of milk; 1 1-2 cup flour (when sifted); 2 level teaspoonfuls baking powder; pinch of salt.

Cream butter with a fork, then add sugar; add beaten egg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt, and add to batter alternately with the milk. Bake 35 minutes in a square tin in moderate oven.

Varied flavorings may be used as desired. For orange cake add the grated rind of an orange to mixture and make an icing from icing sugar, 1 tablespoon butter and the juice of the orange. A boiled icing which also goes well is made from 1 cup brown sugar boiled in 3 tablespoons water until it hairs. This is added to the stiffly beaten egg and is beaten with it. In this case to eliminate waste the yolk of the egg should be used in the cake.

V.O.N. News

Those first few days when the "new" mother is just home from the hospital with her little son or daughter present quite a problem to the inexperienced young mother. These are important days too in the life of the baby, because if the proper routine is planned and followed through it ensures healthy, happy days for the little infant as well as a more smoothly running household. The technique of proper bathing of a baby must be mastered and the correct preparation of baby's diet must be learned by the new mother. This is accomplished quickly and efficiently if the mother can summon professional help for the first few weeks. Such help is available to all, in the Victorian Order Nurses, who, coming for one hour a day while their assistance is required, speedily initiate the mother into the correct ways of caring for her baby. Through "demonstration baths", the mother is taught, in a step-by-step demonstration, how this important matter is carried out. The nurse prepares the formulae each day and in a very short time, the mother can take over these duties with a new confidence.

Shortly to visit Belleville branch, Miss Elizabeth Reed, supervisor of the national office staff, Ottawa, has resumed her work with the Victorian Order, in which she has had twelve years' experience, after receiving her discharge from the army. She held the position of assistant matron of all nurses overseas and carried out her duties with distinction. She will be in the city next week on her official visit of inspection.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

MOUNTAIN VIEW W. I.

Mrs. Lewis Wallbridge, of Huff's Island, opened her home on Wednesday for the November meeting of the Women's Institute, when 25 ladies were present. The meeting opened with the President, Mrs. Clifford Barber, in charge.

During the business period several items of important business were considered. Plans were made for the December meeting to be held in the evening at the home of Mrs. Eddie Hall. Mrs. Willett Barber and Mrs. Jas. Cretney gave interesting reports of the convention, which they attended as delegates, in Belleville, during the month of October.

The topic for the month was "Citizenship". The Convener, Mrs. Ernest Wallbridge, was assisted by Mesdames J. Barber, Geo. Jackson, R. Wallbridge and E. Hall, each giving an interesting reading on this subject. Mrs. Harold Motley brought "Current Events", and a community sing song was followed by the roll call to which the ladies responded with humorous items.

Mrs. Wallbridge, assisted by Mrs. Jas. Wallbridge and Mrs. Reg. Barber served delicious refreshments.

An interesting contest on "Weeds" was conducted by Mrs. Barber, with Mrs. Harold Motley and Mrs. Don George receiving the prizes; and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

CANNIFTON W. M. S.

The November meeting of the Cannifton W.M.S., was held on Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. F. Putman. The President, Mrs. Williams, opened the meeting with prayer, after which a moment of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Dunning and Mrs. Kerr, two Life members, who recently passed away. Mrs. Williams read a letter of appreciation from Mrs. G. Miller for flowers sent and to the members who visited her mother, Mrs. Dunning, during her illness. Reports were received and adopted. A nominating committee was appointed to secure officers for the year 1947, i.e., Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Trumpour and Mrs. Willis Brenton. Mrs. Williams gave a synopsis of "A Chapter from the Study Book, "India at the Threshold" with Mrs. Bradshaw and Mrs. W. Brenton assisting. Mrs. Furmidge sang a very appropriate solo with accompaniment on her auto harp, which she also played for the hymns.

Mrs. Mills had charge of the Worship Service the theme, "In Christian Homes". Mrs. Trumpour led in prayer for the missionary families of the United Church in Central India and Mrs. Mills offered prayer for missionaries of the Society now on furlough in Canada.

Mrs. Trumpour gave some of the highlights of the Cavalcade held at Bridge Street Church in October.

The meeting closed with the benediction. Mrs. Putman and Mrs. Gould served delicious refreshments for which they were given a hearty vote of thanks..

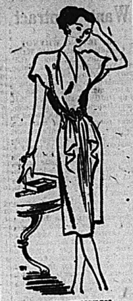
PLAINFIELD W. I.

Plainfield — The November meeting of the W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Carman Sine with an attendance of thirty-one ladies and four children.

The President, Mrs. Violet Elliott, presided, opening the meeting with a poem "Why do the boys leave the farm" followed by the Ode and Lord's Prayer in unison. Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. N. Hall and Mrs. Joe Gow acting as song leaders. It was moved by Mrs. Clarence Hall and seconded by Mrs. Archie Meeks that money be collected to send to a Scholarship Fund for girls at MacDonald College. Collectors appointed were Mrs. Clarence Hall, Mrs. Ed Emmerson, Mrs. N. Hall, Sr., Mrs. Joe Gow and Miss Verna Prindle. Mrs. C. J. Akey, District President, was introduced by Mrs. Elliott and gave a splendid address on "The Coat of Arms of Canada". Mrs. Mac Cronkright gave the topic "Today's best should be tomorrow's starting point" and ended by reading a poem "My Lad". Mrs. Clarence Hall Jr., Mrs. Erle Denyes and Mrs. Norman Hall JJr. gave splendid reports from the Area Convention.

Mrs. Cronkright then conducted a contest, winners being Miss Annie Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Prindle, Mrs. Chas. Beatty, Mrs. Edna Sullivan and Mrs. Violet Elliott. The National Anthem closed the program. The hostess and her assistants serving dainty refreshments and a social half hour enjoyed.

Shades Of Autumn



By VERA WINSTON

THE BEAUTIFUL brown shades of Autumn are finding happy representation in this Fall's crop of fashions. A light wood brown is used for this attractive rayon crepe dress made with nice detail. The bodice has a plunging V neck and capelet sleeves with released folds from the shoulders lending extra fullness through the bustline. The draped skirt is manipulated with the fullness concentrated in the centre front. Gold kid bows decorate the self belt.

6th Sidney

Farewell Parties

6th Sidney—On Friday evening November 1st, about 75 friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Martyn and daughter Audrene, gathered at the home of Mr. Ross Dafoe to spend an evening with the Martyn family before they leave for their new home in Brighton. Rev. H. H. Hillis acted as chairman for a short program of reading, music and speeches, with community singing led by Mr. H. W. Rose. Mr. and Mrs. Martyn were presented with an end table and Audrene with a bracelet for which all three thanked their friends and invited all to visit them in their new home. Their activities will be greatly missed in this neighborhood both in the church and in social affairs.

On Monday evening, November 4th, about 100 friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Stickle gathered at their home to spend an evening with them before they leave for their new home in Frankford.

Mr. H. W. Rose acted as chairman and song leader for a program of community singing, reading, speeches and music, after which Mr. and Mrs. Stickle were presented with an electric table lamp, a satin sofa cushion and for Mr. Stickle, a pipe. The recipients thanked their friends and invited all to visit them in their new home. Delicious refreshments brought a happy evening to a close.

Mrs. George Benn, Jack and Georgina, of Trenton, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sine and Cameron attended church in Frankford on Sunday morning and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Richards, 4th Sidney.

Quite a number from here attended anniversary services in the Frankford United Church on Sunday and were pleased to listen to a young man, formerly of this neighborhood, Mr. Morley Clark, now a student of theology at Toronto University.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rose spent Monday on the 4th of Thurlow at the home of Mr. Bert Martin.

RICE SHORTAGE IN MADRAS

New Delhi — (CP) — A reduction of the rice ration from 8 to six ounces a day in the province of Madras, was forecast by Premier T. Prakasam. Existing stocks are dangerously low and stringent conservation measures are essential if they are to last until the next harvest.

Roslin

Roslin—The school teacher and scholars enjoyed a Hallowe'en party at the school on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. W. Copeland, Mrs. H. Sayers, Mrs. H. Chisholm, Mrs. D. Chisholm and Shirley were dinner guests on Wednesday of Mrs. A. Colden.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Patrick of Frankford spent the weekend with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Colden.

Several from here attended the semi-finals in the Public Speaking Contest held in Cannifton school on Tuesday evening. Misses Mary Bates and Frances Slingerland represented S.S. No. 19 in the public speaking contest.

W. A. Meeting

The annual meeting of the Women's Association was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Colden with fourteen ladies present.

The President, Mrs. S. Colden presided, opening the meeting with a hymn and the Lord's prayer in unison.

Final plans were made for the bazaar and supper which will be held next week. Rev. Bernard Heywood gave a very interesting talk on "Remembrance."

President, Mrs. Stafford Colden; Vice President, Mrs. Carman Bailey; Secretary, Mrs. Harvey Chisholm; Treasurer, Mrs. Gerald Bailey; Press Reporter, Mrs. Charles Chapman; Organist, Mrs. Freeman-Howes; Auditors, Mrs. H. Chisholm, Mrs. S. Colden.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time enjoyed.

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Colden entertained a number of their relatives at a reception in honor of their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colden (nee Peggy Douglas of Quebec.)

"OUT OF SIGHT - - - -
- - - OUT OF MIND!"

There is too much truth for comfort in this famous aphorism. We are too prone to ignore things unless or until they are urgently drawn to our attention — sometimes painfully— very often too late.

A pair of human eyes may perform adequately—or apparently so — for many years, and then the owner suddenly finds himself in difficulty with them. He may be surprised to learn that his eyes have been struggling for many years; he has been riding on a steady draining flow of nervous energy.

It is sound wisdom to have your eyes examined periodically as part of the general attention to one's health. Don't wait until they give you trouble!

What to do about Colds

Prevent Check
Relieve
Don't Neglect

In these days when so much is to be done and so few to do it, the loss of time caused by colds becomes more serious than ever. Isn't it about time we considered colds seriously and did something about them?

Here are some timely suggestions which, we believe, will help you to escape having colds or to check them and save valuable time.

1. The cold germ gets you when your general health is under par or when you are tired out by overwork or worry. You can largely avoid this condition and often escape colds by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to help build up your health to high water mark. Rich red blood is the greatest of germicides and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the food minerals and Vitamin B-1 which make the blood rich and nourishing.

2. If you do feel a cold coming on, act quickly and you may check it entirely or at least shorten its course. Try this. Take Dr. Chase's Paradol, a good drink of hot lemonade or ginger tea, and rest in bed. Repeat this treament if necessary. Paradol does not disappoint.

3. Should you be so unfortunate as to have a cold in its later stages, with coughing and irritation of the throat and bronchial tubes, use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. This treatment has been a great favourite in many thousands of homes for over half a century. It is pleasant to take and remarkably effective in helping to relieve coughs, colds, croup and bronchitis.

Instead of neglecting colds, plan ahead by having these medicines in your home. Some one is sure to need them. The wise course is to prevent colds by keeping the health at high water mark. Let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you to do this.

Kola Kwarianni, Bad Cossack Of the Steppes, Defeats Good Sheik of Araby at the Arena

Wins First and Third Fall With Badui Awarded the Second; O'Donohue Defeats Piers and Brown-Flanagan Bout a Draw

The hairy-torsoed Cossack from the banks of the Don, or the steppes of Siberia, take your choice, his ring moniker is Kola Kwarianni, easily threw off the threat of the wiry, agile sheik from Iraq at the Hume Arena last night defeating Emir Badui, the Arabian knight in the first and third falls of the main bout after Referee Bert Maxwell awarded the second heat to the loser when the Russky failed to obey orders and be a good boy—at least a reasonable one.

The big tomarish from the Stalinese steppes proved a rough toughie who cared little for the shrieks of the faithful as he slatted the smaller foe willy-nilly at times about the ring. He has a neck-breaking pendulum hold, that, according to the referee was anything but according to the Hoylian rules of wrestling and time after time Maxwell pried the Russky loose when the Arabian tongue was about to pop out like a jack-in-the-box.

But apparently the gentleman from the sands of the desert has a punch that carries plenty of weight behind it. For Komrad Kwarianni, after feeling the swing of the Arabian fist, or elbow on his massive jaw on one or two occasions had a wholesome respect for the snakelike arm that whipped out to bounce off his maxillaries.

But the sheik was game and his speed and agility got him out of reach of the ponderous arms of the Kola on numerous occasions. As a matter of fact he was a little too gentlemanly for the large foeman who took advantage of the ropes when the Emir had him in a bad way. And it took about twenty-four minutes of the first fall before Badui was finally pinned for the count.

In the second heat, the marauding Muscovite apparently intended to end the affair as quickly as possible. He employed his neck-swinging hold until His Nibs the referee got tired of warning him and counting over him and finally held high the Arabian flipper in token of victory.

Badui rallied quickly in the beginning of the third fall and elbow smashed his big foe to the canvas, also using a punishing leg lock that had the opposition shouting in Russian and grabbing for the ropes. But extra brawn and muscles finally told and La Kola after using his neck-swing again with telling effect finally whirled his agile foeman high above his head, smashed him to the canvas and sprawled on him for the third fall and the match.

It was not a one-sided affair by any means with the Sheik subjecting Kwarianni tactics in the ring proved his undoing and the shiny-polled Russky took every advantage that came his way.

Big Sandy O'Donnell who was matched about evenly as regards weight and height by Henry Piers a husky gent from Holland, again turned to the villain's role and earned the nod after twenty-four minutes of aggressive matwork. The men appeared to be evenly matched and swung into action with fast aggressive work. But O'Donnell recovered to the villainous type and earned the ire of the crowd with his old familiar tactics.

Natie "Nastie" Brown who clashed with Pat Flanagan in the preliminary proved the same tough customer to the popular Flanagan as he has with former foemen. He again put his pugilistic tactics into effect and landed paralyzing punches high, low and intermediate whenever the opportunity presented itself. He had the Flanagan left arm in a bad way towards the end of the bout and the Irisher writhing in pain on the canvas. But Flanagan drop-kicked his way out of several tight corners and on occasions let loose with a flock of fisticuffs himself much to the enjoyment of the customers. The bout ended in a draw.

HOCKEY RULES

Interpreted
By BILL GRAY

HIGH STICKS

RULE 58

(a) The carrying of sticks above the height of the shoulder is prohibited, and a minor penalty may be imposed on any player violating this rule, at the discretion of the Referee.

(b) A goal scored from a stick so carried shall not be allowed, except it be scored by a player of the defending team.

(c) When a player carries or holds any part of his stick above the height of his shoulder so that injury to the face or head of an opposing player results, the Referee shall have no alternative but to impose a major penalty on the offending player.

(d) Batting of puck above the height of the shoulders with stick, is prohibited, and when this occurs there shall be a whistle and ensuing face-off; unless player of defending side shall bat puck into his own goal, in which case the goal shall be allowed.

INDIANS UPSET IN PLAYOFFS BY BALMY BEACH

Paced by Porter's Accurate Passing Beaches Score 12 to 7 Victory

(By The Canadian Press)

The 1946 football season proved to be an unusual one in many respects. There was spring training, record-length schedules, return of Montreal as a powerful factor in the grid world and last night was climactic when Toronto Balmy Beaches provided the major upset to date by ousting Toronto Indians from the Ontario union playoffs.

Today promises to eliminate two or more teams from the Dominion title hunt, but whether the teams involved will run true to form or whether more upsets are in store remains to be seen. It's a do-or-die effort on the part of two big four teams which seek, the right to meet Toronto Argonauts in the league final, while in the O. R. F. U. The second semi-final is slated for Hamilton where Wildcats entertain Sarnia Imperials.

A peek at the odds book calls Ottawa Rough Riders to swamp Hamilton Tigers but fail to make the play-off grade for Montreal Alouettes are seen as winners over Toronto Argonauts. That would put the Montrealers in a first place tie with the Argos and the teams would meet in a sudden-death final next week to settle the league title.

Wildcats Favered

The boys who call 'em also are favoring Wildcats to top Sarnia in the O. R. F. U. battle. That would put the smart Gnup-coached Cats into the final against Beaches.

Beaches started out on the short end last night and Toronto Indians pushed across a converted major before the initial quarter was one minute old. But the steady Balmy Beach squad which played only mediocre football through the season, retaliated soon after and were only down 7-5 as the quarter ended.

Paced by Bobby Porter's accurate passes, a Beach aerial attack functioned like a jet-propelled fighter plane and with Johnny Lake, a Western product, carrying the ball the Indians found themselves scored on again. A last stanza single wound up the affair with Beaches ahead 12-7.

Freddie Kijek tallied Indians major which Annis Stukus converted. Stukus also kicked a single for Indians' seventh point. Bob Cunningham was Beaches' first touchdown scorer and Porter booted the last single.

In the intercollegiate loop windup, University of Toronto is at McGill and Queen's visits the league champions, University of Western Ontario.

Playing Coach Of the Wildcats Given Award

Announcement was made late last night that Frank Gnup, playing coach of Hamilton Wildcats, has been awarded the Imperial Oil Trophy, as most valuable player to his team in the Ontario Rugby Football Union. An American import, he was playing his first season in Canadian football.

Windfields, Canadian-bred three-year-old owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, finished third yesterday, at Jamaica Park, New York. In a race won by Half After.

Stymie, the top U.S. money winner this season and second to the great Whirlaway as all-time leader among money earners, has been retired for the season because of a "knot" on his left front leg.

Reno Jumper, a chestnut gelding, with Col. H. S. Wright of Fort Riley, Kas., captured the international individual military championship challenge trophy for the United States last night at the 63rd National Horse Show at New York.

A report from Warsaw yesterday said Stella Walsh holder of six Polish national track titles, would sail for the United States Nov. 19.

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 9 (CP)—Jack Bromwich won the New South Wales tennis tournament by defeating Dinny Pails in a four-set final match 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9 (AP)—Primo (Da Preem) Carnera, the former world's heavyweight boxing champion from Italy who has turned wrestler, won his 66th straight victory last night by flattening Rebel Bob Russell.

The 260-pound Carnera, a foot taller than Russell and nearly 50 pounds heavier, slammed his opponent to the mat in less than 15 minutes of a one-fall-to-the finish bout at the arena before some 8,000 fans.

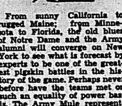
Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

This afternoon the eyes of the American football world are focussed on Yankee Stadium, N'Yawk, where two of the United States' mightiest college gridiron squads clash in historic combat. Even such national epics as the recent Republican landslide, the United Nations conferences will be temporarily relegated to the limbo of forgotten things as the powerful, unbeaten, untied squads of Notre Dame and the Army face each other before an amphitheatre packed with a surging, milling mass of football humanity.



From sunny California to rugged Maine; from Minnesota to Florida, the old blues of Notre Dame and the Army alumni will converge on New York to see what is forecast by experts to be one of the greatest pigskin battles in the history of the game. Perhaps never before have the teams met on such an equality of power basis. The Army Mule representing Coach Earl Blaik's Black Knights, gold-crested heroes of West Point, will bray defiance at Notre Dame's granite front line and her swift starry backs.

The incomparable "Doc" Blanchard, hailed as one of the greatest running backs of all time, Glenn Davis, Tucker and company have eclipsed the doughty deeds of the Notre Dame Horsemen over a two-year span. It doesn't call for the memory of an elephant to understand what is behind the determination of the Fighting Irish and their equally fighting supporters to win this afternoon's game. Who can forget the sacrilege perpetrated on the Fighting Irish in 1944 and 45?

• • •

The worst drubbing ever inflicted on a Notre Dame team was administered by the Army Black Knights two years ago. Led by Blanchard and Davis, those twin-killer annihilators the Kaydets went on a riotous scoring jamboree and piled up the staggering total of 59 points.

• • •

But that won't happen today. In those years the service academies strengthened by the matriculation of other college stars built up a powerful wealth of football material. But the war is over and back to the Golden Dome of Notre Dame has come one of the greatest collections of gridiron stars ever assembled upon a college campus, including 29 lettermen who were in the service.

• • •

So this evening either the bray of the Army Mule will ring loud in victory or a long unheard-yodel of O le O Leahy will rebound the welkin of the Irish of Notre Dame.

• • •

It is estimated that over 80,000 will view the epic of the striped field today. The Yankee Stadium was sold out six months ago and it is reliably reported that applications for the tussle amounting to five times the capacity of the mighty sports grounds have been received.

• • •

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame coach has whipped his squad into something that in the eyes of the American boy is a team of football supermen. Underdogs for two years, they are rated slight favorites for today's game and they might win it at that. If they don't the cries of anguish that will re-echo from the old blues of the school will ring an overture of perhaps departure for the colorful coach. For the faithful alumni have waited for two years, with the humiliation millstones of two crushing defeats around their necks, to see the Army Mule skinned alive.

• • •

An Army-Notre Dame game always recalls the immortal story of the late Knute Rockne and the incomparable George Gipp, famous Notre Dame player who, on his death-bed called Rockne to his side and whispered: "Rock, whenever the going gets tough and it looks like the team is whipped, ask them to go out and win it for the Gipper and wherever I am I'll know . . . and be happy." It happened in the 1928 Army - Notre Dame game. The Irish were down at half-time and Rockne's impassioned plea "This is it. Go out and win it for the Gipper" inspired moist-eyed athletes to football heights and they went out and won 12-6.

• • •

Canadian teams swing into action this afternoon on all fronts with Toronto Argos resuming hostilities with Montreal's Alouettes and Ottawa Roughriders tangling with Hamilton Tigers. On the intercollegiate front The Golden Gaels of Queens invade Western's corral and the Blue Beavers of Toronto trek to Montreal where they meet the Redmen of McGill.

• • •

In COSSA circles Peterboro and Oshawa Collegiate squads play this afternoon and due to some sort of an arrangement if the Petes win they will bear the championship of the Lakeshore section banner while on the other hand if the Oshawans get the nod another game will be played on Monday, points to count. The winners will meet Albert College seniors in the first round COSSA playdowns either in Port Hope or Cobourg on November 16.

• • •

And we hope you haven't forgotten to remember those gallant guys who starred in the greatest game of all — and paid dearly for it. If you haven't bought that Poppy yet, there is still plenty of time. It's the least you can do.

• • •

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP)—Even at this early date there seems to be one sure-fire candidate for the Memorial Cup discernible and, no newcomer to championship rating the team is none other than the 1946-47 representative of the St. Michael's College hockey dynasty.

To be sure, that should come as no shock, Toronto's St. Mike's having been in there in the championship play so often, and so often winning.

Nor is it any secret that this year's squad, as usual, is handpicked. Under coach Joe Primeau it is drilled and honed in the major league manner, a manner that enabled the St. Mike's Majors to pick off Windsor's entry in the Ontario junior "A" Hockey Association 15-0.

Windsor's showing during the league season will determine whether that St. Mike's win was a major accomplishment. But as Jack (London Free Press) Park remarks, '15 goals is a lot of beating in any league.'

Winnipeg hockey fans will recall how St. Mike's last spring lasted the full seven-game route before letting Winnipeg Monarchs carry the Memorial Cup out of the St. Mike's trophy room and away to the west. So they might harken now to Father Hugh Mallon, manager of the fighting Gaels.

"I wouldn't be surprised if this year's club turned out to be better than that of last year," he said.

And Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan, having watched the Majors perform ventures he would be "not a bit surprised if the 1944-45 (Dominion championship) team suffers in comparison to the current edition before the season is over."

For instance, in the Majors you have four men — none of them from Toronto— who are already stars, marked for the National Hockey League in the not-too-distant future just as were Nick Metz, Pep Kelly and Reg Hamilton off that great St. Mike's team of 1933-34 which beat out Edmonton Superiors for the Memorial Cup. The current heroes of the Irish are Fleming MacKell, 17-year-old Montrealer, Rudy Migay, 18, of Fort William, Les Costello of South Porcupine, Ont. and Eddie Sandford of Mimico, Ont.

A word to the golfers about the Royal Canadian Golf Association adopting the American-size ball for Canadian play in 1948: who cares, just so long as by 1948 there are plenty of any kind of golf balls.

HAMILTON TIGERS STILL UNBEATEN IN SENIOR O.H.A.

Toronto Staffords Also in Unbeaten Class by Defeating Owen Sound

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Staffords and Hamilton Tigers continued their unbeaten ways in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior Series last night, each scoring 3-2 win in closely fought games. Staffords topped Owen Sound Mohawks at Owen Sound while the Tigers edged out a fighting Hamilton Patricias team.

Staffords, with three wins in three starts, are still leading the league and Tigers with two straight wins are in second place.

Mohawks started strongly and held the Torontonians in check for one period but then faced and were edged at the 14.33 mark of the last period when Jim Williams tallied the winner.

Pat McKeown led the Toronto attack with goal and two assists and George Ball scored the other Toronto goal. Killer Kilpatrick and Doug Gillespie were Mohawks' scorers.

Pats gave the Tigers a stiff battle only Swat Mason's third period goal at 19.30 gave Tigers their victory.

Pats opened the scoring on Tindal's effort in the first and Dillon Brady tied the count in the middle stanza. Peer put Tigers into lead in the third and this time Pats evened things up with Tom Smelle scoring.

At Barrie, it was Flyers all the way with their first line trio of ord Heale, Murray Fife and oJe Lafrance is on all five tallies. Fife scored twice and Lafrance and Heale tallied one apiece as well as setting up the other tally for Zeidel.

Jack Anderson and Green were the Toronto scorers in the game which counted for four points and set Barrie in second place in the junior loop.

Five games are slated for this afternoon. St. Michael's majors are at Galt, Hamilton mets Oshawa, Windsor plays a four-point game at St. Catharines and a double bill at Toronto—both for four points—sees Stratford tangle with Marlboros and Barrie play Young Rangers again.

BUMPER CROP OF ROOKIES BIG FACTOR IN RACE

N. H. L. Starts Fourth Weekend Clustered in Three-Point Range

By JACK MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One big reason why the National Hockey League clubs start their fourth weekend clustered in a three-point range may be found today in the bumper crop of rookies—a crop that yielded so well even the champion Montreal Canadiens decided to plant a couple in their lineup.

All except one or two temporarily benched by injuries will be in action in this five-game weekend.

The Canadiens held out against the youth movement until late this week. Then, finding themselves in a surprising last-place tie with Detroit Red Wings, they called in a couple themselves.

The pair, rearguard Rober Leger and forward Leo Gravelle, helped the Habitants Thursday night's 4-3 victory over Chicago and will be around for Canadiens two games this weekend—a Saturday night contest at home against Boston Bruins and a Sunday night game at Detroit.

The Toronto Maple Leafs, plan to use all but one of their five rookies in their two-game stand. Defenceman Garth Boesch will be missing, but his absence is due solely to injury.

Captain Syl Apps is expected to be back in the lineup Saturday night for their home game against New York Rangers, which they follow up by a Sunday night match at Chicago.

With Boston scheduled at New York in a third Sunday night contest all teams except Chicago and Detroit are in for a double weekend showing.

Anything Can Happen

That means almost anything can happen so far as the standings are concerned. Either Toronto or Boston, tied for the lead, could open up a clear margin with a two-game sweep. Only one point behind the leaders, Canadiens could take over the top spot. Even the fourth-place Rangers could end up in front by bagging four points.

On the other hand, all could be drawn together tighter than a Scotsman's purse-strings if fifth-place Chicago and last-place Detroit score victories while the others stand one another off.

Besides Boesch, Toronto showed another rookie defence pair in Gus Mortson and Jimmy Thomson. Two rookie forwards, Howie Meeker and Vic Lynn, clinched regular berths early.

While Detroit, with five rookies, haven't had as conspicuous success as the Leafs, their youngsters have almost all held places. Chicago's three—defenceman Leo Reise and Harry Dick and forward Hank Blade—have caught places.

Boston and angers have just one Calder trophy candidate each, with forward Norm McAtee Boston's hope and defenceman Jean Paul Lamirande playing his first season with Rangers.

3 DEEP NOTRE DAME TEAM READY FOR ARMY SQUAD

74,000 Will Watch Clash of Unbeaten Teams in the Yankee Stadium

By SID FEDER

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—The thundering three-deep Notre Dame football horde and Army's avalanche of 60-minute men collide today—and the betting was just about a toss-up as to whether it would be revenge for the Irish or the 26th straight for the Cadets.

The two mightiest moleskin machines in the United States move onto Yankee Stadium for the 1:30 p.m. E.S.T. kickoff to settle the national championship.

A crowd of some 74,000 will see it.

The Irish came to town roaring and full of fight. They brought the best Notre Dame squad in three years—three deep and sparked by the return from the wars of classy quarterback Johnny Lujack and cagy coach Frank Leahy, who spearheaded the Irish to their last game victory back in '43.

The gambling gentlemen, however, take a large view of the Cadets and on this morning's early callover quoted the odds at "6-to-5 and-pick-'em."

A series of injuries in the last few days definitely removed Herschel (Ug) Fuson from the Army backfield forces, and made it extremely doubtful that either Floyd Simmons, just coming into his own as a halfback, or Ziggy Czarobski, right tackle mainstay, would see action for Notre Dame.

Lujack, left-halfback Terry Brennan and centre George Strohmeyer of the Irish also were left with assorted bumps and bruises that may hamper their activities.

The battle, however, still remained a brawl between Notre Dame's depth and the ability of the West Point first-stringers to take the bruising from the three full Irish teams for 60 minutes. Many of the experts figure the whole thing will be decided in the fourth period pounding.

Spectators asked $200 a-piece for tickets—then told you there were none to be had. You could probably trade off two on the 40-yard line for an apartment or a new car.

Sports Roundup

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 9 — (CP) — The waters of "Jacobs Beach" are lapping on British shores these days . . . That is to say, the exclusive Manhattan cauliflower cult controlled by Mike Jacobs seems to be branching out in Britain through promoter Jack Solomons, whose friendship with Jacobs is ripening into a kind of international partnership . . . The recent series of fights between British and United States boxers bear the Solomons-Jacobs stamp . . . Word from London is that arrangements for the latest match, a proposed British Empire welterweight title bout between Montreal's Johnny Greco and Britain's Ernie Roderick, are on the verge of completion and it's almost certain that London's Harringay Arena will be the locale . . . If successful against Roderick, the Canadian welter champ will join Negro heavyweight Larry Gains of Toronto as one of the few Dominion sluggers to corral an Empire title.

Baksi vs Woodcock

Solomons has big plans in the heavyweight division. When it was announced — although subsequently denied by Jacobs—that Joe Louis intended to retire from the ring at the end of 1946, Solomons started hatching plans for a world title bout between Joe Baksi, the New York Negro heavyweight who last week floored Britain's Freddie Mills, and British champion Bruce Woodcock . . . Now that the story of Louis' retirement plans have been squelched, Solomons says Baksi and Woodcock will meet next February in a non-title go.

Last Roundup

Want a ticket for the Army-Notre Dame game? Ask Kilroy, advises Dan (N. Y. Daily Mirror) Parker . . . More than 400 newspapermen requested working press tickets and exactly 147 seats were allotted, including 40 for telegraphers . . . the remainder will be occupied by representatives of 97 newspapers from 19 states, Australia, Britain and Sweden . . . New York Rangers will shift their National Hockey League training camp from Winnipeg, probably to Lake Placid, N. Y., in 1947 . . . Twelve talented pomeranians will take part in an ice show which opens a 13-day run at Madison Square Garden Nov. 19 . . . It took 2 months to train the dogs for an act with 12 skating girls portraying life in Central Park.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 9. (CP)— Miss Marjorie Pollard, field hockey international and captain of the English women's cricket team, who describes herself as a "genuine antique" after nearly 40 years association with sport, does not like developments in the British sport world.

Speaking in support of an appeal for funds for the national sports development fund of the central council of physical recreation, Miss Pollard said Britain is becoming a nation of sport watchers, goggle-eyed and spindle-legged, supported by crush barriers and "indulging in pools of hope."

She "regretted" that proper facilities for sport were provided for only 17 per cent of the country's young people after the age of 14.

Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies, English tennis star, said she wanted others to have fun out of playing tennis but this could only be done if proper facilities were available. "More elbow room and breathing space" is needed, she said.

A golf course for miners only on 350 acres of moorland in the heart of Scotland's industrial belt is planned by West Lothian and Lanarkshire welfare officials. The moorland has been leased by the miners' welfare committee and a grant for equipment is sought from the welfare commission

It is claimed the course will be the finest in the industrial area of the country.

The number of people who think they could run a football club has amazed Manchester City officials.

The English league second division club, which recently advertised for a manager, has received so many applications it will be necessary to hold a special board meeting "just to sort the mout."

Chairman Bob Smith said that "people in an amazing variety of jobs have applied, but we want an experienced man and there will be no limit to what we will pay if we can get him."

Anything can happen in sport these days.

After two balls had burst in a Scottish rugby league game, Referee Don Murphy had his suspicions about the third one. He called a halt, examined the ball, found it to be neither round, square, oblong nor even like a rugby ball. He tried all he knew to coax it back to its original shape but it refused to yield and he called the game off.

Official reason: "Ball knocked out of shape."

CLEANING RECORD FOR CITY CLOCK

Woodstock, Nov. 9 — (CP) — Predecessors of this city's councilmen believed in keeping the city-hall clock clean—but apparently they didn't believe in going to extremes about it. A pencilled note on the back of the clock shows it was cleaned once in 1905 and again in 1907.

PICTON

Tomato Grower Want Dollar Bus. For Their Crop

Picton, Nov. 9 — Compulsory grading of tomatoes will not be introduced next year, as had been anticipated, S. C. Peck, president, Prince Edward County Canning Crop Growers Association, told the annual meeting of that body here yesterday. He quoted the Ontario Minister of Agriculture to that effect. He stated that Mr. T. L. Kennedy would like to see compulsory at some future date, but at the present time there are not sufficient trained graders. The problem was also difficult because of the fact that canners have been glad to get all grades of tomatoes to fill their contracts. When 70 per cent of the factories had undertaken voluntary grading, then compulsory grading would be introduced, Mr. Peck stated.

A flat price of one dollar a bushel, an increase of forty cents, was decided upon by the meeting as the price to be negotiated for when price agreements are discussed. The Farm Products Marketing Board is being petitioned to disallow canners making contracts until the 1947 price is set by the Marketing Board, and that should canners do so they would lose their licenses. The Association also went on record as requiring canners to accept all marketable tomatoes on a single contract.

Several spokesmen charged canners with taking contracts and then writing in the price later and also of over-contracting, to the detriment of growers.

Reference was made to the fact that early this year canners began bidding for tomatoes and the price rose as high as $1.25, and several voiced the opinion that if canners could pay that price when they needed tomatoes, they could afford to pay $1 per bushel generally.

A. N. L. Butler, crop research, of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was present to answer questions. He stated that he had discovered two instances in the county of late blight, a new disease which he believed to have been brought to Canada with the tomato seedlings imported from the Southern United States. He believed that farmers would eventually find grading to their benefit.

Directors of the Prince Edward association elected were Neil Parks and Harold Foster for Athol township; Harold Bonter and S. C. Peck, Ameliasburgh; D. O. Reynolds and Harold Barker, Sophiasburg; Gerald Ackerman and W. O. Striker, South Marysburgh; Harry Hicks and John Wilkinson, North Marysburg.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

Most palookas hate post-mortems in bridge. That lets you out, of course. I am thinking of persons who would rather not learn anything.

West led a club that was won by east with the ace A club was at once returned. As south won, dummy sluffed a spade. South took two trumps and then led the diamond queen. East was forced to win.

East dared not return another club to give declarer a sluff and ruff. He led a spade which dummy won. Another diamond put east into the lead again and dummy won a second spade that east sent back.

Now dummy diamond leads gave south a spade sluff and the contract was made. Opponents got only three tricks; two diamonds and a top club.

One of the opponents remarked: "Seems to me there should be some better defence against this contract. Lay out the cards and see how."

Study quickly revealed that the contract could be sunk. East must return a spade instead of a club to the second trick. That would give east a spade trick before his top diamonds were shoved out.

Came then a discussion as to whether east should have recognized such a plan in time. It was decided that a good player would see it.

East could see three tricks. His only hope of getting a defeating fourth trick was in spades. If his partner in the west had the king, it was worth sacrificing. This would set up the east third spade.

So, when he took club ace, west should have led a small spade. Right into the jaws of the ace and queen. It sounds reasonable. At least, it sounds as if an expert player should do it.

Good players enjoy the discussions that follow each deal. They do not consider such reviews in the nature of criticism. Similar situations may arise in future deals. They learn that way.

Vessel Speeding To Freighter's Aid

Halifax, Nov. 7. (CP) — The naval dockyard last night reported interception of a signal from the 3,000-ton freighter Empire Valour saying her deck cargo had been washed away and she was in a sinking condition.

The Manchester Exporter was reported to be in the area and speeding to her assistance.

The navy said the signal had also been passed to the commander of the North Atlantic patrol at St. John's, Nfld., and he would probably take any action deemed necessary.

The freighter gave her position as 49 degrees, 10 minutes north and 37 degrees, 10 mins west, about 500 miles east of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

AT THE CAPITOL — Bing Crosby, who co-stars with Ingrid Bergman in Leo McCarey's "The Bells of St. Mary's," again portrays Father O'Malley, modern priest introduced in the 1944 Academy Award winner, "Going My Way." Bing's current vehicle is the story of a parochial school fighting for its existence. "The Bells of St. Mary's," opens Sunday midnight, after 12.05, at the Capitol Theatre with a special matinee Monday at 2.15 p.m.

Plans Will Facilitate Movement To Canada of Displaced Persons, Refugees Related to Canadians

Ottawa, Nov. 8 —(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced Thursday the government has approved measures to make possible the movement to Canada of some refugees and displaced persons who are admissible to this country under existing Canadian immigration regulations.

Mr. King told newspapermen in a press conference at his East Block offices that these arrangements will permit the necessary immigration inspectoins to be made of refugees and displaced persons now in displaced persons' camps in the occupied European zones or otherwise under the care of such organizations as U.N.R.R.A.

Up to now there has been no way in which these persons could receive the necessary inspection prior to proceeding to Canada. Nor has there been any organization capable of arranging for their movement to Canada.

Actual Inspections Not for While.

Mr. King said special Canadian immigration officers will be sent to Europe to facilitate the movement and co-operation is being sought from military authorities in Germany. It is not, however, expected that actual inspections will be possible in the occupied zones for some time.

The persons concerned are certain relatives of Canadians whom, it was announced at the last session of parliament, will be permitted to enter Canada if their Canadian relatives undertake to house them and see that they do not become public charges.

Mr. King said:—

"The Canadian government has now completed arrangements with the intergovernmental committee on refugees by which it is expected that some of the refugees, whose relatives have applied for their admission to this country, will be enabled to proceed to Canada.

"Lists of persons on whose behalf application has been made will be forwarded to the director of the intergovernmental committee on refugees. These persons will be located, identified and gathered into convenient centres in occupied territories by the intergovernmental committee, and they will subsequently be visited and inspected by immigration officials sent especially from Canada for this purpose.

"The intergovernmental committee on refugees will then give whatever assistance is possible in arranging for the movement to Canada of persons whose admission has been approved."

Persons covered by the special legislation, passed in May, provides for persons of specified relationship to Canadian residents who are in position to receive and care [illegible] the refugees. The relationshi[illegible] are: wife or unmarried child under 18 years of age; unmarried son or daughter 18 years of age or over; father or mother; unmarried brother or sister or orphan nephew or niece under 18 years.

Mr. King said he could not give an estimate of how many refugees might be admitted under the plan. The shipping situation was easing and he did not consider it would present a serious difficulty.

Main handicap in putting the plan into effect had been the lack of adequate inspection facilities and the new move was being made in an effort to overcome that. This difficulty applied particularly to persons who were in displaced persons camps in the occupied zones or under the care of such organizations as U.N.R.R.A.

The policy of sending special immigration men aboard was being used because of the unusual circumstances and was not regarded as establishing a precedent for future immigration practice.

Young Scientist Has Prominent Part In Canada's Research Plan

By H. DENT HODGSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 8 (CP)—Behind a scientifically neat desk in a test-tube clean office in a wartime army building, an austere and determined scientist is quietly laying the foundations of a revolutionary experiment in defence technique.

He is 37-year-old Dr. O. M. Solandt, head of the Embryonic Canadian Defence Research Department, being formed as a fourth partner of Canada's armed forces for the purpose of co-ordinating all defence research in peace or war.

Since his appointment last Jan. 20, he sits as an equal member of the chiefs-of-staff along with Lt.-Col. Charles Foulkes, Rear Admiral H. E. Reid and Air Vice Marshal Robert Leckie. He is gradually organizing scientific forces in Canada along the same general principles as the other chiefs are organizing their respective forces—into a compact peacetime nucleus capable of rapid expansion, in the event of war.

On Equal Footing

It is the first time in history that science has been placed on an equal footing with other defence services, and development of the department is going forward in easy stages.

The department will have a comparatively small basic force, like the other defence branches. Its "reserves"—to be called on from time-to-time and used for co-ordinated war work should the need arise—will be the university laboratories and industrial research centres with whom the Defence Department's wartime connections still are close.

"Canada is essentially not a country which plans to make war," Dr. Solandt said in an interview. "In the event of war — which would definitely be a total war—she cannot depend on a large professional force. Every scientific resource in the country would have to help."

Three Establishments

The new department wil ltake over at least three of the wartime establishments set up to handle the huge share of Allied scientific work given the Dominion.

These will include the 1,000-square-mile Suffield station 30 miles northwest of Medicine Hat, Sask., the Valcartier explosives laboratories at Quebec and the chemical warfare laboratories which actually are part of the national research division.

Dr. Solandt has been engaged in research work for almost half of his 37 years. A medical graduate of the University of Toronto, he did research work there for a time and studied at various universities.

In England when war broke out, he engaged in blood transfusion work, later became director in England of the Medical Research Council laboratories experimental station at Lulworth. During research work on tanks, he discovered that the problem of unconscious tank drivers was an engineering one which could be solved by improved ventilation and subsequently diagnosed the problem of inaccuracy among tank gunners as another equipment failure.

Were his collar reversed, his quiet manner might mislead acquaintances into thinking he had followed the profession of his father, Rev. D. M. Solandt, a Toronto minister. But scientists with whom he comes in contact will find him entirely a scientist — interested as much in their problems as those of research itself.

NEXT AT BELLE — Bob Hope in his role as "Monsieur Beaucaire" and lovely Joan Caulfield as the chambermaid, Mimi, in Paramount's hilarious picturization of Booth Tarkington's famous comedy, "Monsieur Beaucaire," opens at the Belle Sunday midnight, continuing until Wednesday, with Patric Knowles, Marjorie Reynolds and many other favorites.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a walk with pop, partly to help his figure and partly to celebrate the swell weather, and he said, Horse blanket to blazes, I'm getting a kind of a crick in my back. If that's my lumbago knocking again, it's not welcome and I dont care if it hears me say so, he said.

Why dont you take it to a osteopath, pop, that's where Puds Simkinses father takes his lumbago, I said, and pop said, By gollies that's an idea, but I think I'll stop in at old Dock Rorer's office ferst and ask him if he thinks an osteopath would be good for lumbago. I wouldn't want to do anything behind his back, speeking of backs, he said

And we went in Docter Rorer's office and pop said to him, I just wanted to ask you, Dock, if you had lumbago would you take it to an osteopath

I wouldn't take a lame cat to an osteopath, Docter Rorer said. If those fellows knew anything about curing they'd be medical docters like the rest of us, he said, and pop said, Thanks, Dock, I feel werse already.

And we went out again, pop saying, just for that narrow minded crack I'm going to drop in and see that osteopath upon the Avenue.

Which he did, being a little osteopath with glasses, and pop said, I've brought you a little lumbago. Old Dock Rorer around the corner has had a couple of whacks at it, and this time I thought I'd try an osteopath, he said, and the osteopath said, I wouldn't trust a medical docter to remove a splinter with a pair of tweezers, they're just a buntch of ignorent muggs, every one of them.

I'll see you later, much later pop said.

And we went out again, pop saying, We'll just keep on walking, maybe all I need is broad minded exercize.

Shall we try running a little, pop? I said, and he said, No thanks

Which we didn't.

General Duty Nurse

CHAPTER 10

"Gregory—Richard Gregory. Do you by any chance know him or of him?"

Unable to speak, Sally shook her head again. Margaret spoke.

"Is he a doctor, too, Miss Maynard?"

"I don't think he has anything to do with medicine or healing. From something Carolyn said I have the idea he is a detective. Imagine!"

Margaret laughed. Sally stared in bewilderment. "But—but I understood she was engaged to a doctor," she said.

"Well, I asked Carolyn and she was quite violent in asserting that one doctor in the family was plenty. No, she said he was doing something for the government—what, she didn't say—but I concluded he was sort of detective—maybe a member of the FBI. I can't say that I approve."

• • •

"But you don't know him," Sally pointed out, feeling suddenly a bit light-headed — even a little hysterical and wanting nothing so much as to get away—back to her room and shut the door against everyone.

"Just why didn't you go to that party, Sally?" Miss Maynard asked after a moment in which plates were changed and the maid disappeared once more into the pantry. "You and Carolyn used to be friends. She appear to be very fond of you."

"I wanted to come here, Aunt Clem," Sally said truthfully. "I have been working hard and wanted to get away from the hospital for a while. You always do me good—rest me, darling." She smiled affectionately at her aunt who beamed for a moment then said anxiously:

"I wish you would leave that place, Sally. I never approved of it from the very first. I noticed when you came in that you looked white and peaked. I'll confess you are more like yourself now. Why can't you come home where you belong, my dear?"

"You do look better, Sally," Margaret said, her voice a little puzzled. "I have been thinking you needed a vacation badly; but since we've been here you've perked up wonderfully." She smiled at her hostess. "There must be some sort of magic about you, Miss Maynard. I feel peppier myself."

• • •

It was after dinner that Sally sensed there was something on her aunt's mind. She was trying, none too successfully it seemed, to get her alone. What had Carolyn Bacon said about her? Her guilty conscious warned her and she tried to keep close to Margaret Adams and thus thwart her aunt's maneuvers. At last Miss Maynard took them to the garden where she and old Timothy, the ancient outdoor man, had been doing a great deal of landscaping, transplanting and experimenting.

The girls wandered about, admiring and exclaiming, and at last Aunt Clem managed to isolate her niece for a moment and pronounced.

"Tell me," she demanded somewhat truculently for the chase had been long, "just who is this Blair—Blair Canfield who is missing in action and for whom you are mourning? I'm sure it was news to me."

Sally stared at her relative in something like terror. Oh, why, she asked herself, had she ever gotten into this? Aloud, she said soothingly: "It's a long story, Aunt Clem. I haven't time to explain now; but I'll do it on my very first afternoon off Duty. duty. And, darling, I'm not in mourning for him—he—he—it's over and done with long ago."

"But—but who is he? Who are his people? Where did you meet him?" she persisted and Sally was relieved to see Margaret approaching.

"Never mind," she soothed, a hand on the old lady's arm; "it's very much in the past. I'll tell you all about it—very soon. Ready to go, Maggie?" she asked her friend. "It's been wonderful, Aunt Clem," she said, giving her aunt an affectionate hug, "and I'll be out again on my first afternoon off duty. That's a promise."

Margaret laughed. "She isn't telling you just when that will be, Miss Maynard," she pointed out. "Our afternoons off duty have become few and far between."

The walk back to the hospital was without incident and the two girls parted at Sally's door.

Inside her room, Sally prepared for bed still in something of a daze. Carolyn Bacon was not going to marry Jim Hallock —then who was he going to marry? Holden said he was engaged—but then Norma might have misunderstood Carolyn's engagement party just as she had. And what did it matter anyway? She determined to put the whole thing completely out of her mind. It was more than likely he would shun her presence in the future. No man enjoyed being accused of having an affair, no matter how casual or innocent, with a girl he scarcely knew. He would be justified in ignoring her henceforth. She would be the last to blame him.

Her conscience troubled her regarding the romantic past she had so successfully built up around herself and the mythical Blair Canfield. She had had no idea the story was to grow and travel until even Aunt Clem should hear it. And how on earth was she going to explain it to her? Should she make a clean breast of it—confess she had manufactured it out of whole cloth simply as a protection to her pride—simply because certain people had jeered at her preference for a life of nursing—of service to others—rather than one of love and marriage? Knowing her Aunt Clem she doubted if that lady would understand or condone the deception. Aunt Clem loathed deception. Sally knew she was hurt at her beloved niece's failure to confide in her and she couldn't bear it. She brushed her hair with hard, almost vicious strokes and tried to find a way out. At last in something like despair she slipped into bed to lie wide-eyed for hours.

• • •

She awoke next morning feeling depressed and blue. It was quite early and she hurried to the bathroom where she showered and returned to her room to dress for the day. The shower had helped and she went down to breakfast feeling more like herself. Margaret met her in the lower hall and the two went in together. Sally ate silently, her thoughts still chaotic.

"Chapel?" Margaret asked as they left the dining room with the others.

"Yes," Sally said. "I feel I need it this morning."

The shabby room was glowing with sunlight and Sally felt rather than saw Jim Hallock seated just beneath the big stained glass window in the east wall. He sat with eyes straight ahead, arms folded across his broad chest and a look of grimness on his usually pleasant face. Chubby Bill Tyler was beside him and Sally was surprised to see the junior interne send a smile and an almost imperceptible wave of the hand in the direction of Dora Bronson who blushed and smiled in response. She wondered how long that had been going on but forgot about it when Miss Sunderlin rose to read from the psalter in her hand. She opened it to the Nineteenth Psalm. She read it slowly, impressively, and at its close added three verses from the New Testament. The favorite and familiar Twenty-third Psalm followed and suddenly Sally felt rested and ready for whatever the day might bring forth. She knew now what she should do. Aunt Clem was the only one who mattered—she would make a clean breast of her deception to her and hope she would understand.

But days were to elapse before Sally could confide in Aunt Clem Maynard. Full, busy days. She had no idea of what the superintendent of nurses said to Doctor Hallock or whether or not he told her of his convictions as to the writer of the anonymous letter. Sally's attitude toward Norma Holden remained much the same—casual and not too cordial. Norma continued to sneer but avoided the other girl as much as was possible in a hospital like Linton was at present with its depleted staff. Doctor Hallock, however, treated her with a coldness that was worse than complete ostracism.

Sally had expected to work in PPediatrics but after a week with the children was switched to special work in room 327. Again she heard the odious epithet of "Apple polisher!" as she passed Norma Holden and another nurse just outside the chapel on her first morning on the new case. Her steps faltered for a moment as she contemplated facing the accuser but instead with merely a slight stiffening of her slim back, she went on to the elevator.

"I won't let her bother me," she said to herself.

She had had little contact with Doctor Hallock. He seemed almost to avoid her. The ready blood rushed to the girl's cheeks at the humiliating memory of that meeting in Miss Sunderlin's office. He probably hated her now. And she didn't blame him. Was it possible he thought she had given Holden some reason for thinking she had dates with him? Sally gasped at the idea and in her distress sent the elevator past the third floor upon which 327 was located. She bit her lip and reversed the switch and the temperamental mechanism promptly stuck. Even the buzzer refused to work.

Sally heard the impatient mutterings of people anxious to use the elevator and called:

"It's stuck here between three and four and I'm stuck with it. Please do something."

"The darned thing's stuck again. What ails it this time?"

"Isn't there something someone can do?" Sally demanded. "I'm here between three and four and can't budge a thing. It's dark and cold and—well, what do you think, Doctor?"

"Wait a minute," the doctor said. "I'll call the janitor. Don't be scared."

"I'm not scared," the girl retorted. "I'm anxious to get to my patient. Hurry, please."

Soon there was the sound of hammering. The lights went out —the car shook violently—lights flickered on and off and there came a grinding noise. Someone called:

"Are you all right, Sally? Jensen is trying to find the trouble. We have sent for a mechanic, also. It shouldn't take too long. Don't worry about your patient. He understands and Craine on floor duty is looking after him just now."

"I'm all right," Sally assured the anxious superintendent. "I don't know what I did that was wrong—"

"I should have used the stairs," Sally said dubiously. "I never have trusted this contraption. Don't worry about me. I'll be all right." But it grew more and more tiresome. It was very dark there between those narrow walls. She wished they would hurry. What if they couldn't fix it? What if she had to spend the entire day cooped up in this cage—for that's what it amounted to.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop came home early on account of Saturday, and I said, Hay pop, I thought of something swell for you to do this afternoon. Will you make me an airoplane model? I said.

Have you got the parts for me to put together? pop said, and I said, No sir, you cut them out of sigar box wood and glue them together. Sid Hunt's father made him one and it's a perfect seaplane model and even lands in the bathtub without terning over. Will you make me one, pop? I said.

Well, now that's quite an idea, but maybe we better not get in over your head, pop said. The invention of the kite was man's ferst conquest of the air. I'll make you a nice kite and explain its general principals as I go along. The best way to learn about these things is gradually. You've got to walk before you can run, and you've got to fly before you can soar. I can make a kite out of newspaper that'll hold its own in a hurricane, he said and I said, Well aw G, pop, I can make a kite myself. And anyways, kites are old fashion, I said.

Oh, really? I hadn't heard, pop said. Well then we'll go into the field of gyroscopics. The gyroplane is founded on the idea of a spinning top. By gollies we'll do a little instructive top spinning. You've got a top haven't you? he said, and I said, Sure, but aw heck, pop, I mean gosh, holey mackerel.

I think I see what you mean, pop said. In that case I have another suggestion. I believe there's some sort of a flying picture around at the Little Grand today, he said, and I said, G, pop, do you mean Low Ceiling Cassidy?

If that's the name of it that's what I mean, pop said.

Making me feel lucky, and I said, Oh boy, swell, let's go.

ACQUITTED ON CHARGES ON REFUSAL TO TESTIFY

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 8 — Mrs. Kathleen Nash Durant, former United States Women's Army Corps captain serving a five-year sentence for complicity in the theft of the $1,500,000 Hesse family jewels, today was acquitted of charges arising from her refusal to testify in the trial of another defendant. Mrs. Durant had declined to testify in the trial of Maj. David F. Watson on constitutional grounds that such testimony might incriminate her. Watson subsequently was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

New Soapless VEL
Marvelous For Dishes

by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

Nobody likes doing dishes, but there is now a new product called VEL that certainly makes the inevitable job a whole lot easier and quicker.

UNLIKE SOAP

VEL is not soap—it's a soapless discovery. Its quick-forming foamy suds don't last—they're not meant to. But the CLEAR water remaining in dishpan or sink is the very thing which makes glasses and china sparkle and so quickly cleans the porridge pot and roasting pan . . . the two bugaboos of dishwashing. What is more, dishes washed in VEL and given a quick rinse will dry themselves without streaking. It's amazing how VEL cuts the grease and leaves little if any scum on the sides of your sink. If necessary a tiny sprinkling of dry VEL on the dishcloth, then a quick rub-around, will make the sink or dishpan gleam. And, incidentally, VEL is very kind to the hands.

VERY LITTLE VEL NEEDED

Frankly, at first we were skeptical of VEL for we missed the heavy dishpan suds produced by soap. In error, we added more, but now know that a very little VEL goes a long way . . . and that VEL keeps on cleaning long after the suds dissolve. A teaspoonful or two of VEL is usually plenty in a dishpanful of water. Add a little more for larger sinks or very greasy pans.

By DAVE McINTOSH

Truro, N.S., Nov. 9 (CP)—As the electric eel-propelled S. S. Marigold, majestic flagship of the Brown Star Line Navigation Company Ltd., sailed up the foot-deep Salmon River near Truro, laden with a cargo of peach fuzz for the nearby peach-manufacturing plant, she passed her sister ship, the Empress of Parrsboro. The Empress was outbound with a cargo of molasses just piped into her hold from a molasses well discovered beneath the sugar shale of northwestern Nova Scotia.

If you're a bit skeptical about all this any Truro resident will confirm it for you. In fact, he will quote you the Marigold's exact sailing times and her passenger list. And if you're lucky you might see aboard Senator McSnuffy or Mr. Blather or Dr. William Yonkers Sudds, President of Cobequid University, an institution of higher learning which grants only honorary degrees.

Part of Legend

All these weird goings-on and not-so-weird people are part of a vast legend built up by W. B. Foster, recently named President of the Nova Scotia Weekly Newspapers Association. He presents them to the public in columns called "The Olio" and "The Marigold Sails Again" in the Truro Weekly News and the Guysboro County Advocate and Canso Breeze and through an inexhaustible flood of letters to the editor of the Truro Daily News.

Mr. Foster writes under the nom de plume of "Edwin Sherdlou," an anglicized version of what you get when you run your hand over a line of linotype keys. He is in his mid-fifties, tall, wears an owlish smile and is advertising manager of the Daly News.

Since he started the Olio in 1934 and put the Brown Star Line ("all the other colored stars were used up") into operation, the movements of the Marigold, which has rubber funnels so it can pass under bridges, are a subject as keenly discussed as the weather and crops.

Get Deadpan Answer

For instance, if you ask to be shown the Marigold, you will get a deadpan answer something like this: "I'm sorry, but she cleared port at 4:27 a.m with a cargo of hair tonic (Mr. Foster is bald) from the Browntop Hair Tonic Corporation at Riversdale."

Directors of the Brown Star Line will call up an insurance company on the mildest day imaginable and take out enormous amounts of Hurricane insurance on the Marigold. The company soberly accepts the order.

Many an outsider has been taken in by Mr. Foster, who in 1935 founded the Imagination Party, whose sole purpose is to make bigger and better promises than any other political group.

A Georgia editor wanted to confirm the story about the molasses gushers, a company wanted to buy time on television station ICU, various persons have sought to buy shares in the $100,000,000 Brown Star Line, a provincial chemist wished to verify that planted milk powder had produced maraconi and cheese, and hundreds of persons including senators, have been issued free passes on the Marigold. Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia holds one.

Injects Choicest Wit

Into this whimsical spoofing Mr. Foster injects some of the choicest wit and most brilliant satire to be read in Canada today. In particular he ribs the Senate and Senators and governmental "interference." With his senate lottery, similar somewhat to the Irish Sweepstakes, Mr. Foster claims everybody has an equal chance of becoming a senator and that cash from ticket sales will pay for the upkeep of that august body.

Last August, at the time of the Nuernberg trials, he wrote: "The German war criminals' trial continues. It looks now as if all but the youngest of the accused would die natural deaths before the verdicts are brought in. Only equal to these trials for sheer delay is the continued inaction about filling the two vacant Nova Scotia seats in the Senate.

The good ship Marigold soon is to move into waters far from the Salmon River. The CBC is to dramatize the doings of the people who revolve about the non-existence—but very real—Brown Star Line.

Polish Minister States Treasures Disappeared Shortly After Statement Made

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 9 —(CP)— Dr. Alfred Fiderkiewicz, Polish minister to Canada, said Friday the 32 missing trunks of Polish art treasure disappeared shortly after an official of the old legation staff informed the government-in-exile in London that "It's time to hide them because the Polish Bolsheviks are coming (to Canada.)"

He told a press conference that the transfer of 34 trunks from the Central Experimental Farm here to an Ottawa convent, at St. Anne de Beaupre, Que., church and an Ottawa bank was done "with the understanding of Dr. Babinski."

Dr. Waclaw Babinski was Polish minister to Canada during the tenure of the "exile" government.

Saying at one point, "I'm going to put everything clear and not leave the gloves on," Dr. Fiderkiewicz substantiated the opinion that the loss of "millions of dollars worth" of treasures resulted from intense political disagreement between the "London Poles" and the present Russia-inclined regime.

Meanwhile, location of the 32 missing trunks shipped here in 1940 was still uncertain. Eight are missing from the Convent of the Precious Blood here and 24 from the famous shrine at St. Anne. The 33rd and 34th trunks were found undisturbed in the vaults of the Sparks Street branch of the Bank of Montreal here.

Dr. Fiderkiewicz said the treasures are state property. That was his answer when a reporter referred to the statements of an unidentified Pole in Montreal that the treasures "rightfully belong to the church."

Russians Will Never Get Them.

To the same Pole's reported comment that "the Russians will never get them," Dr. Fiderkiewicz said the Gobelin Tapestries, a major part of the missing treasure, had been returned to Poland by Russia after the First Great War.

The minister referred to a letter he said was written by a man named Poznanski, honorary consul on the old legation staff. He suggested the letter told the "London Poles" that "it's time to hide them because the Polish Bolsheviks are coming." This was at the time of the change in Polish government.

"I don't see that there is any person in Poland who could give away anything from this (Krakow) museum. Even the President himself could not make a present of the treasures......I don't know that the Polish National Council could either. All of the treasures belong to the nation."

Custodian of the treasure in Canada were Dr. Stanislaus Swierz-Zaleski and Joseph Polkowski. Swierz-Zaeski still is a member of the legation staff. Polkowski no longer holds official status and is living in Ottawa as a private citizen.

Dr. Fiderkiewicz continued: "They as custodians are responsible before the government of Poland. I know they both deposited these art treasures in the experimental farm and they both (later) distributed 24 cases to the church, eight to the convent and two to the bank."

Claims He Had Charge

The same two men "were the only persons who could take them out of the hiding-places; one person separately could not touch them.

But Dr. Fiderkiewicz said Dr. Babinski also had access to the treasures because, as minister, he was in charge of all state properties.

He said he believed "public opinion in Canada is intelligent enough to judge for itself whose property the treasures are."

Unless Dr. Swierz-Zaleski and Polkowski went together to the Bank of Montreal, the legation now could not get the two undisturbed trunks. But to date no application had been made to the Canadian Government to obtain the two trunks.

Dr. Swierz-Zaleski, who said he was "interested in art, not in politics," said he was not in favor of the transfer from the farm to the other hiding-places but had been "at the disposal of Dr. Babinski."

Wrote Receipt For 24

At Ste. Anne, Rev. Ieon LaPlante, father superior of the Redemptorist Order, had written a receipt for the 24 trunks but had not given it to Dr. Swierz-Zaleski or Polkowski, the minister said. "So it is assumed Father LaPlante sent it to Dr. Babinski." Father LaPlante later had shown a letter from Cardinal Villeneuve saying the right to remove the trunks from the shrine was Dr. Babinski's.

Dr. Fiderkiewicz was asked if he was going to "see representatives of the government soon."

"Yes, I am. I intend to ask the Government to help me collect and store the treasures in a safe place. . . .I am sure I am going to have them sooner or later . . . I think they are here (in Canada) but somewhere under cover."

THIRD OF FAMILY TO VISIT LINER QUEEN ELIZABETH

Hamilton, Nov. 9 — (CP) — The inclusion of Paul T. W. Heming, of this city, in a party of travel agents leaving here Sunday to inspect the liner Queen Elizabeth as guests of the Cunard Company, will lead to the third visit of a member of his family to the "Queen" at various stages of her career. While in England for the Coronation, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heming were given special permission to inspect the liner, then three-quarters finished, and a year later Basil H. W. Heming, of Hamilton witnessed the launching ceremony.

Composing Room Employees Vote To Start Strike

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 9—(AP)—Composing room employees of this city's two daily newspapers voted last night to strike because of a breakdown in wage negotiations.

Employees of the Morning Democrat and Chronicle did not report for work. Executives of the newspaper said they planned to publish an engraved edition.

The management of the two papers — the Democrat and Chronicle and the Times Union, an evening publication, both members of the Gannett group of newspapers — said the Union 'demands were exorbitant.'

A Union statement issued after a meeting of Local 15, International Typographical Union.(AFL) declared Union members had found proposals offered by the management 'unfavorable' and that the Union therefore considered the work stoppage a "lockout."

In its final proposal, submitted Thursday, the Union asked $80 for day work and $88 for nights for 37½ hours weekly.

The printers now receive $58 a week for day work and $63 on the night shift.

France to Elect First Legislature

Paris, Nov. 9 — (AP)—France will elect the Fourth Republic's first legislature Sunday in a new test of Communist strength, but little change was expected in the current three-party balance in view of Gen. deGaulle's failure to back any one party.

Six hundred and eighteen deputies are to be elected from some 3,000 candidates to serve 5-year terms in the National Assembly under a new constitution approved by voters Oct. 13.

Top contenders in this sixth major French vote in two years — the fourth this year—are the Mouvement Republicain Populaire, Communists and Socialists, who now hold almost equal electoral and legislative strength.

Tribunal Rules No Need to Bring Grew and Stimson

Tokyo, Nov. 9 — (AP)—Affidavits from Joseph C. Grew and Henry L. Stimson drew defence objections at the International War Crimes trial today and demands that both be brought to Tokyo to testify. Both were overruled.

The statements of Mr. Grew, the former United States Ambassador to Japan, and Mr. Stimson, former United States War Secretary, were prepared in the United States since the trial began.

"Every country provides the defendant has the right to be confronted by his accusers," argued David F. Smith of New York.

Tribunal president Sir William Webb of Australia ruled: "We see no need to bring them there. Interrogations can be propounded to them in the United States."

Mr. Grew's affidavit concerned his diplomatic relations with Japanese leaders for nine years preceding Pearl Harbor and Mr. Stimson's affidavit dealt with the 1931 Mukden incident.

Inspectors' School Held First Time

Toronto, Nov. 8 —(CP)— An "Inspectors' School," organized by the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals met for the first time today.

More than 30 delegates are attending the session from humane societies in Guelph, Hamilton, St. Catharines and Greater Toronto municipalities.

Designed to better conditions for animals, the school will participate in a program arranged by the Toronto Humane Society and will include visits to city abattoirs, stables and riding academys.

BARGAIN FOR COUNCIL

London — (CP) — Islington Borough Council needs land owned by the Marquess of Northampton's Trust for the development of the borough's public gardens. The Trust says the council can have it at an annual rent of one peppercorn.

Polish Minister Views Treasures

Ottawa, Nov. 8 — (CP)— Flanked by burly guards, Dr. Alfred Fiderkiewicz, Polish minister to Canada, yesterday entered a vault in the Sparks Street branch of the Bank of Montreal, broke the wax seal on an ordinary steamer trunk and looked for the first time at a collection of Polish art treasures stored in the vault for safekeeping.

Among the treasures were "Szczerbiec," the coronation sword of the Kings of Poland; the "hetman's baton," a two-foot gold mace encrusted with turquoise, emeralds and rubies; and gold, brass and bronze church ornaments.

Nearby were two other trunks of treasures stored in the bank.

But 32 other trunks are missing, Dr. Fiderkiewicz said last night in disclosing the disappearance of a $1,000,000 collection brought here early in the war from the Royal Castle of Wawel, at Cracow. He said 24 trunks were obtained by unauthorized persons at a church in Ste. Anne de Beaupre and eight at the Precious Blood convent here.

He said he believed members of the staff of the previous Polish Legation were responsible for the disappearance of the trunks.

Memorial Library For McMaster Univ.

Hamilton, Nov. 9 — (CP)—McMaster University will have a new library, the result of a gift from the Davella Mills Foundation of Montclair, N. J., it was announced last night. The building will be known as the David D. Mills Memorial Library in memory of the late Mr. Mills, a former resident of St. Catharines. The foundation gift amounts to $500,000 and was announced by Chancellor G. P. Gilmour who received the information from Paul H. Hudson, president of the Foundation. Mr. Mills was the inventor of a spark plug and amassed a fortune from its manufacture. Building will probably begin next year.

Garbage Men, Butchers, Bakers, Milkmen To Spot Empty Houses

Toronto, Nov. 9 — (CP)—The garbage-man, the butcher, the baker and the milkman will be used as spotters for empty houses in the city if a suggestion of emergency shelter Commissioner W. H. Bosley is acted on. G. E. Taylor, Deputy Commissioner of street cleaning thought the idea a good one. "We did it before, and it worked fine," he said. "In 1942 our garbage collectors made a check. They not only reported all vacant houses in the city, but gave us information on the condition of the houses—whether or not they were fit to be lived in."

New Canadian Defence Research Department Still in Blueprint Stage

By H. DENT HODGSON

Ottawa, Nov. 9 —(CP)— Problems of organizing the new Canadian Defence Research Department are as unique as the department itself.

The department, set up on paper early last year when Dr. O. M. Solandt, 37-year-old former army scientist, was chosen to plot its construction, still is in the blueprint stage. As an equal partner with the three armed services, it will continue research connections developed during the war and form a central administrative organization to co-ordinate scientific work for the land, sea and air forces.

It is the first time science has been placed on an equal footing with other forces. The United States has a central liaison office to co-ordinate the scientific work of its forces, but it is believed no other country has attempted to give science a seat on its chiefs-of-staff committee as Canada has done. Great Britain is understood, however, to be considering such a step, and to be watching closely developments of the Canadian experiment.

Basic needs of the new department are the scientists and research workers who will make up its personnel.

Laying Careful Plans.

"In research, the work is no good unless it is good work," Dr. Solandt says. And the former army colonel is laying careful plans to attract a staff of crack workers.

One of the main problems to be faced, the director believes, is that of security. Defence research must necessarily stay to some extent at least on the secret list. But a scientist's reputation is based on the number and importance of the publications he produces, and good research men cannot be attracted to the new department if such publications are prohibited.

The answer, Dr. Solandt believes, lies in compromise. The department's workers must be permitted to publish their discoveries when at all possible, and must understand exactly why not of security bars publication.

Obtain Senior Scientists.

Another means of attracting an eager group of young research men will be by obtaining a number of reputable senior scientists.

While no details have been worked out, Dr. Solandt is determined that the service will not be crippled by lack of funds.

Administrative work will be sharply cut off and delegates to an administrative staff.

It is expected the end of the next university year will bring forth many men who did research work during the war and returned promptly to college to supplement their war-shortened degrees. These men are considered ideal for the department since they have a good grounding, field experience, and are demonstrating their interest in research.

No Atomic Research.

Once organized, the research department will take part in many and various service jobs, working on everything from seasickness remedies to aircraft icing. On cold-weather experiments such as Exercise Muskox, for example, it will send along its own staff, in full charge of scientific developments, with the purely military side of the exercise handled by the service concerned.

One field it will not enter, according to present plans, is that of atomic research, which will remain under the Atomic Energy Control Board headed by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton.

"The government has — quite wisely — decided to keep atomic research a peace problem," said Dr. Solandt. It will be administered by the National Research Council under the board.

The new department, while interested primarily in military research, will, the director believes, produce great peacetime benefits. He cited radar and insecticides, produced by the Chemical Warfare Branch, as examples.

"In the last war, the discovery, for example of a serum for rinderpest alone was probably worth all we spent on the war," he stated. "Not to Canadians, perhaps, since we do not have the disease in this country; but to mankind generally, in the long run."

Capital Closeups

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 9 — (CP) —The fable about the ostrich that hid his head in the sand threw the staid and statistically - correct prices into a dither recently and almost cost burly chairman Donald Gordon his supper.

The turmoil was all in good fun and arose from a sentence which Mr. Gordon had included in one of a series of broadcast addresses he is making in defence of price control.

The sentence, referring to people who say the removal of price control won't result in serious price advances, read this way in its original version:—

"That sort of view is the kind of logic used by an ostrich when he hides his head in the sand."

The Board's research men, sticklers for accuracy, frowned upon the chairman's workmanship and politely reminded him that, after all, ostriches really don't bury their heads in the sand and, anyway, it's a silly comparison.

The chairman was unmoved; the sentence remained.

The men of the prices division wearily scratched their weary heads and ventured that if many more people asked for price increases they might as well crawl in beside the ostrich. But, as the research men said . . .

The chairman was unmoved; the sentence still unaltered.

The information branch, of tougher fibre, said: Well, so what? Even if the ostrich doesn't hide his head in the sand most people believe he does. But, on second thought, as the research men said . . .

The chairman didn't give an inch.

Then, the way those things happen, word of the ostrich reached the chairman's attractive wife. She picked up the phone. If the sentence wasn't changed and the chairman insisted upon making himself sound ridiculous over the air there would be no dinner served in the Gordon household that evening . . .

And that night, the way those things happen, a new version of the sentence went out on the airways and the people of Canada heard the rich brogue of the chairman make the point this way:—

"That sort of nonsense is symbolized by the fable of the ostrich hiding its head in the sand."

German-Made Rocket Fails in Test in U. S.

White Sands, N. M., Nov. 8—(AP)—The testing ground of a German V-2 rocket at the White Sands proving ground Thursday was a failure. Unofficial estimates were that the lighter-than-usual rocket, which those in charge of the launching had hoped would reach a new record altitude, climbed no more than a mile, then descended 8 to 10 miles from the takeoff platform. The Public Relations Office declined immediate comment.

the cardinal did not know of the whereabouts of the 24 trunks stored at Ste. Anne and that by "two or three" unidentified men who presented the required "receipt."

The Polish minister was reported today to be preparing for a trip "out of town" and could not be reached for comment on the Polish officer's statement in Montreal. A Pole close to the legation said Dr. Fiderkiewicz' trip was a "previous engagement" with no relation to the disappearance of the treasures.

The official in the London Polish Embassy said: "Under the Potsdam agreement they (the Canadian government) must recover it (the treasures) for Poland."

Two Comments Made

The Ottawa government official's answer: "I have two comments. First, the treasures were apparently hidden here under private arrangement so the Canadian government is not conceivably responsible for them.

"Second, the Canadian government was not signatory to the Potsdam agreement so no one could say we are bound by these terms concerning art objects."

He said he understood the Potsdam agreement provided for restoration to the original owners of all "objects of art" seized by the enemy during the war.

Previously the legation here had said definitely it did not hold the Canadian government responsible. And Prime Minsiter Mackenzie King told reporters at a press conference that since the treasures were kept in Canada in private custody they did not concern the government.

Only Accommodated Poles.

Dr. Fiderkiewicz said the Canadian government merely was "accommodating" the Poles by turning over part of the fourth floor of the Central Experimental Farm here to store the trunks.

The transfer to Ste. Ann, the convent and the bank last May had been at the direction of the former legation staff, including:

Dr. Waclaw Babinski, minister during the tenure of the "exile" government.

A man named Poznanski who, Dr. Fiderkiewicz said, told "the London Poles" the treasures should be hidden because "the Polish Bolsheviks are coming" (as representatives of the new government.)

And Joseph Polkowski, one-time co-custodian of the treasures and now living in Ottawa as a private citizen and admitting freely his sympathy for the policies of the now inactive "exiles."

Treasures Believed Safe.

Babinski had this comment on the Montreal report that "high Vatican authorities" directed the transfer from the Experimental Farm: "I know nothing about it."

Polkowski, who said he was present when the treasures were transferred: "It looks very fantastic to me . . . maybe there was something like this but I can't imagine it."

No one denied recurring reports that the treasures were "safe."

Dr. Fiderkiewicz himself, director of the search for the missing articles, said he believed they would be found "sooner or later."

"I think maybe they now are in churches or on farms — and I know some missing things are in private houses — but not with the consent or knowledge of the church."

Hope Russia May Compromise Stand On Atom Controls

Molotov Urges Quick Action To Stop Armament Race

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 12 — (CP) — Fresh evidence that Russia may eventually agree to some form of international inspection to enforce disarmament, including elimination of atomic weapons, was seen today in an assertion by Foreign Minister Molotov that Russian and American arms reduction proposals can be "harmonized."

At the same time he declared that an armaments race has already started, and he urged prompt action by the United Nations to stop it.

From United States Secretary of State Byrnes came a promise that the American government, which is insisting of an inspection system, would have more to say on disarmament "at the proper time," and British Foreign Secretary Bevin declared that in the effort to obtain worldwide arms reduction "my government will not fall behind."

The three spoke last night at a dinner of the Foreign Press Association after completing their first review here of five projected Axis satellite peace treaties. Reports on their work to date showed them to be still stalled on all major issues ranging from control of Trieste to free navigation on the Danube River.

One source of prolonged dispute between the United States and the Slav States appeared to have been removed, however. Diplomats reported Mr. Byrnes had informed the Foreign Ministers Council yesterday that the United States had ordered occupation authorities in Germany to release several hundred seized Danube River vessels of Hungary and other Eastern European countries — something those countries, with Russian support, have been demanding for months.

It was reported today that Mr. Byrnes, seconded by Mr. Bevin, would attempt to get some definite indication of Russian intentions.

The conference, which opened a week ago yesterday, has registered no progress and no indication of any break in the Russian objections to decisions taken at the Paris conference.

Mr. Bevin is due back in England no later than Dec. 16 and is reported to be anxious to get down to cases or to know whether or not there is any possibility of maintaining the schedule set for the New York meetings.

The intention was to dispose of the Balkan, Italian and Finnish treaties quickly and spend some time on the German treaty at the New York meetings.

Former Belleville Newsman Wins In Picture Contest

Toronto, Nov. 12 (CP) — Art Cole, Toronto Globe and Mail photographer, is the winner of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association October News Picture Contest, R. A. Burford, publisher of the Canadian Observer of Sarnia, and chairman of the C.D.N.A. Bureau of Advertising, announced today.

Shortening Outlook Expected to Improve

Ottawa, Nov. 12. (CP)—Shortening, which has been in drastically short supply in Canada for months, is expected to improve markedly during the next six weeks, prices board officials said Monday.

Manufacturers have been asked to produce on a basis of 100 per cent of their 1941 performance during the months of November, December and January. Previously, only about 71 per cent of 1941 supplies were being produced, and strikes have further darkened the situation.

In addition, a large shipment of shortening from Argentina, which Canada obtained during October and which was held up at New York due to a longshoremen's strike, started to arrive in Canada about the first of this month.

While officials stated it was not certain exactly how these factors would affect the situation," they said they believed the shortening picture would be "brightened considerably" in a few weeks, barring unforeseen developments.

Tax Agreement Between Sask., Dominion Signed

Regina, Nov. 12 — (CP) — Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines last night announced a new tax agreement between the Saskatchewan and Dominion governments under which the province will give up for five years fields of income and corporation taxes and succession duties in return for a $15 per capita annual subsidy.

Terms of the agreement would be the same to Manitoba, Mr. Fines said on his return from Ottawa after negotiating with Finance Minister Ilsley. The agreement would be submitted to the Saskatchewan Legislature, expected to sit late in January and would come into effect April 1, when the wartime tax agreement made in 1942 expires.

There would be no special session of the legislature to consider the proposal. The minimum subsidy to Saskatchewan based on 1941 population figures amounted to $13,439,000 with increases in relation to national production, Mr. Fines said.

Neither Dominion nor Provincial governments would be required to surrender any of the powers or privileges provided under the British North America Act.

Purpose of Agreement

Purpose of the agreement was:

1. To reduce duplication of direct taxation and machinery for the collection of taxes;
2. To give the provinces a greater measure of stability of revenue and
3. To enable Canada to carry out policies intended to retain high levels of employment and production.

"We are still hopeful the entire original program will be implemented. The Dominion has assured us that when agreement is reached on the tax proposals they will proceed with the balance of the original offer."

Original Offer

The original offer made by the Federal government last spring before the breakup of the Dominion - Provincial conference would provide for the Dominion:

1. Assuming full responsibility for the payment of Old Age Pensions to all persons over 70 years of age;
2. Sharing the cost of Old Age Pensions plan for all those between 65 and 69 years of age;
3. Providing 60 per cent of the cost of a national health program to include medical care and hospitalization;
4. Accepting full responsibility for all unemployed unemployable persons; and
5. Sharing the cost of certain municipal and provincial works programs.

Mr. Fines said it is expected that agreements would shortly be completed with other provinces.

Greece Probably Most Dispirited, Tense and Uncertain Allied Country

Editor's note: Ross Munro, Canadian Press European Corespondent, has made his first visit to Greece, on the critical dividing line between east and west in the Balkans. In this story, his first, Munro wrote of the country's post-war political problems.)

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Athens, Nov. 12 (CP)—Greece is probably the most dispirited weary, tense and uncertain Allied country in Europe.

There are wide divisions among the people, bitterness and despair in the Balikan country, caught by geography between east anw west and pinched in the big powers' manoeuvering for influence in Europe.

In Athens, the people are bleakly disallusioned by the failure of western countries to back Greece completely at the Paris Conference. Highly-placed Greeks told me that "the West has deserted Greece in her peril.

On the Acropolis one afternoon, A Greek youth in tattered clothing said: "The British and Americans like the Italians better than they like us—and look at what the Italians tried to do to us."

Diplomatic and propaganda pressure that Russia and her Balkan satellites have put on Greece since last winter's security council debate on the presence of British troops has had a heavy impact in this country.

The nerve war has rattled the Greeks and they are alarmed at what the future may bring unless they get more economic, political and moral backing from the west. But the people seem to be depending more than they should on the outside help.

"The Greeks are looking to Britain to pull their chestnuts out of the fire," said one diplomat.

Greece currently has more internal disturbances than any other country in Europe, Along the

FORCED LANDING CAUSES DEATH OF MONTREAL PILOT

William McKenzie, 44, Killed Three Miles East of Belleville Monday Afternoon

Attempting to bring his low wing monoplane to a forced landing in a pasture field three miles east of Belleville, William McKenzie, age 44, of 756 Lexington Ave., Montreal, was instantly killed Monday afternoon.

The crash was witnessed by section men of the Canadian Pacific Railways who saw the plan circle the field once and coming in from the north to land barely cleared telegraph wires. One wing of the plane sliced into the ground catapulting the aircraft over and over. Wreckage of the plane was scattered for a distance of 300 feet, while the motor of the craft tore loose and rolled another 300 feet.

A stock broker operating a business both in Montreal and at the Temple building at King and Richmond Streets in Toronto, McKenzie had only purchased the Globe "Swift" plane in August. His log book showed that when he left Montreal he had 101 hours flying time to his credit.

Motor Working Perfectly

Eye witnesses to the crash stated that the plane's motor was working perfectly as the aircraft came in to land and it was believed the pilot had lost his way as result of the low ceiling and was attempting to land until the weather cleared. The undercarriage of the craft was still up when the plane came in to land, it was stated.

"After circling the field once, the plane cleared the telegraph wires at the railroad by only a few feet," stated one witness to the crash. "The pilot came in very fast and as the wing sliced into the ground, the plane turned over and over."

Section men who witnessed the tragedy flagged down a passing motorist who notified provincial police at Belleville with Constables Sam Ervine and Chas. Siple later investigating the crash.

Montreal, Nov. 12 (CP)—William McKenzie 44, killed in an airplane crash at Belleville, yesterday, was in business here as a stockbroker and consultant mining engineer for 15 years. Three years ago he opened an office in Toronto.

He took up flying about eight months ago and was an honorary member of the Toronto Flying Club. Until a few weeks ago he had motored here each weekend to visit his wife and three sons. Then he took to flying here for the weekend visits.

Mr. McKenzie, born in Dumbarton, Scotland, was graduated as a marine engineer from the Royal Technical College, Glasgow, and after coming to Canada took a mining engineer's degree.

ESCAPES WHILE CELL IS BEING CLEANED

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 12 (AP)—The National Bureau of Invevstigation disclosed today that Renee de Loffre, one of nine persons arrested earlier this month for allegedly plotting to overthrow the Venezuelan government, had escaped from custody. The announcement said that an attendant had released de Loffre from his cell while it was being cleaned and that he had escaped from the building by sliding down a pole placed against the outside wall by an accomplice.

Says Britain Sees No Reason To Abandon Plan to Sweep Corfu Channel Free of Mines

London, Nov. 12 —(Reuters)—Britain sees no reason to abandon the decision to sweep mines from the Corfu Channel of Albania, which was communicated to the Albanian government in a note Nov. 10, it was learned authoritatively here today. Albania has warned Britain that any attempt to clear Albanian territorial waters will be regarded as a "premiditated violation of Albanian sovereignty."

Britain, it was understood, has been assigned the task of sweeping the Corfu Channel by the Mediterranean zone board which supervises mine clearance and on which are represented the Big Four powers as well as Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey as an observer.

This decision has been ratified by the central board composed of the Big Four powers alone.

The course which it to be swept by Britain has been defined by international agreement so that it appears that a conflict with the Albanian injunction that her territorial waters are not to be swept could arise if there were some doubt about the width of the agreed channel.

Report From Belgrade.

Belgrade, Nov. 12 —(Reuters) —The Albanian government has warned Britain that any attempt by the Royal Navy to clear Albanian territorial waters of mines will be regarded as a "premeditated violation fo Albanian sovereignty," according to information from the Albanian legation in Belgrade, quoted by the Yugoslav news agency today.

The Albanian legation stated that on Nov. 10 the British government, through the Albanian legation in Belgrade, sent a note to the Albanian government to the effect that Britain would proceed to clear the mines in the Corfu Straits Nov. 12.

On instructions from its government, the Albanian legation here informed the British embassy that it protests against the unilateral decision of the British government with regard to Albanian territorial waters in these straits, the statement added.

The Albanian government asked the British government to limit its operations to clearing that part of the straits not forming part of Albanian territorial waters.

RENTALS TO STAY AT SAME LEVELS SAYS CHAIRMAN

Inflation in This Category More Feared By Canadians Than Any Other

Ottawa, Nov. 12. (CP)—Rentals—an inflation field Prices Board officials say is more feared by Canadians than any other—will stay at their present level, Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, said in a nation-wide broadcast last night.

Speaking in the fourth of a series of broadcast designed to inform the Canadian public on the present control situation, Mr. Gordon acknowledged that rentals were more vulnerable to inflation than perhaps any other commodity.

"Under existing conditions of congestion and (housing) shortage," he declared, "any permitted adjustments would almost immediately be reflected in all rented properties."

If controls were abandoned, "not only would rents rise substantially but there would be many thousands of evictions and painful distress in the process."

The twin problem of rental and eviction control had given the Board "more worry than all the other controls put together."

Picturing frankly the prospect if controls were lifted the chairman said:

"I know that without the protection of rental and eviction controls at this time, there would be many thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands, of tenant families forced to move out of their present dwelling place, scrambling with each other for some place to go and bidding rentals up beyond all reason in an effort to find one of the first essentials of life—a roof over their head."

Ceilings Would Have Little Meaning

If landlords were permitted to evict at the end of a tenant's lease, it would be "humanly impossible" to enforce rental ceilings.

"You know what would happen," he added. "The tenant would pay what the landlord asked and keep quiet about it. The ceilings on rents would have little meaning, and inflation would follow. In other words, you may be sure that the tenant will always pay a higher rent if it is within his means at all, rather than face eviction when there is an acute shortage of dwellings."

Many landlords had "a good cases' for special treatment in the matter of rents, Mr. Gordon said. Their costs had gone up and their profit margins had narrowed. The Board had tried to work out special means whereby special cases could be adjusted.

"I say frankly there is no solution which can be applied to meet the great variety of complaints which arise in landlord and tenant relationships."

Some might be handled by special courts set up all over the country, but this step would be impossible "because practically every landlord today would want to have his case heard."

Every effort had been made for five years to recover possession for his own occupancy. But the national interest had made it necessary to suspend these rights.

MILLIONS PAUSE TO HONOR DEAD OF 2 WORLD WARS

Prime Minister King and Governor - General Place Wreaths at Ottawa

(By the Canadian Press)

In Canada, the United States, Britain and the British Commonwealth and in many parts of Europe, millions pused Monday in the job of reconstructing the world to commemorate the men who gave their lives in two world wars.

On the 28th anniversary of the conclusion of the First Great War, Canadians observed a period of silence at 11 a.m., in the various time zones across the Dominion. The Last Post was sounded at cenotaphs and war memorials in cities, towns and villages from coast to coast as relatives and friends recalled the dead of that earlier war and the dead of the Second and greater conflict which ended a brief 15 months ago.

Messages were sent out to the people of Canada from the leaders of the Armed Services. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Viscount Alexander, Governor General, placed wreaths on the cenotaph at Ottawa.

Truman Places Wreath

In the United States President Truman placed a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington Cemetery near Washington and reminded his people in an address of the burden of responsibility placed on them by the war dead.

Britain observed Remembrance Day Saturday, instituting an annual observance of the end of two wars on the Sunday preceding Nov. 11. The King and Princess Elizabeth placed wreaths on the cenotaph in Whitehall and ceremonies were observed at Westminster Abbey and at war memorials throughout the land.

People Wear Poppies

But perhaps more poignant of observances were held in the battle cemeteries of Europe where lie so many of the honored dead.

The people of Holland wore poppies and celebrated Armistice Day for the first time with ceremonies throughout the country. Wreaths were placed on graves in Canadian cemeteries at Groesbeek near Nijmegen, at Almelo and at Bergen-Op-Zoom. The village priest at Groesbeek celebrated mass on an altar erected at the foot of a cross in the Canadian Cemetery mid the graves of 3,000 of the Dominion's fallen.

Placed Flowers

In France and Belgium schoolchildren placed flowers on the graves of the dead and veterans of both wars joined in ceremonies at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris where President Gorges Bidault placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Parades and religious services were held in Belgium.

In Germany and Austria messages were sent out to the occupation troops by their leaders to mark the day. American troops in Berlin held a parade and marked the day as a holiday.

Russia, which concluded a separate peace with the Germans before the Nov. 11 ,1918, end of the First Great War, does not observe Armistice Day.

35 ARE KILLED, EIGHTY INJURED IN FRENCH WRECK

Local Train Smashes Into Rear of Another Train Standing In Station ,Near Paris

Metz, France, Nov. 12—(AP)—At least 35 persons were killed and 80 injured today when an east-bound local train on the Paris-Strasbourg line smashed into the rear of another east-bound local standing in the station of Revigny-Sur-Ornain, 138 miles east of Paris.

Fog blanketing most of Northern France was blamed by rail officials for the accident.

The second train drove into the Revigny station with such force, news agency report said, that all six passenger coaches of the waiting passenger train were smashed, and persons standing on the station platform were killed, along with those in the cars.

Hunters Missing In Sudbury Area

Sudbury, Nov. 12—(CP)—Police today discounted the theory a hunter's stray bullet might have ended the life of Stanley Richards —43-year-old guide missing from his home near Maple Point, Manitoulin Island, for 10 days — and turned to the possibility of foul play.

The fact that a 100-man posse had sought intensively for Richards for the last four days over country with which the men all were familiar led police to believe he had not been felled accidentally.

Meanwhile a second disappearance in this area brought out large search parties today. A hundred and fifty men were estimated scouring the bush for William Griffith, 69, of nearby Gore Bay who left his home early yesterday to hunt deer in the Kagawong swamp area and has not been heard of since. He had told his wife he expected to be home by last night.

A snow-storm last night hampered the search for Richards and Griffith and it was halted before midnight but resumed early today.

Expect Mrs. Dick's Appeal to be Filed During This Week

Hamilton, Nov. 12—(CP)—Notice of appeal of Mrs. Evelyn Dick from her conviction on a murder charge by a supreme court jury Oct. 16 and her sentence of hanging Jan. 7 will be filed at Osgoode Hall in Toronto Wednesday or Thursday, it was learned today.

Mrs. Dick was convicted for the "torso" slaying March 6 of her husband, 40-year-old John Dick, Hamilton street railway employee.

Defence Counsel John J. Sullivan indicated today that the appeal would be based on Trial Judge F. H. Barlow's charge to the jury and the admissibility of certain Crown evidence.

Meanwhile, William Bohozuk and Mrs. Dick's father, Donald MacLean, await trial in January on charges of murder also arising out of the death of Dick.

Surgeons Devise New Way of Doing "Blue Baby" Operation Successfully

Chicago, Nov. 12. (AP)—A new way of performing the operation to have the lives of "blue babies"—introducing a surgical feat previously considered impossible—was announced today by three Northwestern University physicians.

The surgeons for the first time tapped the body's main artery, the great abdominal aorta, which springs from the heart's left chamber and gives rise to all the arteries of the circulatory system.

Physicians said the operation would not benefit all "blue children," who are born with crippled hearts, but would help most to overcome otherwise hopeless invalidism and in some cases prevent death.

Details of the new surgical technique, first performed on a human being (a 21-months-old girl) on two months ago, were announced in the journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. Willis J. Potts, Sidney Smith and Stanley Gibson of Children's Memorial Hospital at the University's medical school.

They said the operation achieves the same result as one originated by Dr. Alfred Blalock and Dr. Helen B. Taussig, who in 1944 performed the first successful operation on a "blue baby" at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

The malformed hearts of "blue babies" cannot pump enough blood to the lungs to pick up the vital oxygen needed by the body. This deficiency results in blue fingernails, purple lips, bluish complexion and, sometimes, death.

In the Blalock-Taussig operation, the physicians said, a lung artery is joined to either of two big arteries near the heart, the subclavian or the innominate. This rechanneling of the blood stream forces blood into the lung artery and on through the lung.

However, using the subclavian artery sometimes results in a little danger to arm circulation and using the innominate artery entails the hazard of an inadequate supply of blood to the brain.

The physicians said that only because of the surgical work pioneered by Drs. Blalock and Taussig "did we have the courage to attempt this new operation."

King is Closely Guarded As He Opens Parliament

5,000 Scotland Yard Police Line Route to the House

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 12 (CP)—The government today renewed its plea for an "effective world government" and drew from opposition leader Winston Churchill the observation that "the world situation has not improved."

Replying to a government motion for the acceptance of the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the new session of parliament, Mr. Churchill said "more than one-third of Europe is held under Soviet control"

"The Soviet military frontier is on the Elbe and it is impossible to forecast what the future and the fate of France will be," the Conservative leader said. "The Russian armies have been maintained in Europe in vast strength and largely on a war footing... The Conservative party cannot accept any responsibility for Potsdam (decisions of the Big Three powers) as matters were taken out of our hands at the vital phase of these talks."

Mr. Churchill said, however, that Foreign Secretary Bevin "has done his best."

It marked the opening of the second parliament since the Labor party took over the reins of government. The glittering ceremony took place amid the most elaborate precautions since the 1939 and 1940 bombings attributed to the Irish Republican Army.

A special watch was being kept for members of the Jewish Extremists Organizations who might have slipped into Britain.

Every policeman and detective Scotland Yard could spare—more than 5,000 all told—mingled with crowds along the route as the King drove from Buckingham Palace to Westminster for the opening ceremony using an Irish State coach built for Queen Victoria.

These are the legislative forecasts for the session in the throne speech read by the King to the members of both houses:

1. "A measure providing for the continuation of the national service from the date when the present traditional scheme comes to an end."
2. "A measure..to bring inland transport service under national ownership and control."
3. "Proposals to deal with compensation and betterment in relation to town and country plan and otherwise to improve the machinery of planning."
4. "A bill..to bring into national ownership the electricy supply industry as a further part of a concerted plan for the coordination of the fuel and power industries."

Deer Smashes Car, Wrecks Garage And Returns to Wild

Straffordville, Nov. 12 (CP) Deer! Deer! Deer!

On his way to form a hunting party in this Elgin County village things ran ahead of schedule for farmer Archie Dennis. While Dennis was driving to pick up his friends a deer raced across the road and collided with his car causing damage estimated at $60.

As compensation farmer Dennis bundled the body of the animal into his car and deposited it in a garage here while he went to notify police.

The law investigated but found no deer. The interior of the garage was wrecked and damage estimated at $250. A broken window showed how the deer, who played possum, escaped. Mr. Dennis said he was glad it wasn't a moose.

No General Increase In or Removal Of Lumber Price Ceiling

Ottawa, Nov. 12 —(CP)— Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, said today in a press release no general increase in the price ceiling on lumber nor removal of price ceilings was "contemplated at the present time."

The release said this decision was reached following conferences with Terrance Flahiff, timber administrator.

Mr. Gordon said information available on the over-all earnings position of the lumber industry had not indicated a need for price adjustments "except possibly in a few instances which are still under review."

He added, however, that it was recognized "some special consideration" might have to be given in the case of millwork and certain lumber products essential to the housing program which are currently scarce.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 12 (CP)—A cool mass of air now covers the entire eastern half of the continent. The disturbance that developed Monday along its leading edge in Kentucky has now moved into Maine and will continue its rapid northeastward motion. Generally cloudy skies still prevail throughout Ontario and Michigan, and will persist in the forecast regions until evening. Temperatures will average several degrees below normal today and will fall to below freezing at many places during the night. A trend to slightly warmer temperatures is anticipated Wednesday.

Surprised by John McLean, Cannifton hunter, while it was browsing in the thick woods near Crooked Creek in the vicinity of Gull Lake, a 450-pound bear swung viciously to the attack before McLean could get his rifle to his shoulder.

His first shot wounded the big bruin but failed to stop it. McLean pumped four more shots into the big animal the last bringing it down dead a few feet away from the hunter.

Later McLean shot a 160-pound deer and today he brought his spoils of the chase to the city. The bear was a female but McLean said that he saw no sign of cubs. He was at a loss to understand why the bear should attack him, as usually these animals evade humans.

ONLY ROUTINE MATTERS ON POLICE BLOTTER

Only routine matters demanded attention by the local police force over the holiday weekend as a number of drunks were apprehended and several motorists were checked for failure to stop at "stop" streets and for speeding in various parts of the city. A Victoria Ave., resident complained of money being taken from milk bottles, while Everett Stewart, city, was arrested on a charge of breaking and entering with theft. He was arrested in connection with a break-in at a Front Street service station some time ago.

Rev. J. W. Houston Receives Call To Renfrew

Rev. John W. Houston, B.A., B.B., minister at Tabernacle United Church, has been called to Trinity-St. Andrew's United Church in Renfrew, and will take up his new duties on January 1st, it has been learned. He will succeed Rev. H. B. Neal, present pastor at Renfrew, who has accepted a call to Lindsay.

No announcement as to an appointment at Tabernacle Church has been made.

Graduate of Toronto University and Victoria University, Mr. Houston came to Belleville from Coppercliff early in the war and one year later was granted leave of absence and entered the chaplain service. In this capacity he served 31 months in Great Britain and on the Continent with the Canadian 2nd Divisional Artillery.

Tweed Potato Club Second in Judging At R. Winter Fair

The Tweed Potato Club, represented by Stewart Elliott and Carl Bateman, won second place in the Dominion judging competition held in connection with the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto this week, it was announced today.

First place winners in the competition went to the Richmond Potato Club of British Columbia comprised of Dorothy Blair and Ralph A. Gilmore.

Canadian Legion, Army And Navy Veterans Commemorate Honor Remembrance Day

Comradeships gained on the battlefields of France, the Lowlands and in the Mediterranean war theatres were renewed and fallen heroes were honored as five hundrd veterans of two wars gathered at the Belleville Armouries Monday evening to attend the Canadian Legion Remembrance Day banquet.

It was a fitting climax for the weekend period of Remembrance Day services in churches and public ceremony at the Cenotaph as toasts to the veterans of both wars were heard while the entire assembly stood in silent tribute to fallen comrades symbolized by a cross of remembrance.

During the two minutes silence a spotlight illuminated the remembrance cross and a vacant banquet place directly in front of the head table. District military and Air Force officers, as well as representatives of the local veterans' organizations, service clubs, and members of parliament sat as guests at the head table.

Comrade Badgley M.C.

Comrade Jack Badgley acted as master of ceremonies for the evening's program which saw Col. H. E. Smith, president of the Belleville Legion give an address of welcome to the hundreds of veterans present, while he also introduced the guests at the head table. The toast to fallen comrades was given by Msgr. Nicholson, while Rev. A. M. Laverty, president Stirling branch of the Canadian Legion said grace.

The toast to veterans of the First World War was proposed by Lieut. Commander Burrows, R.C.N.V.R. who pointed out that these men had fought without the advantages of modern equipment such as used in the last war. In reply Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, D.S.O., urged the veterans of the last war to take full advantages of the services offered by the various veterans' organizations, pointing out that the country owes no one a living, but that the country owes its veterans the right to make a living.

Defeated Best Army

The toast to the veterans of the last war was proposed by Lt.-Col. R. C. Sisler who paid tribute to the men who had fought and beaten what in 1940 was the world's best trained and best equipped army.

In reply R. S. M. Duffy stated that he had seen Canadians in action and when the going was tough they had kept going because they were Canadians. "They were proud they were Canadians, and they were proud because of the record their fathers and uncles had made in the First World War. That more than anything else was what drove them on."

"Canadians did not fight only to beat the enemy," he continued. "They fought to make the world a better place in which to live — and in this we have thus far failed. There are still many people who do not know the meaning of the four freedoms. So let us go forward together. If we do not we have failed our fallen comrades."

Guest Speaker

As guest speaker of the evening Air Commodore A. F. Middleton, commanding officer of No. 1 Air Command at Trenton, referred to the duty of the Canadian Legion and other veterans' organizations in "getting things done for the veterans". In part he stated:

"This is Remembrance Day—a living day—
Built on the lives of those who died—
Fitting to commemorate their sacrifice—Examine our duty to them and those now living because of them.

Colonel John McCrae, I think, gave us inspired direction when he wrote:-

"If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep
Though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields."

"The Canadian Legion within its comradeship has thousands of veterans who have experienced at first hand in two major wars. They know the kind of Canada they fought to preserve. They are accustomed to action. They want help and guidance in making up for lost time.

Principles Outlined

"In its constitution the Canadian Legion states its principles, purposes and objectives clearly, and I commend to all comrades the close examination of these in the light of experience gained in the last seven years.

"The Legion through leadership demonstrated its capacity to get things done—evidence is contained in the achievements:-

(a) Remembrance Day.
(b) Educational program—Canadian Legion educational services.
(c) Auxiliary services—sport—recreation—living centres—personnel counselling—countless endeavours.

Welfare Amongst Ex-Service Men.

"Legion in a position to give leadership now to one of main principles—I quote in part—'While striving for peace, goodwill, and friendship among all nations, will advocate the maintenance in and by Canada of adequate and efficient forces on land, sea, and in the air, for the defence of our country and for the discharge of those obligations which rest upon us by virtue of our partnership in the British Empire.'

And I add—by virtue also of our partnership in the United Nations.

"No one urges the adoption of a national belligerent attitude in undertaking such a task, but our affairs are far from settled, and some very clear and tolerant thinking and demonstration of good citizenship is required by all of us if we are to give more than lip-service to the ideals for which we have fought two major wars in a quarter of a century.

Quotes From Address.

"These thoughts are not solely my own. I would like to quote from an address given by Colonel The Reverend G. G. D. Kilpatrick, D.S.O., made during the ceremonies early in October, connected with the laying of the cornerstone by His Excellency, the Governor-General, at McGill University:

"It must not happen again. Clouds of darkness are still 'round about us. There are unresolved differences, potential causes of war on every hand. In such a world the influence and authority of a great power must be more than moral. It must possess the means and the will to reinforce its judgment in action."

"These are the words of a great soldier-clergyman—a believer in education. He was director of educational services for the army during the war just finished."

Dangers Very Real

"The potential dangers that he draws our attention to are very real. The science of destruction has taken on a devastating and new form, as those who have witnessed the buzz-bomb and the rocket attacks on London, Antwerp, and other large centres in Europe can attest to. It is these devices and others more cunning that our country will have to meet immediately on the outbreak of war, if we again should become involved in an aggressive act by any nation on earth.

"Not again will our Empire be able to huddle behind the British Navy while it holds off the opponent on our five-yard line and contrive an organization for fighting which we hope will ultimately produce victory. We must be able to field a team morally and physically strong enough to make it unprofitable for a potential aggressor to challenge the right to hold the championship gained by two great victories in the last quarter of a century.

Carries Responsibilities

"Canada has demonstrated her right within the Commonwealth framework to her own national citizenship. Such a right carries with it collective and individual responsibilities which we must now actively assume if we are to maintain our position as an individual nation among the nations of the world.

"It means that every one of us must take part in the thinking and community effort of the government of our country which is our right as a democracy, if we are to go forward from here.

"In conclusion, gentlemen, I would now like to commend to your earnest attention one of the avowed principles — that of educating public opinion regarding their national duties, and if I have engendered in the audience a resolve to think about and act upon our many problems facing us now as a result of these wars, I will feel that my privilege in addressing you this evening has really been worthwhile.

"This, I think, is the message which those whose sacrifice we commemorate on this Remembrance Day, 1946, would wish me to convey to you."

Fine Band Concert

The Belleville Municipal Band under the direction of Ross Hunter, provided the musical entertainment for the evening program, one of the highlights of the evening being the premiere playing of the Canadian Legion March. Written by the well-known local composer of musical scores, Mr. Reginald Hinchey, the Legion march Monday evening was played for the first time to a public audience and received a splendid hand from the veterans present. The march is dedicated to all branches of the Canadian Legion in Canada.

In introducing the number L. G. Madden, vice president of the local branch of the Legion, called Mr. Hinchey to the microphone and on behalf of the local organization presented the Legion march composer with a handsome set of door chimes.

As a special musical number the military air "Eyes Front", composed by Mr. Hinchey, was played by Mr. and Mrs. William Grant and daughter on the xylophone with bells and piano accompaniment.

A vote of appreciation to the ladies auxiliary of the Canadian Legion was expressed by Col. Smith. Members of the ladies' organization catered to the banquet.

Fine Banquet Held.

In their spacious club rooms on Front Street, members and officials and a large number of guests of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, Branch No. 201, observed Remembrance Day in a fitting manner.

A delectable banquet was served by members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the branch and some 150 guests sat down to the repast under the chairmanship of President William McKenna. Young and old veterans of both wars mingled one with the other in the observance of the occasion and reminiscences flew thick and fast around the festive board as young and old soldiers once more relived their experiences on many far flung battle fronts.

Sacrifices Not In Vain.

Solemn impressive tribute was paid to the dead as comrades remembered those who gave their all for civilization. Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, of St. Michael's Parish in a brief but eloquent address reminded the veterans of the great sacrifice made by their comrades who lie in Flanders Fields and other parts of the world. He recalled that their sacrifice was not in vain, and they left a message and a challenge to those who came back to pick up the torch of duty and carry on like good soldiers.

President William McKenna formally welcomed the guests and his comrades on behalf of himself and his executive. The evening was spent in social amenities and veterans young and old mingled with good-natured rivalry over their experiences of the past in two world wars.

Honor Roll Dedicated At St. Thomas' With Veterans in Attendance

Against the setting of the traditionally beautiful service of the Church of England and in the reverent hush of silence Major, the Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of St Thomas' Church dedicated the Roll of Honor of members of the parish at an impressive memorial service on Sunday morning.

Be-medalled veterans of two wars stood in solemn tribute to their comrades who had paid the supreme sacrifice as Major Smith, himself a veteran padre impressively unveiled the scroll bearing the names of those of his parish who died for civilization.

Battle flags of famous units of the First World War moved almost imperceptibly as if they, too, remembered.

Removing the large Union Jack that covered the Roll, Major Smith solemnly dedicated it with the words "In the faith of Jesus Christ we stand in silent prayer and in proud and loving memory of those of this parish and community who have laid down their lives for King and Country."

Names Inscribed

Inscribed on the roll were the names, Kenneth Brant, Herbert Collins, Stewart Cooney, Clifford Cook, Stanley Dainard, Earl Day, James Spencer Evans, Jack Fulton, Franklin Howe, Murray Jones, Harold Lloyd, Richard Logie, Francis McCaw, John Mackenzie, Charles Nicholson, Arthur Rushlow, Kenneth Shoener, and John A. C. White.

And in the reverent hush of silent tribute the haunting notes of "Last Post" sounded in the crowded church, played by Jack Fenn. Then the lively reveille brought memory back over the chasm of time. Outside rain drops pattered down on a Remembrance Day strongly reminiscent of the day in 1918 when the war drums ceased on what was believed to be the war to end all wars.

Symbols of Triumph

In simple yet eloquent oratory, Major Smith told the assembled veterans of the city and district that the crosses that stand over the sacred bodies of their comrades on foreign fields were not symbols of grief, but rather of triumph and victory.

"On occasions like this," he said, "we should take the tone of the men themselves and of the spirit of their service. It was not a question of physical courage. We all knew they had that when Death stared them starkly in the face."

"There was the constant sense of worthwhileness of their effort. They knew that. There was no question about it. Men do not throw their lives away for nothing. They knew the purpose of their service and were ever conscious of the trust reposed in them. It was not so much King and Country as it was the sense of confidence in the folks back home."

"They carried this consciousness with them always. They had memories of the rolling hills of Ontario, the broad sweep of the prairies and the slopes of the maritimes."

Recalled Solemn Duties

Major Smith recalled his solemn duties overseas as a padre as "we laid sacred bodies to rest. Those white crosses pointing to Heaven will always be a bit of Canada."

"These things we remember," he said. "Not their bodies so much, but their spirit and the souls of those who died."

No progress or achievement has been made without sacrifice, Major Smith said. "It seems to be God's way. The crosses that stand over the graves of those who died are but symbols of that great cross on which the Son of God died."

The veterans, members of the Belleville branches of the Canadian Legion and Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada paraded from the Armouries shortly before eleven o'clock.

Obituary

MRS. BLANCHE (FULLER) BATEMAN

Mrs. Blanche (Fuller) Bateman, widow of Robert Bateman, died early Tuesday morning at her home, 216 George Street, after a brief illness, and to many friends her death has brought sincere feelings of regret.

The late Mrs. Bateman was born near this city and all her life was passed here. A member of the Church of England, Mrs. Bateman was a faithful parishioner of Christ Church and took much interest in the activities of the Women's organizations in connection with the parish.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Be-fezzed officials and members of the Belleville and District Shrine Club, augmented by high-ranking officers of the Rameses Shrine, Toronto, officially opened their luxuriously-appointed new club house at 51 Highland Avenue on Saturday evening.

Approximately 125 Shriners and guests representative of a cross section of the city's business, industrial and professional life were welcomed by President D. L. Storey of the Belleville Shrine Club, at a sumptuous banquet held in the drawing rooms of the new club.

Imperial Potentate Herbert B. McConnell and his divan of Rameses Temple, Toronto, were the special guests of the evening and paid tribute to the splendid work being done along humanitarian lines by the "baby club" of the Temple, the Belleville Shrine Club.

Potentate McConnell in a brief address to the assemblage congratulated the Belleville club on its achievements in not only securing such a fine building in which to house its activities, but to the work being done for crippled children, tuberculosis prevention and the sale of Christmas seals.

Raise 44 Millions

"The Shrine," he said, "has raised 44 millions of dollars and now has sixteen hospitals which cost a million and a half dollars annually to maintain."

"You have a splendid club in Belleville, one of which you should be justifiably proud," he said. "A few years ago you were just a handful of men and your growth and success in the efforts is indeed a tribute to you. You did it the hard way and I am proud of what you have done. This club is a credit to not only your city but to Shrinedom. I wish we had one like it in Toronto."

Members of the Rameses divan included William C. Baker, Dr. Eugene Montgomery, Dr. Grant Fraser, Madoc; Titchener Smith, Walter Hunter and W. R. Shaw.

Also included in the guest list were members of the Shrine from Kingston, Ottawa, Oshawa, and other large centres.

Past Potentates Present.

Past Potentates of Rameses present included W. G. Reilly and N. F. "Dave" Kelly. The latter in tribute to the efforts of the Belleville Shrine said that the achievements of the club in the short time it has been working speaks volumes for its officers and members. "You have a treasure here," he said, "and I hope you value it. You realize that Shriners are gentlemen. You should guard your portals carefully. You have the opportunity of commanding the esteem and respect of the fellow citizens. It is in your hands now. Guard it carefully."

Past Potentate Reilly also paid tribute to the work being done by the local Shriners. "This lovely building is indeed an achievement of which you might well be proud. You are the baby club of the Temple and that fact makes your achievements all the more outstanding."

He complimented President Storey on his fine spirit of community co-operation. "The fact that you entertained and were entertained by the Knights of Columbus here speaks volumes for your community spirit. That is the way it should be. You are progressing along the right lines."

Tribute to Departed.

Recorder W. R. Shaw paid tribute to those members of the Shrine who died within the past year. "The Black Camel stopped at their tents," he said, paying a glowing eulogy to the late Morley McKenzie, J. B. Boyce and Charles Rollins. "The late Morley McKenzie was the first Canadian Imperial Potentate to hold that position, and he did much to further cement the friendship between Canada and the United States. He was more than an ambassador of good will. The Shrine has lost a magnificent friend."

Of the late Bert Boyce and Charles Rollins, he said briefly but eloquently, "they were men's men."

Stressed Work Being Done

Shrine President Storey in his official welcome to the guests stressed the work being done by the Belleville Shrine Club in this city, county and district. He pointed out what was being accomplished for crippled children and for the prevention of tuberculosis. "The Belleville Club", he said, "had arranged for free X-ray clinics with the government and he hoped that every one in Hastings County will have taken advantage of this service by next year.

"He hoped", he said, "that in the near future the Belleville Shrine Club would be in a position financially to install a camera in the Belleville General Hospital for free use of the public.

Mayor Frank Follwell extended the welcome of the city to the visiting Shriners and also paid verbal tribute to the work being done in and for the community by the Shriners.

President Storey formally presented Shriners Ed. Cherry, of Belleville and John Maher, of Picton with Life memberships. In a surprise gesture Secretary Harvey Stewart of the Belleville Club, then presented President Storey with a Life membership.

President Storey was also presented with a handsome oil painting in recognition of his work and service to the club. Past Potentates Reilly and Kelly were given leather wallets, while other Shrine officials were given suitable gifts.

TELEPHONE SERVICE

This year's outlay of 38 millions is part of our 100 million dollar construction programme planned to the end of next year. Practically every Bell Telephone exchange in Ontario and Quebec will benefit in some important way by the expansion of telephone services between now and 1950.

Local Service

On V-J Day, 92,000 persons were waiting for telephones. New orders were coming in faster than they could be filled. We have connected 140,000 additional telephones since then, yet there are still 75,000 people waiting for service.

Central Exchange Equipment—At present seven out of ten of our telephones are dial. Most of the dollars we are planning to spend on local service will be for dial equipment.

The making of dial equipment, discontinued during the war, started again last year. Enough was built to connect 20,000 additional dial telephones in 1945. That figure will be doubled this year. After that there will be enough to connect 100,000 dial telephones a year.

New central exchange equipment will cost $13,000,000

Local Lines—Cable production will provide two billion feet of wire a year to carry local calls.

New local cables, wires, poles and underground ducts, will cost $22,000,000

Telephones, Inside Wires, Private Switchboards—This year we will receive over 125,000 telephone instruments. The 1947 output will be over 200,000. New telephones, telephone booths, private switchboards and inside wire will cost $28,000,000

Long Distance Service

Out-of-town calls have almost trebled since 1939. We now connect over fifty million Long Distance calls a year.

Long Distance Switchboards—100 Long Distance switchboard "positions" will be built this year. Next year we will install 300 more.

New long distance switchboards will cost $3,000,000

Long Distance Lines—Our underground cable construction will provide stormproof lines all the way from Quebec to Windsor—with similar connections to the United States.

New apparatus to carry twelve telephone conversations at the same time over one pair of wires will be installed between Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and other points. More open wire lines are being erected.

New long distance lines will cost $17,000,000

Land and Buildings

Many of our present buildings will be extended and a number of new buildings erected. New building will cost $11,500,000

Tools and Vehicles

To install this new equipment and look after it we will enlarge our stock of tools, our fleet of motor vehicles and other working equipment.

New tools and vehicles will cost $5,500,000

Total $100,000,000

The overall aim of this $100,000,000 construction programme is to provide the best telephone service at the lowest cost.

TRENTON

Church Parade For Veterans Held

Trenton — Special religious services were held on Sunday in Trenton churches marking the observance of Remembrance Sunday, the second such observance since the close of the Second Great War. On Sunday morning veterans of two wars paraded from College Street School grounds to King Street United Church where the message was delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. D. Martin, M.A., with special music by the choir.

On Monday morning the people of Trenton solemnly observed Remembrance Day when they gathered at Governor Simcoe Park under the sponsorship of the Canadian Legion. Veterans paraded from College Street School grounds to the Cenotaph where a special service was held at 11 o'clock and wreaths were placed in memory of the valiant dead in two wars. The address was delivered by Rev. A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., rector of St. George's Anglican Church. As the bell tolled eleven o'clock a moment's silence was observed, followed by the Last Post and Reveille.

No Damage Reported.

Harold Booth of 156 Ritson Road, Oshawa, driver for Charlton Transport, reported to police that on Friday last he was driving his truck east on Broken Front Road when he was struck by a car which failed to stop following the collision. There was no damage to the transport.

Mason Rigby of 316 Bleecker Ave., Belleville, was struck by a truck driven by Ross Lewis LaMorre of 33 Bay Street and owned by the Spotless Cleaners when he was driving his car west on McCann Street. Rigby's car was damaged on the right front fender.

POINT TRAVERSE

Fishing Gear Being Readied

Point Traverse, Nov. 12—High winds which have been lashing the waters of Lake Ontario into great seas, bring back memories to veteran mariners of the "big blow" of 33 years ago Sat., November 9th, 1913, when the waters of the Great Lakes claimed the loss of 34 ships and 270 lives.

The wind velocity was estimated to have reached well over 70 miles per hour on that fateful day. The shores of the Great Lakes were littered with wreckage, debris and bodies.

Sixty-eight years ago this fall, 1878, sixty-four vessels, mostly sailing schooners, tugs and tows, sought shelter between Timber and the False Duck Islands, out of a south-west and north-west gale that swept Great Lake waters for five consecutive days.

Awaiting Run

Commercial fishermen are placing their fishing gear in readiness for the annual fall run of whitefish, which come into shoal waters to pawn. Fishermen are hoping for favorable weather, which will assist them in their hazardous occupation.

Bounty on Foxes

The opening season on foxes, has brought an influx of hunters into South Marysburgh township, which this year is paying a $2.00 bounty on each fox pelt presented to the proper authorities.

"I'd like 11,506,651* others to hear this"

"No post mortems!" warned Ida, glancing at Ruth. "The game's over. Besides, your husband looks as though he has something on his mind."

"I sure have," said Bill. "Only I'd like the other 11,506,651 Canadians to hear this too. To-day I got hold of some figures that made me proud of the business I'm in. We Canadians now own more than 10 billion dollars worth of life insurance. And payments? During 1945 alone, the companies paid out about 66½ million dollars to widows, children and other beneficiaries. And another 95 million dollars was paid to living policyholders through matured endowments, dividends, disability claims, annuities and cash surrender values. That's what life insurance is doing for us Canadians.

"These life insurance benefits helped to pay off mortgages on homes, start youngsters off to college, settle older people into comfortable retirement. Countless families have thanked their stars for life insurance in time of need. Many, many others who are now building future security through their policies will be glad of it. But I want every living Canadian to realize the importance of Life Insurance."

Every life insurance dollar, while waiting to be paid out to its claimant, is working and growing in the service of the public, creating more jobs and more goods for more Canadians. Of that dollar about 57 cents is now invested in Government bonds, 5 cents is laboring for municipalities, 20 cents is building industries and public utilities from coast to coast, 8 cents is in farm and urban mortgages, another 5 cents is on loan to policy holders, 1½ cents is represented by real estate and 3½ cents is in cash and miscellaneous assets.

Life insurance not only grows in the scope of its protection, year after year, but is continually being employed for socially desirable purposes.

Road Accident Causes

More information relating to human behavior than is at present available, is necessary, says the 1945 report on accidents on the highways and roads of Ontario, issued by the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Highways Department, if vague generalities are to be avoided and the true causes of accidents are to be isolated. In the absence of such information, it is not possible to enumerate the following causes and contributing causes resulting from driver-failure or pedestrian-failure in order of importance.

Excessive speed (failure to make proper allowance for road, road surface, traffic or light conditions and so forth;

Driving on wrong side of road;

Cutting-in or improper driving;

Failing to observe right of way;

Failing to observe proper care at intersections;

Failing to make proper allowance in presence of pedestrian;

Following other vehicles too closely;

Careless backing;

Failure to comply with traffic signals or road signs.

Failure to indicate change of direction by hand signals;

Failure to observe regulations respecting brakes, lights;

Failure to maintain vehicle and equipment in safe and proper operating condition;

Failure to dim headlights;

Braking or swerving without making proper allowance for other traffic;

Losing control (driving too fast, skidding, overloading).

Other causes:—Inattention, aggressiveness, poor judgment, excitability, fatigue, recklessness (chance taking), discourtesy, timidity, impulsiveness, insobriety, confusion, illness, physical or mental defects, lack of experience.

Solemn Observance

Remembrance Day was solemnly marked in many parts of the world as men and women meditated upon the sacrifices which two great struggles in a generation have taken of the whole race of man and in prayer for the attainment of that accord and harmony among peoples that will bring success to the efforts of the United Nations for the achievement of lasting security for all mankind. This earnestness of the anniversary was deeply significant as showing how the people of the globe realized the paramount need of good will and accord in the spirit of human brotherhood. These were the two thoughts of the sacrifices which had been made and the hope eternal which is in men's hearts for a peace that will not be broken.

Though it is twenty-eight years since the Armistice of November 11th, 1918, the heroic dead of the First World War were fresh in the memory of families and communities and the sacrifices of the Second Great War are poignantly felt while the world is striving to stage recovery after the most devastating struggle in all time, bringing vast problems calling for solution and for the sympathetic thought of all men.

In the New World the United States and Canada observed the hallowed time with solemn services of memory for the fallen and with prayer for the guidance of nations and their leaders so that the world's hopes and prayers for harmony through future generations may be attained.

In the British Isles where Sunday was marked as Remembrance Day, His Majesty unveiled the new inscription on the cenotaph in Whitehall, London, on which were added the dates "1939-1945" below the inscription which has been on this memorial to the dead of the war of 1914-1918. In the deeply impressive ceremony the King placed a wreath on the cenotaph, followed by the Princess Elizabeth who likewise brought a memorial wreath while others were placed on behalf of Queen Mary, His Majesty's Governments in the United Kingdom and the Dominions of Burma and India, of the Colonies and Protectorates and of the Royal Navy, Army and Royal Air Force, the Merchant Navy and Fishing Fleets and Civil Defence. Other wreaths were placed by official deputations and the general public.

The great shrine of the faith of the British people, Westminster Abbey, was the scene of a brief service at which the Board of Admiralty, the Army Council and the Air Council were represented, representatives detachments, from the Dominions and Colonies and the British Legion were present.

How deep the need of the enduring peace that will prevent forever such scenes and sufferings and tragedy as two Great Wars have brought is visible on the Continent of Europe. These peoples whose foundations were virtually blasted from under them by war have the earnest thought and aid of the rest of the world as plans are being made for peace terms following the late war and as the great agency of the United Nations is laboring to set up the organization which mankind prays will have all the power and support to maintain peace unbroken and prevent any aggression in the future.

Apple Pie

Apple pie always comes in for notice at the autumn season when the fruit in all its wealth of color and its precious flavor is at its best. A writer in the Minneapolis Star-Journal does not like substitutes in the day of shortage. He says that "some things masquerading under the name these days are crude insults to Aphrodite, to whom the apple was sacred, and remarks:

"Cardboard crusts, of course, are an old dodge. But lately we have come across an imitation filling made—we're certain— of gelatin, cornstarch and cheap perfume. With shortening almost gone from the market , with sugar rationed and with apples worth their weight in shirts, there is reason for a shortage of apple pie.

"But in that case the situation should be faced manfully. Going without is more honest and better for the human race in the long run than accepting cheap substitutes. You might impair the sense of taste of the younger generation and they never would be able to savor the true joy of a real apple pie. Think of a young one growing up and never having known the ambrosial thrill of a deep dish of apple pie, golden and warm from the oven, aromatic as a June flower garden, sweet as a baby's kiss, satisfying as a hearth fire."

Then the writer goes on to tell how to make the crust:

"There are several ways to make crust for an apple pie. Many a housewife has her secret formula and she would as soon tell her age as give away the recipe. Plenty of shortening, however, is always a prime consideration. Butter is good. Lard is better. A combination is all right. In good hands, bacon frying are wonderful. Then add flour, cold water and a bit of salt. Handle gently as a mother with her first-born.

"For filling, almost any sound apple can serve. The variety is partly a matter of where you live and the proper season — McIntosh, Baldwin, Haralson, Greening, Jonathan, Rome Beauty and many more.

"When apples are at their prime, only sugar need be added, and maybe a few dabs of butter. But there are endless variations. That's what makes apple pie so intriguing. Cinnamon or nutmeg. Honey or maple syrup or brown sugar may be the sweetening.

"For eating, never let the pie get cold. Hardly anything can really improve on plain apple pie, though there's no harm in gilding the lily. Sere the pie with tangy but not outlandish cheese, flood it with heavy cream, butter it, heap ice cream on it. Lord, hasten the day."

At present there is considerable demand for mining lands. Many lots in the northern townships have changed hands recently at prices much in advance of what would have been paid three months ago. This is the first sign of a coming boom.

This evening the Lincoln J. Carter's great scenic production "The Fast Mail," will be the attraction at the Carman Opera House. Prices: 25 cents, 35 cents and 50 cents.

Mr. William Kelly, of Marmora, was in town today.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Farrelly of St. Michael's Church went to Kingston today.

Mr. William Smeaton went to Gananoque today.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why is champagne used in ship christenings?

Originally red wine, symbolical of the blood of a sacrifice, was generally used in ship launching ceremonies, but later the sparkling and effervescent white wine known as champagne was substituted, probably because it was rarer, more costly, held in higher esteem and therefore deemed more worthy for such a purpose.

During Prohibition days in the United States water or some other liquid was sometimes used, but conservative seamen opposed the substitution on the ground that it would bring back luck.

"Sponsoring ships" was a man's function until the 19th century when the British Admiralty conceived the idea of having ladies of the court act as sponsors.

The first woman to sponsor a ship launching in the United States was a Miss Watson, of Philadelphia, who broke a bottle of wine and water on the prow of the battleship "Germantown" in 1846.

Now the sponsoring of ships is exclusively a woman's function and this service is performed by queens, wives and daughters of presidents and cabinet officers, female relatives of persons after whom the ship is named, or other women designated by the shipbuilders.

At the launching ceremony the sponsor, as she breaks the bottle of champagne, says, "I christen thee" or "I sponsor thee."

In 1905 the women who had broken bottles over the prows of U. S. Navy vessels formed a philanthropic organization known as the Society of Navy Sponsors, which still holds an annual patriotic service in a Washington church.

Airships are christened by breaking the traditional bottle of champagne on a propeller.

As a rule a ship is between 60 and 70 per cent completed when launched.

So many ships were launched during the Second World War that decorating champagne bottles for christenings became a full time job for one woman in some shipbuilding yards.

Efforts of government agencies and shipbuilding companies to abandon expensive and elaborate launching ceremonies were opposed by many shipyard workers and seamen on the ground that every ship is entitled to such a ceremony before it goes to sea.

It is said that the Japanese started the practice of releasing doves in connection with ship launching ceremonies. Three pigeons were released when the "Chicago" was launched in the United States in 1885.

MARINER'S CLUB BUSY

Georgetown, British Guiana — (CP)—The Port Welfare Officer's report reveals that 14,612 seamen visited the Georgetown Mariner's Club in 1945; of these 3,503 occupied beds in the club. The Welfare Officers visited 275 of the 443 ships which entered the harbor last year, and organized football, cricket and hockey matches and dances for visiting seamen.

5. "Legislation enabling the government to put into effect recommendations of the government-appointed working parties for better organization of the imporant industries."

6. "A bill to establish a new ministry of defence."

7. "A measure giving effect to the 1944 Chicago Convention on international civil aviation."

Get No Respite

After listing several other minor items the Throne Speech warned that "other measures will be laid before you if time permits" indicating that Parliament will get no respite from the heavy pace of the first Labor session.

The speech referred to the heavy burden borne by housewives on account of the shortages "which it will be a constant endeavor in the future to allegiate."

Referring to international and Commonwealth relations the speech spoke of the forthcoming talks among British, United States, Russian, and French ministers on the future Germany. "It will be their aim to establish in Germany conditions which will foster true democracy, guarantee the world against further attempts at world domination, and will remove the financial burden (about £80,000,000—$320,000,000—annually) which the occupation has laid on my people."

By John Dauphinee
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The Throne Speech expressed hope of an early treaty with Austria enabling all occupying forces to be withdrawn.

The speech pledged continued British support for the United Nations and other international bodies aimed at fostering mutual help and understanding among nations — including the forthcoming international trade talks.

HOPE RUSSIA

Today the Foreign Ministers turned over to their deputies and technical experts some of the disputes which have knotted their own discussions and themselves prepared to return to an attack on major differences in the Italian treaty.

Problem of Trieste

This presumably meant they would be face to face again with the problem of Trieste and there was speculation whether they would give Italy and Yugoslavia more time to try to compromise their differences or themselves seek a final settlement in line with earlier decisions to internationalize the troubled area.

But the speeches of all three foreign ministers to the Press Association last night disclosed that one of the great concerns is the problem of disarmament.

Some authorities suggested that Mr. Molotov had shown a highly conciliatory attitude toward the American proposition for an international inspection to safeguard arms cut against violations, even though the official Soviet view to date has been unfavorable.

Ready to Meet

Referring to his own proposals of two weeks ago for an immediate start of disarmament by the United Nations assembly, he welcomed the fact that the United States had "met the proposal" and said that for its part the Soviet delegation here is "also willing to meet" the American delegation on the issue.

To this he added his expressed confidence that the Russian and American propositions "can be harmonized." Although he did not specifically refer to the inspection proposal, it was this assertion that led to renewed hope here that Russia might eventually be willing to come to terms on an effective inspection system—even though it might be a compromise short of what the United States desires.

Shortly before they spoke the three foreign ministers and French Deputy Foreign Minister Couce De Murville had finished their first round of work on peace treaty drafts for Italy, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Finland.

They had spent approximately a week on this and net results in terms of agreement were small. Their main accomplishment appeared to be that they had catalogued their disputes.

Injects New Element

Mr. Bevin injected one new element into the talks yesterday when he asked Mr. Molotov, in effect, whether Russia could not maintain and eventually withdraw her occupation forces in Austria through Germany rather than through Hungary and Romania.

While the peace treaties are supposed to get Soviet troops out of the Balkans, provisions are made in the drafts for those two countries to allow the Russians to maintain their communication lines to Austria. Removal of those troops has been a primary objective of the western powers.

Mr. Bevin said Mr. Molotov had once made a "excellent" suggestion that British and American troops in Austria could be withdrawn through Germany, ending the need for their communications through Italy, and he thought the same might apply to the Soviet forces.

Mr. Molotov said he could not discuss the proposition at yesterday's meeting because he would need the considered advice of military authorities. Mr. Bevin replied that it should be cleared up before the foreign ministers wound up their work here.

VITE AND SLACKER FLESH INCOMPATIBLE

If you have vite you are not personally interested in reducing. If you are interested in any diet or other reducing method, obviously you lack vite.

Just to assure you that all this talk about vite is down to earth hygiene, here are the seven keys to vite, named in the order of their importance, as nearly as I can assay them:

1. Save your teeth
2. Temperance
3. Belly breathing
4. Nudity — sun bathing, air bathing — not nudism.
5. Iodin ration
6. Daily exercise
7. Rejuvenation diet — basic health diet — corrective protective diet.

One with vite not only takes no interest in reducing but doesn't need a tonic of any kind and doesn't want to miss a single hour of the joy of living by benumbing his or her consciousness (and conscience) with alcohol or any other dope.

Better than average nutritional condition may not mean so much to the general run of high school or college graduates but every farmer or grower or stock breeder or dairyman or truck gardener who knows his business will understand what it means.

Although vitamins and minerals are not mentioned in the keys above listed, of course adequate daily rations of vitamins and minerals are provided by the rejuvenation diet and/or by supplementing the ordinary diet with the necessary amounts of the essential vitamins and minerals — B-complex and D, calcium and phosphorus.

This is particularly important for the individual who attempts to reduce. It makes the difference between success and failure, whether the vitamin and mineral intake is kept at optimal level while the caloric intake is reduced or not.

Any one with better than average nutritional condition, or call it vite for short, feels just fine and dandy all the time.

One with vite can carry from five to ten per cent overweight without much effect on or worry about personal appearance — especially one of athenic build or type, heavy-boned, heavy-muscled. The vigorous muscle tone and good posture of such a person makes the 5 ten-pounds of stored fat unnoticeable, whereas on a soft, weak, flabby, poorly nourished frame it is unsightly no matter how you compress or support it.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Lemon Juice

What benefits are there in lemon juice? I was told it is very good. Is this so? Have been taking egg and lemon juice as an egg nog. Is this good? What vitamins does lemon juice contain? (Mrs. A. C.)

Answer—Lemon or lemon juice is good if you like it. Even mixed with egg it is good if you like it. Lemon juice contains vitamin C, as does tomato juice and other fresh fruits or their juices. It is silly to ascribe any extraordinary remedial values to lemon juice other than its value, due to vitamin C, in preventing or curing scurvy, and of course its value, as for orange, grapefruit, lime and other acid fruits, in preventing "acidosis" or maintaining alkalinity of blood and tissues and urine, or rather preventing excessive acidity of urine.

Tonsil Atrocity and Polio

Your article "Tonsillectomy Ups Polio Risk" confuses me. Do you mean a child without tonsils is more apt to get poliomyelitis? A doctor says our six-year-old daughter should have her tonsils removed this fall. (Mrs. M. J. W).

Answer — I have never written such a title. If it was used on anything I wrote it was without my knowledge or consent. I mean that the tonsil atrocity (tonsillectomy) has been closely followed by infection with infantile paralysis in so many instances that good physicians now hesitate to subject a child to the atrocity when poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) is prevalent in the community.

Banquet at Madoc Concludes Season's Work, for Junior Farmers, Homemaking Club

An event of great interest to Hastings County Junior Farmers, Homemaking Club Girls and their parents and friends took place at the Madoc Armouries on Friday evening, November 8th. The occasion marked the conclusion of boys' and girls' club work in the county for the past year and was the first gathering of its kind to be held in any county of Ontario. Approximately 400 people were present to see trophies, medals, pins, spoons, and cash prizes presented to club members in various projects.

Mr. Allen Ketcheson, president of the Hastings County Junior Farmers' Association, was chairman for the evening, and after an address of welcome by Mr. Geo. West, Reeve of Madoc, he called on Mr. H. L. Fair, Agricultural Representative, to take charge of the presentations.

The J. W. Haggerty Championship Trophy in the seed judging competition held at Stirling in March was presented by Mr. Barton Haggerty, to Trevor Davis, who accepted it on behalf of the winner, his brother, Royden Davis. Silver medals won in the same competition were presented by Mr. H. L. Fair to Allen Doney and Jack McFarlen.

The boys who helped plant the county forest in April were commended for their good work by Mr. Erle Denyes, County Clerk.

Wins Warden's Trophy.

The Warden's Trophy, which is the Grand Championship Trophy in livestock judging, was presented by Mr. James A. Nickle, Warden of Hastings, to Douglas Prest, who also received a cheque for $50 to be applied on a trip to Chicago in December. This cheque was presented by Mr. Charles Rush, chairman of the Advisory Agricultural Committee of the Hastings County Council. The P. C. McGuire Trophy was won by John Huffman, who was high man in dairy cattle judging.

Greenview girls' softball team was presented with a trophy and individual crests by Mr. Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. East Hastings, and Mr. J. Fred Wilson, M.L.A. West Hastings, presented a trophy and crests to the Madoc boys' softball team. These teams were the winners at the county field day at Maynooth in July.

Prize Money Given.

Prize money was presented to the members of the Sidney Calf Club and Thurlow Grain Club by Mr. Erle Denyes, secretary of the Belleville Agricultural Society; to the members of Melrose and Read Grain Clubs by Mr. Sid Fitzgerald, president of the Shannonville Agricultural Society; to the Stirling High School Poultry Club by Mr. John Munro, agriculture teacher at the Stirling High School; to the Marmora Swine Club by Mr. Tom Bateman, president of Marmora Agricultural Society; to Madoc Calf Club by Mr. Ben Miller, president of Madoc Agricultural Society; to the Tweed Potato Club by Mr. Harry Coulter, president of Tweed Agricultural Society, and to the Rawdon Calf Club by Mr. H. L. Fair.

Presentations to the members of the Girls' Homemaking Clubs and their leaders were in charge of Miss Elsie M. Irvine, Home Economist, assisted by Mrs. Clarence Holmes, past president of the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario. Jean Bailey was presented with her Provincial Honor Pin by Miss Irvine, who also gave County Honors Pins to Bernice Buchanan, Joyce Wallace, Jean Haggerty, Joan McCurdy and Marion Mitts. Mrs. Holmes presented silver spoons, given by the Junior Farmers to 58 girls and 13 leaders and she spoke in appreciation of the work which these leaders have done with the girls in their communities.

Mr. M. McIntyre Hood, Director of Publicity for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was guest speaker of the evening. He congratulated Mr. Fair, Mr. Burns and Miss Irvine for the work they are doing in Hastings County and said that this county is a leader in club work in the Province of Ontario. Entertainment was provided by a musical team from Toronto.

RINGWORM EPIDEMIC IN ELKHART, INDIANA

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 12 — (AP) —In an effort to control a scalp ringworm epidemic Elkhart health authorities have been placing stocking caps on infected school children and directing them to remain away from school. They learned that some of the uninfected pupils, hoping for a vacation, were offering ringworm victims from 10 to 25 cents for the stocking caps.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE 95.28 PER CENT

Chatham, Nov. 12 — (CP) — Chatham schools set a record for attendance for 1945-46, it was learned yesterday. This city's percentage was 95.28, higher than that of 11 other large Ontario cities.

RemembranceDay Cenotaph Service Most Impressive

Under sullen rain-threatening skies, veterans of the two world wars and a large representative crowd of residents of the city and district paid solemn tribute to Belleville's war dead at a simple yet impressive Remembrance Day service at the Station Street cenotaph yesterday.

Be-medalled, bereted veterans fo World War I mingled with the younger men of the second great conflict around the grey stone pile that is the city's memorial to her fallen sons. Headed by the band of the Salvation Army, the parade swung away from the Armouries shortly after ten-thirty with the blue and white of the Sea Cadets adding a splash of color to the more sombre note of the civilian garb of the marching "old sweats".

Wing Commander the Rev. Grant Sparling was in charge of the brief but impressive service at the cenotaph. In a short address he recalled the sacrifice made by "these men who died that we might live in a better Canada and a better world."

As rain gently spattered down, and to the haunting music of the band of the Salvation Army, the large outdoor congregation of all creeds joined in the familiar hymn "O Valiant Hearts."

One Minute Tribute

Silence fell over the large crowd as the traditional one minute tribute was paid to those who "went west" for civilization. Then the Last Post, played by trumpeters of the Royal Canadian Air Force Bugle Band rang out in the morning air, followed later by Reveille.

Then, announced by the Rev. Sparling, representatives of city organizations and clubs, reverently deposited wreaths to the memory of the fallen.

Wreaths Deposited

Flanked by Messrs. Arthur Galbraith, and Cecil Reid, amputation veterans of the First Great War, Mrs. William Pepper, Chatham Street, deposited the wreath of the Province of Ontario, Mayor Frank Follwell with a guard of honor of his city council paid the city tribute. Other wreaths were deposited by Rotary, Kiwanis, Y's Men and Optimist service clubs; the Retail Merchants' Association; the St. Julien and Argyll Chapters, of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire; the Canadian National Railways Veterans; the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans; the Canadian Legion; the Ladies' Auxiliaries of the Legion and Army, Navy and Air Force branches here; the Belleville Sea Cadet Corps; the Salvation Army while individual wreaths were deposited to the memories of Sergeant Stanley Dainard; WO. Kenneth Shoener and Flight Lieutenant Hanley.

R.S.M. Duffy in Charge

The parade under Regimental Sergeant Major Angus Duffy, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment moved off from the Armouries shortly before eleven o'clock to the music of the Salvation Army Band and the RCAF drum and bugle band from Number 1 Air Command, Trenton. Veterans of the First Great War with the colored divisional and regimental berets swung smartly along rain-spattered streets with their younger comrades of the second great conflict. Women's Auxiliaries of veteran organizations and representatives of city clubs and associations added to the color of the march.

At the conclusion of the service, the parade moved off along Station Street to Front Street and down that thoroughfare to the Armouries where it was dismissed.

MAY SEIZE THOUSANDS OF IDLE MANSIONS

Tokyo, Nov. 12 — (AP) — The government is discussing seizure of thousands of idle mansions in efforts to meet the sharpening housing crisis now that winter nears, the newspaper Asahi said today. The owners have declined to make them available for housing homeless air raid victims and repatriates, it added. Although the Japanese government last June appealed for additional housing, Asahi explained, only 500 of the 20,000 idle mansions were offered for occupancy.

WEDDINGS

GERVAIS—HODGES

A marriage of considerable interest to people in Belleville was solemnized in High Park Presbyterian Church, Toronto, at eight o'clock on the evening of Nov. 9, when Laura Gertrude Hodges became the bride of Wilbert Kline Gervais, with Rev. Mr. Manning officiating.

The bride wore a becoming suit of burgundy wool, with black accessories, and carried a bouquet of cream roses and white baby 'mums. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Thelma Hodges, of this city, wearing a suit of brown wool with matching hat and accessories, and carrying a nosegay of Talisman roses and bronze baby 'mums. The bride's brother, Mr. Warren Hodges, ably performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a reception for about forty guests was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lane, King Street West, after which Mr. and Mrs. Gervais left for a honeymoon in Montreal, Que., returning they will reside in Toronto.

CROMBIE—TAYLOR

Yellow chrysanthemums and palms formed the floral decorations at Grace Presbyterian Church, Calgary, for the marriage at 4.30 p.m. Nov. 2, of Marjory Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Taylor, of Calgary, to John Coldean Crombie, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cripps, of Bradwell, Saskatchewan. The Rev. Dr. Morley officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white lace and net over taffeta. The gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, cap sleeves, full skirt and matching lace mitts. Her waist length veil was held in place by a headdress of heirloom lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white gardenias and white button chrysanthemums, her only ornament being a double strand of pearls.

The bride's attendants were her sister, Mrs. John W. Sargent, of Belleville, Ont., and Mrs. Robert Hill, of Edmonton, Alberta. They were gowned alike in Alice blue bengaline taffeta accented with royal blue accessories. They carried shower bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Crombie left on a motor trip to Banff and Lake Louise. For travelling the bride wore a brown wool frock under a brown seal coat. Her accessories were brown and she wore a green orchid corsage.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

SHANNONVILLE W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church at Shannonville was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Houston, Thursday afternoon, with nineteen ladies present. The President, Mrs. Sam Elliott, welcomed the visitors. The opening exercises consisted of a hymn, The Lord's Prayer, and Scripture read responsively.

During the business period Christmas cards and calendars were offered for sale. The collection was received and dedicated.

The program was in charge of Mrs. S. McFarland, group leader, using the outline suggested in the Missionary Monthly. Mrs. W. D. Robertson gave an interesting report of the Sectional Rally recently held in Cannifton Church, for which she was tendered a hearty vote of appreciation. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Dramatic Arts Plan for Canada To be Launched

Vancouver, Nov. 12. (CP)—A dramatic arts plan for Canada, envisioning a national theatre with the Dominion's stars acting in Canadian plays on Canadian stages is to be launched shortly from Vancouver by an Ontario-born dramatist, herself already a success in Hollywood and New York.

She is Greta Gould—in private life Mrs. Charles L. Welsh—who arrived during the weekend by plane from New York announced her plans and said: "There is no reason why Canada should not become a centre for the creation and dissemination of dramatic arts and have its own national theatre.

Miss Gould has had experience on Broadway with Helen Hayes, Ethel Barrymore, and Thornton Wilder and film roles with Joan Crawford, Irene Dunne and Gregory Peck. She recently completed a writing assignment in the Hollywood production "Carnegie Hall."

Miss Gould realizes the job will be a big one—"formation of a nationally-subsidized theatre can not happen overnight.

"I feel that a Canadian National Theatre to keep Canadians at home and develop their own acting, writing and directional talents is a forceful 'must' in Canada's pattern of future events."

She gave no details of what the first step in the plan might be. She came here in a spirit of "co-operation", nom "dictation".

"It really doesn't matter who turns the wheel just so long as it keeps on turning," she said. "After all, the play's the thing."

Cemetery Concert In Gilead Church

On Wednesday evening, the annual Cemetery Concert was held in Gilead St. Andrew's Church, 5th Concession of Thurlow.

With the church filled to capacity the Rev. Mr. Trumpour acted as chairman for the splendid variety program. The musical part of the program was given by Mr. Carman Dafoe, Carmel; Mrs. Arthur Emerson and daughter, Lola and Mr. Frederick Regensburg, of Moira, Mr. Joe Gow, Plainfield; Rev. Mr. Beazer, of Roslin, and Miss Gladys Beattie, of Belleville. The readings were given by Mr. Frank Windsor, of Cannifton and Miss Cecelia Maloney, of Belleville, while Mr. Ed. Shortt and Mr. Bill Navin in their usual humorous manner entertained with readings, comic skits and songs.

Mr. J. O. Huffman moved a vote of thanks to all those taking part in the program and to a staunch supporter, Mr. Joe Gow, who sold the most tickets. After singing "God Save The King" the ladies served refreshments.

The proceeds at the door amounted to $158.35 while Mr. Henry Ross, of New Brunswick, sent a donation of $20 making the sum total of $178.35.

Veterans Hold Remembrance Day Service, Banquet

Picton, Nov. 12—Remembrance Day was fittingly observed here yesterday. In the morning, a service was held at the armouries followed by a parade to the monument where the Last Post and Reveille were sounded and two minutes' silence observed. A score of poppy wreaths were placed, that of the Ontario Government by Mrs. Thos. Wilkinson whose son, William Campbell, was killed in England while on active service. The address was given by Rev. H. J. Scott. Rev. A. E. McCutcheon presided.

Banquet Held

The annual banquet was held last night in the armouries, 250 enjoying the dinner served by the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary. Lt.-Col. Gerald Allison was toastmaster. The toast to the King was responded to with the National Anthem. S. G. Lockyer led community singing with Frank Bronskill at the piano. James deC. Hepburn, M.P.P., proposed the toast to the Armed Forces, Canada, with response by Col. Fisher, M.B.E., E.D., officer commanding Royal Canadian School of Artillery (A.A.), Picton.

The Canadian Legion was proposed by Warden Earl Brummell with responses by John Guest, President Post 78, and Acting Mayor G. N. McKibbon.

Remembrance Day was observed as a holiday by all local stores.

Pastor E. L. Stagg who has been in charge of Calvary Baptist Church here since April, left on Monday to resume his studies at Hamilton. Mrs. Stagg accompanied him.

Speaking at the Laymen's Association meeting at the parish hall last night, Reg. Fox, recreational director, compared the youth movements of pre-war Germany and in Canada. The former, he said, was based on destructive ideals, the latter on constructive ideals. Hostesses were W. A. Broadbridge, Colin Carter, A. E. Greenside, J. C. Cooper.

A building permit is being sought by H. J. McFarland for construction of a $20,000 storage garage here. Apartments for the company's help will be on the second storey.

Parisians Turn To New Long Straight Jackets

Paris, Nov. 12. (Reuters) — Parisians, preparing to face the challenge of winter, are casting aside the wide, short-pleated skirts and swinging lines of the last year, in favor of straight skirts which reach to two inches below the knee.

Many women are stepping out in barrel-wrap coats. Peg-top dresses, the hobble skirt and Paradise plumes are again invading fashionable Paris drawing rooms.

The new tubular long straight jacket is popular both for town wear and dressy occasions while a smart black dinner ensemble had a hobble skirt. The jacket ending well below the knees was fastened with two large buttons in front. The final touch was added by a small barrel muff and a Paradise pink feather in the bonnet.

Emphasis on the back is a feature of the new Winter styles. Pierre Balmain has caused a minor revolution by fastening his coat at the back. Typical of this style is a loose mustard wool jacket which falls straight to the knees in front with two bands of golden colored fur at the back.

Corduroys in bright and pastel colors are all the rage.

This year, the dress or costume which has not some kind of buckle, button, belt, piece of embroidery or "neckline novelty" will be as rare as a white elephant.

Evening dresses are once again lavishly garnished with stones or fashioned in flowing draperies.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Friend or Relative as Godparent?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is there a general rule to be followed in the selection of a godparent? If so, will you please explain it to me.

2. I should like to ask a dear friend of mine, 26 years of age, to act as godmother to my child, and she has expressed a desire to do this. However, I hesitate because I am uncertain if it is customary to ask a member of the immediate family, in which case, it would be my sister, 16 years of age. What do you advise?

H. S.

1. Usually godparents are chosen from intimate friends rather than from relatives. This is particularly advantageous when the child has comparatively few relatives, the idea being that the godparents add to the child's supply of relatives, both being the child's guardians and protectors in case of future necessity. However, it is not uncommon or incorrect to choose a relative as a god-parent, and this is quite often done when the child has many relatives, devoted relatives who can be called on for advice and help in the event of loss of the parents.

2. Since it is not customary to choose a member of the immediate family to act as godparent, and since it is customary under most circumstances to ask an intimate friend to be godparent, my advice is that you follow your wish and choose your friend.

Introducing a Stepmother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My sister and I are grown children. Our father is getting married again, and we want to know how we should introduce our stepmother. Should we say "my mother," or "my stepmother," or "My stepmother, Mrs. Miller"?

2. And since we are grown children, is it proper for us to call her by her first name.

Tom.

1. Introduce your stepmother as "my stepmother," adding "Mrs. Miller" whenever necessary.

2. Usually the stepmother of a grown daughter or son chooses to be called by her first name. However, you and your sister must not take this privilege for granted. You should talk over this question with your father and perhaps with your stepmother, to find out her preference as to whether you are to call her by her first name or perhaps "Aunt" before her first name.

Shower Gift And Wedding Gift Also?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one is invited to a bridal shower and also to the wedding, are two gifts to be given, or does the shower gift cover both occasions?

M. G.

In most places and under most circumstances a shower present is an "extra present," and a wedding present also is sent to the bride-to-be. The question as to whether a friend would give two presents depends on (1) the custom of the community (2) what she can afford, and (3) how devoted she is to the bride-to-be. If it is a question of the depth of one's pocketbook, usually, the friend gives an inexpensive something as a shower gift and "concentrates" on the wedding present.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' GUILD

Marmora, (Special.) — The monthly meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held in the Parish Hall on Friday evening. The President, Mrs. W. D. Lavender occupied the chair and there was a good attendance. Rev. J. M. Brownlie opened the meeting with prayer. The president, then took occasion to thank the members for the splendid co-operation which marked the holding of the annual chicken supper on October 29. Following confirmation of minutes. Correspondence was considered. This included letters of thanks from the "Save the Children Fund" executive, and from sick members. The treasurer's report was submitted by Miss M. Savage. In touching upon the net receipts from the chicken supper, it was mentioned that they were the highest on record for this annual event. A substantial sum was voted to the church decoration fund. The ladies expressed willingness to do the catering for the prospective Hastings Deanery Association banquet to be held at the end of the month. A nominating committee comprising Mesdames N. A. Kilpatrick, R. G. Winters and J. W. Hickey was appointed to bring in a slate of officers for election at the December meeting. The meeting was closed with prayer by the rector.

Mrs. J. W. Snell, Walton St., Port Hope, writes: "Super Suds is my helper in all my housework and I find it grand for washing clothes. It makes them so soft and white. Another thing, Super Suds is safe. It makes the clothes last longer and my colored things always look fresh. Super Suds gets the dirt out quickly and easily, and never hurts my hands."

Thank you, Mrs. Snell, for your grand letter. You see, Ladies, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power . . . livelier, richer suds, without hard rubbing. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I Think You May Be Able to Win Your Wife Back, "Repentant"

I wish I had space to print the whole of a letter I have received from a man whose selfishness drove his wife to desperation, so that she left him and obtained a legal separation, but who now fully recognizes and freely admits that he was the one at fault and is trying his best to get her to give him another chance. What he tells about the way he went about analyzing himself, and the 15 years of his marriage, in a sincere attempt to face the truth, whatever it might be, and put a finger on the causes of his marital disaster, might well be very helpful indeed to any other man who wants to make an honest attempt to iron out differences between himself and his wife.

Here is the background of this man's problem, some of the conclusions at which he arrived, and the situation in which he now finds himself:

"I had the best wife in the world, but have lost her. She says she doesn't love me any more. It is primarily my own fault. We just got a legal separation by mutual agreement, but at my wife's instigation. I wanted no part of it but she was fed up with me. Ordinarily, she is an excellent sport, but she won't try a reconciliation now, even for the sake of our 12-year-old daughter.

"I was a spoiled brat, I guess, and after getting married, got my own way by talking loudest. My wife, trying to keep peace, kept quiet until the load got too much to carry any longer. On my word, I never realized what was happening. I took my wife's love for granted and apparently didn't do enough to hold it. We got to the point where each felt that the other didn't care. My wife found her own diversions and avoided my company. When we were together we each had a chip on our shoulder. I got angry when I finally saw how she was neglecting me and our home; I didn't know what to think, although I suppose I should have. I let my imagination get the best of me and thought of all kinds of unpleasant things. Finally, I struck her, I am very unhappy to say. That did it."

What that did, also, besides sending the wife off, was to shock this husband into his senses. Now, after spending many bitter hours working the whole thing out in his mind, he has decided that he has finally "grown up emotionally"; that he loves his wife more than ever and always has loved her, and that the only thing he wants in the world is a chance to start all over again.

On her side, the wife won't, as he says, consider the past as "Water over the dam." She feels she "doesn't love him and can't co-operate." He feels that he wants to show her that he can "do a good job of being a real father and loving husband. I contend," he says, "that, because I could learn where I was wrong. I know where the corrections are to be made and that, at this point, we have everything to gain. I am sure she will find that she does love me a bit after time has given her bitterness and fear a chance to wear off, but she either won't believe me or is afraid to trust me, or both. I guarantee to hold up my end but can't do much about it as long as we are apart."

This seems to me a manly and straightforward point of view and I think any wife should be willing to give such a husband another chance. Undoubtedly, as he says himself, she finds it hard to believe that he has changed and is afraid that, if she returns to him and finds things no better after awhile, she will only have to go through a second legal separation. Obviously, her husband understands that it would be hard to gain back her confidence and so, I think, he should be willing to give her time to make the decision to return to him.

What I would suggest is that, instead of constantly urging her to return right now, he begin an intensive courtship all over again. Let him show her in deeds, rather than in words and promises, that he loves her, and puts her ahead of everything else in his life. Let him try to pretend that they are not married yet and that he is trying to win her. With that idea as his guide, he should be able to think of innumerable thoughtful ways of showing his feelings. If he keeps up such a program, patiently, refusing to be discouraged but keeping right on with it even though results seem slow in coming, I believe that, eventually, he will win her back. If, as he says, his wife is usually "an excellent sport," she will want to give him the opportunity that he asks, to make amends.

Good luck to you, "Repentant." I think you deserve to win, and I wish you would let me know how things come out.

Blouse Brief Latest Style

New York (CP)—There's a new gadget on the market that should be a joy to suit-minded gals—the blouse brief, which is a sort of a glorified dickey, made to wear with suits.

What's different about the blouse brief is that it is made in just one size, yet fits all sizes from 10 to 44, through an ingenious biased-bra fit and the device of a row of adjustable snaps on tapes which fasten at the back.

They say it won't twist or ride up, won't pull out of a skirt, and is designed to be worn with an open jacket with complete assurance. It even has shields built in to protect suit linings, though it has no sleeves.

It comes in styles tailored or frou-frou, in fabrics ranging from rayon crepe to crisp organdie or starched linen. Trimmings include delicate laces and dainty cut-out work. Best of all, it's easy to wash and iron, saves time for the busy working girl.

Fashion Flashes

NOT IN MANY YEARS have evening clothes been so handsome. Black crepe makes a handsome evening frock with a curved yoke and cap sleeves of nude pink silk marquisette. The molded bodice is flashed with an intricate design done in silver sequins. Long graceful skirt has low, side, swag drapery.

PICTURE evening frocks are here for sub-debs. Gray chiffon over pink taffeta is used for a long-skirted evening frock, the blouse banded with silver braid at the scooped out neckline. Band of the braid make a snug wide midriff.

CLIMBING UP the color card are the rich vintage wine shades. Rich, claret-red woolen makes the slim skirt of a handsome suit. The tailored tunic jacket is of matching red and white herringbone weave wool. It flares gently below the waistline and the pockets have letterbox flaps. Two rows of three buttons each just below the high closing and at the waist.

BRIGHT AND NEW details lend interest to unfurred dress coats. Fine black woolen makes a fitted coat with deep, burgundy-red velvet for the cuff facings and the one-sided belt. The velvet is used for a cleverly notched under-collar which is topped by a shawl collar of the black woolen.

NOVELTIES that have plenty of practical use are noted this season. One such item is a handsome jacket of red-dyed moleskin nice over a dark suit or with slacks or country skirt. Straight-cut, side-slashed seams lend a Chinese air, as does the narrow stand-up collar. Brass buttons for fastening and for the cuffs of the shirt-waist sleeves. Black shoulder yoke.

Beautiful Bridal Gown

By ALICE ALDEN

CELANESE SATIN, gleaming white, and heavy Venetian lace, conspire gracefully to make the ideal wedding gown for the fortunate fall bride. The lace of the skirt is the perfect complement for the satin underneath it, falling in fluid lines to form a small train. The shoulders are high with a little fullness. Tiny buttons conceal snappers on the lace covered sleeves which come to a point just below the wrist. You will note that gloves are not worn with a sleeve of this type. A tiny petal collar softens the square neckline The classic short veil has a tiara of pearl-embroidered lace.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

HANDS UP, LADY

We like to have our hands white and smooth.

When women flung corset strings over a bedpost and pulled their waists in to eighteen inches; when they fainted at the precise, romantic moment; when they rode in phaetons and carried sunshades, it was their ambition to have hands that were tiny, dimpled and useless looking. They wore gloves that were skin tight, almost impossible to get on. What a change has come since then! We like to have our hands white and smooth, but we can dispense with the Victorian dimples, and we realize that hands that have character look strong and capable.

There's as much difference in hands as there is in faces. Patterns vary. If her hands claim a degree of beauty, a girl is that much to the good. If they bear elements of character, so much the better. With the heavy work that most housewives have to contend with, the poor, hard working mitts need extra attention. No woman wants hers to look old, and that is what hard work and neglect will do to them.

Well-kept hands, with beautifully-cared-for nails, are unquestionably an asset, also an index to the owner's personal habits. Slipshod care will find a woman unprepared for emergencies — a phone call to sit in at a bridge game, a suddenly arranged tea party. No time to rush out for a manicure. She has to give herself a quickie.

We often hear of the aristocratic hand. There is no such thing. Beautiful hands are not confined to any particular class or walk in life. It's just good luck if one is born with long, slender fingers, just as it is luck if a girl has long, slender legs and neat ankles. A bony hand, if not too scrawny, can carry an element of loveliness. The muscular hand of the golf enthusiast or tennis player is attractive. One might say that the most beautiful hand of all is the one that expresses the most capacity, whether of a mental, artistic or useful nature. That means that any smart girl's hands can make the grade.

Cold water absorbs the natural oil of the skin, leaves the hands dry and harsh to the touch, as if they had been exposed to cold winds. The hardworking boss of the domestic works should keep that fact in mind and use her hand lotion freely.

Discolorations, chapped surfaces, callosities, fissures around the nails, and dry and breakable fingernails can all be avoided by the frequent application of one of those quickly-drying hand cosmetics and an oily massage once a week.

Before the creamy manipulations, wash the hands with warm soapy water, using a brush on the knuckles and nails. Rinse with tepid water and dry. If oil is to do its best work, the skin surface should be as dry as a bone.

Lovely Teen Agers In New York Debut

By ARLENE WOLF

There are 32 of these lovely youngsters in the singing and dancing choruses of "Gypsy Lady". Their average age is under 18, and all but one or two are seeing New York for the first time. The youngest, dark-haired ballet dancer Mitzi Frances Gerber, is all of 16, and "not allowed to go out with boys yet." The oldest is a ripe old 21, and very grown up, if you please.

Backstage at "Gypsy Lady" looks and sounds more like a high school club meeting than the sophisticated Great White Way. There's talk of homework — some of the girls are still enrolled in the Professional Children's School in Hollywood, and getting their lessons by mail.

The words "stage door Johnny" provoke a gale of shrieks—"we have to tell them our mothers won't let us go out," the girls giggle.

Five mothers came right along with the troupe from California, where the show first was produced, and where many of the girls live. Most of them are members of the Los Angeles and San Francisco Light Opera Association. The five mothers sort of keep an eye on the whole bunch, but Mitzi's mother explains:

"So far it's been very simple. They're kept so busy with music and dancing lessons and understudy rehearsals that the most they can do is go to a movie."

Mitzi's mother delivers her to the theatre at performance time, and calls for her at curtain time.

How do these youngsters like New York? They love it—with a few reservations. Twenty-year-old Peggy Weaklend, who hails from Portland, Ore., shivered as she stepped into her sheer tulle costume and announced "I'd like to be where there's a little more sunshine." Dorothy Coulter — she's 18—wants to go to college and study music. Mitzi wants to go to Vassar or Smith—she can't quite make up her mind.

NEED for extraneous trimming when magnificent materials are used. So there's no trimming, but much interesting detail, on an evening frock of pure silk taffeta in rich sky blue. Surplice bodice is softly slanted into the backward movement of the fabric. The skirt has low-placed puffed drapery that works into a cluster of folds that spread out in fan shape at the hem.

NO HIDING PLACE

Brisbane, Australia (CP) — Since the start of the year, Queensland State customs officers have seized enough drugs, they estimate, to put to sleep the 350,000 population of this capital city. They have found narcotic drugs hidden in cameras, in tankers' oil wells, in logs, clothing, personal effects and even in false teeth.

TAX CUTS EXPECTED

Wellington, N.Z., (CP) — Substantial cuts in taxation are expected to be announced in the budget to be presented in New Zealand. Finance Minister Nash, who has been engaged in trade discussions in England and America, said before leaving New Zealand that he had to return to present a budget "to win the election."

New Soapless VEL Marvelous For Dishes

by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

Nobody likes doing dishes, but there is now a new product called VEL that certainly makes the inevitable job a whole lot easier and quicker.

UNLIKE SOAP

VEL is not soap—it's a soapless discovery. Its quick-forming foamy suds don't last—they're not meant to. But the CLEAR water remaining in dishpan or sink is the very thing which makes glasses and china sparkle and so quickly cleans the porridge pot and roasting pan . . . the two bugaboos of dishwashing. What is more, dishes washed in VEL and given a quick rinse will dry themselves without streaking. It's amazing how VEL cuts the grease and leaves little if any scum on the sides of your sink. If necessary a tiny sprinkling of dry VEL on the dishcloth, then a quick rub-around, will make the sink or dishpan gleam. And, incidentally, VEL is very kind to the hands.

VERY LITTLE VEL NEEDED

Frankly, at first we were skeptical of VEL for we missed the heavy dishpan suds produced by soap. In error, we added more, but now know that a very little VEL goes a long way . . . and that VEL keeps on cleaning long after the suds dissolve. A teaspoonful or two of VEL is usually plenty in a dishpanful of water. Add a little more for larger sinks or very greasy pans.

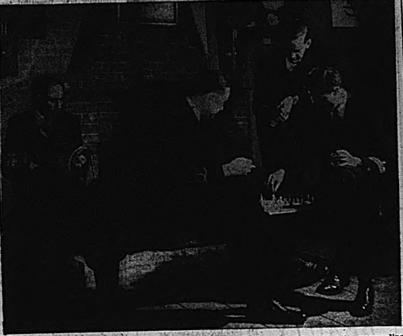
Doors of Famed "Crow's Nest" Remain Open in Peacetime

The "Crow's Nest" (officially named the Seagoing Officers' Club) became internationally known among officers of warships and merchant vessels of the United Nations during the war as a haven of rest and relaxation after hard North Atlantic voyages. Overlooking the harbor of St. John's, Newfoundland, the "Crow's Nest" is being continued by active and retired naval, army and air force officers.



Often the scene of merry parties, the "Crow's Nest," with its shabby but friendly surroundings, was at other times an ideal spot for a quiet game of cribbage or of chess, such as these officers are enjoying.

Of all the plaques, which covered the walls of the Crow's Nest", and brought to mind warships serving on the North Atlantic convoy lanes, none was more famous than that bearing the name of the corvette, H.M.C.S. "Spikenard" which was lost at sea. Here, guarded by the club's wartime mascot, "Sailor," is the Spikenard plaque, which is made from a plank from the clubroom's floor in which the captain of the corvette had driven a spike during an impromptu spike-driving contest. (R.C.N. Photo)

Sea-Going Officers' Club In Newfoundland Still Called "The Crow's Nest"

"The Crow's Nest" lives on.

These words will mean much to thousands of former Canadian naval officers who took part in the Battle of the Atlantic and who found good cheer and comradeship after many a bitter North Atlantic run in the friendly, dingy surroundings of the Sea-Going Officers Club overlooking the harbor of St. John's Newfoundland.

It was known officially during the war as the Sea-Going Officers' Club. Today it is called, officially, the Newfoundland Officer's Club But it's the same place and whenever it is mentioned, it's still "The Crow's Nest."

With the end of the war in Europe, the Sea-Going Officers' Club officially closed its doors in July, 1945. But it wouldn't stay dead.

Retired and active service officers of all three branches of the armed services in Newfoundland quickly got together and re-organized the club.

The famous plaques of ships on the North Atlantic run—many of them laden with memories of tragedy and heroism and of encounters with the enemy and winter storms—were gone, but much remained the same.

The 59 steps from the waterfront street were there, along with the recollection that no one had come to grief through falling down them, despite the wartime blackout and merry evenings.

There were still the grimy walls, the bar with its brass rail and the big, friendly open fireplace. There was still the dark rough floor, with a patched spot that meant a lot to men who had served in the Royal Canadian Navy.

That patch on the floor recalled a night when, as an aftermath of a convivial evening, some of the officers staged a contest to see who could drive a spike into the floor with the least number of blows. The winner was Lieutenant H. Shadforth, commanding officer of the Canadian corvette "Spikenard". Not many days later in the North Atlantic, Lieutenant Shadforth and all his officers were lost when the "Spikenard" was torpedoed.

Back at the Crow's Nest, the boys sawed the winning spike from the floor and mounted it in a brass ring on a plaque that bore the words: "Spikenard — His Spike."

The club was founded in January, 1942, by Rear Admiral R. R. Mainguy, O.B.E., R.C.N., who at that time was Captain "D" (of destroyers and escort vessels), Newfoundland. It was a place for seagoing officers to come ashore, get a hot meal and a drink, meet old friends and form new friendships.

Space for the club, on the fourth floor of a warehouse building overlooking the harbor, was given free of charge for the duration of the war by Colonel Sir Leonard Outerbridge, D.S.O., of St. John's.

One of the original orders, that there were to be no women, was later relaxed on Tuesday evenings, with a pointed hint from Captain "D": "It is to be hoped they will not clutter up the bar."

There were some changes made when the club came under its new management.

Ladies' night is now Friday night, with a possibility that Saturday night may soon be added.

A fire escape has been built at the back of the building from the third floor landing.

The catering (meals are still served at noon and night) is in the hands of ex-Sergeant Jack Kearney, Newfoundland veteran of World War I, and his wife.

Dues are charged at the rate of $1 a month.

Chairs and chesterfields are upholstered in Air Force blue and Army and Air Force decorations share space with Naval decorations inherited from the wardroom at Buckmaster's Field.

The president of the Newfoundland Officer's Club is, suitably enough, Colonel Sir Leonard Outerbridge, and he has extended the rent-free use of the space for another year.

There is one thing that has not changed, members say, and that is the spirit of comradeship which existed there during the war. It's a rule of the club that all visiting Canadian officers will be welcomed as honorary members and, with the traditional hospitality of the Newfoundlanders in mind, that is sufficient assurance of a hearty welcome to the old Crow's Nest.

R.A.F. TWINS

Luton, England (CP) — New recruits to the R.A.F. are twins — Keith and Colin Burton — both born on January 1st., 1928 within ten minutes of each other. The twins are identical in looks and officers usually greet them with the question: "Which one are you?"

Canada Pays Grateful Tribute To Her Dead of 2 Great Wars

By GEORGE RONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 12 (CP)— Canada paid quiet, thoughtful tribute Monday to her dead of two Great Wars.

It was the 28th anniversary of the end of the First Great War—of a day on which all war was to have ceased. It was Nov. 11, 1946—less than 15 months since a longer, more terrible Second Great War ended abruptly with the use of the atomic bomb whose fearsomeness has tempered the joy of the hard-won peace.

Throughout the Dominion Canadians wore the blood-red poppy, symbol of the first war. And the bright, new ribbons denoting services of remembrance. At 11 a.m. there was the brief silence which years ago became a treasured part of the Canadian life.

Hundreds of bugles sounded the last post. Uniformed men marched and blind and disabled veterans listened as Canada again expressed its heartfelt Remembrance Day tribute. Thousands relived their memories of Ortona and Ypres, of Submarine-infested convoy lanes and 1,000-plane bombing raids, of Caen and Vimy and Nijmegen.

But as wreaths were placed on cenotaphs across the country —as in the national ceremony on Parliament Hill here—Remembrance Day had assumed new meaning, more than at Nov. 11 last year or five years or 15 years ago.

Wartime Leaders Speak

It meant far more than a special tribute to heroes who paid "the supreme sacrifice." It meant so much more that it perhaps was not expressed adequately in words.

Wartime leaders of Canada's three services spoke of the significance of Remembrance Day as a day of respect and challenge.

Admiral Percy Nelles, former Chief of Naval Staff:—

"The Navy will always observe Remembrance Day with a warm feeling for the friends who parted company before the work could be finished. If they had lived we would have their help today and the loss is greater than perhaps we know.

"Their heavy price for peace must not be lost a third time by neglect to remember the aims they held."

"Let us who are left live in peace, not falling behind the advance post they took in war, or words will have no meaning."

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, former Canadian army commander:—

"To each one of us, Remembrance Day has its special significance.

"To me it is not—and never has been—a day of sorrow but an occasion of inspiration, of pride, of renewed resolve. It brings back memories of those with whom I served who gave their lives that others might better live.

"I somehow believe that those comrades of other years would have wished that such should be their continuing influence."

Chief of Air Staff

Air Marshal Robert Leckie, Chief of Air Staff:—

"This day of remembrance brings to all Canadians—civilians and service people alike— deep and mixed feelings. First, there is our feeling of sorrow for the scores of thousands of our men and women who gave their lives that we might live in a world at peace, in freedom and decency. And second, there is our burning pride in the valor they showed.

"I would not try to minimize the loss suffered by those relatives of comrades who did not return. But on this day above all, their pride should equal their sorrow.

"It is our duty as a country and as individuals to make sure that our nation, our commonwealth, and our world, can live in peace in future. The dead gave their lives for their country—which meant all to them. Let us remember them on this day."

Most Canadians had similar thoughts today.

Real Peace Uncertain

In every mind was the sobering thought that real peace still is uncertain, that scores of vital decisions for which the Second Great War was fought have not been made. And ringing in people's memories were the still fresh warnings of statesmen, soldiers and scientists that after a third Great War—an atomic war — there might be nothing left of civilization.

In Ottawa the international aspect of Remembrance Day was evident. Viscount Alexander, an Englishman and a soldier, placed a wreath on the cenotaph. Others were placed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King; Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price, Dominion President of the Canadian Legion; Mrs. E. J. McCleery of Ottawa, representing the Motherhood of Canada, whose airman son was killed in 1942; the High Commissioners of countries of the British Commonwealth, and diplomatic and consular representatives of foreign countries.

Canadians took nothing from the honor due the dead of the First Great War when they admitted that it seemed overshadowed by the more recent war. Remembrance Day was all the richer because it meant not only Armistice Day but also VE-Day and VJ-Day.

Melt Down Aircraft For Pre-Fab Houses

London (CP)—Aircraft made during the war from melted down kitchen utensils are themselves being re-melted here and cast into prefabricated houses.

Current output is 489 aluminum "prefabs" weekly with an increase to 1,200 anticipated by next February.

A total of 54,500 are on order by the Government to help meet immediate needs and a quantity will be for export. The present cost £1,364 ($6,456) a unit is expected to fall to £1,000 as production increases.

Houses are bungalow type, with living-room, two bedrooms, kitchen and bathroom. They leave the factories in four fully-equipped sections, and are assembled within an hour on the final site.

Aussie Clubs Liked By Canadian Brides

Sydney, Australia (CP)—Canadian war brides arriving in Australia have found an ideal antidote for homesickness in joining the Canadian Women's Clubs at Sydney and Melbourne.

Founded 10 years ago by Mrs. N. H. McMorran, formerly Dorothy McCusker, Vancouver, who has lived here for 22 years, the Sydney club now has become the get-together centre for Canadian girls new in the ways of his sister Dominion.

Of the new members, Mrs. John Linton Smith was one of the first Canadian brides to arrive in Australia. Formerly Helen Love, Edmonton, she married a member of the R.A.A.F., who now is working with the New South Wales State Housing Commission while studying architecture.

Marguerite Wyght, formerly Marguerite Cowan, Montreal, also was one of the first war brides to arrive in this country. She and a small daughter, Wendy Sue, now have moved to Melbourne where her husband, formerly with the R.A.A.F. Transport Command, has a job with Australian National Airways.

This club first was established as an organization to which newly-arrived Canadians could apply for advice on problems confronting them in settling in a new country. However, when war broke out Mrs. McMorran, assisted by Mrs. Roy Miller, formerly of Stratford, Ont., and St. Catharines, Ont., and with the help of other Canadian women, took charge of one of this city's servicemen's canteens. They also provided entertainment and accommodation for visiting Canadian servicemen.

In 1942 when refugees from the Far East were arrivivng in Australia, the club applied to the Canadian government for funds from the Queen's Canadian Fund, intended originally for bomb victims in England.

A sum of £5,000 ($25,000) was given the Sydney and Melbourne clubs. However in Sydney most of the refugees had been cared for by the time the money arrived, but the club was permitted to use £1,700 to finance the canteen work and establish a therapy hut at the 113th Army General Hospital, Concord, Sydney.

Another part of the money was used to assist the Rawson Institute for Seamen. Books, magazines and phonograph records were supplied. A motor van was presented to the Institute by the Canadian women. Now the van, emblazoned with the Maple Leaf of Canada, is a familiar sight on the streets of Sydney.

"HIFAM" SYSTEM MAY SOON RIVAL FM BROADCASTS

Equally Good Reception, Less Expensive Operating Costs Promised by New Development

By EDGAR SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The alphabet-conscious radio public, accustomed to hearing such terms as CBC, CAB, CBS, NBC, AM and FM bandied about and even reluctantly resigning itself to hearing the experts airily refer to television as TV and facsimile as FX, will shortly have a brand new typographical scramble to cope with.

The newcomer is HIFAM — high frequency amplitude modulation— which will soon be giving frequency modulation brisk competition in the broad and uncharted high frequency-bands of your radio dial, untouched as yet by the most venturesome broadcasting antenna.

Engineers claim that HIFAM, using the same system of transmission as standard broadcasting, will work more satisfactorily than FM and less expensively. An experimental transmitter set up at Bloomington, Ind., with a power of only 200 watts and operating just below the FM band has established the following facts about the new medium:

A satisfactory signal can be delivered in all parts of hilly Bloomington; a low-cost converter can turn any broadcast set into a HIFAM receiver; a combination broadcast and HIFAM set is inexpensive; an FM set can receive the signal; reception is free of static and noise, with the quality high; the system is very stable; there is not the same multipath distortion in hilly country noticeable with FM; HIFAM, needing less space in the ether, requires only a 30-kilocycle channel compared to 200 for FM, meaning that seven such stations could operate where one FM station does; and finally, economical advantages are "far reaching," particularly in smaller communities and rural areas.

A tribute to Canadian radio with specific reference to the CBC's 10th. anniversary is paid in "Voice of Canada," latest release in the National Film Board's "Canada Carries On" series.

The film gives a picture of the CBC's varied activities, including glimpses of such well known artists and organizations as Don Messer and his Islanders, Mart Kenney's orchestra, the French network's top-ranking "Un Home et son Peche (A Man and His Sin)" and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. John Fisher gives the commentary.

Montreal's station CKAC is encouraging its listeners to play Sherlock Holmes. In a bank vault is a slip of paper bearing a man's name. Six times daily the station broadcasts a clue to his identity and invites the radio audience to track him down. First listener to identify him correctly will be presented with a shiny new automobile in a ceremony in front of the station December 21.

Added to radio's powers recently was the ability to stop a transcontinental express. The engineer of a westbound Canadian Pacific Railway spotted two red lights over the rise of a hill just outside of Medicine Hat, Alta., and pulled up quickly to investigate. The signal lights turned out to be attached to the towers of Medicine Hat's Station CHAT transmitter, newly-opened at Dunmore, six miles east of the city.

AWARDED GOLD STAR

Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, currently planning another Antarctic expedition, was presented a gold star in lieu of a 2nd Legion of Merit for outstanding service as confidential adviser to the commander-in-chief, U. Woman Crashes Foreign Office

London, Nov. 12 (CP) — The foreign office, hitherto almost exclusively a male preserve, established precedent by appointing 28-year-old Miss Monica Milne to a permanent administrative post. She may become Britain's first woman ambassador.

Daughter of Surgeon Rear-Admiral Robert Milne, now a Harley Street specialist, Miss Milne worked in the Ministry of Economic Welfare for five years after leaving university.

Although women are rare in foreign office employment there have been others, notably Mary Craig McGeachy, of Sarnia, Ont., who for a time was temporary first secretary at the British Embassy in Washington, and Hon. Mrs. Stewart-Mackenzie, for a time assistant commercial attache in Moscow.

Slain Engineer May Have Been Carrying Plans

Budapest, Nov. 12 (AP)—The slaying of an elderly engineer believed to have been carrying plans of possible military importance remained unsolved today, a week after he was slugged in compartment No. 13 of an express train and thrown from a window.

Police are questioning other occupants of the carriage in which 61-year-old Alfred Rottmann, Hungarian National travelling for the Ingersoll Rand Company, was riding. Authorities sought to learn the nationality of the person or persons who entered the compartment, beat Rottmann, took all his luggage and hurled him from the window.

Rottmann was believed to be carrying blueprints for Hungarian paents for the precision machinery concern he represented, and police said these plans may have had military value. The documents were believed to have been carried in a small black leather bag which apparently was among the stolen luggage.

SOUTH AFRICANS SENDING FRUIT TO U. K. MARKET

Exports of Grapes, Peaches, Pears and Plums Barely Exceed Half Pre-War Tonnage

Capetown, Nov. 12 (CP) —The South African Deciduous Fruit Board has announced ratification of arrangements for the resumption of exports of grapes, pears, plums and peaches to the United Kingdom in the 1946-47 season. Total cubic tonnage exported will represent little more than half of South Africa's pre-war exports.

The arrangements for the resumption of fruit exports came as the result of negotiations between the chairman and general manager of the board with the British food ministry.

The board's statement announced that the arrangements called for the export of approximately 1,500,000 boxes of grapes, 320,000 cases of pears, 400,000 double-layer cases of plums and 200,00 single-layer trays of peaches—a total of 53,000 cubic tons in all.

A deputation headed by Rev. William Nico, moderator of the Dutch Reformed Church, and Dr. A. J. Stals, M.P., sought permission from Acting Prime Minister J. J. Hofmeyr to allow a number of orphaned children from European countries to enter the Union.

Mr. Hofmeyr told the deputation that the request had been considered by Premier Smuts before he left South Africa to attend the United Nations General Assembly and that he would consult Mr. Smuts again on his return. An application to the interior department by the same deputation earlier this year was refused.

A Port Elizabethan businessman has estimated that it will take until 1950 for the world's soap supply to be restored to the 1938 level. Supplies of bar soap in the eastern part of Cape Province now are down to 25 per cent of the pre-war figure and allocations of washing soap have been reduced to 30 per cent.

Eleven Persons Die in Colorado Due to Storm

Denver, Nov. 12 (AP) — Air planes were grounded, highways coated with snow and ice and 11 persons dead as snow continued its week-long pelting of Colorado.

Airlines hoped for a break in the weather to resume operations today, but the weather bureau said the snow would continue until tonight. The snow extended northward into Wyoming, but was heaviest in eastern Colorado.

The death toll from the week-long blizzard climbed to 11 with the deaths of two persons in south central Colorado. Frank Tomsick, 62, was found frozen to death 250 yards from his ranch home near Canyon City. Manuel Valdez, a sheepherder, was given up for dead when a two-day search brought no trace of him.

brings Pepper to your kitchen

HUNDREDS of men and women are employed in the pepper gardens of Sumatra. Thousands of men are employed in the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries of Canada.

The Dutch East Indies cannot begin to use all the black pepper produced there. In normal times, hundreds of tons of it come to Canada.

Less than three per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is consumed in Canada. The rest is exported, and the money received helps to pay for pepper and other products necessary to good living in Canada. Canada cannot keep on importing from other lands unless Canadian goods are exported.

Canadian Nickel, sold abroad, does two things. It helps pay for products we need which are not produced in Canada. It brings money to Canada to pay the wages of thousands of Canadians employed in the Canadian Nickel industry.

By constantly expanding the use of Nickel at home and abroad, the Canadian Nickel industry brings additional benefits to Canada and Canadians.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Methodical Habits of White Pelican Amuses Observers on Prairies

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto, Nov. 12 (CP) — First sight of white pelicans winging over Lost Mountain Lake, or resting on sandspits there, is described by Miss Lillian Payne of the Royal Ontario Museum staff as the greatest thrill of many birding expeditions on a recent visit to Saskatchewan.

Eastern Canadians usually associate these birds with tropic realm sand express surprise that they are not uncommon in the Prairies, and on rare occasions venture farther east. These spectacular creatures of a size approximating that of the swans and whooping cranes, are pure white with black wings. Their 12-inch bills and enormous yellow gular pouches with a capacity of several quarts, have been celebrated in a popular jingle.

Tuheir flight back and forth from prairie lakes and feeding hunts is so solemn and ponderous — a beat, beat, beat, followed by a lengthy aerial coasting—that it amuses as well as fascinates the observer. And their flight formation is always orderly; long evenly spaced lines, on perfect V's.

As the pelicans alight on some bare sandbar one by one, the pose assumed by the first will be copied meticulously by the others. Dinner time finds them lined up like soldiers and the coarse fish they eat is digested in unison. Even the beat of their wings, the length of the coasting interludes, are synchronized.

There is no more beautiful sight on the western plains of Canada, and northward to Great Slave Lake, than a flight of these great white birds with jet-black pinions, with their big golden throat pouches, solemnly beating their way above some azure lake, and with the golden glow of sunset upon them.

Unfortunately, thoughtless trophy hunters, and gunners who cannot resist such an easy target, have reduced the white pelican population radically, and were it not for provincial and federal sanctuaries provided for them beside prairie lakes, the species would soon share the fate of the dodo and the passenger pigeon.

Wasp "Burglar Alarm"

An Ontario apple grower was escorting a friend through his orchard. So bountiful was the crop that even the tips of propped branches touched the ground with the weight of apples, and all the trees had a tent-like appearance.

"This variety is called 'Lobo,' a hybrid originated from McIntosh Red and Snow." And the grower grinned as he warned his friend not to venture too near to the tree indicated.

"It is one of my specials and it is equipped with a burglar alarm." It was indeed. In the centre of the tree, wasps had built an enormous nest. Perhaps because of the acute housing shortage, the wasps were still hustling about adding more compartments as the man watched.

Evacuated By Nazis Norwegians Return

London, Nov. 12 (CP) — Former residents are steadily returning to the provinces of Finnmark and North Troms in northern Norway from which they were evacuated in 1944 by the Germans, who then destroyed nearly all buildings, the Norwegian Information Service said in a report of reconstruction debates in the Norwegian parliament.

Peder Holt, minister of reconstruction, said that by the end of this year about 80 per cent of the population of Finnmark will have returned and almost 100 per cent of the population of North Troms, which meant jobs and houses would have been found for 65,000.

He said 1,500 provisional homes had been built last year, against a program of 1,000, and this year it was hoped to complete 3,400. Quays, warehouses and other buildings also had to be rebuilt. Apart from Finnmark and North Troms, the Norwegian government planned to build 13,000 new homes and 2,000 damaged ones during 1946.

HOUSING PROJECT

Sheffield, England (CP) — Homeless ex-servicemen and their families have turned derelict army huts on a disused anti-aircraft site at Shirecliffe into a "squatters' colony."

Fashion Favors Leopard Skin

Johannesburg (CP)—There is a bit of a boom in leopard skins according to a leading Johannesburg furrier and natives who are fortunate enough to catch one of the animals in a trap are getting nearly 10 times the price they got before the war from traders and furriers.

Furriers say native trappers are making small fortunes and that "there are 10 buyers for every skin. There are plenty of leopards still at large that could be made into fur coats—but too many women are waiting for them."

Before the war a good leopard-skin coat cost £20 ($480). Today the same coat costs £300. The skins are used not only for coats, but widely for hats, bags, capes and so on. The best variety of leopard skin comes from Italian Somaliland, but the South African variety stands high on the list. From six to eight skins are needed for a full-sized coat.

South Africa makes her own coats from leopards trapped in Bechuanaland and Rhodesia, and also from the skins of the leopard-cat, a wild-cat whose markings are very similar to the larger animal. The leopard-cat makes a better, softer coat than the leopard itself.

South African women are also wearing coats made from the skins of jackal—the South African fox. The skins are rather coarser than the European variety, but the silver jackal, attractively marked with black streaks, and with a broad silver stripe down the centre of the back, makes one of the most attractive coats.

INTER-ASIAN CONFERENCE

New Delhi (CP) — An Inter-Asian relations conference is to be held here next spring. The Indian Council of World Affairs, which is convening the conference, has sent invitations to 32 Asiatic countries. The conference will discuss such questions as economic co-operation, industrial development, labor welfare and women's rights.

GIFT FOR CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge, England (CP) — China has presented Cambridge University with 1,800 volumes of ancient Chinese literature, including 1,120 volumes of the Taoist Canon, said to be the only source for scientific study of the Taoist religion.

EVERYONE SMILES AT CLUB SESSIONS

Regina, Nov. 12 (CP)— The pledge to smile will be taken this month by girls in candle-lit rooms from Victoria, B.C., to Toronto.

In initiation ceremonies of Stagette clubs which have rececntly begun their club year, there will be an attempt to be serious during this part of the ceremony. But as in former years it is possible there will be a giggle or two.

The Stagettes, a national association of bachelor girls with headquarters this year at Vancouver, have four other clubs in British Columbia, five in Alberta, ten in Saskatchewan, one in Winnipeg and one in Toronto.

Main purpose of the clubs is as a "benevolent" organization, which was the aim of the first of the stagette clubs formed at Saskatoon in 1932.

Today the national effort of the association is to help clothe and feed the 500 bombed-out children of the Maidstone Street School of the Shoreditch district of London.

The individual clubs send parcels of clothing — mostly new— and food regularly. An indication of the extent of this effort is indicated by the sum of $300 spent last year by the Regina chapter on this scheme.

Fill Membership Gaps

But the clubs also have their social functions. Most organize a series of public dances during the club year and use the proceeds for local charitable work.

Here the girls are looking forward to a big initiation ceremony. Ten new members are expected to replace ten former members who have tied the marital knot during the summer recess. Marriage brings banishment from active membership but retention of all privileges except voting.

The initiates must be over 20 years of age. But apart from that there are no restrictions outside of a normal "blackball" clause. Membership, however, is limited to 25 a club.

If practices of previous years is followed Reginans will be treated to a free show on initiation night.

Miss Telfer recalled her own initiation when she was forced to pull a fellow inductee around the city streets in a small cart. Selling club book-matches on street corners was another method of testing the new member's ability to "take it."

But efforts to help Maidstone school authorities will be redoubled as members read letters received from teachers who tell of using "blackout" material as pyjamas.

And the letter of thanks from the youngster who told how he had saved one of the candies from a parcel of food and had taken it home.

"I don't know how I did it, it was so tempting," he wrote.

WAGNER, KROL SHARE SCORING HONORS IN RACE

Half Backs of Montreal and Toronto Argos Score 65 Points Each in Season

Toronto, Nov. 12 (CP)—As befits the two major scoring cogs in the two football machines which wound up the scheduled season in a first-place tie in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union standings, Joe (King) Krol of Toronto Argonauts and Virgil Wagner shared the eastern Canada—and the Big Four—individual scoring championship this season with 65 points apiece over the 18-game schedule.

But the final scoring statistics, compiled by The Canadian Press and announced last night, show that the rival halfbacks were overshadowed by three other players from the standpoint of scoring averages.

Halfback Don Toms of Hamilton Wildcats, who won the scoring championship in the Ontario Rugby Football Union which wound up its regular schedule a week earlier, had 60 points in 10 games for an average of six a game, compared with 5.4 for Krol and Wagner. Toms stood third in the eastern totals.

Ken Charlton of Ottawa Rough Riders, who stood third to Krol and Wagner in the Big Four, also had a six-a-game average. He finished the season with a flourish Saturday, scoring 21 points to bring his total for nine games to 54.

Big Bob McFarlane, versatile halfback of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, won the intercollegiate senior scoring title with 29 points in five games, for an average of just under six a game.

Wagner, imported from the United States this season, led the east in total touchdowns with 13. Krol got the most single points—11. Ches. McCane of the Alouettes who finished fourth in the Big Four with 50 points, had the most converts—21. He also led in field goals, with nine.

Montreal, Nov. 12 (CP)— If Dick Irvin looked a trifle smug after his Montreal Canadiens beat Chicago last Thursday, you could hardly blame him. Conny Smythe just had finished saying the silver-thatched, erstwhile Leafian coach wouldn't take a chance on youth, but Dick came right up with a trump in the shape of Leo Gravelle.

Called up from Montreal Royals as a replacement for the ailing Joe Benoit, the blond speedster turned in a sparkling game for his first big-time effort and scored what eventually proved to be the winning goal.

"That boy's going to get a chance as a regular," quoth Dick as he munched a stalk of celery "and it wouldn't surprise me a bit if he happened to take the rookie award this year. He played with a bad knee tonight, but did you see him go?"

There's going to be plenty of pressure on the youngster but the way he kept ahead of those high-flying Black Hawks, the experts won't be too surprised if he goes places.

Shalom, Sahib

Hannes Schneller, granddaddy of be International Ski Instructors after nearly 40 years at the job, had a word for the feuding skimen when he stopped in Montreal a few days last week.

Skiing isn't static says Schneller, and it wouldn't be a topnotch sport if it were. But people confuse changes in technique with style, he adds, that's why the controversy between the addicts of the parallel technique and the regular schools of instruction.

"Certain basic fundamentals will never change. They remain constant, only the style changes in its presentation."

Irish Revival

Shades of Pere Nicklin and his Moncton Hawks who copped the Allan Cup two years in a row — but it looks a mite like old times down in New Brunswick's railway hub! When the present-day Hawks—a far cry from their illustrious predecessors, be it sadly noted—trampled the opposition Friday night, guess who scored five goals and two assists? None other than that venerable Celt, Sammy McManus.

GEO. POLMANTER LOSES DECISION TO PETE ZADUK

Belleville Boxer Sustains Cut Over Eye in First Round

Toronto, Nov. 12 —(CP)—Just as the 2200 fans were settling down for an evening's boxing last night, the first bout of the night ended. Pete Zaduck of Toronto opened a gash over George Polmanter's eye and the Belleville scrapper dropped the bout by a technical knockout in 1.20 of the initial round.

Two other T. K. O's featured the card: Harry Ramie of Toronto was the victor over George Toller of Brantford in the first round, and Harry Goulding of Oshawa won his bout when Doug Roe of Ottawa failed to answer the bell for the second round.

Other results:

Joey Cardinal, Oshawa decisioned Pete Kolaski, Toronto, five rounds.

Clayton Kenney, Ottawa decisioned Dave Mitchell, Toronto, five rounds.

Sports Roundup

By AL COLLETTI
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 12 — (CP) — Friday night the Garden fight regulars will get their chance to see the much-publicized punch of Elmer (Violent) Ray, whose age is a mystery — he's generally believed to be in his middle 30's . . . but age is not expected to be a handicap for Violent takes on another oldster, Jersey Joe Walcott, the Cinderella man, in a 10-rounder . . . Walcott, whose real name is Arnold Cream, has been a good provider for his six children the last year and a half . . . Also in his middle 30s Jersey Joe will match his cunning against the murderous right hand of Ray who has chalked up an impressive string of ring victories—47 straight, 42 via knockouts . . . . While Walcott passes off his ups and downs and numerous comebacks as the breaks of the game heavyweight Ray attributes his late arrival as a fighter to the fact that his first manager was a school teacher who "taught me nothing minus" . . . Anyway the betting is 6 to 5, take your pick.

Assorted Shorts

Georgie Abrams, the middleweight contender, was born on the original Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918, and that's why his folks gave him the middle name "Freedom" . . . Tennis players Don Budge, and Sidney Wood have opened a dry cleaning establishment in mid-Manhattan . . . from tennis balls to coveralls . . . John Harris, Pittsburgh theatre magnate and owner of the American Hockey League's Pittsburgh Hornets, pioneered the use of safety glass around the rink in 1944 . . . The shatter-proof glass was also used in Buffalo last season and this year the Rangers adopted it in the Garden.

Facts and Figures

Although the Rangers, to the discomfort of the New York fans, have in the past made it a habit of warming the N.H.L. cellar, they have managed to make life somewhat uncomfortable for Bill Durnan, goalie for the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens . . . Big Bill, most effective netminder in the league the last three seasons, has had more trouble with the Bouchermen than any other club in the circuit . . . Playing in 140 games over the three-year-span, Durnan, winner of the Vezina Trophy last season, has allowed 334 goals for an average of 2.38 a game . . . In that period the Rangers opposed his 28 times and notched 76 goals, an average of 2.71 a game . . . Boston's Bruins ran second best against big Bill with 74 followed by Toronto (79), Chicago (59) and Detroit (55).

End of the Line

Goalie Jack McGill, who subbed in the nets for Sugar Jim Henry in two New Haven games last week, was an outstanding combat pilot in the RCAF during the war . . . A holder of the DFC he is the third player of the same name to perform in pro hockey . . . Any day now the Yankees' ball club will have their coaching berths filled with the announcement of the probable appointment of Frankie Crosetti, who served as a utility infielder last season . . . A trio of Bucky Harris, newly-appointed manager, Charley Dressen as No. 1 coach, and Crosetti would give the Yankees one of the shrewdest brain trusts in the baseball business.

Tiny Dwelling Changes Hands

London (CP) — The smallest house in the city—four feet wide, 30 feet long, number 10 Hyde Park Place, Bayswater—is in the news again through a change of ownership.

Over 300 years old and said to be the original of the Darlings' home in "Peter Pan," the peewee property is being sold by Harley Street surgeon J. P. Lockhart-Mummery to the historic Tyburn Convent next door.

Number 10 has its own front door, complete with letter-box, a window above and two rooms, set one above the other. To get from the ground floor to the first, you climb an outside staircase.

Biggest worry is trying to turn round inside the house without getting yourself jammed. There are no sanitary arrangements and only one cold water fawcet.

Sole tenant in recent years was an author, paying one pound ($4) a week. Now the nuns use the house as a lumber store, saying "Maybe we'll make it into a tradesman's entrance later."

No one seems to know exactly why the house was built so small in the first place, but there are various theories.

One is that it was erected by a wealthy family as a home for an aged (and presumably thin) servant another, that it was built by an eccentric, who lived at No. 9, to prove his right of ownership to a passageway.

A third theory attributes it to a miser who, left a legacy on condition that he built himself a residence in London, put up the smallest house possible.

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

Make Tea in a Lobster Pot*?

Sure. . It's no trick if you know how

First, remove the lobster from the pot*, make sure it's up to our high Canadian standards, and put its price in the fisherman's pocket.

Next, cook and can that lobster and all the rest of the day's catch. Pay the cannery employees, and while you're at it don't forget wages and profits for the manufacturers, steel workers, tin importers, miners and railwaymen who produced and delivered the cans. Or the papermakers and printers who turned out the label.

Now ship the canned lobster abroad, helping on the way to meet payrolls of the dock workers, seamen and half a dozen other trades. Sell it in one of the tea-growing countries where Canadian lobster rates tops.

Buy tea with the money you get for the lobster. Bring the tea home and sell it to a wholesaler, who will see that it reaches the grocer's shelves. Maybe it will be the same grocer who sells tea to the fisherman, the cannery worker or the miner.

That doesn't really matter. Tea-money came out of a Canadian lobster-pot*, and paid Canadian wages all along the line.

That's the export business, and the import business too. We're all in them one way or another, and together they spell Canada's well-being. In fact—at least 35 cents of every $1 you get comes from Canada's trade abroad.

What you can do to help your Prosperity

1. Even if you have to wait a while for merchandise you want, by sharing with other nations now you are helping to fill your own pay envelope . . . and also insuring your own job or business for the future years. So be patient and wise, and help Canada take care of her customers across the sea.
2. If you help to make or produce any kind of merchandise, put your best into the work. Then Canadian goods will be asked for, and preferred, in other countries. Your sincerity will pay off in better jobs and higher wages.

* Note to those Maritimers who now call it a trap: we may have taken a little liberty with terms to make this message possible.

● Everyone who buys or sells merchandise abroad makes jobs in Canada. That is why we have a Foreign Trade Service in the Department of Trade and Commerce. It maintains able trade commissioners in 30 countries, and an experienced export and import staff at head office, to collect the most up-to-date information on foreign markets and give practical help to every business that wishes to buy or sell in other countries.

35 cents of every $1.00 you get comes from Canada's Trade Abroad

Selke and Irwin Determined to Make Replacements if Team Shows Sign of Cracking

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

From trite little announcements heralding a new "search for talent" by Montreal Canadiens, it required little reading between the lines today to figure a management working quietly but carefully to forestal the cracks that time wore in other hockey dynasties.

The Stanley Cup champions so far have yet to show the superiority that kept them at the top for three seasons. That can be seen in their third-place position—three points behind Toronto Maple Leafs and one behind Boston's Bruins.

That the management is fully aware of the danger is shown in three recent moves; the elevation of rookies Leo Gravelle and Roger Leger to regular berths; setting of a "talent-stimulant" game for Nov. 19 to try out some new prospects; Manager Frank Selke's trip to the United States in search of a "fast forward or two".

With Selke and the astute Dick Irvin planning the moves, you can be sure they will follow a line least likely to disturb the intricate balance of a championship team.

"Never break up something good until you have something better to replace it," the short, bespectacled Selke said not long ago.

It was a caution imparted to him by Lester Patrick, the former "Grey Fox" of many champion New York Rangers teams and, to show that it was a word well taken, Selke said he remembered it from way back in his hockey career.

Selke had other memories to take with him on the trip he started Saturday night for Hershey, Pa., Buffalo, N.Y., Springfield, Mass., and Philadelphia.

There was the picture of a Maple Leafs team, with Selke as front-official falling from the heights of a Stanley Cup triumph in 1944 to finish out of the playoffs last season.

So, assure as Canadiens were champions last Spring, there will be changes in that lineup if the next game or two shows them needed. The next test will be Wednesday night when the Canadiens take on Rangers tied for last with Chicago Black Hawks at New York.

Norman Burns Still Leading American Loop

New York, Nov. 12 —(AP)— Norm Burns, sharpshooting New Haven right winger still leads the American Hockey league in point getting today but his margin has been cut from six to two points.

Burns gathered only one point during the last week for the Ramblers to bring his total to 22 while Wally Wilson and Don Metz of Pittsburg added four and Tom Burlington of Providence collected eight to increase their output to 20 apiece and tie for second place official statistics show.

Wilson and Tony Bukovitch of Indianapolis have tallied the most goals, 11 each. Johnny Holota of Cleveland and Gerry Courture of Indianapolis who now is with Detroit of the National Hockey League are next with 10 goals, Burns and Burlington have garnered the most assists, 15.

Ralph Almas of Indianapolis remained the loop's top goaltender. The youthful Cap netminder has a 1.92 average of goals-against per game and is tied with Sugar Jim Henry of New Haven for turning in the most shutouts, two.

The League's "bad man" is Eddie Bush, St. Louis Flyer defenceman who has spent 44 minutes in the penalty box.

Two New Teams Resting in Second Spots in Loops

(By The Canadian Press)

As the result of two games in the Ontario Hockey Association last night, one in the junior series and one senior, two new teams were resting in second rung spots in the league standing today.

In the senior group, Hamilton Patricias topped Toronto Staffords 5-3 and moved into a second place tie with their intra-city rivals, the Tigers. In the junior series, Toronto Marlboros picked up an easy four points by whitewashing Hamilton Szabos, 8-0, thus taking over second place by themselves.

Bill Gulck's hat trick put the Pats back into the running after the teams played an even first period. The Pats went ahead in the second and maintained their lead in the final frame. Murray Comfort and Ted Grasser scored the other Hamilton goals while George Mara, Gord Ball and Jimmy McKeown were Toronto's tally makers.

Ray Timgren was Marlies big man with a quintuple scoring effort—two in the first, one in the second and two more in the last stanza. Church with two and Formica with a penalty shot were the other scorers for the Toronto juniors.

Tonight St. Michael's Majors are at St. Catharines and Young Rangers play at Galt.

WHIPPER WATSON MEETS RUSSIAN HERE FRI. NIGHT

What shapes up as the match of the season has been signed for next Friday's main bout at the arena. Manager Walt Gerow has secured Whipper Billy Watson to meet Kola Kwariannl the immense Russian grappler who disposed of the Sheik from Iraq here last week. Kwariannl made such a thorough job of dismantling Emir Badul that it looks as if nothing short of the Whip's calibre could hope to stop him.

The big burly Russian has proved that (although of the older style of wrestler) he certainly knows his grips and holds and being built like a brick wall it is almost impossible to get a convincing hold on him. While it took Watson a long time and two full bouts to prove his superiority over the Arabian Sheik the iron-muscled Russian was in command of his match with Badul from the start. Outside of losing a technical fall as result of not understanding the five-count rule which Referee Maxwell used on him, Kwariannl won his two falls over the little Arab with far more ease than Whipper was able to muster.

One thing is sure however and that is that Billy will not be content to go on the defensive the way Badui did, but will carry the fight to the bald-headed Slav with all his customary dash and zip. It should be a wrestling contest that real mat fans will all want to witness.

Associated Press Poll Rates Army Better Than N.D.

(By The Canadian Press)

Despite their scoreless tie at New York last Saturday, the Army Cadets are still better than Notre Dame Irish, according to the majority vote of 143 sports writers of the United States in as Associated Press poll announced last night at New York. The points tabulation gave 1,300½ for Army and 1,266½ for Notre Dame, a difference of 34 points. The Cadets haven't been beaten in three years.

The writers apparently followed the sports theory, in their voting, that a champion is a champion until defeated, although 36 newsmen gave the two teams a tie for first place. Georgie was the choice for third college team and University of California 4th.

Thomas F. Lockhart of the Eastern United States Hockey League announced at New York last night that 12 American-born hockey players would leave Dec. 14 for an 11-week playing tour of the United Kingdom and Europe.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, U.S. Open champion and Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn., were tied at 216 yesterday for the third-round lead of the Argentine Open golf tournament at Buenos Aires.

The Basketball Association of America made its debut at Madison Square Garden last night when 17,205 New Yorkers saw the Knickerbockers come from behind to administer a 78-68 defeat to Chicago Stags in overtime.

After having bowed to the former English soccer champions 11 times since 1930, the Racing Club De Paris yesterday defeated Arsenal 2-1 at Colombes Stadium, Paris, for the Frenchman's first victory in the long series.

The Norkeeping Club, soccer champions of Sweden, played a one-all tie with Wolverhampton Wanderers in a friendly match yesterday at Wolverhampton, England.

Officials and veteran players of major-league baseball attended the funeral of Thomas D. Daley, 50, coach of the Boston Red Sox for 14 years, at Medford, Mass., yesterday. In his last year as a player, 1932, Daley managed the Toronto Leafs of the International League.

CROWNED CHAMPION

Boston, Nov. 12 (AP)—Jerry Ambler of Portland, Ore., last night was crowned champion in the saddle bronco riding division at the world championship rodeo in Boston Garden, with 2,102 points for seven horses.

Carl Olson of Cardston, Alta., won the final night's event but failed to place among the winners on a cumulative basis.

Billy Taylor Leading Scorer Of the N.H.L.

Montreal, Nov. 12 (CP) — National Hockey League statistics released today showed Billy Taylor of Detroit Red Wings the leading point-maker for the third straight week. The smooth centreiceman has accumulated 16 points—five goals, 11 assists.

Four points behind Taylor is Maurice Richard, Montreal Canadiens, with eight goals and four assists for 12 points. The Rocket leads the league in goals scored while Taylor is tops in the assist department with 11.

A three-way tie for third place has Max and Doug Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks and Roy Conacher of Boston Bruins with nine points. Max has three goals and the same number of assists. Doug has three tallies and six assists and Conacher has five goals and four assists.

Boston's Frankie Brimsek leads the goaltenders with two shutouts to date and he has the best average among the goal guardians with an average of 2.3 goals per game for 10 contests thus far. Bill Durnan is next with an average of 2.33 goals a game in nine fixtures.

Detroit's Hal Jackson leads the bad boys with a total of 21 minutes in the penalty box. Bill Ezinicki of Toronto with 17 minutes and Kenny Reardon of Canadians with 16 minutes are next in line.

Only six points separate the first and last place teams in the current league standings after approximately one-sixth of the wins, three ties, three losses.

WOOD FROM NEW GUINEA

Sydney, Australia (CP) — A government - sponsored survey party is investigating the possibilities of transporting wood for furniture timber from New Guinea to Australia. The wood is in untouched natural pine forests in the Bulolo Valley, where the country is wild and accessible only by a military road.

OUTBREAK AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Nov. 12—(AP)—An outbreak of infant diarrhoea—which doctors say appears similar to one which caused several fatalities among babies of war brides crossing the Atlantic—had claimed its sixth life today and General Hospital reported 65 other cases in isolation wards. Physicians said that so far the disease has appeared only among infants of two months and older.

The Kibitzer

My Aunt Damperpill turns up her nose at me. She thinks anything you enjoy must be a sin. She would not be caught dead with bridge rules. Not even a few easy ones.

So, she remains bored at home. When the weather does not change, she weeps over the monotony. Meantime, the other gals in her group or community have such a good time together.

If necessary, a player could get by in some circles with only one rule. The rule is T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump; the order of choice of bids. It is the backbone of all bridge bidding.

Think I am fooling you? Take any hand you deal. If you do not pass, you bid something. And you bid something when your hand contains enough tricks. So, what do you bid?

You either takeout to your own suit. Or you assist a suit that has been bid by your partner. Or you bid no-trump (no suit). There is nothing else you could do 'n a bridge game. Unless you pass.

You do not have to be brilliant. You do not have to be an expert. You do not have to know a flock of clever stuff. With any hand you get, simply choose your bid in the order suggested by T-A-N.

Look first for a takeout; a biddable suit of your own. With none such, look for support in partner's suit. With neither of these, bid no-trump. That is, if you do not pass.

Take a hand like the one you see here:

♠J 9 8 6
♥A Q 9 7
♣7 2

To make a responding bid you need more than two tricks. To know if you have enough tricks, count one for each high card and one for each short card. A high card is an ace or king or queen.

If your partner opens with one spade, respond with two hearts. On the next round assist spades. Takeout first and assist next. Do that with every hand. And quit worrying.

GREECE PROBABLY

Northern Frontier—bordering on Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia, bands of armed guerillas roam the wild mountain regions creating a continuous series of incidents by raids and skirmishes.

The concensus here is that these incidents are inspired by Greek Communists, fiercely opposed to the present Royalist regime, and that they are aided by fellow Communists from the three bordering countries.

Greeks in the government say it is part of the nerve war to intimidate Greece, the only Balkan country the Communist bloc. Greece desperately fears increases in the Slav pressure from the north.

The Communists, in the appalling economic conditions of the country, are counting on a government failure and working for it. Some observers here believe it may be nip and tuck for anti-Communists forces to unite and maintain he administration.

Prime Minister Constantine Tsaldaris says he thinks he can restore order in the north. But he realizes he must have a reorganized government, broadened by inclusion of middle and moderate leftist parties, before the government can deal effectively with the country's troubles

The return of King George II, following the 4-1 plebiscite in his favor, was expected to produce some stability but so far has not had much effect.

In some respects, it seems to have intensified the conflict between the Royalists in the saddle and the Communists, who boycotted he elections and the plebiscite and who carry on their fight entirely outside the Athens administration. The communists are estimated at about 20 per cen of the electorate.

Britain wants democratic government in Greece, with a broadened cabinet. But Whitehall seems to think there can be created in Greece something like the British Labor Government and does not realize, diplomats say, the extent of the breakup of the middle political groups in Greece.

Fears are expressed that stiff-backed Greek Monarchists may by a harsh policy drive Republicans and Liberals into the communist fold.

A United States policy in Greece seems to many here to be heavy-handed, demonstrated by sending warships into Athens Bay at the time of the Monarchist plebiscite.

As for Russia, the Greeks accept Winston Churchill's word it that the Soviet wants "not war but the fruits of war" in Greece.

Joe Krol Wins Jeff Russell Memorial Trophy

Member of Argonauts Followed Closely by Trawyck and Charlton

Ottawa, Nov. 2. (CP)—When big Joe Krol ambles out onto the gridiron at Montreal next Saturday for the sudden-death Big Four playoff against Montreal Alouettes, he will be wearing the figurative mantle of I.R.F.U. supremacy as winner of the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy.

Announcement that the tall, smooth-running Argonaut had been chosen as holder of the award for this season came last night from D. Wes Brown, I.R.F.U. Secretary, who said Alouettes' negro middle, Herb Trawyck, and Ottawa's running back, Ken Charlton, were "very close" runners-up for the award in that order.

Krol, a Windsor native who played for Hamilton Wildcats of the O.R.F.U. two years ago, tried out for Detroit Lions last season and finally donned the double blue of the Argos after an eligibility controversy just before the final league game in 1945, led the Argos to the 1945 Grey Cup.

This year, Krol's spectacular kicking and passing, as well as his pounging and broken field running, won him the admiration of the 11 officials and five governors of the I.R.F.U. who voted him the Jeff Russel award. Krol finished the regular Big Four season with 65 points—a first-place tie with Virgil Wagner of Montreal Alouettes.

Gruen Trophy Awarded

A new "Rookie" award —The Gruen Trophy—has been allotted to Bernie Brennan, Rough Rider halfback who last year played with St. Patrick's College.

Krol is the sixth Argonaut to win the Jeff Russell trophy, compared with five Ottawa, three Hamilton and two Montreal players since the award was initiated in 1928 in memory of the great Montreal winged Wheeler.

He was chosen from a field of eight players—two nominated by each team—who included, beside Trawyck and Charlton, Royal Copeland and Argonauts, Bert Haight of Rough Riders, Virgil Wagner of Alouettes and Spiro Dellerba and Dick Groom of Hamilton Tigers.

George Fraser, Ottawa coach who won the trophy last season as playing captain of Riders, last night acknowledged Krol's supremacy, describing the sculler as "Toronto's one-man team". During the playing season, Krol collected the bulk of the points Argos made in games with the Riders.

The Gruen award is given to the best Junior coming fresh from Junior into Senior football ranks. The player must have played Junior football either in the previous or the current season.

Kemptville Youngster

Brennan, a Kemptville youngster, was chosen from four players considered eligible. He was "very slightly higher" in the voting then Andy Sokol of Tigers, Mr. Brown said. Other competitors were Tommy Manastersky of Alouettes and Bud Smylie of Argonauts.

Brennan moved into the Rough Rider line-up this year without trouble. He played throughout the season in the left safety position.

1,700 Poles Land, First of 4,000, To Reach Canada

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Nov. 12 — (CP) — Poles who fought beside Canadians in the hard-bitten British 8th Army were among Canadians again today as 1,700 Polish farmer-veterans entrained at Halifax for military depots across the Dominion.

First of the 4,000 Polish immigrants who, under the command of General Anders rolled up and over the death-strewn mountainsides of Italy, the newcomers early today moved slowly through Customs, immigration, medical and police inspection after docking late last night on the Liberty ship Sea Robin.

As the grey transport edged into her berth in a dismal drizzle the Polish veterans, wearing the white Crusader's Cross on the 8th Army flash on their greatcoats, lined the wet rails, but they arrived without fanfare.

J. S. W. Grocolski of Toronto, president of the Canadian Polish Congress who had flown here to welcome the immigrants, was barred from boarding the Sea Robin. However, he spoke to one of the guards which were stationed at each end of the gangplank. Later he said the guard had asked if "this was really Halifax or some small port on the way."

First off the British ship, which took nine days to make the long voyage from Naples, was Chief Officer George Parker.

"They're a jolly good lot," he said and then grinned, "There were many unhappy ones . . . . the ones who were seasick."

Chief Parker said the Poles turned out smartly for parade each day and that the 10 per cent who had a command of English were enthusiastic about prospects of making their homes on farms in Canada.

Sees Little Hope For Career Woman

London, Nov. 12 (CP) — The heyday of the professional woman is passing, for if she marries she has no hope of getting professional help and must forsake her job for her home, says Dr. Charity Taylor, governor of Holloway Prison, London.

She spoke at an anniversary dinner of the suffragette movement. Other speakers included Lady Astor, who said the vote for which the suffragettes had fought had done more to change the social order of Britain than anything else.

AT THE CAPITOL — Bing Crosby, as Father O'Malley, tries to help Joan Carroll with some tricky homework in Leo McCarey's "The Bells of St. Mary's," now showing at the Capitol Theatre. Starring with Crosby is Ingrid Bergman, as the gentle Sister Benedict, head of the school about which the Rainbow Productions' story revolves.

4-Party Leftist Bloc Sweeps Rome Elections

By GEORG BRIA

Rome, Nov. 12 (AP)—A four-party Leftist Bloc swept to power in Rome's municipal elections Sunday almost complete returns showed today, while in Florence victorious Communists hoisted the red flag on the historic Plazzo Vecchio.

Returns from 1,241 of Rome's 1,256 polling sections gave the "Bloc of the People"—A combine of the Communists, Socialist and two minor Leftist parties — 180,215 votes. Guglielmo Giannini's Uomo Qualunque (common man) Movement, often accused by Leftists of having Fascist leanings, made a spectacular showing in Rome where it was virtually assured of second place with 105,741 votes.

The Leftist victory was a staggering blow for Premier De Gasperi's Christian Democratic party, winner of last June's National elections, which trailed in third place with 102,252 votes.

The Florence Communists, who took first place in the municipal balloting with 64,030 votes, raised red flags on many landmarks and rang the famous well of the renaissance capital. The Christian Democrats were second in Florence with 54,010 votes and the Socialists third with 41,377.

Leftist parties also were running ahead in other large cities on the basis of still incomplete returns.

General Duty Nurse

By Lucy Agnes Hancock

CHAPTER 11

More pounding—more flickering of lights and more voices. Margaret Adams called a greeting and Dora Bronson tried to cheer her with bits of news. Miss Sunderlin returned from time to time and once Jim Hallock called softly. He must have been stooping on the fourth floor as his voice sounded close at hand.

"Are you all right, Sally? It shouldn't be long now. I wish I were there with you." And because Sally was tired and bored and close to tears she answered recklessly:

"How I wish you were—"

"Do—do you mean that?" he asked eagerly.

He didn't sound in the least angry and she was unaccountably glad. Then he didn't blame her for any of that humiliating affair.

"What do you think?" she answered.

"I'll be back," he promised and Sally had an idea someone must have summoned him or discovered him kneeling at the elevator wall. If that was true it might be extremely embarrassing. The thought made her smile for a moment and brought a warm feeling to her heart.

Suddenly the lights came on. A voice called: "Try the switch again. It should be all right now."

It was and Sally mounted to the fourth floor, slipped out of the elevator, ran down the corridor to the stairs which she descended and didn't stop until she reached 327. She was somewhat breathless as she entered the room. Linda Craine turned to grin at her, finger on lip. The patient was, apparently, sleeping.

• • •

Sally reached, automatically, for the chart and the floor nurse drew her aside. "So you're out," she teased. "You look as if you had been in a free-for-all. How could you get so mussed up all by yourself? Sure you were quite alone, Sally?"

And because Sally was upset she answered sharply. "Of course I was alone. What do you think?" Then, ashamed of her temper she asked more mildly: "How long has it been?" She looked at her watch. "Only two hours! Heavens, it seemed 10 at least! Can you stay until I go and change, Linda? Believe me, I'll stick to the stairs from now on."

She left the room and hurried over to the Annex where she changed into a fresh uniform. Miss Sunderlin met her as she was preparing to mount the stairs to the third floor and shook her head. "I hope you are none the worse for your experience, Sally. Why not go down to the kitchen and get a cup of coffee?"

"You're very kind, Miss Sunderlin," Sally said, still somewhat stiffly. "I think I've lost enough time as it is. I'm all right, but I had to change." She smiled wryly and hurried away, and so missed Jim Hallock who was coming up from the basement where he had been superintending the fixing of the elevator—or at least offered the mechanics his more or less expert advice. Doctor Richards was with him and the two were laughing at something. Sally heard their voices and quickened her step. Suddenly she recalled the conversation she had carried on with the young interne while sitting on the floor of the elevator and the ready blood rushed to her face. What had she done?

Several days passed during which Sally did little more than nod in answer to Doctor Hallock's greeting. And in the meantime, she had fallen completely in love with her patient, Doctor Jefferson Channing, noted writer, historian, lecturer and teacher, a bachelor aged sixty-two and looking twenty years younger even in his present condition. So it was that one bright morning she was happily bathing the patient, gently massaging his aching back and adjusting pillows at just the proper angle to insure support and the maximum of comfort and even though he submitted to her ministrations submissively, it was quite apparent that he disliked being fussed over.

Doctor Channing was distinguished looking even in his somewhat battered state. A strip of adhesive adorned one temple covering a long jagged gash held together by numerous intricate stitches. His neck, forearm and shoulder were firmly bandaged and his left foot and ankle were in a cast. His white hair, thick and curly, had been brushed into its usual rippling order. Sally loved his hair. His VanDyke beard was trim as always and his keen blue eyes looked out on the hospital ward with avid curiosity. He smiled as his nurse stepped back to view her handiwork.

"Now if I might tie a nice pink ribbon around your curls, Doctor Channing, you would be absolutely perfect," she said, her gray eyes dancing.

"Okay," the great man said amiably. "I don't mind at all and it would be worth it to watch the expressions on the faces of my callers. Go ahead, my dear. Bring on the pink ribbon—or should it be blue to match my eyes?"

"I favor pink, Doctor," Sally said judiciously, "to match the color in your cheeks. But seriously, Doctor Channing, you do look a lot better this morning. Are you quite comfortable? Is there anything you want?"

• • •

"What a question! Of course there are things I want. I want to get out of this bed, for one thing, and I want to walk down Main Street on two good feet, stop at Mike's for my usual morning paper and a brief chat then on home to romp with George and to breakfast—a real breakfast—grapefruit, bacon and eggs with fresh hot rolls and plenty of butter and at least two cups of black coffee. Oh, maybe I should relish a fresh ginger cooky with my second cup of coffee."

"Who's George?"

"The handsomest and ugliest English bull you have ever seen. I can vouch for that. He's really superb."

Sally laughed. "You poor abused man! But honestly, was that your normal breakfast, Doctor? The Chief—"

"Now, now, my dear," he cautioned. "I never said that was my normal breakfast or my usual routine, did I? I said that's the way I want it. Remember? The facts are that I'm a meager breakfaster and seldom walk before breakfast. As for George—well, George belongs to the Never-never Land of my dreams—to the might-have-been if things had been different. When I was a lad I wanted a dog—but—well, I wasn't allowed to have one—in the flesh. So George and I romp in the spirit—just as I feast on things they warn me are bad for me—in the spirit. It's a good way, my dear, and hurts no one."

"You're wonderful!" Sally told him sincerely. "It's a joy to take care of you. I feel I receive far more help from you than I can possibly give you in return—spiritually, I mean." Even he, the great Jefferson Channing, played a game—retreated to an imaginary world when everyday living proved too much for him. For the first time in days Sally experienced complete ease of conscience.

The blue eyes of the man in the bed closed for a moment and Sally wondered if she had been too effusive. But the lips quirked in merriment and he whispered: "Thank you, my dear. I'll save that accolade to tell my sister, Kate. She thinks I'm quite impossible. By the way, have you heard from her this morning?"

Sally shook her head. "Not yet, Doctor Channing. But no doubt she will be along shortly. I only hope all the people who telephoned yesterday won't decide to come en masse. If they do, I shall have to turn them away. Doctor Richards stipulated three visitors—five at most and singly, limiting their calls to fifteen or twenty minutes. But you are so much better this morning—"

"It's all nonsense keeping me isolated like this," the patient protested. "I feel as well as anyone could trussed up like a fowl ready for the oven. I want visitors—I need them. The more the merrier—"

Sally shook a finger at him. "You know better than that, Doctor Channing. Suppose I use my own judgment and sort of sift your callers—let in the ones least likely to excite you?"

The doctor laughed delightedly. "You're good, my dear!"

Sally took the huge florists' box the floor nurse handed her. "Look at these roses, Doctor. Did you ever see such beauties? I'll wager they didn't come from any florist in Lintonville. Those stems?"

The doctor smiled and took the card she held out then frowned darkly. Sally thought she heard him mutter: "Darn the woman!" but as her back was turned she felt she must have been mistaken. Now, however, he thrust the box aside with his good hand and said sharply: "Take them to the poor thing across the hall, Nurse, or to one of the wards." His eyes twinkled for a moment as they met hers. "And if the donor ever calls in person tell her I'm not allowed visitors—or in conference—anything to keep her out."

"How ungallant, Doctor Channing!"

"I know, but—well, Job must have sufered from just such a situation. I have always sympathized with Job. Promise you'll protect me in this, Nurse? Promise!"

Sally laughed merrily. "Who is she, Doctor?" she asked. "Some admirer of yours?"

"Mrs. Cantwell — here's her card. Read the message on it. Of all the stupid, asinine — well, I won't have her coming here. The woman's a pest."

"Now don't get excited, Doctor," Sally soothed, her eyes dancing. "I'll protect you from your female adorers. Are there many of them??"

The man in the bed grinned sheepishly. "You think I'm an idiot, don't you?" he muttered shamefacedly. "But if you knew what I have suffered from—and I'm helpless now—at her mercy—"

"Not while I'm on the job, Doctor Channing," Sally assured him sturdily. "I've seen her picture. I think I should know her and even if she does manage to get in, I shall be here to prevent her from compromising you." She laughed as she said that last and he grinned in response.

Doctor Richards opened the door and entered. He was followed by Miss Sunderlin, the house physician and the two internes. They were making their morning rounds of the hospital and Sally stood at the foot of the bed while the Chief examined the chart and the others, especially the superintendent, eyed the patient with something like awe.

• • •

As the five turned to leave the room young Hallock hung back for a moment and Sally asked softly:

"How is Miss Newell, this morning, Doctor Hallock? Doctor Channing thinks she must have had a bad night as he heard quite a bit of commotion."

"Oh, she'll pull through, no doubt of that," he told her. "She was in considerable pain for a while last night; but we fixed her up so that she got several hours sleep. Looks white and seedy just now but another few days should put her well on the road to recovery. Do you know her?"

Sally shook her head. "No; but Doctor Channing is sending her some flowers—he has so many," she hastened to explain as the young man grinned shrewdly. "He's so generous and — well — wonderful!" she finished impulsively.

"I know — Oh-oh, I've been missed! 'Bye—be seeing you—I hope." He hurried down the corridor to join the others and Sally shut the door. She saw that her patient was watching her with interest and picked up the box of flowers preparatory to taking them across the hall.

"That young man sort of fancies you, doesn't he, Nurse?" he said smiling at her, "Good-looking chap; but take my advice, my dear, and never marry a doctor."

"Don't worry about me, Doctor Channing." Sally told him, her cheeks warm. "I doubt if I shall marry at all, I like my work."

"Don't talk nonsense, my dear," the man rebuked. "Run along with the flowers, but don't stay away too long. I'm lonesome when you're out of the room."

Sally laughed again. "I know. You're afraid of the dragon. I won't be a minute. Be good."

MUSICAL UPSET

Bury, England (CP),—A burglar who wanted music while he worked turned on a musical cigaret-box and awakened the householder. In court Harry Beaumont, 19, was committed for trial on burglary and housebreaking charges.

DROUGHT-STRICKEN SHEEP

Canberra, Australia, (CP) — Drought cut down Australia's sheep population by 29,000,000 in four years up to April, the Australian statistics bureau reported. In 1944, 18,000,000 sheep died and 9,000,000 more in 1945 and early 1946. Australia now uhas 96,396,000 sheep.

Backaches Every Day?
YOU NEED MORE
LIVER BILE

Liver bile helps digest your food and provides your body's natural laxative. Lack of bile causes backaches, headaches, constipation, indigestion, loss of energy. For glowing health tone up your liver and get needed bile with proven Fruit-a-tives. Canada's largest selling liver tablets. Made from fruits and herbs.

FRUIT-A-TIVES LIVER TABLETS

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

BLACKHEADS

Get two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist. Sprinkle on a hot, wet cloth and apply to the face gently. Every blackhead will be dissolved. The one safe, sure and simple way to remove blackheads.

"But I Am Not Sick"

You say, "I'm only tired."

But if you are nervous, irritable and restless, easily tired and lacking in energy you are certainly not well.

So why not do something about it before you have persistent headaches, sciatic or neuralgic pains and other indications of nervous exhaustion.

A few weeks' regular use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food may prove to be exactly what you need to win back pep, energy and good health.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the mineral tonics and Vitamin B_1 which your digestive system is now failing to provide, from the food you eat. This is nature's way of restoring health and vigor.

Why not let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you as it does so many others. More than twice as many people use this medicine than did five years ago. There must be a reason.

SAYS BRITAIN

Gen. Enver Hodja, prime minister of Albania, has sent a telegram to Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, informing him of the British note and of the Albanian reply, the Yugoslav news agency said.

Only 13 days ago Albania demanded United Nations' action against Britain on the ground that the Royal Navy attempted "to provoke incidents" by sending warships into Albanian waters at 1 p.m. on Oct. 22.

This was the day, and approximately the time, when the British destroyers Saumarez and Volage struck mines in the Corfu Channel between the Albanian coast and the northern end of the Greek Island of Corfu with the loss of 43 dead anl 42 injured.

The complaint of U. N. was followed up by a protest note to the British government stating that the alleged incident constituted a breach of Albanian sovereignty.

Las May Albanian coastal batteries fired 10 rounds wide of the British cruisers Orion and Superb which the Albanians said approached their shores without flags.

CHIEF SURGEON OF RUSSIAN FORCES DIES AT 68

Moscow, Nov. 12 (AP)—Col.-Gen. Nikolai Nolovich Burdenko, chief surgeon of Russia's armed forces and a Supreme Soviet Deputy, is dead at 68, it was announced today. He had been a professor, a surgeon in the First Great War and the Russian revolution and an experimenter with operations on the brain and nervous system. He headed a 1944 Soviet commission that, after investigation, blamed the Germans for the Katyn Forest massacre of 11,000 Polish war prisonres.

Heirs of Turkey's Sultan Fight for Vast Estates

(From the London Spectator)

Litigation, little known but romantic in character, affecting vast territories in the Middle East, seems about to enter on a new, and perhaps final, phase.

Known mainly to the outside world for the intricacy of his diplomatic dealings and for the Oriental despotism of his rule, Abdul Hamid II, the last of the great Sultans of Turkey, amassed for himself during his reign one of the biggest fortunes of modern times. History has little god to say for him, and the accumulation of such great wealth by a monarch of his proclivities is bound to excite the envy and suspicions of his detractors. Nevertheless, the gradual acquisition of vast private estates during the 33 years of his Sultanate appears to have been carried out with every precaution to ensure the legality of his ownership, and to protect the rights of his heirs. By the time his power began to wane he was the rightful proprietor, under his private name, of many large estates both in Turkey proper and in Turkey in Europe, as well as nearly one-third of the best agricultural land in Syria, one-seventh in Palestine, some of the most valuable oil territories in Iraq, and unknown possessions in Egypt, together with considerable areas in Greece, Albania and the countries now known as Syrenaica and Tripolitania.

In 1909 Abdul Hamid was deposed by the Young Turk Party, and for the remaining years of his life he was virtually kept as a political prisoner, without rights, and without the power or opportunity of claiming his own. The administration of his properties had fallen into great confusion, and many debts had accumulated.

In 1918 Abdul Hamid died, and his private properties passed automatically to his heirs under Turkish law, which went so far as to decree the extent to which heir participated. The heirs in question included six sons, six daughters and seven widows. The stress of war conditions, the dismemberment of the empire, and the subsequent political convulsion in Turkey itself prevented their heirs from taking any effective steps to asser their rights, which had never been seriously disputed by anyone in Turkey.

Unfortunately for the heirs, many difficulties supervened to delay justice being done to them. Until Turkey and the victorious Powers had settled their affairs no progress could be made, especially as all descendants of Abdul Hamid II had been expelled from Turkey itself.

It was not until the treaty of Lausanne was signed in 1923 between Great Britain, France and Turkey that a real opportunity arose for their claims to be heard. Under that treaty the private rights of all Turkish nationals in the new states were guaranteed to them by the contracting powers, and, in particular, the power of confiscation of property on the part of any government concerned was expressly denied. A mixed arbitral tribunal was set up to hear all disputes arising out of the confusion left by the war and its aftermath.

The heirs immediately hastened to bring their claims before the tribunal. The arguments were complicated, and rested very largely on events before the war. The mixed tribunal thankfully seized on this point and disclaimed jurisdiction, and the heirs were compelled once more to consider how they could assert their rights and obtain justice from a number of different governments, who would undoubtedly regard with some coldness any attempts to secure these vast and wealthy properties.

The first task for the heirs was to organize themselves and other members of the Imperial family who had certain claims. The family was widely scattered. Many of them were suspicious of any attempt to "interfere" with their inheritance, and it was some time before an agreement was reached and the necessary funds for the great fight ahead were obtained. By 1934 all was ready, and an approach was made to the British government, as one of the signatories of the Treaty of Lausanne, to ask for a favorable response to the appeal of the heirs for the protection of their rights as private citizens. The negotiations were protracted into 1936.

The British government found themselves, not for the first time, awkwardly placed. Many of the properties lay interritories which were, or which had in the immediate past been, under their madatory rule. In Iraq alone, which had recently been given complete independence in a form which ignored possible claims on the late Sultan's estates, the whole question of oil-rights would be affected. Not only had the Sultan owned many of the oil-producing areas, but he had acquired working concessions and had spent some £200,000 in developing them. The safest thing to do was to play for time.

In 1937 a test action was brought against the Palestine government to claim an interesting property of about 1,000 acres in the vicinity of Gaza. The case seemed clear. The title deeds still borne the name of Abdul Hamid, and though the Government had registered its claim to the property there was nothing to show any legal grounds for this arbitrary act. Judgment was given in favor of the heirs.

This result came as a shock to the Government, who, as defendants, had relied on a decision in their own favor if the judges disagreed. In spite of the Attorney General's previous undertaking that they would accept the decision of the court, they lodged an apepal on technical grounds against the judgment. The appeal was subsequently taken to the Privy Council, who in 1941 ordered the case to be retried, again purely on technical grounds.

War-time delays and the desperate attempts of the Palestine government to improve their evidence now that they had secured a second chance of presenting it, caused further long delays, and it was not until the end of 1945 that the case was reheard before the Land Court.

The atmosphere was charged with the intense political excitement which was a prelude to the disturbances and terrorism of 1946. Interested parties — and there were many who had serious reasons for being interested both inside and outside Palestine —were busy with propaganda.

The case lasted for several days, and it was a few weeks more before judgment was given. This time it was in favor of the government, resting on the legal validity of a decree by Abdul Hamid's successor in 1909, ostensibly turning over the properties to the administration of the Turkish government.

A climax appeared to have been reached, but while the question of further action was being considered fresh developments took place in Turkey itself. Independently of the main effort, certain of the Sultan's heirs laid claim through the Turkish courts to properties which were part of their inheritance from Abdul Hamid in Turkey. Again there was some difference of opinion between judges, as a result of which a plenary session of the Court of Cassation was called to decide the matter. After full deliberation this court decided by a two-thirds majority that "it has been permitted to transfer to the heirs of Abdul Hamid the properties appearing in his name on the Cadastre, which he had acquired with his own funds."

Whatever arguments lawyers of other countries may produce, it is now clear that the Turkish Supreme Court of Justice has openly acknowledged the heirs' right to property which had not in fact ever passed into the legal possession of the Turkish government. It would therefore seem that the whole position will now have to be reviewed by the governments concerned, most of whom base a substantial portion of their legal code, and especially that part relating to property, on the old Ottoman law.

Meanwhile, the heirs, who for many years have seen a large fortune eluding their grasp, have once more had their hopes revived. The amount of this fortune is almost beyond calculation; but, if the back dues for 25 years are taken into account, the total must exceed £1,000,000,000 sterling.

Want Contest Nation Wide

Vancouver, Nov. 9 (CP)—Ed Kirkpatrick, President of the students council at the University of British Columbia where a co-ed "Dream Girl" contest is to be held Nov. 16, said last night invitations have been sent to eastern Canada universities in an effort to make the contest national and pick a Canadian campus queen.

The contest, started when Saskatchewan students attending U.B.C. said the B.C. co-eds lacked a lot of the charms prairie girls had. A contest was quickly arranged, to be judged on the U.B.C. campus between co-eds from B.C. and the universities of Manitoba and Alberta.

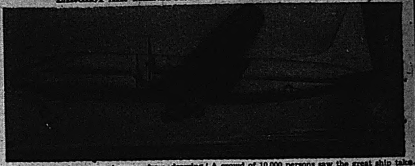
LARGEST AIR TRANSPORT IN THE WORLD TAKES OFF



Climaxing a three-year journey from drawing board to actual flight, the giant Lockheed Constitution, world's largest transport plane, is shown as it took off on its first test flight at Burbank, Calif. A crowd of 10,000 persons saw the great ship take to the air with a crew of five and 15 test engineers. The 92-ton, double-decked monoplane was built for the U. S. Nacy.

Historic Church Built For Poor Plans Centenary

Toronto, Nov. 12 (CP) — More than 100 years ago a Yorkshire clergyman's Londonborn wife, whose identity was not disclosed for nearly half a century, donated £5,000 for the building of an Anglican Church in Upper Canada. The church—the Church of the Holy Trinity in downtown Toronto—now is making preparations to observe the centenary of its consecration which took place on October 27, 1847.

Today, Mary Lambert Swale's dream church, for she died three years before it was completed, stands dwarfed by towering commercial buildings that long ago replaced the bushlands of Toronto's early days. Recently, Rev. John Frank, the rector, inaugurated a campaign to raise $50,000 for the restoration of the historic building.

There were three Anglican churches in Toronto when Mrs. Swale decided to set aside money for the erection of a church "for the poor" in the Ontario capital. At the time her identity was not even known to Bishop C. T. Longley of Ripon, later Archbishop of Canterbury, who advised Rt. Rev. John Strachan, Toronto's first bishop of the donation.

A "Free" Church.

Under Dr. Strachan's supervision, the Church of the Holy Trinity, believed to be the first Anglican Church in Canada to boast free pews, was built and he consecrated it at a time when an epidemic of cholera brought death to nearly 1,000 immigrants and residents of the pioneer city. Opened in the autumn of 1847, the church played a notable part in relief work.

In keeping with the provisions made by its foundress, Holy Trinity down through the years has been known for its work among the under-privileged and Mr. Frank is a consistent campaigner for a new Christian social order. Often termed a "doorstep ministry", he has found his 11 years in the parish just that.

"We fall in for a good deal of what might be termed spectacular work because of our location," Mr. Frank said recently. "Literally thousands have stood on our doorstep with their problems, and it has been our job to use the resources of the church and congregation to deal with those problems as best we can."

Believed Lost in Mountains During Heavy Snow Storm

Burbank, Calif., Nov. 13 (AP)—A Western Air Lines plane, with eight passengers and a crew of three aboard, was missing today—apparently in the snow-swept mountains north of here.

The twin-engine Douglas DC-3, inbound to the terminal here from Salt Lake City, was last reported at 3:24 a.m., P.S.T., when the pilot informed the control tower by radio that he was bringing the craft down for a landing. He was over Newhall, on the upper fringe of the San Fernando Valley, at 9,000 feet.

A Western Air Lines spokesman said at 6.45 a.m.—announcing that the craft was missing—that it had enough gas to remain aloft only until 7 a.m.

Western Air Line's spokesman identified the pilot as Capt. Gerald Miller ,the co-pilot as Ted Mathis and the stewardess as Joan Fauntleroy. Names of the passengers were not immediately available.

A heavy storm has been raging over Southern California for two days, but during the night had abated sufficiently for planes to resume using busy Lockheed Air Terminal here. Snow was reported generally above the 4,000-foot level.

Two Canadian women were aboard, Miss Mary LaBranch, of Edmonton and Mrs. Bridget W. Knight, of (Julian Road), Banff, Alberta. Both boarded the plane at Great Falls, Montana.

Galt Reporter Was Founded Century Ago

By EARL WERSTINE

Galt, Nov. 13. (CP) — The Galt Reporter today celebrated its 100th birthday and its second major anniversary this year. The only daily newspaper in South Waterloo County, it marked 50 years of daily publication October 26.

The Reporter will be the third Ontario daily to pass an important milestone in 1946. The Brockville Recorder was 125 years old Jan. 16 and the Hamilton Spectator published its centennial issue July 15.

The Reporter was not Galt's first newspaper. The Dumfries Courier was founded here in 1844 but failed two years later and Peter Jaffray and his two sons English immigrants who had come to Canada to join the Courier's staff, launched the Galt Reporter and General Advertiser Nov. 13 ,1846. The newspaper has grown up with Galt.

DIES SOON AFTER BIRTH

Hollywood, Nov. 13 — (AP)—A daughter, born prematurely to dancing actress Ann Miller and her husband, Reece Llewellyn Milner, heir to an iron fortune, died yesterday a few hours after birth. The actress whose condition was described as satisfactory, was injured slightly several days ago in an automobile collision.

Frightened by Burglar Alarm

Kitchener, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Sound of a loud burglar alarm apparently drove off thieves who entered the new Dundee Creamery last night at New Dundee, 11 miles south of here. Nothing was reported taken from the plant.

Shortly after the alarm was heard, a car was seen pulling swiftly away from the creamery. Provincial Police reported an entry but nothing missing.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 13—(CP)—Synopsis: Clear skies prevail over the entire United States with the exception of the California coast where rain is falling. Temperatures throughout the United States have fallen to freezing, except in the states bordering the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Gulf of Mexico. Over the southern prairie provinces skies are clear and temperatures below freezing, while considerable cloudiness with temperatures near freezing exist in Eastern Canada. A band of continuous snow between Lake Superior and James Bay is expected to move through Northern Ontario today. Skies are expected to clear today in Southern Ontario with clear and slightly warmer weather anticipated Thursday.

Communists Lead All Parties In French Voting

Paris, Nov. 13. (AP)—The French Cabinet decided today to resign formally after the newly-elected legislature, in which Communist members are most numerous, is organized after November 28.

The Interior Ministry said returns of Sunday's election for the National Assembly showed this party lineup:

Communists, 186; Mouvement Republican Populaire 163; Socialists, 104; Rightist Groups 82; Radical Socialists, 63; Strict Independents, 5; Undecided, 15.

(The Moscow Newspaper Izvestia commented that "the French people recognized the Communist Party as the leader of the whole democratic movement in France". The editorial attributed the Communist gains to the "bankruptcy of (Socialist Leader Leon) Blums anti-Communist Policy."

(Izvestia said the French election was a victory over "realtion" which has support in the United States and other countries and asserted that "one of the main forms of pressure upon the French electors' was a threat that an American loan would be withheld if the French people voted for the Communists.)

The French must vote again Nov. 24 for the Second House of Parliament, the Council of the Republic.

War Bride, Husband Head for New York

The 20-year-old woman—born Erna Englebrecht in Germany of Jewish parents—fled from the Nazis when she was 12 and lived in Britain until she married George Mindamin, a Canadian soldier, during the war.

Friends here said she promised she'd try to make a home for him on his own reservation—but if she was unable to adjust herself to life as a member of the Ottawa tribe the couple would go to New York where she had relatives.

With age-old ceremony she was made a blood-sister to the Ottawas last Summer and she and George lived together on the reservation until the urge to see the big city became too strong.

King George of Greece is Sitting On a Most Precarious Throne

(Editor's Note: Ross Munro, Canadian Press European correspondent who has made his first visit to Greece, writes in this story, his second, of the position of King George II, just returned from exile in London).

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Athens, Nov. 13 — (CP)—King George II of the Hellenes, returned to Greece by plebiscite for the second time in his troubled 24-year-old reign, is sitting on a most precarious throne.

There doesn't seem to be much feeling of security and permanency for the Monarchy. In Athens, you even hear Greeks speculating on the duration of the reign.

The Royalists are confident but appear dismayed by Greece's terrific political and economic problems. Some Leftists predict the King will go within 6 months or a year.

The king came back to Greece from exile in London after the September plebiscite which favored his return four votes to one. The Communists and some other Leftists charge that the vote was a fraud, rigged by the Monarchists, but foreign diplomats generally concede it expressed the verdict of the people, despite some irregularities.

The plebiscite really was primarily a referendum on foreign policy. In effect, it was a decision by the great majority of Greeks to remain with the western powers, rather than fall in line with the Russian Balkan bloc to the north. Many Greeks saw in the monarchy the only alternative to anarchy and violence.

But the Greeks, and particularly the Royalists, have been dumbfounded by the lack of support they received from western powers in a diplomatic struggle in which Greece feels she is a pawn. The cool reception which labor government circles in London appeared to give the result of the plebiscite was a jolt to Athens.

LABOR REVIEW SAYS INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK BETTER

Predicts Stimulated Increases in Steel, Cars, Rubber, Brass, Chemical Production

Ottawa, Nov. 13. (CP)—The Labor Department said today that in the wake of recent strike settlements the outlook of Canadian industry is "optimistic" and predicted early "stimplated" increases in steel, electrical apparatus, automobile ,rubber, chemical and brass production.

Of 28,000 workers involved in disputes at October 1, all but about 700 now had returned to work.

"An extensive flow of goods (soon) will close the general demand-supply gap and relieve inflationary pressure," a department news release said. "The heavy consumer demand for all types of goods will probably maintain manufacturing employment in the next few months, thus offsetting its normal seasonal decline."

The over-all situation had changed greatly since October, 1945. Since then the Dominion's economy had absorbed "thousands" of war workers and more than 600,000 veterans. Unemployment now was "less than three per cent of the labor force."

Marked Improvement

"In the industrial regions of Quebec and Ontario, employment conditions show a marked improvement over those of October, 1945. The trend of activity in the seasonally-affected prairies and Pacific regions shows a steady recovery from the post-war low in the Spring of 1946 to a level slightly above that of October, 1945.

"The Maritime region has not yet regained its position of a year ago — unplaced applicants totalled 10,000 at Oct. 31, 1945; 30,000 at April 30, 1946, and 19,000 at Oct. 31, 1946."

"Unplaced applicants" registered with the National Employment Service Oct. 31 totalled 134,000, a decrease of 8,000 from the Sept. 30 total. The latest figure was 26,000 less than at July 31.

Most jobs were found in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes, due to strikes settlements and expansion in the logging industry. Unemployment increased in the Prairies during October and remained stable on the Pacific Coast.

9,000 Reduction

At the end of October there were 133,000 unfilled vacancies in the Dominion, a 9,000 reduction from the total of 142,000 at Oct. 31.

Unplaced applicants and unfilled vacancies (in brackets) in National Employment Service Offices at Oct. 31 included: Hamilton, 5,531 (1,597); London, Ont., 765 (1,640); Oshawa, 1,796 (453); Ottawa, 3,201 (1,494); St. Catharines 1,235 (257); Toronto, 8,928 (19,594); Windsor, 7,332 (272); Calgary, 2,681 (958); Edmonton 2,358 (2,206); Regina, 925 (565); Saskatoon, 1,479 (554); Winnipeg, 7111 (3,525); Fort William, 813 1,850); New Westminster, B.C., 1,572 (444); Vancouver, 11, 818 (3,2200); Victoria, 1900 (603).

Soft Coal Operators Told to Come to Terms And Take Back Pits

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Nov. 13. (AP)—The government called on the "Big Five" operators of the United States soft coal mines today to come to terms with John L. Lewis and take back their federally-operated pits.

With only three days left for further negotiations—and eight days before the expiration of the Nov. 20 deadline set by Mr. Lewis — the administratien thus sought to avoid a repetition of last Spring's paralyzing coal strike.

Mr. Lewis has stated the present government-union contract covering his 400,000 miners would be "void' 'Nov. 20 unless his demands are met for a new pact. Under Mr. Lewis' formula, he would give five days advance notice on Friday of his intention to scrap the current agreement.

With time running out, an industry spokesman declared meanwhile that the country's major steel companies have been caught short on coal supplies.

The industry officials told a reporter that United States Steel Corporation had only a two-week supply, Jones and Laughlin 10 days, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, a week.

In rapid succession, Interior Secretary J. A. Krug scheduled a conference with representatives of the "Big Five" operators and then with Mr. Lewis himself.

At the initial conference Mr. Krug was expected to broach the possibility of an agreement between the operators and Mr. Lewis, and then take it up directly with the miners' boss.

Commenting on the outlook, Edward R. Burke, president of the powerful Southern Coal Producers Association, said:

"It doesn't look too hopeful, but it is the only sensible thing to do."

The government has been running the 2,500 soft coal mines since last Spring's strike, when Messrs. Krug and Lewis made a contract putting the miners to work for the coal mines administration.

Mr Burke's opposition centres on three features of the Krug-Lewis agreement: (1) The unionization of supervisory workers, (2) the five-cent royalty on each ton of coal for the Union Welfare and Retirement Fund, and (3) the Federal Mine Safety code.

HELP POSSIBLE BUT UNCERTAIN IN TREASURE CASE

Polish Minister Holds Interview With Under-Secretary of State L. B. Pearson

Ottawa, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Whether the Canadian government would take any official part in solving the mystery of the missing Polish treasures remained uncertain today with officials considering "whether any help could appropriately be given in this matter."

That, and a statement definitely declining any responsibility in the case of the treasures — worth "many millions" — which the Polish Legation claims were taken from a Ste. Anne De Beaupre church and an Ottawa convent, were the only developments yesterday.

In a 40-minute meeting, Polish minister Dr. Alfred Fiderkiewicz yesterday laid his story before Lester B. Pearson, Under-Secretary of State. Last night, some hours after the meeting, the External Affairs Department issued a statement reviewing the Canadian government's connection with the treasure.

In 1940, the statement said, Canadian authorities concerned with the storage of records agreed that certain treasures might be deposited at the records building at the Central Experimental Farm here for safe-keeping. However, they accepted no responsibility for them.

Given Access

Last August Dr. Fiderkiewicz had been given access to the treasures on the understanding his Legation henceforth would be solely responsible for them.

The Polish minister stated in his interview with Mr. Pearson that he had in his possession the treasures which were there at that time. However, he claims 32 trunks, filled with priceless antiques including tapestries, flags, goblets and other articles, were taken from the farm and stored at St. Anne and the convent of the Precious Blood, from which places they now are "missing."

The External Affairs Department statement, understood to have been approved by Dr. Fiderkiewicz before being released, said the Polish minister had not suggested the Canadian government had any responsibility in the matter, but had asked merely if it would be possible for Canada to help in locating the treasures.

Says Tojo Admits Full Responsibility For Official Acts

Tokyo, Nov. 13 — (AP) —Former Premier Hideki Tojo accepted "full responsibility for all of his official acts, including the execution of the Doolittle fliers," associate prosecutor John W. Fihelly said today during a recess in the International War Crimes trial.

Mr. Fihelly said that in 51 separate interviews in January, February and March at Sugamo prison, Tojo "always was genial, sometimes laughing, and quite willing to reply fully to any interrogation about his own acts. But he would not implicate any other defendants."

$150,000 FIRE SWEEPS WINDSOR IN EARLY HOURS

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 13 —(GP)—A spectacular three-alarm fire gutted the three-storey Stewart building early today, destroying the stock of three firms and causing damage estimated at more than $150,000.

The blaze, which was believed to have started in a chemical stock pile on the second floor of the old brick and frame building, took hold rapidly and left but a skeleton framework in less than an hour's time. Spontaneous combustion was said to have started the conflagration.

One floor of the building, on Church Street at Pitt in downtown Windsor, is dangerously near collapse from the fire and the weight of water poured on the flames. This will delay a search aimed at definitely determining the cause of the blaze.

The fire proved difficult to subdue. At 1:15 a.m., firemen thought it was under control and much equipment left the scene. But it raged out again at 4 a.m. and burned as furiously as before. The equipment was called back to go to work again.

The most spectacular since the disastrous Kresge building fire last Christmas Day, today's blaze was fed by chemicals in various parts of the structure and fanned by a stiff southwest wind.

The first alarm was rung in at midnight and within 15 minutes several smaller fires broke out in other sections of the building. As chemicals ignited, small explosions were heard and flames pushed further through the building which stands at the corner of Church and Pitt streets in downtown Windsor. No firemen or spectators were reported injured as a result of the explosions, however.

The Stewart building was erected as a box factory originally. O. O. Stewart, the builder and still believed to be the owner, lives in retirement at nearby Kingsville.

The tenants were Seeley Products Limited, Parisienne Perfume Company and Flexo Tube Company of Canada. The Seeley firm had some $30,000 worth of stock in the building, including a large quantity of inflammable cosmetics and perfumes prepared for Christmas trade.

$35,000 FIRE AT NORWOOD

Peterboro, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Fire,believed to have started from a faulty furnace, destroyed the J. Finlay Company, plant at Norwood early today.

It was the largest factory in the village 20 miles east of here, 30 employees being thrown out of work. Damage is estimated at $35,000.

MANY DEMOBILIZED

London, Nov. 13 — (Reuters)—More than 19,000 officers—nearly 15,000 Europeans and some 4,000 Indians — have been demobilized from the India Army since war ended, the Secretary of State for defence stated in the Indian Assembly today, New Delhi radio reported.

ANTARCTIC TESTS SHIPS, WEAPONS PLANNED BY U.S.

Choice Presumably Is To Allay Russian Anxiety Concerning Arctic Manoeuvres

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Nov. 13 —(AP)—The United States, aware of Russia's uneasiness over military manoeuvres in the Arctic, has picked the other end of the earth for a frigid zone test of naval ships and weapons.

A navy announcement giving details of a forthcoming expedition to the Antarctic defined it as "primarily of a military nature," preparatory for a possible "day in the future when the navy may be called upon to operate in cold weather."

Selection of the South Polar region for training naval personnel and test ships, aircraft and other paraphernalia of modern war presumably was dictated, among other things, by two United States desires:

1. To allay Russian worries over operations in the vicinity of Soviet territory.
2. To asure, by means of the remoteness of the area, some degree of secrecy.

However, the expedition under the technical direction of seasoned Polar explorer Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, will not be without neighbors.

News of Other Expeditions.

Admiral Byrd told a press conference yesterday the Russians have announced an Antarctic expedition—"but we don't have much information," about it. In addition, a British expedition which went into the area two years ago may still have personnel in Antarctica.

The British base, however, is 1,500 miles from the probable headquarters for the navy venture—at the old location of the 1939-41 Byrd expedition in the Ross Sea, which faces towards New Zealand.

Naval officials were cautious in replying to questions about laying formal claim to territory. Vice Admiral Forrest Sherman, deputy chief of naval operations said:

The primary purpose of the expedition is to train naval units "and any effects these operations might have on the balance of conflicting claims to territories will be incidental only."

"This nation doesn't recognize any claims down there—and hasn't made any itself."

The question of whether material for atomic energy—and bombs—might be sought bounced around a bit at the press conference.

Not Uranium Race.

Admiral Byrd declared that any statement that "this is a uranium race is not correct." (Uranium is a nuclear fission material).

But, the Admiral added, "we will investigate all minerals, and uranium happens to be one of many minerals."

While the 4,000-man expedition will include some 300 men interested in pure science, including 25 civilian scientists, naval officials said there will be no nuclear physicists among them.

DONATES 47,659 COUPONS

Ottawa, Nov. 13 (CP)—Householders in the Regina district donated 47,659 of the 97,132 meat coupons received in the last two weeks of October to enable Canada to increase her meat exports, the Food Information Committee reported today.

By decreasing meat consumption and turning in unused coupons, Canadians have made 3,000,000 pourds available for shipment to the United Kingdom and Europe during the last six months, the committee said.

Girls Advised to Snare 'Butter Ball', Avoid 'He-Man' and 'String-Bean'

Boston, Nov. 13 — (AP)—Take it from a Harvard professor girls — give your engagement ring back to the "he-man" and march a "butter-ball" to the altar.

Prof. Hooton told an audience of men and women at Temple Israel Hall last night that:

The fat man — or "butter-ball type," loves physical comfort, relaxation, eating, ceremony and formality, has an even emotion and a love of people. He is a "remarkable family man and a good husband."

But the "he-man" is an anthropoid of a different prospect. According to Prof. Hooton, the "he-man bangs his heels as he walks around the house, complains about not having enough exercise and grows old quickly."

Then there's the "string-bean" suitor, also to be avoided.

The "string-bean," it seems, has a tendency to sociophobia, a dislike of people, and he suffers from chronic fatigue, inhibitions and a voice that "he is always swallowing in his throat."

If you can't snare a "butter-ball" there's still some hope in what Prof. Hooton calls the "in-between" type. Most men are "in-betweens," says Prof. Hooton. They combine all the annoying characteristics of the "he-man" and the "string bean" and the lovableness of the fat man.

Six Police Officers Killed in Dawn Railway Attacks

Traffic Between Jerusalem And Coastal Points Halted

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, Nov. 13 —(AP)—Attackers described as police as Jewish Extremists today ambushed a police dawn patrol, which daily combs railway lines for bombs, blasting its ramshackle hand-propelled trolley and killing all six officers aboard

The "suicide patrol," instituted two weeks ago when Irgun Zvai Leumi said it was launching an anti-railway drive was ambushed at Beit Safafa on the outskirts of Jerusalem. The patrol had been daily at the same spot, a few minutes after starting its track inspection tour from Jerusalem yards.

Killed were two British constables, one Arab sergeant and three Arab police officers.

Another train attack near Jaffa wounded a fireman and an Arab police guard. In both attacks police said explosives buried between crossties were electrically detonated.

Railway schedules have been restricted to daytime runs only since atacks against trains reached their height.

Today's attacks raised to 14 the number of blasts at railways in the last month.

The Palestine Railway Administration announced suspension of all passenger train service on the Jerusalem-Lydda and the Lydda-Jaffa line.

A statement signed "Irgun Zvai Leumi," which said that Jewish underground organization took full responsibility for recent attacks on railways, were pasted on numerous walls in Jerusalem last night.

Tourist Pilots May Cross Border Under Agreement

Ottawa, Nov. 13 — (CP)—The Canadian and United States governments have worked out a reciprocal agreement covering the movement of tourist aircraft between the two countries, it was disclosed here today.

Under the agreement, a Canadian tourist pilot will be allowed to fly into the United States without prior clearance by Canadian Customs officials. Similarly, a United States tourist pilot will be allowed to fly into Canada without prior clearance by American Customs.

The agreement, reached after an exchange of correspondence between the two governments, will affect only aircraft not carrying merchandise or passengers for hire. The tourist pilots will be required to land at established Canadian and United States ports of entry, but on landing will not be asked for clearance papers from the customs officials of their respective countries.

Provisions of the agreement are expected to become effective within the next month.

PLACED ON PROBATION

Lodon, Nov. 13 —(CP)— Lady Elizabeth Mary Gladys White, 28, today was placed on three years' probation following her plea of guilty to a charge of stealing furniture and other articles from her mother, the Dowager Marchioness Townshend. Her mother and other witnesses testified that Lady White, a former actress, had been drinking heavily at the time of the thefts.

Maintain Security Precautions in U.K. Against Violence

London, Nov. 13 — (CP)—An informed source said today that security precautions against threatened violence in Britain by Palestine underground organizations would be continued indefinitely, despite the fact that yesterday's Royal opening of Parliament passed without incident.

There were unconfirmed rumors a member of the so-called Stern Gang had been arrested at Liverpool and that the Daily Mail in London had been warned its building might be blown up.

Sir Harold Scott, Metropolitan Police Commissioner, issued a call for 6,000 volunteers for part time service with his forces, badly depleted during the war, to grapple with an increase in the number of crimes as well as increased security duties.

A Scotland Yard spokesman denied a report published by one newspaper that an agent of the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation was here to work with the yard on the theory that sympathizers with the Jewish extremist movement might come from the United States.

"No F.B.I. agent is here in connection with Jewish activities," said a Scotland Yard statement.

Paris, Nov. 13 — (Reuters) — Samuel Merlin, political spokesman of Irgun Zvai Leumi, the Jewish terrorist organization, claimed here today that Britain's precautions against the arrival of Irgun or Stern gang forces were "futile."

"These men will carry the war into Britain," he said. If they want to enter Britain they will do so in a way in which the chances of their being caught will be reduced to zero.

"They cannot land by parachute or by submarine but they will enter in such a way that no one will recognize them as being engaged in operations against Britain."

21 Rivers' Flow 78% of Normal In October

Ottawa, Nov. 13 —(CP)— The flow of 21 "representative" Canadian rivers in October was 78 per cent of normal, compared to the September flow of 79 per cent of normal, the Dominion Water and Power Bureau of the Mines Department reported today.

Deficiencies were most pronounced in the Maritimes, Southern Ontario and southwestern British Columbia. Above-normal conditions were recorded in central Quebec, northwestern Ontario, southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the mountain drainage area of southwestern Alberta and southeastern British Columbia.

October percentages of normal flow included:

A SOUND SLEEPER

Reading, Pa., Nov. 13—(AP)—Mrs. Josephina Balla, 55, told Detective George Bucher that $1,020 was taken from a money belt while she was wearing it. She said she placed the money in the belt Friday and found it gone 3 days later. She had worn the belt continuously, she said. Her only explanation, "I am a sound sleeper."

MOUNTAIN VIEW BUGLE BAND PLAYED AT SERVICE

The stirring drum and bugle rhythms played by the R.C.A.F. Band during the veterans parade to the Cenotaph on Remembrance Day attracted a lot of attention. The band under Sergeant Botting, was from the Mountain View Air Station and not No. 1 Command at Trenton as was formerly reported. The band gave an excellent performance with two of its trumpeters playing "Last Post" and "Reveille" during the impressive Memorial Day services.

TRENTON WOMAN HIT BY CAR

Mrs. Caroline Noble, Trenton, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital at 6.30 this morning suffering with injuries received in an accident near the juncture of the 6 RD R. C. A. F. near Trenton and Highway No.2.

Mrs. Noble, police stated, had alighted from a passenger bus, stepped from behind into the side of a car driven by Dwight Reynolds, Picton R. R. No. 8. Dr. J. J. Farley of Trenton attended the injured woman and ordered her to hospial. O. P. P. Constable Sam Ervine was in charge of the investigation.

CRASHES INTO REAR STATIONARY VEHICLE

Attempting to stop his car when he came upon a parked disabled truck, driven by William Fitzpatrick, Toronto, late yesterday afternoon, Harold Veale, Kingston crashed into the rear of the stationary vehicle causing extensive damage to his car.

Veale told investigating Provincial Constable Sam Ervine, that he had tried to stop his car to avoid oncoming traffic when the accident occurred. The truck was parked on the north side of highway No. 2 approximately two miles west of the city. No one was injured.

Transport Hits Parked Car And Driver Injured

Rescued after being trapped, severely injured in the blazing cab of the Kingsway tractor-trailer he was driving, William Clarke, 489 Bloor Street West, Toronto, was rushed to Belleville General Hospital shortly after 2 o'clock this morning with severe head and body lacerations.

The heavy trailer which was involved in a crash accident with a parked car owned by Rene St. Germain, St. John, Quebec, was completely demolished by fire together with its load of paint, varnish, flour and other commodities. The St. Germain car was extensively damaged. The accident took place one mile west of the city on Highway No. 2 near the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Clarke probably owes his life to the St. Germain party of five men, who rushed to the blazing cab and extricated the injured man in the nick of time.

Attempting Repairs

According to St. Germain and Provincial Police Officer Sam Ervine who investigated the accident, the Quebec party were travelling in an easterly direction when it was struck by a westbound hit-run driver. The impact forced the left rear fender of the St. Germain car down on the tire and brought it to a stop. St. Germain pulled his car as far over to the right shoulder of the highway and with his four passenger friends was attempting to effect temporary repairs.

Looking up they saw a heavy transport coming from the direction of Trenton. Seeing that a smash-up was unavoidable they leaped for the safety of the ditch. The heavy tractor plowed into the rear of their car driving it some twenty feet into the ditch and continued on, ending up in a jack-knife position around a tree. The tractor-trailer burst into flames and St. Germain and his party rushed to the cab and pulled Clarke out as fire swept through the vehicle.

Took Man to Hospital

Ascertaining that Clarke was alone, St. Germain and police sent the injured man to hospital. The Belleville Fire Department raced to the scene with a pumper and maintained a "shuttle" service in a successful attempt to keep the flames confined to the burning vehicle. Police stated the firemen did a fine job in saving overhead cables and wires from being damaged by fire.

WILL STAND TRIAL

Rome, Nov. 13 —(AP)—Col.-Gen. Eberhard Von Mackensen, former German second in command in Italy, arrived in Rome last night from Germany under American Military Guard, to go on trial soon on war crimes charges.

He wil be charged, according to a British announcement last September, with responsibility for the massacre of 320 Italians in the Ardeatine caves near Rome in March, 1944. The Italians were slain in a 10-to-1 reprisal for 32 Germans killed when a troop column was bombed.

Recommendation Calling For Stoppage of Work on Public Lavatory Lost by One Vote

A recommendation calling for the immediate discontinuing of construction of the public lavatory on the market square was lost by one vote in city council Tuesday evening as the matter again came up for considerable discussion.

The recommendation which was lost called for stoppage of the work immediately and for the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter from all angles and to report to city council. The motion was placed by Alderman Charles Hyde, chairman of public works.

"I thought this matter was decided at committee meeting last Thursday night", stated Alderman Allin in opening the discussion, following placing of the recommendation.

"I appreciate that, but matters decided in committee and not approved in open council do not legally stand", returned Alderman Hyde. "We decided on this matter of the public lavatory too quickly. The market square is not the proper location and I feel sure there are better sites. Then again we cannot trespass on the market lessees' property until the year end."

Given Power to Act

Alderman Armstrong pointed out that the council had given the special committee power to act in the matter and the committee had agreed upon the market square site for the lavatory. "I submit there is no other location which would serve as well," he said.

Alderman McDougall agreed that the council should not "bog down" on the committee now that the project had been started. He stated that he was not personally in favor of the location but considered that the majority of council should rule. "The committee had been unable to make a recommendation for the location of the lavatory beneath the city hall," he said.

Alderman Butler also disagreed with the proposed location but assured he was not at this time criticizing the committee.

"I feel," he said, "that in view of full time supervisors being retained, that the present location beneath the city hall could have been considered."

"I'm willing to admit that we need something better than that which we have," stated Alderman Clarke, "but we are putting up a building which is too large. Where are we going to get the money? We have no surplus funds and we cannot spend unappropriated money."

Originally Approved Claim

As member of the special committee Alderman Thompson charged that Alderman Hyde had originally approved of the market square site for the lavatory. "But when we made the decision to call for open tenders he changed his mind. The committee was authorized to proceed with the matter and it should not now be thrown back into the face of the committee."

"I personally interviewed farmers on the market last Saturday and when they realized the lavatory was to be supervised they had no objection to its location," stated Mr. Thompson.

Alderman Harvey also criticized Mr. Hyde's change of opinion on the matter of location. "He originally agreed to the location and I can't see why he should throw a monkey wrench into the machinery now."

Should Review Matter Charge

Alderman Trudeau felt that in view of the objection the committee should review the matter. "Possibly the present lavatory under the city hall could be fixed up and a sump pump could be installed to correct the flooding condition. The new building will look out of place on the market."

Alderman Tice stated that a site near the market would be the best location for the lavatory. "I will still support the committee," he said.

When the yeas and nays were taken on the recommendation to discontinue construction Aldermen Butler, Chamberlain, Clarke, Hyde, Trudeau and Woodley supported the motion, while Mayor Follwell and Aldermen Allin, Armstrong, Harvey, McDougall, Thompson and Tice voted to proceed with the building.

Council Finds Cost Prohibitive In Erecting Wartime Housing On Yeomans Street Property

Due to the excessive estimated cost of laying sewers, sidewalks and roads at the Yeomans Street city-owned property where it was suggested that approximately 50 Wartime Housing dwellings be constructed, a special committee from council will investigate other sites more feasible for the project.

The Yeomans Street site had been approved by Wartime Housing Ltd. but the city would have to supply the services and it has been estimated by City Engineer Charles Mott that this would cost in the neighborhood of $126,000. Most of the excavating for sewers would have to be made from rock.

A delegation from the local Trades and Labor council waited on members of council asking what action had been taken on a resolution calling for the erection of 100 houses in Belleville by Wartime Housing. The delegation spokesman, Mr. Reese, stated that Wartime Housing were agreeable to the construction of 100 units in the city and could complete them in ten months.

Cost Considered Prohibitive

In reply Mayor Frank Follwell stated that the council had considered very carefully the resolution calling for the erection of the 100 housing units. He stated the estimated cost of providing services to the Yeomans Street site had been considered prohibitive and the housing committee would be authorized to secure information regarding possible other sites.

"You can be assured that this council will leave no stone unturned to make the establishment of the necessary homes in Belleville possible," stated the mayor.

Mike Ridley asked if there was a building by-law in the city which restricted the construction of metal houses and was informed by Mayor Follwell that this by-law had been amended.

Mr. Reese opined that it was not general knowledge that this particular by-law had been amended thus permitting the erection of metal houses.

"We are most anxious that if metal houses be secured, they be erected in Belleville, because every such house will assist in relieving the current housing shortage," replied the mayor.

In regular council the recommendation was passed asking that sites other than the Yeomans St. property be investigated for the location of the proposed Wartime Housing units. The recommendation suggested the purchase of property outside the city, if necessary.

Ten Radio Owners Failed to Secure Licences, Fined

Convictions against local householders for failure to renew radio licences still continue to be made in local police court with ten such charges appearing on the court docket on Tuesday morning. Pleas of guilty with fines of $2 plus $3 costs were taken in each case out of court.

But Belleville owners are not the only delinquents when it comes to purchasing radio licences according to the district inspector. In Trenton Tuesday afternoon 37 owners paid fines and costs for being without radio licences.

There was little activity at the local police station during the past 24 hours although one commercial traveller staying at a local hotel reported the loss of his laundry. He told police that his car had been broken into and the laundry taken.

Bancroft, (Special)—Missing since early Monday morning when he went out to watch a deer run, Mr. John Malloy,71, residing at Ormsby, 20 miles south of here, was found dead shortly before noon on Wednesday. Mr. Malloy was found by his son.

When he failed to return home on Monday neighboring farmers formed a search party and on Tuesday went over the area where Mr. Malloy disappeared. Wednesday morning he was discovered in a marsh about 100 yards from the deer run which he had been watching. Death was presumably due to result of a heart condition but Coroner Dr. W. O. Anderson of Bancroft left to view the body.

Council to Seek Approval Of Municipal Board to Erect An Incinerator in the City

City council at their regular meeting Tuesday evening ratified a committee recommendation that the approval of the Municipal Board be sought for permission to erect an incinerator in the city. The motion was not finalized, however, until after considerable discussion on how the recommendation would dovetail into a previous council motion asking that the ratepayers be questioned as to whether they would be in favor of construction of an incinerator.

"I want it understood that I am definitely in favor of an incinerator but I don't think it is fair to place a mortgage on the ratepayers without their consent," pointed out Alderman Clarke by way of opening the discussion.

Mayor Follwell replied that the matter had been thoroughly discussed in committee and stated that if the Municipal Board gave their approval for the construction of an incinerator the matter may or may not be put to the ratepayers. It would be up to the council to decide, he said.

"What position would we be in if approval is given by the Board and then the ratepayers turn it down?" asked Alderman Allin.

"If the Board approves then the council can do as they wish," returned the Mayor.

Don't Have to Build.

"We don't have to build, even if the Board gives its approval," pointed out Alderman Woodley. Alderman Thompson stated that the Board's approval would strengthen the voters' hand.

Question of the estimated cost of the incinetrator resulted in further discussion with City Engineer Charles Mott pointing out that before this could be done the site would have to be decided, while Alderman Armstrong approved of this suggestion.

Alderman Tice also assured his approval of the incinerator but voiced his objection of going to the Municipal Board before placing the question before the ratepayers.

When the vote was taken Aldermen Allin, Clarke, Hyde, and Tice objected to seeking the approval of the Municipal Board before placing the matter before the electors, while Mayor Follwell and Aldermen Armstrong, Butler, Chamberlain, Follwell, Harvey, McDougall, Thompson, Trudeau and Woodley supported the recommendation.

A committee was later appointed by the Mayor to decide on the location of the proposed incinerator and to get estimate of construction costs.

The committee recommendation to reimburse the Belleville Flying Club to the extent of $5,000 for improvements at their landing field west of the city also was the topic of considerable discussion before it was finally passed.

Alderman Clarke with a view to the city's finances again opened the discussion with the question as to whether the money was to be paid this year or next. If the latter he claimed the present council could not bind next year's council.

Decide to Acquire Property.

Mayor Follwell stated the city had decided to acquire the flying field property for development as a commercial airfield and stated the money would be paid in January out of next year's budget as had been suggested by the Hon. G. H. Dunbar, minister of municipal affairs.

"A civic airport has very definite advantages," stated the Mayor, "and is a necessary asset for a progressive city. The money for the property will be paid in January before the new council is installed."

Alderman Trudeau wanted to know what the improvements were for which the $5,000 was to be paid and was told by Alderman McDougall that it was for improvements to runways, some of which are already completed.

"We're paying $7,500 for the land and $5,000 for the improvements. Where is all this going to end?" asked Alderman Woodley.

Separate Recommendations.

It was pointed out that the purchase of the flying field and the reimbursement to the flying club were two separate recommendations and that although agreements would be made at the present now the payments would be deferred until the first of the year.

When the vote was taken only Alderman Clarke opposed the recommendation to reimburse the flying club, he pointing out that he did so on the grounds that next year's council could not be bound by the current council.

Following suggestion by letter from W. C. Mikel who supported his contentions by personal appearance at committee meeting, council passed a recommendation asking that Belleville be included in the radio broadcast of weather conditions. Belleville had lost publicity value as result of the name being left out of weather broadcasting, according to Mr. Mikel.

Council also approved of a further suggestion from Mr. Mikel and passed a recommendation asking for mitigation in the rental regulations which would permit the eviction of undesirable tenants. Many home-owners feared to share their homes because of the present impossibility to evict undesirable tenants, it was held.

Authorized to Proceed.

Under inquiries Alderman Allin asked what action had been taken regarding the repair of the retaining wall at Victoria Park and was told by Mayor Follwell that a recent meeting of the Parks Board, Parks Commissioner Maurice Callaghan had been authorized to spend available money on the project which was to commence as soon as possible. Cost of the work was to be held within the limits of the unspent portion of the Parks Board's appropriation, it was stated.

No Decision Made

Alderman Tice wanted to know if decision had been made as to the members of council who would be appointed to the regional planning board which is proposed being set up. Mayor Follwell replied that no decision had yet been made and urged council to seriously consider their nominees as the success of the planning board was entirely dependent upon the suitability of its members.

Alderman Harvey inquired as to the opening of the Armouries laneway and was told that everything possible was being done to expedite proceedings with the defence department.

The proposed convalescent hospital came up for brief discussion when Alderman Thompson inquired what the W.C.A. was doing about the matter. "We should know what they intend doing and if they are not going to build we should do something about it," he said.

Mayor Agrees

Mayor Follwell agreed that the project should be commenced immediately, even in the face of higher construction costs. The building was essential, he stated.

"We as a city should have a convalescent hospital", returned Mr. Thompson. "We should have one even if the city has to build."

Alderman Chamberlain pointed out that the provincial government had granted the money for a chronic hospital and not a convalescent hospital. Under this procedure chronic patients would be given the first consideration and the district surrounding Belleville would be entitled to place patients as well as the city.

"I would like to enlighten Alderman Chamberlain on that matter," returned Mr. Thompson. "The original intention was for a convalescent hospital. It was changed to a chronic hospital for some reason. I don't know why."

By-Laws Approved

Alderman Clarke stated that at present it was costing the city between eight and ten thousand dollars annually for indigent patients accounts.

By-laws calling for the placing of the question to the electors as to whether or not they would be in favor of constructing an incinerator, and for the purchase of industrial sites outside the city, were given their first, second and third readings.

Under a motion presented by Alderman Tice the city comptroller was authorized to place a directory for city hall offices in the lobby at the city hall. In this way strangers to the city would in many instances be spared climbing of stairs to the second floor, when not necessary.

Fr. Ambassador To Canada Visitor At Trenton Station

First foreign ambassador to visit the station in the post-war era, Count Jean-Marie Francois de Hautcloque, French ambassador to Canada was the guest of the Royal Canadian Air Force at the Trenton Station on Tuesday.

The ambassador, accompanied by his two daughters, Jacqueline and Ghislaine, and the French military, naval and air attache, Colonel A. Mesnet were greeted on their arrival by Air Vice Marshal and Mrs. E. E. Middleton; Air Commodore and Mrs. W. W. Brown; Group Captain and Mrs. H. H. C. Rutledge, and Wing Commander and Mrs. Galoway.

The Air Officer Commanding, Air Vice Marshal Middleton and the station officer commanding, Group Captain Rutledge conducted the ambassador and the air attache on a tour of the station.

During the visit of the French delegation the flag of France was flown from the R.C.A.F. flagstaff.

Believed to be in Hamilton

Hamilton, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Missing from her Toronto home since last Friday night, 17-year-old Margaret Oliver is believed to be in Hamilton, police said today.

A downtown merchant reported to police today that a girl answering Miss Oliver's description was in his store this morning. The merchant said the girl was in a highly nervous condition.

The girl disappeared after she left her home on her way to music practice at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. Her parents could give no explanation for her disappearance.

Army Vehicles Buck Snowdrifts To Aid Marooned

Denver, Colo., Nov. 13 —(AP)—Army vehicles bucked huge snowdrifts today to get food to hundreds of families and thousands of head of livestock as Red Cross headquarters was set up to relieve the suffering caused by southeastern Colorado's worst blizzard in years.

Planes were ready to fly hay to snowbound cattle and sheep which could not be reached by army "weasels," trucks and bulldozers that plowed into drifts, some of them 10 to 18 feet high.

The weather bureau reported a foot-deep blanket of snow over most of the area four days after snow stopped falling in the week-long blizzard which has claimed 15 lives.

A seven-plane reconnaissance mission from Colorado Springs discovered many families in need of food and fuel in the Edison district 50 miles southeast of there. Sighting a distress signal—and x traced in the snow—a plane landed and learned of the district's plight.

Five army transport planes flew hay to a herd of 10,000 cattle reported "frozen in their tracks" in three feet of snow in Lincoln county. Another cargo plane dropped hay to starving antelope.

Minister Announces New Tourist Policy

Wiarton, Nov. 13 —(CP)— A new tourist policy aimed at stimulating travel throughout Canada and to Ontario's neighbors in particular, was announced last night by travel Minister Arthur Welsh.

Addressing members of the Bruce Peninsula Tourist Association Mr. Welsh revealed that his department plans in future to help promote visits by Americans to Ontario's neighboring provinces and to "sell" Canada to the tourist.

The new policy entails the distribution of travel materials from all provinces at Ontario's border reception centres where local staffs will be briefed in dealing with enquiries concerning attractions outside the province.

"We regard it as good business to promote Canadian vacations as a whole, rather than to concentrate solely upon our own province's attractions," said the travel minister. "A tourist who enters our province at, say, Windsor, is of more value to us if he continues on down to Quebec, or out to Manitoba, than if he confines his trip to the few hundred miles of highway between Detroit and Buffalo."

Mr. Welsh pointed out that Ontario normally secures the bulk of Canada's tourist business—approximately 59 per cent and has already entered into a co-operative arrangement with Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota to promote and develop the entire area of the Upper Great Lakes.

"We've got to get away from our old ideas of parochialism if we are going to realize our tourist potential to the fullest possible exent."

MADOC

60th Anniversary Of Madoc W.M.S. Is Commemorated

St. Peter's W.M.S. 60th Anniversary

Madoc (Special)—On Thursday afternoon Nov. 7 the members of St. Peter's Presbyterian W.M.S. Madoc along with members of sister societies from Ivanhoe, Stirling, Belleville and Tweed, and friends of neighboring congregations, commemorated the 60th anniversary of the Madoc W.M.S. in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc. The devotional exercises were conducted by the minister Rev. J. G. Murdock with Mrs. Dave Blakely reading the lesson from 5th chapter of Galations. Mrs. William Miller, president, extended words of welcome to the visitors and read letters from former members, Miss Jesse Morrice of Vancouver, B.C., Rev. and Mrs. Hunter, Bradford, Rev. and Mrs. B. D. Armstrong (nee Kate McBeath), Fort Coulounge; while Mrs. Larsen brought greetings in person from Rev Mr. Larsen, the two auxiliaries on their charge and the Toronto Presbytery. Mrs. Will Shaw of Ivanhoe brought greetings from the Kingston Presbiterial W.M.S. Rev. J. G. Murdock extended greetings on behalf of the Kingston Presbytery. Mrs. John McCaffrey gave "The Story of the Years." She told of how two ladies, Mrs. Dickson of Kingston and Mrs. McLean of Belleville, visited St. Peter's congregation on a Sunday evening sixty years ago and on the following Wednesday evening Nov. 3, 1885, Rev. Mr. Wishart organized the first missionary society in St. Peter's with the following officers Hon. President, Mrs. Wishart; President, Mrs. William Mackintosh; Vice Presidents, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Peter Sinclair; Treasurer, Mrs. Tom Cross; Secretary, Mrs. Fred Rollins. Mrs. E. J. West read the list of chartered members and the presidents down through the years. The last two chartered members Mrs. William Mackintosh and Mrs. Fred Rollins passed away in May of this year. Mrs. McCaffrey continued with the story, missionaries who had gone out from St. Peter's congregation were Mrs. Jennie Sinclair McKay to Indore, India, Mrs. Kate McBeath Armstrong to China, and Miss Lillie Morrice to Indian school in Western Canada. Three Honorary Life Members Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Chas. Spencer and the late Mrs. Mackintosh. A duet by Mrs. Fargey and Mrs. Eggleton of Stirling followed. A beautiful tribute to the deceased members was given by Mrs. H S. Graham of Belleville. A basket of mums was placed on the altar in memory of Mrs. Mackintosh. Mrs. Robert McCoy contributed a very appropriate solo. The guest speaker was Rev. J. G. Murdock, who, owing to the lateness of the hour gave a brief message on "Missions in General." He said, interest in missions at home and abroad, and zeal in all missionary work is what is needed. We must see to it that our motives match our gifts, mary give generously to missions but still lack the vital interest that is needed. Never has the need been as great as now. The hope of civilization lies in waiting for workers, and the missionary cause is the way of meeting the need both at home and abroad We cannot all go to mission fields but by showing a lively interest at home, we are helping those who are giving of their efforts. We should be proud of our achievements down through the years and should not be satisfied but let us press on to greater things. It is time for great events, and to go forward in the great missionary cause.

Mrs. Milton Shaw rendered a very pleasing solo. Mrs. F. E. Jenkins in a few well chosen words expressed appreciation of the members to those who assisted in the program. Rev. Mr. Walker of Stirling, closed the meeting with the benediction. All in attendance were invited, to the church parlors where delicious refreshments including a birthday cake was served by the young ladies under the convenership of Mrs. Russel Lewis and Mrs. Hugh McIntosh. The Thankoffering of the day was most gratifying to members of St. Peter's W.M.S.

Royal Winter Fair Officially Opened By Ambassador

Toronto, Nov. 13 (CP)—Hides brushed sleek, horns sandpapered and hooves polished, Canada's aristocrats of the cattle world today prepared to step into the ring at the Royal Winter Fair to compete for national honors in the country's biggest livestock show.

As cattle judging got under way on this second day of the fair, experts predicted a stiff fight between two great Holstein bulls—Franlo Chip Douglas, owned by Minnesota Industrialist F. W. Griswold, and Montvic Rag Apple Marksman, property of J. J. McCague of Alliston, Ont.

The Griswold bull, undefeated in three years on the tanbark, recently won the grand championship at the National Dairy Show at Waterloo, Iowa. His Canadian rival, all-Canadian champion for three years, recently sired a bull calf sold to the Waterloo County Holstein Breeders Association for $40,000.

More than 6,000 head of livestock and 8,000 poultry are here to go into competition for Canada's richest prize awards. Fair officials say public and exhibitor interest on the opening day point to this year's fair being the biggest and best in history.

Glitter of Pre-War Days

The official opening by Hon. Ray Atherton, United States Ambassador to Canada, attracted a white tie-and-tails throng and had all the glamor and glitter of pre-war days. Even the announcers wore formal dress and the band of the Queens York Rangers (1st American) played between events in the flag-draped amphitheatre.

A Mexican army team won the spectacular military horse jump. The United States placed second and Peru third in competition for the international trophy presented by the fair in 1925.

Judging yesterday included breeding horses, classes of draughts on line, light horse improvement division, ponies and standard-breds, and various types of sheep including Cotswolds, Cheviots, Hampshires, Leicesters, Lincolns Oxford Downs and South Downs.

Competitors included Mitchell F. Hepburn of St. Thomas, former premier of Ontario. His entry won the four-horse draught team and his Clydesdale geldings "Peter" and "Warrior" placed first in their classes.

It was Children's Day yesterday and thousands of excited boys and girls, shouting and cheering, raced down the rows of displays and through the stalls.

REPORTS OF LEFTIST BAND ATTACKS

Athens, Nov. 13 —(AP)—Press reports told today of atacks by leftist bands on four villages in Northern Greece and a Greek Army post on the Bulgarian frontier.

Two persons were reported killed and 20 houses burned by a "Communist Band" in the villages of Cavalari and Lycovryssi north of Salonika. The dead were said to be a former member of the band who refused to rejoin, and his mother.

Yesterday, besides being opening day, was Young Canada Day at the Royal, and the youngsters swarmed in by the thousands. Many had never seen the big fair, which was closed throughout the war. Some younger fry are shown watching the horse show.

Bethlehem Shrine Celebrates 20th Birthday Party

On Monday evening, the Oddfellows' Temple was the scene of a gala event when members of Bethlehem Shrine No. 11 held their inspection and a Twentieth Birthday Party; the evening opening with the regular proceedings and the initiation of ten new members.

Honored guests present included: Mrs. Nellie Combellock, S.W.H.P., of Long Beach, Cal.; Mrs. Watson, S.H., of Buffalo, N.Y.; Mrs. Cornelius, P.W.H.P. of Kingston, Ont.; Mrs. Payne, W.H.P., of Kingston, Ont., Mrs. Meta Pointer, P.W.H.P., of Toronto and Mrs. Maude Elliott, D.D. S.W.H.P. of Belleville.

The inspection was conducted by Soj. Nellie Combellock, S.W.H.P., of Long Branch, Cal. After the meeting, members and friends retired to the upper hall where banquet tables were attrictively arranged; tiny pine cones, maple leaves and miniature flags being used as decorations. The head table was centred with a large birthday cake, topped by a white cross, the symbol of The White Shrine. Much credit is due to Soj. H. Baragar, P.W.H.P. and to Soj. K. Adams and Soj. D. Elvidge for these arrangements.

Guests were welcomed by Soj. Alice Moon W.H.P. and Harvey Stewart, W.O.S.

Following a toast to "The King" and one proposed to the United States, the S.W.H.P. Nellie Combellock cut the beautiful birthday cake, and extended congratulations to the charter members.

Soj. Grace McEwan P.W.H.P. proposed a toast to the Supreme Shrine to which Soj. Combellock, S.W.H.P., responded and a toast to the Charter Members was proposed by Soj. Maude Elliott, D.D.S.W.H.P., to which Soj. Arthur Naylet P.W.O.S. responded.

A toast to the guests was proposed by Soj. John Pinch, A.W.O.S. to which Sister W. Stirland, W.M.-elect of Minerva Chapter O.E.S., responded. The toasts and speeches were interspersed with community singing, to make a pleasant evening's entertainment, with Mrs. Evelyn Warham as accompanist.

From The Chase

The movement of the trophies of the chase from the northern woods has just begun and will flow southward and eastward and westward until the game taken in the hunting season finds it way to the hunters' homes far and wide.

The sight of a deer on the engine hood of an automobile and the sight of hunters in the garb of the chase with or without relating to the stay-at-home citizen stories of the game and hunting experiences is a sure and certain sign that the year is moving along to its close in short days and long nights and with intensive cold. It is evidence of the appeal of the hunt to the hunter and of the enjoyment he makes for himself in the woodland. It is proof too of the riches of Canada's outdoors in its hinterlands with game and fisheries which have become so valuable a source of inspiration for visitors to this country from across the international boundary.

A Successful Season

Junior Farmers of Hastings and the Homemaking Club have reached the height of the season that marks the close of the season's work which has been one of progress all along the line. Those who have followed reports down the year of the activities of these young people feel that here are to be found real progress and the finest preparation for the future of Canadian agriculture.

These young people know their calling —that of agriculture and have a practical knowledge which will stand this country well in the coming years. They become expert in the calling they follow, which is one of primal importance to the progress and development of the Dominion. Their keenness and enthusiasm in all phases of their activity mark them as leaders for they have a true appreciation of the high place farming occupies in the national economy and have fitted themselves into all its phases and branches of interest.

Their fathers and mothers who have witnessed their undertakings and their interests of the past year must feel intense pride and satisfaction in their efforts and in the success which they have achieved.

Britain Pushes Exports

How much Britain is stressing the need of exports is indicated in reports from the United Kingdom. Last week Overseas Trade Secretary Marquand reported the October exports totalled ninety-one million pounds against seventy-one million pounds for September. The October figure brings the United Kingdom export curve close to the peak set in July with the record figure of ninety-two million pounds export or 120 per cent of the average volume in 1938.

Mr. Marquand calls this latest performance a "substantial achievement."

The steadiness of the upward swing in U. K. export trade throughout 1946 is indicated by a comparison of volumes for the first three quarters and for the month of October. Taking the 1938 average volume at 100 they are: 84, 98, 104, 1188.

Indian Summer

There is a spell of weather in the late autumn, which the western world has honored with the name "Indian Summer", a time of mild and pleasant weather. The name appeared first in the last decade of the eighteenth century and in the next decade was spoken of as "Second Summer." This fact is taken as proof that the peculiar weather was not generally recognized much before the eighteenth century's end. The term "Indian Summer" became established about twenty years after it first appeared, which was in Western Pennsylvania, spread to New York in 1798, to Canada by 1821 and to England by 1830.

How the term arose is not known, various derivations being given as, that the Indians predicted such spells of weather, that the smokiness was caused by numerous Indian fires in the forests, that it was the last season of attacks on settlements, or that the name was given because one of the seasons of East India was similar. Robert Walpole referred to the phrase in 1778 when speaking of weather in the tropics, not in what is now the United States.

The season just before this has been called "Squaw Summer." In other countries there are analagous terms to "Indian Summer," as "St. Martin's Summer," "All Hallows Summer," "Saint Luke's Summer" and "Woman's Summer."

It is a dreamy delightful time when it is noticeable. Sometimes it may not be clearly marked off from the late autumn, but when it is distinguishable it is enjoyed as it mildly recalls bygone summertime.

But how it was named is not the real question today. It is, have we yet had the spell of "Indian Summer?"

Runaway Horses

Those who prate of the "good old days" are wont to point out that a horse would take you home of its own accord, something an automobile can never do. True enough, but on the other hand, a motor car seldom runs away.

Anyone who can remember the horse-and-buggy days recalls the occasional runaways with something akin to horror. There was a thrill to them, but they were terrifyingly dangerous. A panis-stricken horse can become an agency of dire destruction.

That there were not more serious consequences is due to the fact that the traffic in those days was not as heavy as now. There were fewer things with which the fleeing horse could collide. But there were many cases in which he did run into other vehicles or into buildings, with dire results.

Nothing much could be done about a runaway, and those few who tried to stop one usually made matters worse. Some merely stood on the sidewalk and shouted. Occasionally a hardy soul would run into the roadway and wave his arms, in the apparent belief that the horse would stop for such an obstruction. We have never heard of that happening. In fact, such tactics simply increased his blind terror and made him more dangerous. He usually ran until exhaustion or a collision brought him to a halt.

Perhaps automobiles are superior in many ways, but at least they never shy at a piece of paper blowing about, take the bit in their teeth and set off down the street at break-neck speed, out of all human control.

Course in Dishwashing

The University of Michigan has gone in for scientific research about a problem with which most housewives are pretty familiar—how to get the dinner dishes clean, says New York Herald Tribune.

The government recommends a rinse period of two minutes at 170 degrees Fahrenheit. The university wonders whether corners could be cut safely. Ten dishwashing machines are thrashing around in the test laboratory.

Research also is being conducted on "cold sterilization"—meaning the rinsing of utensils in chemically treated water at comfortable temperatures. The next phase will be to find out what happens to the skin of the dishwasher who uses various chemical cleansers, and what happens to the person who eats out of the dish.

Newspaper Facts

Frank J. Denney, advertising manager of one large automobile company said: "The history of the automobile could well be written merely by a reproduction of its newspaper advertisements."

More shortening in sight was the good news to the households where shortages and rations are familiar thoughts and facts. News of the improved outlook with the production of 100 percent of the basis of 1941 as against 1946 production of 71 percent was banner news for the kitchen and restaurant.

HORN BLOWER

His name I don't know,
For he's always behind,
But he puzzles me so
With the state of his mind.
Why, forty cars held,
Where the pavement is torn,
This chap feels compelled
To keep blowing his horn?

Does he think that we stand
Just to be in his way?
With no business in hand,
We enjoy the delay?
That of all, only he
Can have somewhere to go,
And that idlers are we,
That his horn he must blow?

When he's honking behind,
Though a moment we've stood,
Does not cross his mind
We would move if we could?
Yet, when blockades appear,
Noon, or night-time or morn,
Always far from the rear
He must give us the horn.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Of what region is the pineapple native?

The pineapule is believed to
The pineapple is believed to South America. A wild plant growing in the upland forests of Brazil and Paraguay may have been its progenitor.

This fruit was first seen by Europeans when Columbus on his second voyage in 1493 touched at Guadeloupe in the West Indies. Chroniclers of the voyage wrote that the Spaniards were astonished and delighted by the fragrance and flavor of the strange "pine fruit," which apparently was not found in the Greater Antilles or on any part of the North American mainland. In 1502, while on his fourth and last voyage, Columbus found pineapples growing along the coast of Central America.

These pineapples, though delicious in flavor, were woody and acid and no larger than walnuts. The natives made a beverage with a vinous flavor from pineapple juice. "In shape and color," the chroniclers wrote, "this scalecoated fruit resembles the pine cone," and thereafter they called it "the pine of the Indies."

"Ananas," the botanic name, comes from the Carib Indian name and literally signifies "excellent fruit."

When a pineapple was presented to Emperor Charles V he refused to taste the "barbaric fruit." Horticulturists greatly improved the pineapple in size and quality and its cultivation rapidly spread to many parts of the world for both ornamental and food purposes.

It belongs to the Bromeliaceae and is closely related to Spanish moss. Like that aerial plant it derives much of its nourishment from the air.

The pineapple became a favorite fruit in the United States at an early date. In "A Description of the District of Columbia," published in Paris in 1816, David Baillie Warden wrote: "Two of the luxuries of life, pineapples and ice are found at Washington at a cheap rate. The former, imported from the West Indies are sold at 25 cents each."

In continental United States pineapples are produced commercially only in Florida, where they were introduced about 1850. Eighty per cent of the world's pineapple supply is produced in Hawaii. Some authorities suppose pineapples were indigenous to the Hawaiian Islands, but it is more probable that they were introduced there for ornamental purposes in the 18th century. According to one legend the plant was first brought to Hawaii by shipwrecked Spaniards from Mexico and according to another the plant was washed ashore among the provisions of a sinking whaling vessel.

Captain John Kidwell, whose hobby was plant breeding, settled near Honolulu in 1882 and began to improve the pineapples then grown on the islands. In 1896 a million pineapple plants were imported from Australia for breeding purposes. James Dole laid the foundation of the present Hawaiian pineapple industry in 1901.

Pineapples are almost seedless and are grown from slips, not seeds. The few seeds produced are used only in developing new and different varieties of the fruit. In the Philippines a delicate and costly vegetable fibre known as "pina" or pineapple cloth is made from the spiny and tough leaves of pineapple plants.

Ministers See Possible Break In Trieste Issue

U.S. Will Not Continue In Making Compromises

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

New York, Nov. 13 (AP) — Several cracks showed up today in the time-hardened disagreement between Russia and the western powers over disposition of strategic Trieste, but diplomats were uncertain whether they foretold a real break in the Italian peace treaty deadlock.

They became apparent despite a warning by State Secretary Byrnes that the United States could not continue making compromises on the Trieste issue — and an assertion by Foreign Minister Molotov that Russia insisted on changes in some Paris peace conference provisions for governing the Trieste territory.

Mr. Molotov also raised one new dispute by asking a treaty provision fixing a deadline of possibly three or four months, after the treaty becomes effective, for removal of foreign troops from Trieste. The troops there are American and British.

Byrnes and Molotov poined argument several times during the 3 1-2-hour session of the Big Four foreign ministers council last night, then called a halt until 4 p.m. E.S.T. today after they agreed, along with British Foreign Minister Bevin and Deputy French Foreign Minister Couve De Burville, to return to their showdown debate.

Diplomats who sat in on the session reported it was by no means all negative and had several results which might lead to a break in the main deadlock blocking completion of an Italian peace treaty.

Whether the Foreign Ministers would be able to accomplish this, however, depended on future developments about which responsible authorities were unwilling to make predictions.

These were the cracks apparent as a result of last night's meeting:

1. The Council left the door open for direct negotiations between Italy and Yugoslavia to settle the fate of Trieste by agreement if they can. Any mutually acceptable agreement which they can reach seemed assured of favorable council consideration.

2. Mr. Molotov backed down at least temporarily on a demand the Big Four send back to their deputies for rewriting a draft statute for the government of Trieste as a free international territory. He agreed instead to a proposal by Mr. Byrnes that the foreign ministers themselves should go over the statute, beginning today.

3. The Soviet foreign minister reiterated he objected only to certain provisions of the Statute, which the Paris Peace Conference approved by two-thirds vote, and that other provisions were acceptable to him. This enabled the Big Four to get down to specific cases and try to work out formula of settlement which all could accept.

4. Despite the history of bitter dispute which has marked much of the Trieste discussion in recent months persons present said last night's discussion was notable for calm talk and a generally friendly atmosphere.

KING GEORGE

If the monarchy is to continue for any length of time, King George must win many solid friends in the west, political authorities here maintain. His reign must receive international recognition.

And if Greece is to avoid civil war — some Republican leaders predict one — the result of the plebiscite must be more widely and staunchly acknowledged by the Greek people.

Many Greeks remember the last time King George returned in 1935. Then he threw out one dictator, but shortly afterwards allowed another to be installed—general Metaxas.

Diplomats here say the king can made a real contribution to Greece at this critical stage, if he rules as a constitutional monarch and does not attempt to govern. The Greeks look to the British monarchy as the example to follow.

It is also maintained here that to ensure permanence for his reign, the king will have to have a government based on a group of parties, not only on the Royalists.

The king himself has an earnest desire to serve his people but appears to lack any clear idea of how Greece can get out of the spot she is in.

He seems to have a vague feeling that Greece can "let George do it." But "George" is the British government — not himself.

Cardinal Dominioni Dies Suddenly

Rome, Nov. 13 — (AP)—Camillo Cardinal Caccia Dominioni, 69, the ranking Cardinal in the Order of Deacons of the Roman Catholic Church, died last night following two heart attacks.

His death was the sixth of a Prince of the Church this year and reduced the College of Cardinals to 64 members.

Cardinal Caccia Dominioni, who was raised to the Purple by Pope Pius XI on Dec. 16, 1935, had been assigned to the congregations of the Consistory, the Eastern Church, Sacraments, Ceremonies and St. Peter's Establishment and was protector for some two score religious orders and institutions.

BUS CRASH HERO

Russell Edward McMaster, of Gananoque, Ont., was burned about the hands and face as he helped passengers out of the bus which he was driving after it had smashed into the rear of a car that had stopped behind another bus. McMaster's bus ricocheted off the rear of the car across the road into the path of a truck. Flames enveloped the car, bus and truck. Twenty-six persons escaped death in the triple crash.

Poland to Vote in January

Warsaw, Nov. 13 —(AP)— Poland will hold its long planned general election on Sunday, Jan. 19, 1947, the government announced last night.

The presidium of the national counicl of the homeland 'Parliament) set the date under an election law the council passed Sept. 22, despite an opposition peasant party charge that the law would deprive thousands of the ballot.

MENTAL FEAR OR PHYSICAL COURAGE

There is little difference between the symptoms, functional derangtments or ailments induced by morbid introspection or misguided imagination and those due to repressed or unexpressed emotions.

A personable woman aged 27, happily married with two fine children suffers from a kind of stage fright from the very prospect of attending a party or social function of any kind—her stomach becomes fluttery, and often this leads to actual vomiting.

Fear alone causes this young woman's trouble. Just what she fears perhaps a psychiatrist or psychologist could find out and show her how to overcome.

Fear is the emotion chiefly responsible for shock—shock from injury, shock following an operation or just fainting from some sudden fright or unpleasant sight or receipt of bad news.

A question correspondents submit repeatedly has puzzled me because I can't quite perceive why the question occurs at all. They ask me to explain the difference between mental fear and physical fear.

I suppose they have specific circumstances or instances in mind but do not see fit to reveal these inner thoughts. Or they may wish to know whether there is a difference between moral courage, such as the courage to say No when the entire gang wants to break your will or make you yield to theirs and the courage to stand by your convictions no matter who or how many may oppose you; and the courage it takes, for instance, to risk your own personal safety or even your life to try to rescue from mortal danger some one you never saw before.

So far as I know there is no significant difference. Call it courage, valor, bravery, fortitude, or what you will, as it seems to me it is all mental in the sense of will, character, spirit.

From here on I must take care I don't meet myself head-on. For the plot thickens now, to wit:

(a) It is instinctive or natural to fear what we don't know or understand. For example, the young child at first close view of locomotive, Dobbin or dog; The ignorant contemplating an operation. Generally if the child's parents or other teachers are not afraid of the locomotive, horse or dog the child soon learns there is nothing so dreadful about these strange creatures after all. By the same token if the ignorant individual (ignorant of modern medicine and surgery) is enlightened by some one who knows about it, he or she takes a major operation as a blessing. I know. I've been there.

(b) Then there is "Dutch courage"—which might as well be called English, American or Chinese courage—the recklessness of the individvual under the influence of alcohol or other narcotic. This, of course, is not courage at all, but just loss of ordinary judgment, discretion, good sense.

Under the influence of alcohol or any other narcotic the individual knows no better, for the moment, than to do something that may endanger others or himself —and that is all there is to so-called Dutch courage.

So far I haven't met myself — but wait—I wonder who this old geezer coming down the garden path ....

There is still the snake in the grass. We hear again and again of babies who have snakes for pets, and being taught to accept the snakes as playmates from the first these children have no fear of snakes at all. When does such a baby learn that there are harmless snakes and venomous snakes, and when does the child learn how to distinguish the one kind from the other? Only a few adults are intelligent enough to do so when they come upon a snake suddenly — they generally wish only to kill the snake whether it is harmless or useful to man or not.

ASSEMBLY

By ROGER WHITE

A most important problem is being thrashed out in the school at this time—whether to have one big letter "B" to be awarded to students excelling in athletics, or to have two big letter "B's"; one for athletics and one for outstanding achievements or contributions to the school. Two completely neutral gentlemen were asked to support the two sides — Harry Denton for one big "B" and Boyd Upper for two big "B's".

Mr. Denton spoke for his side with the air of a veteran of vaudeville, while Mr. Upper, who seems to be very familiar with Mr. Webster, presented his side's arguments. The all important decision is to be announced next week.

The band played "Marching Down Main Street" in its usual fine manner and it was noticed that the drummer must certainly like his wheaties. Can it be that that is the secret behind the strength he puts into his work? Only Charles Atlas knows—and he won't tell.

Assembly closed a few minutes before the noon-hour, and upon dismissal the students dispersed like ladies at a nylon sale.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By RUTH MEADES

The last week's column I believe, told you that the volleyball season was drawing to a close. Well there is the finis. (I hope!)

This is the schedule for the past week's inter-form games:

Oct. 29—IXA vs. IXB. Scored 45-15 for IXB. Refereed by Victoria Ketcheson.

Nov. 1—IXC vs. IXCC. Scored 49-30 for IXC. Refereed by Joan Wright.

Nov. 4—IXB vs. IXC. Scored 35-32 for IXB. Refereed by Jean Palmer.

The Girl Cadettes held their annual tea-dance last Tuesday, taking the form this year of a Sadie Hawkins dance. Whether it is because our young maidens are shy or what I don't know but even though there were plenty both of females and males at the dance, most of the aforesaid were holding up the walls of the gym. This didn't last long, though, as a group of senior officers of the Girl Cadettes took Tom, Dick, Harry, Bill and Jim, etc., and kindly introduced them to Joan, Betty, Barbara, etc. Half way through the dance a "spot dance" was held, the prizes being won by Colin Cameron and Ruth Meades (mighty good chocolate bars, eh what!)

All in all I'm sure everybody had an enjoyable evening and the Girl Cadettes wish to thank you for such a wonderful turnout. Here's hoping there will be plenty of tea-dances from now on.

The regular meeting of the Girls' Athletic Society was held last Thursday noon. A complaint was raised at the lack of attendance at this meeting. If anyone is unsure of when these meetings are to be held see Jean Flintoff. The program for the year was discussed and every thing concerning girls' sports is to be looked into. So, until next week, au revoir.

BOYS' SPORTS

By GEORGE WARD

A week ago last Thursday our seniors went to Kingston to play Regiopolis. The game was played on a lighted field and started at 8.15 p.m. Both teams started scoring early, the score being seven all at the end of the first half. In the next half Regi kicked a field goal and made a touchdown following with a convert. The final score was 15-6.

Our juniors played their third game at Albert College last Monday. The Albert boys pressed hard the whole game and were on the B.C.I. ten yard line three different times. They finally pushed over a touchdown and a convert.

Both teams later got a one-point kick which finished the scoring. Albert 7, B.C.I. 1.

Albert totalled 11 points in the first half to B.C.I.'s 0. B.C.I. started right off with a touchdown in the first of the next half with Albert also scoring another. B.C.I. then resorted to an aerial attack which netted them another goal. That finished the scoring for both teams. The score being B.C.I. 10, Albert 17.

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE

By JOYCE COOPER

He did! HE DID! Are you curious? Well so was I, and that is how I happened to stumble on a group of frustrate females, deep in rehearsal for our annual school play.

Stealthily entering the darkened auditorium and making myself obscure to the little group, I watched.

Jane, alias Elspeth Wishart, was in the midst of a dramatic scene, at the knees of her aunt, making an earnest attempt to cry, in between words of instruction from Miss Merry (who by this time must wonder if it is all worth it). Curious to see what caused this upset I stayed on, to learn that a certain sophisticated old maid (at least 28) by the name of Caroline Bingley (Joyce Cooper) had been spreading good cheer in the way of breaking a few hearts.

This is almost too much for human endurance, and so with the strains of "he kissed me Aunty" and the splash of tears on the stage I left the happy group to cry until either Miss Merry's patience gave out or the well ran dry.

CUFF NOTES

Once again, Hallowe'en lived up to its reputation as a night for strange and incredible happenings. Not only did Regiopolis defeat our stalwarts by a decisive margin, but they also jinxed one of the parties that made the trip to Kingston. At least that is the alibi given by six upper and middle school students to explain their late return in Belleville Friday morning.

It seems that the driver of the car bearing this unfortunate group mistook the poorly lighted, deep-rutted, almost impassable cow path from Napanee to Marysville as the highway lovingly resurfaced this past summer by the Department of Highways, and glowingly described in all travel propaganda "as an excellent highway to the heart of old ntario". To add to the confusion the car ran out of gas. The three boys present were very, very sorry (I still do not believe it) about the state of affairs. And to think that all this happened four miles away from the gas station in Marysville. It was definitely an accident. Of all the gas stations between here and Kingston the car goes dry four miles away from the nearest one. What a shame!

Leaving one courageous comrade alone with three girls and a flashlight, the other two cowards set out on the jaunt for gas. However, this intrepid hermit was not to be deserted in such a crucial hour. Like the knights of old the hero of the night raced to the rescue. Would he arrive in time to save the poor boy from his ghastly fate? Would he deign to rescue the cowards from an ignominous retreat? Would he? See the next thrilling chapter in the drama of the open road.

He did. Screeching to a stop he leaped from his car and was greeted with tears of thanksgiving by the stranded male wayfarer. Heeding the pleas of his survivor he filled his car with the stranded and rode off to save the fugitives.

After restoring order to the scene and gas to the stranded car, he gallantly offered to take passengers, as one of the marooned party had to be home early. The story continues with the rescued party.

Since the intrepid male survivor was celebrating his birthday that morning, the happy chorus carolled birthday good wishes in a jolly anniversary song entitled "Ninety-nine Beer Bottles". The last bottle was being spiked, I mean sung, when the voyagers arrived in Belleville at 1.30 a.m. Such is life and as I said previously, it must have been Hallowe'en.

P.S.—Numerous offers to bribe the author to keep this expose from appearing in print have been haughtily rejected—and besides the price was not right. This evidence can be corroborated by an unimpeachable leak.

Windsors Arrive Back in America

New York, Nov. 12. (CP) — After 14 months in Europe, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor were back in North America today.

They arrived in New York yesterday aboard the Queen Elizabeth on the liner's second westward voyage from Southampton as a passenger ship following her release from wartime and post-war troopship duties.

The Duke said he did not know New York and that he "may have New York and that he may have to visit Canada" this Autumn.

Previous reports from London said the Duke would visit the ranch at High River, Alta., which he acquired when he was Prince of Wales, and that later he and the Duchess would go to Southern California for the Winter.

The Duke told reporters they planned to remain in North America at least until next May, when they might return to Europe. He said during his recent visit to Britain, on which the Duchess accompanied him, he made no business connections and that there was no question of appointment by the British government to any official post.

The Duchess said she had nothing new to report on the theft of an estimated $80,000 worth of jewelry from the residence where they were staying recently at Sunningdale, Berkshire.

"That is a sad question," she said when asked by reporters about the theft.

NO LEO DUROCHER

Brooklyn, Nov. 13 — (AP) — Ten Brooklyn "men of the year," chosen by a poll of borough leaders, were named today in the official publication of the Brooklyn Rotary Club . . . and surprise, surprise, no Leo Durocher.

The manager of the Dodgers lost out in the sports category to the "peepul's cherce," outfielder Dixie Walker, because he failed to keep his interests in Brooklyn after playing time.

The awards will be made each year, it was announced to prevent Brooklyn's leaders from being "lost in the shadow of Manhattan's Gay White Way."

Historic Past Recalled As White's Church Marks Founding 105 Years Ago

Sunday, Nov. 10 marked the 105th anniversary of the founding of the historic church in the Bay of Quinte district known as White's Church in two special services with capacity congregations. The interior of the church presented a very pleasing appearance after the recent renovation and redecoration.

White's, one of the oldest churches in the Sidney Township is rendering very helpful service to the community. History records such names as Captain Myers, William Ketcheson, George Smith and other pioneer settlers, and who by their zeal for the better things of life made possible the erection of this church. The land on which the church is built was sold to the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada by Reuben White who was a mill owner and who sawed the lumber for the said church.

In 1883 the union of the Methodist Church of Canada, Methodist Episcopal Church, the Primitive Methodist Church, and the Bible Christian Church. Following this union the Bayside Pastoral Charge was formed consisting of White's Wesley, Case and Centenary appointments. The last record of the Case appointment was in 1898 when it became part of West Belleville.

After twenty years of negotiation the union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches was consummated June 10, 1925, now known as the United Church of Canada.

The Rev. F. G. Joblin was the guest speaker for the anniversary services and his messages were listened to with great interest. He had the pleasure of meeting many of his former friends on the circuit when he was minister about thirty years ago.

The Rev. Mr. McCallum conducted an impressive dedicatory service setting apart the recently renovated edifice for the services of the sanctuary. Mrs. W. A. Jeffery presided at the piano and the choir of sixteen voices led in the service of praise. Miss Doris Thrasher, Belleville, was the guest soloist. The singing was much enjoyed.

There was a splendid response to the financial appeal, much in excess of last year. The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, potted plants and flowers.

U.S. Trusteeship Council Assumed By Small Powers

Lake Success, N.Y., Nov. 13 — (AP)—Early setablishment of the United Nations Trusteeship Council apparently was assumed today by small nation support of proposals advanced by the United States and Britain in an effort to speed action.

A survey of delegates revealed that the small powers were ready to go along with the United States and Great Britain in opposing a Russian attempt to define at this time what states are "directly concerned" in the draft trusteeship agreements.

This position became apparent immediately after yesterday's hectic battle in the trusteeship committee, at which Russia criticized Britain for not offering a Palestine trusteeship agreement to the United Nations and the United States flatly accused the Soviet of "constantly" preventing formation of a trusteeship council for the old League of Nations mandates.

John Foster Dulles, United States delegations expert on trusteeships, said in a voluntary statement to newspapermen after the meeting that Russia "is apparently unwilling to join with the United States and others in a practical procedure designed to make speed by waiving, without prejudice, possible claims to be formal parties to the draft agreements to be submitted to the Assembly."

Mr. Dulles last week asked the U.N. to avoid at this Assembly any attempts to define what states are "directly concerned" in draft agreements, declaring that any attempts to iron out just what the phrase meant would serve to delay setting up the trusteeship council.

But Russia continued to fight that point, and proposed yesterday that a sub-committee be established to deal with the issue.

Representatives of the small countries, as well as some of the big powers, expressed fear that if the interested parties to an agreement were defined now the veto might be extended from the Security Council into the Trusteeship Council.

For, they explained, an "interested party" could block a trust agreement by merely saying that he did not approve of it.

Already, Britain, France, Australia, Belgium and New Zealand have submitted draft agreements on mandates that they hold. At least three of these must be accepted before the Trusteeship Council can begin operating.

Meanwhile, the powerful Assembly political committee adopted a resolution recommending that the Security Council reconsider the applications of Ireland, Portugal, Albania, Trans-Jordan and Outer Mongolia for admission into the United Nations.

Another phase of the question of new members was before the committee today as Australia moved to make the Assembly and not the Security Council responsible for determining qualifications for membership in the new world organization.

Fourteen Fur Coats Stolen at Brantford

Brantford, Nov. 12 — (CP) — Fourteen fur coats valued at $3,000 were stolen from the Northway Company store Sunday night, police reported today.

The break-in was discovered Monday, but it was not until today that a check of stock determined the loss.

Police said the thieves entered the store through a door on the roof.

LATEST NEWS ABOUT GENERAL MOTORS DELIVERIES

Everybody from factory to dealer is doing everything that can be done to speed deliveries to you

Because of the continued and unavoidable shortages of various materials, production of new cars and trucks has remained behind our expectations. As a result, shipments of new cars and trucks to dealers for delivery are still far below the level we and the factory had hoped to attain by this time.

We know that General Motors is doing everything possible to step up its production totals—to ship more and more cars and trucks to us and to its hundreds of other dealers throughout Canada . . . and we know, too, that we are assured of getting our full proportionate share of the current and future output.

Of this you may be sure: We shall continue to make deliveries of cars and trucks to our customers as fast as we receive them; we regret delays as deeply as you do; we thank you for your friendly patience and understanding; and we promise you a new high motoring experience when you do take delivery of your new General Motors car or truck.

Keep Your Present Car or Truck Running

Meanwhile, may we suggest that you safeguard your transportation by bringing your car or truck to us for service now and at regular intervals. Let us help you to keep it in good running condition—to maintain its performance, appearance and resale value — until the day when your new General Motors car or truck comes along.

Wallbridge

Wallbridge — At the Sunday evening service here Rev. Mr. Hillis gave a splendid address in keeping with Remembrance Day, Nov. 11th. Many of our Canadian boys gave their lives that those they left might have freedom and peace. In the words of the poet, Mr. McCrae, they threw the torch to us to keep Canada free and if we keep faith with them we must live to uphold the standards they died for, and overcome the greed and selfishness which does not make for peace. "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong."

Y.P.U. of North Hastings District Holds Rally

The young people of the several unions comprising North Hastings District met in Queensboro United Church recently for their annual rally, to enjoy an afternoon and evening of fellowship and through the commission groups and the message of the theme speaker to catch a new vision of the responsibility each member bears in the carrying out of the Young People's program of the United Church and in the extension of the Kingdom of God.

The sessions were presided over by Mrs. Ernest Carr, president of the district, and were begun with sing-songs led by Margaret Hillis. A welcome was extended by the minister of the host church, Rev. G. Patton, who expressed the hope that the day might bring a reconsecration of each young person's life to the great work of the church.

Led Fellowship Service.

Madoc Union led in a fine worship service following which Rev. Perkins explained the purpose of each commission group and the members went into those of their particular interest. Fellowship was led by Harry Denton, Presbytery convener; Missions by Mrs. G. Patton; Citizenship by Rev. J. F. Everson and Leadership Training was in charge of Maude Burke, Presbytery Convener. These groups brought in a report at the evening session.

Program Outlined.

Mrs. Carr addressed the group at the banquet table as did Raymond Gunsolus who outlined the Presbytery's program for the district and the purpose of all unions across Canada. Maude Burke brought greetings from the Bay of Quinte Conference Y.P.U. and Margaret Hillis extended best wishes from South Hastings District.

Mrs. Carr introduced the theme speaker, Rev. C. A. Perkins of Holloway Street Church, Belleville, who spoke on "Team work for Christ and His Kingdom," using as a text I Corinthians 3:9, —"For we are laborers together with God." Challenging the young people throughout his address, Mr. Perkins said in part.

"We fall often to realize the importance of team work in the reclamation of folk unconcerned by Christ. There must be a consecration of each of us and our resources and teamwork to bring man into line with the great things of the Kingdom.

Team Work For Christ.

Team work for Christ affords the privilege of proclaiming the good news. Our purpose is to revive the spirit of Christ in our own lives and to go out and proclaim it to other young people. "Freely ye have received, freely give." We must accept our privilege and heritage. We are indebted to many people for our knowledge of Christ,—people who were agents of Almighty God to bring us step by step to the foot of the cross and as tenderly as we were sought, we must become seekers of others who don't know Christ. "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel."

Every young person is a preacher and even the humblest followers dare not evade their responsibility. Many are "outside" because individuals are reticent to proclaim the love of Christ and when the individual fails, the team fails and Christ is not exalted. We must have courage to carry the light of the love of Christ into the darkness of the world and show what it means to live for Christ.

We must do more than think of the issues; we must take action where there are high places to be brought low and rough places to be made plain. Let us remember we are workers with God,—the channels through which His help, blessing, truth and salvation may reach the heart of someone else.

Menaced by Procrastination.

Sometimes our work is menaced by procrastination—the attitude of "let the other fellow do it" and our opportunity is fleeting. Everyone of us is called to "go in and possess the land." We are all on the King's business, requiring haste and diligence. We are not here for selfish purposes but rather with a vision of the Saviour to lend a hand, to stand ready to spend and be spent and to carry His ministry out into the world of young people that they may come to know Him and His message. As Livingstone said, "Anywhere, provided it be forward,"—let our watchword be "Forward" as we share in teamwork for Christ and His Kingdom, giving freely of our time, talent, money and love, during the days ahead.

Rev. G. Patton conducted the installation of officers with the following slate being chosen:

Hon. President. Rev. G. Patton.

Past President — Mrs. Ernest Carr.

President — Helen Orr.

Vice President—Allan Rollins.

Secretary Treasurer—Jack Alexander.

Conveners:

Christian Fellowship, Ann Nickle.

Christian Missions, Bessie Roushorn.

Christian Citizenship, Roy Rollins.

Christian Culture — Anita Orr.

Christian Recreation, Mrs. Roy Rollins.

Publications, Mrs. G. Patton.

Leadership Training, Rev. A. Poulter.

The president-elect, Helen Orr, expressed her appreciation of being able to serve as president during the coming year and a vote of thanks was tendered the executive of last year.

The singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" brought the rally to a close and Rev. A. Poulter pronounced the benediction.

Prince Edward District Y.P.U. Rally at Picton

The rally of Prince Edward District Young People's Union was held in Picton United Church on Saturday, November 9. Mr. Don Campbell, president, was in charge. Rev. J. W. Houston of Tabernacle Church, Belleville, spoke on the theme of the rally, "Forward with Christ and His Church."

Mr. Houston referred to experiences overseas during the Padre's Hours when the men in the service met for discussion, and considered 'What's Wrong with the Church', and 'What's Right with the Church?'

Mr. Houston pointed out to the men and to the young people at the rally that although on the manward side the church has faults, being made up of people like ourselves, on its Godward side it is spotless. 'Neglect and criticism are no answer to the faults of the church unless there is action to build it up. There is a permanency to the church and it has a divine purpose,—the safeguarding of Truth, the extension of His Kingdom, and the worship of God. It has a divine message and a divine Leader. Even though men point to hypocrites within the church, still it is the Body of Christ, without blemish.

The question is are we going to respond to the church or find fault? The purpose of a church service is not that a man sit in a pew criticising the choir and minister but rather that a man may see God.

Battle Against Evil

The call of the church to people has the implications of discipleship that we apply the Kingdom in our everyday life, — that we serve and using the sword of the spirit battle against evil as Crusaders. As members, we must not be indifferent but consider ourselves recruits, and buckling on our armor, march forward against the evils of the world.

If we are to go forward with Christ there must be self-dedication which is complete and which results in a Christ-centred life. There must also be personal evangelism — winning others in daily contacts. We only possess the things of God as we give them away. Enthusiasm is the third thing needed — we must be on fire for God, with Jesus who gave His all — even His life, as our font of inspiration. The secret of peace and happiness is found as we respond with our time, intellect and all we have."

Challenge Thrown Out

Mr. Houston challenged the young people to measure up their responsibility of full-time service, referring to the number of charges unmanned at the present time. Like Jesus, we must be concerned not with success or failure, life or death, but with whether we are doing the will of our Father, prompted by a Love which finds its expression in service to others on His behalf.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. E. McCutcheon.

The officers elected at the rally were:

Hon. Pres. — Rev. A. E. McCutcheon;

Past President—Don Campbell;

President—Mary Walters;

Vice President—Gordon Norton

Secretary-Treasurer — Norma Foster;

Conveners:

Christian Fellowship— Roberta Williams; Christian Missions — Ruth Walters; Christian Culture —Janet Kerr; Christian Citizenship—Don Campbell; Leadership Training—Alan Baxter; Publications — Jean Matthie; Christian Recreation — Katherine Tait, Alfred Cairns and Reg. Bishop.

WEDDINGS

HAILSTONE—DAVIDSON

At 9:30 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 11, in the manse of Madoc Presbyterian church, a quiet wedding was solemnized, when Miss Hilda P. Davidson, daughter of Mrs. N. R. Davidson, became the bride of Mr. Allen I. Hailstone, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hailstone. Rev. John Murdock performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a suit of dove-blue wool, with brown accessories and a corsage of orchids. Her only adornment was a double strand of pearls with matching earrings, the gift of the groom.

As matron-of-honor, Mrs. Gétha I. Cretney, wore a dark brown suit with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. B. W. Thomas performed the duties of groomsman.

The bride's gift to the groom was an electric razor, and to her attendant a monogramed gold compact. The groom's gift to the groomsman was a cigarette lighter.

CHAMBERS—HOLDEN

At high noon, Nov. 9, Moira United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Jean Verna Holden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Holden, of Moira, Ont., became the bride of Mr. Roy Milton Chambers, son of Mr. Stanley Chambers and the late Mrs. Chambers, Holloway, with Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Plainfield, officiating, assisted by Mr. K. Stewart.

The church was made more than usually attractive with decorations of 'mums, ferns and evergreens.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church to wedding music provided by Miss Helen Brown, of Belleville. She made a charming picture in a gown of white chiffon, fashioned with a round neckline, a fitted bodice of lace with bishop sleeves, and a bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil fell from a headdress of gardenias, and she carried a bouquet of Better Time roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Audrey Holden, who wore a gown of pink sheer with shirred midriff and nailhead-trimmed shoulders; and a matching shoulder-length veil held in place with a gardenia headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Mr. Fred Sills of Holloway, performed the duties of groomsman; the ushers being Mr. Orval Holden of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Graydon Rodgers, cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the New Queen's Hotel, Belleville, where the bride's mother received in a gown of romance blue crepe with a corsage of yellow 'mums.

For travelling to London, Ont., and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a chocolate brown dressmaker suit with turquoise blouse and matching accessories.

Author of Children's Books Dies

Edinburgh — (CP)—Mrs. Helen Bannerman, author of many children's books including "Little Black Sambo," has died here.

Red Cross Branch Executive Meets

A meeting of the executive committee of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held at the Court House with Mr. M. P. Duff presiding.

A report was given that the milk list had been revised and the school nurse supplied with cod liver oil.

A campaign for funds is to be held next Spring. Belleville quota is to be 30 per cent of that of the last campaign.

Information was read concerning the Red Cross plan to supply free blood plasma in all hospitals. It is being worked out first in the western provinces and will soon be organized in Ontario.

Mrs. Ketcheson reported that Mrs. Buchanan's visiting committee are doing fine work. A large number of war brides and children are coming to the weekly teas at the Y.M.C.A. and a Christmas party is being planned.

A nominating committee for 1947 officers was appointed.

WON'T GO OUT ON LIMB

Fort Erie, Nov. 13 —(CP)— Muttering something about a prophet not being honored in his own country, George Mattison, veteran lake fisherman who last fall predicted a bad winter and the latest spring on record, refused to go out on a limb with a prediction this year, stating that he never got credit for the many times he was right, but was "razzed" unmercifully the one time he was wrong.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

AIKENS' W.M.S.

The ladies of Aikens' W.M.S. met for the November meeting at the home of Mrs. Cyril McMullen with 15 members and one visitor present.

Quiet music was played by Mrs. M. Jeffrey and the worship service was led by the President, Mrs. E. Hubble. She reminded that the theme for the year was "Fulfilling our Church Membership" and for the month "In Christian Homes". A hymn was sung and all joined in reading a prayer as used in India for the "Festival of the Christian Home": praying first for Indian homes and then for Canadian homes. Mrs. W. Bush led in repeating the 23rd Psalm in unison.

During the business period plans were made for a cooking sale to be held on the market; and for a special Sunday service when Mrs. P. MacMullen will be the speaker.

Mrs. Lee Grills gave a much appreciated piano solo and then Mrs. C. Grills conducted the India study for the month based on Chapter IV of Dr. Winnifred Bryce's book, "India at the Threshold", stressing the development of Indian women and the relationship of Christianity to this development. Mrs. Grills' gave a brief sketch, showing the background of women of India. She was assisted by Mrs. M. Jeffrey Mrs. K. Jones, Mrs. S. Marshall, Mrs. O. Pearson and Mrs. H. Hamilton. They emphasized the outstanding ability available among Indian women; the part which literacy plays; the fact that the present social emancipation of women is largely the result of Christian influence (either directly or indirectly) and the influence of the Indian movie industry on music, dramatics, moral concepts, etc. A short discussion, led by Mrs. Grills closed a profitable study period.

Mrs. O. Pearson and Mrs. H. A. Denike gave vivid accounts of the recent sectional rally held at Cannifton. Mrs. C. McMullen read a short poem, "Today". After singing a hymn Mrs. H. Hubble led in prayer for missionaries now in India and Mrs. S. Westover in prayer for those now on furlough. Mrs. E. Hubble closed with benediction.

Mrs. McMullen served delicious refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

The November meeting of the Marsh Hill W.M.S., was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Tanner on Tuesday afternoon with ten members and eight visitors present.

LADIES' GUILD BAZAAR

Frankford, (Special.) — On Friday, Nov. 8, a very successful bazaar was held in the Parish Hall, Frankford, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild.

At three p.m., the rector, Rev. C. C. Brazill, declared the bazaar officially opened and from then on the hall was a hive of activity. Apron stall, vegetable stall, home cooking and novelty booths, were all laden with useful and good things.

Tea was served from 4 p.m., to 6 p.m. At the head table, with its centrepiece of yellow and white 'mums, flanked by green candles, tea was poured by Mrs. C. C. Brazill, Mrs. D. Vandervoort, and Mrs. E. E. Ketcheson. The hall decorated by members of the A.Y.P.A. with a color scheme of green and white presented a very gay appearance.

A euchre party was held in the evening and was well attended. First ladies' prize went to Miss Mary Morrow and men's prize to Mr. George Harris.

Heartiest congratulations are due to all the ladies of the Guild, who through their co-operation and good fellowship made this annual event such an outstanding success.

SHANNONVILLE W. A.

The W.A. meeting, which followed the closing of the W.M.S. program, was in charge of Mrs. Stanley McDonald, opening with the theme song and The Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Frank Doxtator read the Scripture Lesson and Mrs. Claude Clarke gave "Lesson Thoughts", and Mrs. K. R. Vivian led in prayer.

Mrs. Claude Clarke acted as secretary-pro tem in absence of Mrs. Clarence Mastin. The sewing committee reported a sewing meeting at the home of the president and a quilting at the home of Mrs. S. Elliott since the October meeting. Receipts from the "Thank You" sacks, and the offering were dedicated by the president. Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. D. Hinchey who acted as pianist for both meetings, and to the hostess for the use of her home.

The National Anthem closed the meeting and dainty refreshments were served by the social committee.

Deer Hunters Emerge From Bush After Being Lost

Sudbury, Nov. 13—(CP)—Two hunters missing in this area since yesterday — 25-year-old Alfreda St. Onge of nearby Chelmsford and 69-year-old William Griffiths of Gore Bay — Tuesday emerged from the bush unharmed by their experience.

A third man was still missing — 43-year-old Stanley Richards, a guide from Maple Point, Manitoulin Island — and police probed possibility of foul play in his 10-day-old disappearance.

The elderly Griffiths left home yesterday planning to return home by last night, but a search was organized when he did not return by nightfall.

Searchers also beat through the heavy country for St. Onge, who separated from two companions late yesterday when the trio followed diverging deer runs, and did not reappear by dusk.

A 100-man posse has sought Richards for four days — despite intermittent snow — and police had come to discount the possibility he had been felled by a hunter's stray bullet since the area in which he disappeared had been thoroughly combed. The search, however, continued today.

C.D.N.A. Conducts Food Questionnaire

Toronto, Nov. 13 —(CP)— On what day of the week do you buy most of your groceries? How many in your family read a daily newspaper regularly? What brand of pet food do you buy?

To help end shortages, these questions and about 400 others dealing with buying habits and brand references are to be put to many Canadians this month, the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association announced yesterday. Data will be made available to the government and to manufacturers and distributors.

Newspaper carrier boys will distribute questionnaires to representative homes in each city that has a daily newspaper. The boys, acting on behalf of the paper, will collect the completed forms and return them to the paper. The association says it takes about 30 minutes to answer the questions, which are mostly of the "yes" or "no" type.

"As every family has reason to know, many things have been difficult to obtain and many popular brands of merchandise have been missing from dealers' shelves for a long time," the association said. "This nation-wide survey should provide accurate information on this condition and will be of great assistance to manufacturers and distributors in correcting these shortages in the months to come."

Distribution of questionnaire in Belleville through the Ontario Intelligencer will be made on Friday and Saturday.

OFFERS TO NAME 'FEW SAFE REGIONS'

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 13—(AP) — Folks who want to know where they can be safe from the atom bomb may be disappointed.

A recent issue of a national magazine (Life) carried a letter to the editor reading, in part: — "Atomic cataclysm will come in 1960. Few regions in U. S. will be untouched. I will supply the names of a few safe regions on request."

The post office reported today it had been unable to locate a resident by that name, adding that the undelivered letters are piling up.

Fall Farm Work Practically Done, Stocks Ample

Toronto, Nov. 13 (CP)—Fall farm work is completed or nearing completion throughout the province, with reports indicating the harvest has been generally good and ample stocks are on hand for marketing and winter feeding, the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture says.

In Western Ontario, Grey, Halton and Wellington Counties report plowing 90 per cent complete and the feed situation is described as excellent. Turnips are being harvested in Wellington.

In Southern Ontario, Brant County reports harvesting of fall vegetables nearly completed and in Essex, 90 per cent of the soybean crop has been delivered to the elevators. A few farmers still have sugar beets to harvest in Middlesex. Haldimand farmers are still plowing and Lambton County farmers report excellent growth of fall wheat.

In Welland and Hastings Counties, the situation is reported as satisfactory.

In Eastern Ontario, Lennox, Addington, Prescott and Russell, ample stocks for winter feeding are reported. In Renfrew many fields have been plowed the second time. In Cochrane North, milk is reported very short in the Kapuskasing area and some is being shipped in from Cochrane. Local fat cattle in Cochrane South are bringing the highest price in years.

Walks Around And Around Greyhound Track

London, Nov. 13 (CP)—Bert Couzens started walking around and around and around a greyhound track on Sept. 30 and today he claimed a world's record of pacing 2,652 miles in 1,000 hours.

Told that another walker claimed to have hiked 1,062 hours, the 47-year-old boiler fitter's mate rubbed his feet and gravely announced:

"I'm going to walk until I've covered 3,000 miles, probably by next Saturday at 8 p.m."

He walks part of every hour. His 1,000 hours were up Monday and he passed the 1,809 record of Capt. Marclay, who walked 1,000 miles in 1,000 hours Barclay was reported to have garnered £40,000 ($160,000) from friends in bests.

Couzens' reward was a little different: Six pairs of worn out shoes, a loss of 24 pounds and insomnia. His expenses paid by the Greyhound track management.

Plane Uses Up 2,500 Gals. Gas But Goes Nowhere

Prestwick, Ayrshire, Scotland, Nov. 13 (Reuters)—A British overseas Airways Corporation Liberator flew around Prestwick airport today to use up 2,500 gallons of gasoline before making an emergency landing while ambulances, doctors and fire engines stood by below. The craft finally touched down safely.

The plane, with a crew of five and four staff passengers, took off from Prestwick today for Montreal via Gander Airport, Nfld., when the undercarriage broke. The pilot was unable to operate the gear to lift one wheel. The flight has been cancelled.

City and District Young People Attend AYPA Leadership Course, Hear Mr. Kells Speak on Civics

More than seventy young people of the city and district attended the closing banquet of the Quinte A.Y.P.A. Leadership Training Course last Monday night. Mr. L. C. Kells spoke to the gathering, which climaxed three days of concentrated study and activity.

Mr. Kells' address was a clear summary of the opportunities available for a young person in the leadership of the community, and the speaker challenged his audience to arise to their obligations. He pointed out that William Pitt, the Younger, was Prime Minister of Great Britain before he was twenty-five, and that Winston Churchill was a member of the House of Commons at twenty-six.

Opportunity of Service In Municipality.

The field of municipal affairs is a vast one, pointed out Mr. Kells. It stems from Anglo-Saxon antiquity, developing—especially in the field of commerce—to modern needs. For more than ten centuries such functions as the maintenance of common property (for example, streets) the administration of civil justice and the protection of persons and property have been administered by municipalities.

Mr. Kells detailed the qualifications of a voter, of a member of the City Council and the Board of Education, and of a Mayor. The method by which these people are nominated and elected to these posts was discussed, and the activities of the boards and commissions were summarized.

Voting a Duty.

Said the speaker in closing: "An interest in local government by every citizen is absolutely essential. Voting is a duty, and interest is a responsibility. Participation as a member of some civic body should be looked upon as an opportunity and as a duty."

The Leadership Training Course began on Saturday evening, when registration was begun. Delegates from out-of-town were billeted in the homes of the congregation, who generously welcomed the delegates for the weekend. All plans and organizations were in the hands of Margaret Kellar and Ed. Waterhouse, who earned the plaudits and thanks of all who attended.

Guests of St. Thomas' A.Y.P.A.

On Sunday morning, the members celebrated Holy Communion at St. Thomas' Church, and were the guests of St. Thomas' A.Y.P.A. at a delicious breakfast served in the Parish Hall. The first class began that afternoon, following morning prayer and lunch at Christ Church. Each session was divided into three parts: "The Holy Comunion," led by Rev. J. G. Sparling; "How to Lead a Sing-Song," with Mr. Ed. Alexander of Toronto taking the lectures, and "The Organization and Administration of A.Y.P.A.," with Miss Bernice Baird, of Ottawa.

Fireside Hour.

Following Evensong on Sunday night, the delegates and other young people attended a Fireside Hour of Fellowship. Ed. Alexander and Bill Navin led in the singing of old, favorite hymns, after which there was a period of recreation. A few records, suitable for the occasion, were played and refreshments were served. This program was directed by Christ Church Senior A.Y.P.A.

Most of the Monday session was occupied by classes, with meals taken at the Parish Hall. The banquet, which was followed by a dance, was the grand finale of an extremely busy weekend.

The toast to the Church was proposed by Rev. E. Smith, curate of Christ Church, and was responded to by Rev. W. Robinson, R.D., of Tweed. The toast to the A.Y.P.A. was proposed by Ed. Waterhouse, and was responded to by Graham Mouck. Rev. J. G. Sparling introduced the speaker, who was thanked by Lloyd Gladwell. After the floor was cleared, a session of dancing followed, including a demonstration of square dancing.

The hall was decorated, throughout the course, with a distinctive arrangement of blue, white and gold streamers, with a ten-foot gold cross as the focal point.

FOUR-POINT PROGRAM

Toronto, Nov. 13 (CP)—Toronto city council yesterday advanced a four-point program to Dominion and Provincial governments for alleviation of the housing shortage. The council urged: An extensive survey of materials and fixtures and priority for their use in home building; government subsidies for low-cost housing; a federal order halting all evictions unless alternative accommodation is available; construction by the federal government of 400 dwelling units in the Toronto area to accommodate emergency cases this winter.

New Soapless VEL Outcleans, Outlasts Suds

by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

As a result of constant home tests, my enthusiasm for soapless VEL is mounting daily. At first, like you perhaps, I thought VEL was strangely different. But now that I understand it, I think it's wonderful.

MAKES SUDS UNNECESSARY "FROTH"

Soapless VEL is a fine white granulated powder which acts quite differently from soap flakes or soap powders. The big difference is in the suds. VEL makes plenty of frothy suds, even in cool or hard water, but these suds are quite unlike soap suds. Actually suds are unnecessary to Vel's cleaning action. With soap, heavy suds are essential for cleaning, but not so with VEL.

MAKES THE WATER WORK

When VEL'S frothy suds subside it's extraordinary cleaning power continues in the almost clear water. You'll actually see particles of dirt in your clear water which VEL has so ably removed from your clothes or dishes.

VEL IS NEW—MODERN

So let's get away from the old-fashioned idea that lasting suds are necessary. Now that soapless VEL is here, this modern cleanser quickly cuts grease and makes china and glassware sparkle because it leaves no soapy film. VEL is such a gentle cleanser that it can be used with perfect safety for delicate lingerie, woolens, baby clothes and nylons—and it is very kind to the hands.

NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR SOAP

VEL is not a substitute for soap and should not be compared with soap. It is a so-called "detergent" which is winning widespread popularity with those who use it correctly. 16-V-60

"VEL" is a registered trademark of the COLGATE-PALMOLIVE-PEET CO. LTD.

Passes Examinations In Diagnostic And Therapeutic Radiology

Dr. F. T. Miles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miles, James Street, North, and brother of Dr. A. E. Miles of this city, recently received word that he had been successful in passing examinations at the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons for certification in diagnostic and therapeutic radiology.

Dr. F. T. Miles graduated from Queen's University in 1940 and after teaching at McGill University for one year undertook post-graduate studies in radiology at logy at Kingston General Hospital and later at Winnipeg, Manitoba, returning to Kingston in 1944 when he passed examinations for a diploma in medical radiology.

Since August, 1945 he has been full time radiologist at the Woodstock General Hospital.

CABOOSE AND TWO FREIGHT CARS DEMOLISHED

Barrie, Nov. 13 — (CP) — A caboose and two freight cars were demolished today when a northbound freight train plowed into the rear of a northbound extra freight in the Canadian Pacific Railway's Midhurst yards 4 miles north of here. No one was injured.

The crew of the extra were inspecting their train and were not near the caboose when the crash occurred. An investigation is in progress.

PLEA FOR CLEMENCY FORWARDED

Fort William, Nov. 13 (CP)—An appeal for clemency in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Maud McLean, formerly of Fort William, has been forwarded to Justice Minister t. Laurent, it was learned today.

Mrs. McLean was convicted of murdering her common-law husband, Frederick C. Sallsbury, 60, at Winnipeg June 18. She was sentenced to be hanged Jan. 3.

The clemency appeal was signed by an estimated 200 Fort William citizens.

SHOOT ON SIGHT

New Delhi, Nov. 13 (CP) — Troops were called out and police were ordered to shoot rioters on sight today as three more persons were killed and seven wounded in continued Hindu-Moslem violence.

The district magistrate told police to shoot any person throwing bricks or acid or committing assault, arson or looting. Later he reported the situation in hand. A brickbat fight between Moslems and Hindus were broken up by police gunfire, which the magistrate said produced casualties.

Four of Last Year's All-Star Team Chosen Again for 1946 Edition

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 13 (CP)—Toronto Indians, who for the second season completed the Ontario Rugby Football Union Schedule atrop the standing only to be knocked out of the playoffs by their inter-city rivals, Balmy Beach, today found some compensation in the fact that four of their players gained Canadian Press all-star posts on the O.R.F.U. "dream team."

The squad of stars selected for The Canadian Press by football writers and coaches in union cities, shows four of last year's all-stars chosen again for the 1946 team. Hamilton Wildcats and the Beaches followed the Indians with three men each placed on the squad while Sarnia Imperials and Windsor Rockets contributed one man apiece to complete the squad. Ottawa Trojans, winless in 10 starts, failed to catch a place.

The voting weighed to afford equal strength to each city, saw only one man—Don Toms of Wildcats—get a 100 per cent response from the selectors.

The All-Stars:

Flying Wing: Fred Kijek, Indians.
Half: Don Toms, Wildcats.
Half: Ross McKelvey, Indians.
Half (secondary defence): Johnny Lake, Balmy Beach.
Quarter: Frank Gnup, Wildcats.
Snap: Doug Turner, Balmy Beach.
Inside: Don MacKenzie, Balmy Beach.
Inside: Trip Trepaier, Sarnia.
Middle: Don Durno, Indians.
Middle: Vic Ghetti, Rockets.
Outside: Len Wright, Wildcats.
Outside: Johnny Farmer, Indians.

Of the four players renamed as all-stars, three are Indians. Fred Kijek, who only played part of the season after he originally had been signed by Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four, again was selected as flying wind. McKelvey, also an Indian backfielder, was a member of the '45 team as well

Led coring Race

Don Toms' outstanding performance in his first full season with the Cats was reflected in the solid backing the young halfback received from the sports writers and coaches. Toms scored a dozen touchdowns in 10 games to lead the union scoring race by a wide margin.

Johnny Lake, a Winnipeg product whose performance with Beaches was responsible to a great extent for that team's surprise victory over Indians in the O.R.F.U. semi-final last weekend, was voted ot the secondary defence post in the backfield. Frank Gnup, playing coach of the Wildcats whose system boosted the 'Cats into a favored place in the play-off odds books, is the all-star selection for quarter. Gnup was awarded the Imperial Oil trophy as the player most valuable to his team and the most sportsmanlike in the league.

Don MacKenzie of Beaches and Trip Trepanier of Sarnia were given inside berths on the line. Vic Ghetti of Windsor joined Don Durno at the middle position and Johnny Farmer of Indians was selected as outside with Len Wright.

GALT RED WINGS AND ST. MICHAEL'S SCORE SHUTOUTS

Irish Wallop St. Catharines and Wings Hand Rangers a Beating

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Michael's Majors and Galt Red Wings both pulled out all stops last night and wound up on the long end of a couple of whitewashings. The Majors pulled into first place in the Junior O. H. A. with an 11-0 trouncing of St. Catharines Falcons while the Wings handed Toronto Young Rangers a 7-0 pasting.

At St. Kitts, Eddie Sandford and Eddie Harrison both accomplished hat tricks and Fleming MacKell picked up two tallies while Howie Harvey managed to sweep the front of the Toronto nets clean through the three stanzas. Other St. Mike's scorers were Bob Paul, Rudy Migay and Red Kelly.

Falcon's goalie Max Haunn actually played a better game than the score indicated and repulsed the Majors several dozen times on what seemed sure scoring plays. The Saints plunked home three goals in the first period, five in the middle frame and three more in the last.

At Galt, it looked for a while as though the Rangers would give serious battle to the strong Red Wings and for the first period held them scoreless. Then Galt picked up a single in the second and whalloped Joe Irons in Rangers' nets with six in the last stanza.

The scoring was divided among seven Wings Pavelich, Inaic, Glover, Hnatiuck, Wiseman, Bert Giesbrecht and Bruce Giesbrecht.

Two junior games are slated for tonight. Oshawa Generals visit Stratford and Hamilton meets Barrie. In a senior tilt Owen Sound is at Hamilton to meet the Tigers.

INDIANS MOVE INTO 3RD PLACE AMERICAN LOOP

Predictions of Fine Play in This League More Than Substantiated

(By The Canadian Press)

As the American hockey league winds up the first month of the 1946-47 season, early season predictions about the fine calibre of play have been more than substantiated.

The race in the Western Division, especially, is being hard fought, with any of the five teams conceded a chance of finishing on top. Indianapolis is the current leader by one point. Cleveland and Pittsburg are tied for second place with Buffalo and St. Louis fourth and fifth in that order.

In the Eastern half, Hershey is in the lead, likewise with a one point margin over New Haven. Springfield Indians moved into third place last night by defeating Philadelphia Rockets 7-3. Providence was dropped to fourth place while the Rockets remain in the cellar with but one victory in 14 starts.

Both Springfield and Philadelphia have rebuilt from scratch after several years' absence because of the war. Despite the handicaps the Rockets have faced they have played some good games, losing several by small margins.

Last night at Philadelphia, the Rockets were set down by two Springfield goals in the opening period, two more in the second and three in the final.

Kenny Kilrea and Woody Woodward each scored two goals to set Springfield's pace. Bill Gooden, George Pargeter and Ray Voll notched the Indians' other markers. Philadelphia's scorers were Abby Collings, Roland Forget and Whitey Prokop.

The Indians are at Hershey tonight. Indianapolis visits Buffalo and Cleveland is at Pittsburgh in other league games.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

Two mighty college football squads, titans of the gridiron battled to a scoreless tie last Saturday while supporters of both teams who packed the Yankee Stadium to its rafters sat goggle-eyed in wonder, waiting for the breaks that never came. For with such superb football machines as Notre Dame and Army possess this year nothing but that intangible thing, call it luck, if you will, would throw the scale of fortune one way or the other.

• • •

Ancient enemies of the pigskin, the Cadets and the Fightin Irish have gridiron backgrounds that are rich in lore. It is something that is packed with glamor and glory since the inception of the striped field rivalry away back in 1913.

• • •

The Army-Notre Dame annual game is one that highlights the colorful American football picture. It out-glamors perhaps the mighty spectacle of the Army-Navy yearly clash with all its service color and tradition. Right now Notre Dame has not beaten Army since 1943, but for twelve straight years before that debacle Army failed to win a game from the Irish.

• • •

The Army started this season with a record of eighteen games won, unbeaten and untied for two straight years. And this represents the longest string of triumphs ever registered by an academy team. Last Saturday's game, a scoreless tie brought both proud squads from their lofty pedestal of "unbeaten and untide."

• • •

The winning streak of Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis' gang surpasses even that of another mighty Army squad of 29 years ago, a streak that stood as the all-time Army record until the present juggernaut came along.

• • •

Bill Brandt, expert football report recalls that game of nearly three decades ago when a fighting Notre Dame team swept victory out of the seeming ashes of defeat. It happened on November 3, 1917, Bill relates and introduced one of the greatest football players of all time, George Gipp.

• • •

You've heard the story many times of another Army-Notre Dame game in 1928. That's the one where a supposedly weak Notre Dame team rallied to "win for the Gipper," 12-6. At halftime Rockne told the team the story of the Gipper. Gipp, on his deathbed, calling Rockne to his side and whispering: "Rock, whenever the going is tough and it looks like the team is whipped, ask them to go out and win it for the Gipper . . . and wherever I am I'll know . . . and I'll be happy." And, as the story goes, the Irish went out and won it for the Gipper.

• • •

This Army team of 1917 hadn't been beaten since its Notre Dame game of 1915 . . sixteen straight games. And pacing the Army powerhouse was one of the greatest fullbacks of all time, Elmer Oliphant, an All-American from Purdue. Oliphant was a team in himself . . . and Notre Dame wasn't conceded a chance. No, on paper it was all Army. Notre Dame had been beaten by Nebraska and tied by Wisconsin . . a push-over for the mighty cadets.

• • •

Well, Oliphant got off a tremendous kick-off, and it soared to the Notre Dame 5-yard line. There Gipp grabbed it, and right there Gipp was smeared. Notre Dame was in the hole already. Gipp dropped behind the goal line to punt, but a powerful Army line poured in on him. The kick was blocked. There was a wild scramble for the ball. Notre Dame's quarterback, Tex Allison, fell on it, depriving Army of a touchdown. But it was a safety and two points for the Cadets.

• • •

The safety gave Gipp a chance to kick from his 30-yard line, easing the pressure. But then Oliphant went to work. He sliced the tackles and ripped through the middle, tearing the Notre Dame defense apart. But every time Army got near the goal line, the Irish braced. Army couldn't score. That "2" on the scoreboard represented the entire point production for the first half.

• • •

In the third period, Army decided to change tactics. The Cadet running attack, unbeatable between the 20-yard lines, couldn't budge the Fighting Irish near the goal line. So the Cadets took to the air.

• • •

Deep in Notre Dame territory, Oliphant fired a pass. But a Notre Dame man streak across the field, leaped in front of the Army receiver. An interception. Yes, it was George Gipp and he went all the way to midfield before Army brought him down.

And here Notre Dame opened up. First a short pass by Gipp, spreading the Army secondaries. Then Gipp off tackle, all the way to the West Pointed 30-yard line. Next Gipp faked a pass and ran inside of Army's left tackle. He cut back like a ghost through a scramble of tacklers . . . clawed at, knocked sideways, but never stopped until he reached the Army's 5-yard line.

• • •

That play ended the third period. As the teams changed goals, Army players passed the word along, "Watch Gipp on a run down the sideline."

• • •

And sure enough, the first play of the final period found Gipp running like the wind toward the sideline. But it was a fake and Army fell for it. The Cadets converged on Gipp, but Gipp didn't have the ball. Joe Brandy, the Notre Dame right half had it. The strategy called for Brandy to run off left tackle and give Gipp more room for a right-side sweep on the next play. But Dave Hayes, Notre Dame left end, put a block on the Army tackle that almost knocked him out of the park. And Brandy went all the way. A touchdown. Notre Dame kicked the extra point and Notre Dame was ahead 7-2.

• • •

Then Army came roaring back. Right down the field, Oliphant running and passing and Notre Dame giving away before a grey-clad avalanche. It was a power-packed drive of sixty yards, but, like all its predecessors, it bogged down inside the Notre Dame 20-yard-line. The Fighting Irish took the ball on downs and the game ended. Final score—Notre Dame 7; Army 2, and with it ended Army's winning streak of sixteen games.

• • •

Yes, it was the end of Army's winning streak and the begining of the saga of George Gipp. A new star rose that day for Notre Dame against Army and blazed brilliantly for three years. Gipp's last game was against Northwestern in 1920. Two weeks later, he died of pneumonia.

• • •

It looks like a merry melange of Muscovite mauling at the Hume Arena come Friday eventide when Kola Kwarianni, burly Cossack from the banks of the Don, tangles with Whipper Billy Watson and Ivan (The Terrible) Rasputin swaps mat caviar with Paul Boesch, a newcomer to this budding metropolis. Down the ladder on the preliminary rung is Pat Flanagan and the Sheik Emir Badui, two likely lads who almost stole the show a few weeks ago with an outstanding exhibition of speed.

• • •

The giant Kola refuses to be shaken by the reputation of the British Empire champ. "So whatsky" he smole, grabbing a chunk of liverwurst, "and who is this Watson. Am I supposed to be afraid of him." The powerful Cossack who easily disposed of Sheik Badui last week, has plenty of ability although his methods are not of the cleanest in the book of wrestling rules. But he'll meet a worthy foeman in the agile Whippah and the bout has the earmarks of being one of the best seen here in some time.

Ontario Branch A.A.U. of C. Completes Reorganization

ToTronto, Nov. 13 —(CP)—With extensive plans for encouraging organized amateur athletics in Ontario, the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, Central Ontario Branch, has completed its post-war scheme of reorganization, Fred Rowell of Toronto, branch president, announced today.

In a statement Mr. Rowell said the branch was inaugurating a series of projects "designed to return amateur athletics . . . to their former position of respect and legality so that all those who wish may have an opportunity to represent Canada at the 1948 Olympic games at London." He said this was in accord with an "energetic policy" adopted by the branch to "exhibit a vigorous, intelligent approach" to amateurism.

Two events have been slated for this month, while arrangements have been made for a Canadian entry in the Berwick, Pa., championship road race, Nov. 28. The A.A.U. of C. events are theGladstone Athletic Club's first post-war road races, Nov. 16, and the Intercollegiate Athletic Union harrier championships the same day.

The committee nominated Harold Brown of Meaford, Ont., as Ontario candidate for the Norton H. Crow Memorial Trophy awarded at the annual A.A.U. of C. meeting for outstanding athletic performance and sportsmanship. This year's A.A.A. meeting is slated for Montreal, Nov. 28 and 29.

New York, Nov. 13. (CP) — Elimination of the arduous 36-hole qualifyiug rounds associated with United States Amateur Golf Championship play since 1936 will be a welcome change to many American and Canadian golfers. . . The United States Professional Golfers' Association announced yesterday it was considering plans to stage the 1947 amateur tourney strictly on a match play basis. This would be a triumph for many of the rank-and-file amateurs who complained bitterly against qualifying in their own geographic zone and having to do so again in the opening tournament play. . .Francis Ouimet, U.S.G.Q. championship Committee chairman, wili poll the 149 players in this years matches for their opinion . . ."America is crowded with four handicap or lower golfers who deserve a chance at the U.S.G.A. title," says Ouimet. "Why not bring as many of them as possible to the tourney battle site and let them start right in knocking each other off?"

Some amateurs are against drawing opponents for medal play out of a hat and insist players should be seeded. . . Henry Martell, Canadian Amateur Champion from Edmonton, ran into this difficulty at Baltusrol this Summer. . .getting by the qualifying round by a close margin, Martell drew Smiley Quick, American public links king, and was eliminated in the first round.

Ten Minutes More

Hockey Writer Gordon (Boston traveller) Campbell wants to see the overtime period restorred by the N.H.L. Board of Governors next season. . . .irked by the number of deadlocked games in the league this season, the scribe believes the Bruins might be in first place instead of Toronto if they were able to settle their five tie games in overtime.. . .Campbell insists the Bostonians have always been a winner when it comes to playing overtime and points out that in 1941-42, the last season of overtime play, Boston won four of 11 extra period contests.

Hockey Simmerings

The Rangers, worried over spending another season in the N.H.L. cellar, were all set to bolster their weak defence by recalling Winnipeg's Bill Juzda from their New Haven Ramblers farm yesterday. . . .But Juzda developed a charley horse and will be sidelined for the week but probably will join the Rangers on the road. . . The hard-hitting backliner player in 32 games for the Bouchermen last season after returning from 40 months in the R.C.A.F. as a flying officer on coastal patrol duty. . . After four straight losses Frank Boucher is thinking of a mild shakeup in the Rangers and probably will start Abe Demarco for the first time this season in the Garden against the Canadians tonight. . . Fiery Phil Watson seems to have controlled his quick temper and in ten games has failed to draw a penalty.

Odds And Ends

When Jersey Joe Walcott and Elmer (Violent) Ray Tangle in a 10-rounder at the Garden Friday night it will be their second meeting. . . About nine years ago Jersey Joe flattened the Violent in three rounds . . .Primo Carnera returns to Italy in a few days for a vacation. . . He plans to bring his family on his next trip to North America. . . .As soon as George Stirnweiss, Yankee second baseman, completes his football coaching chores at North Carolina, he will head for Bartow, Fla., to open his baseball school. . .

Canadian Sport Snapshots

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Hallfix, Nov. 12 (CP)—Halifax hockey fans have introduced a note into Canadian hockey which, if it travels west, could have repercussions that would shake reactionary strongholds like the Montreal Forum and Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens to their very foundations.

This growing movement would appear to be nothing else than sabotage, for it involves an awesome scheme—booing the home team. But it is a far more subtle affair than that, shown conclusively in the first showing here last week of Truro Bearcats of the Maritime big five circuit.

Truro forwards, at the start of the second period, combined on a pretty passing play that just failed to produce a goal and they received a terrific ovation from the Halifax fans. Then, while the front three acknowledged the applause with deep bows to right and left, Halifax grabbed the puck and promptly scored.

This movement really isn't a new one. It was tried last year, for instance, in Edmonton where teams opposing the home town Canadians underwent such a psychological barrage from the applause they sooner or later collapsed in a welter of over-confidence.

But this is a movement that must be strictly controlled, for so far the scheme usually has backfired. With a win within their grasp fans too often have, in the dying minutes of a game, shifted their vocal allegiance to the home team with the result that it had lost. This happened in Edmonton's case last year and they were defeated in the western final.

Proper control will mean added expense for teams and amateur clubs in fact, may have to go so far as to pay their fan-patrons even more than their players.

Winnipeg, Nov. 13 —(CP)—When Roy Vickery, The Pas Man., jeweller, was cleaning out his basement and found the Grantland Rice-Walter Goyne Memorial Trophy, he started a controversy about the ownership of the dog-derby award which may result in four previous winners holding a 200-mile, non-stop race for permanent possession.

The trophy was put up in 1924 by A. L. Mattes, manager of a lumber firm at The Pas, for competition among dog mushers in Northern Manitoba. It commemorates a famous dog racer, Walter Goyne who, before he was drowned in 1922, introduced into the Eastern Arctic the Alaskan racing sleigh and the double-hitched method of driving dogs, and Grantland Rice—a name sake of the United States sports writer—of The Pas who publicized the Northland.

It was to be taken permanently by the first man to win it three times—and that is the cause of the controversy. The "Legs" or plaques on the base show no one has won more than twice.

Early Bridges, now prospecting out of Flin Flon, Man., won in 1930 and 1931. Emile St. Goddard, claimant of the world's title as far as dog racing is concerned, won in 1925 and 1929 but the former year he was driving dogs belonging to J. B. Bacon and under the rules of the cup, the victory is credited to Bacon. St. Goddard still lives in The Pas but Bacon has retired from racing.

William (Shorty) Russick, the 1924 winner who is trading out of Flin Flon, is the other winner and the only one still with dogs.

So, there's just a chance that the race widely publicized and filmed in its heyday, may be revived. Otherwise, the cup will stay in Vickery's shop as relic of other days.

If Western Canada hockey league fans aren't getting their money these days, they're hard to satisfy. In the first nine games of the 60-game schedule a total of 89 goals were scored—an average of almost 10 a game—and the home team didn't lose once.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

If you want to be a bridge player, you may as well be a good one. Horse Sense will teach you the soundest bridge with a minnie of study and effort. Start with its simple routine basis.

For expected tricks at a no-trump bid, simply count one for each high card (ace or king or queen). For tricks at a suit bid, total your high cards and add one for each short card.

When you open with a bid of one in a suit, be sure to have five tricks. Among your tricks must be four high cards. Two of your high cards must be sure. And your suit must be biddable.

Responder passes with not more than two tricks. With more than two tricks, he bids something. When he gids something, he follows the order of choice in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump.

Each raise in number by the opener shows a trick in addition to his original five. Each raise in number by the responder shows one trick in excess of the two originally expected there.

A jump bid is forcing until game is reached. A takeout to a new suit forces partner for one round. Any voluntary bid shows new values.

These are the sound basics for bridge bidding. Apply them to any hand and you will be a reliable partner. Everything else in the bids you hear about must stem from these basics.

Suppose your partner starts with an opening bid of one diamond when you have this hand:

♠K 7
♦9 7 3
♣K 8 5 4

You have three no-trump tricks; four suit tricks. You have no biddable suit for a takeout. Nor have you adequate diamond support for an assist. The only bid you have left is one no-trump.

It is not a jump. It is not a takeout to a new suit. So, it is not a forcing bid. Partner may pass. If he bids again it will be to show new values. Unless he likes to hear himself talk.

Hull Volants Resign From Quebec Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Hull Volants have resigned from the Quebec Senior Hockey League and the loop will operate for the remainder of the season with five teams, it was announced last night at an emergency meeting of Q.S.H.L. officials. The withdrawal was accepted and it was agreed to split the Hull players between Shawinigan Falls Cataracts and Valleyfield Braves to strengthen the two clubs at present trailing in the league race. Hull decided to leave mainly because of the club's financial position. A pre-season boost in the gate cut of visiting clubs failed to ease the financial strain.

Coach Ed Sadowski of Toronto Huskies said last night he may sign Gino Sovran of Windsor to a pro basketball contract to play with the Toronto entry in the Basketball Association of America. He is a former Assumption College ace who played with University of Detroit last season.

Calgary Tornadoes will not consider playing an east-west football final with a Montreal club at the eastern city until a certified cheque for $6,000 has been posted in Calgary to ensure coverage of expenses for the trip, it was learned at Calgary last night.

Toronto newspaper photographer Nat Turofsky has 11 stitches in his chin and a mouth full of loose teeth following his attempt to snap Ted Kennedy of the Maple Leafs National Hockey League Club yesterday. Kennedy was skating toward him and apparently slipped.

Kitchener Granite Club's 13th annual invitation bonspiel will be held Nov. 18-22, it was announced yesterday. Thirty-five Ontario clubs will be represented.

Hamilton's Civic Stadium probably will seat a record-breaking crowd Saturday for the O.R.F.U. post-season play-off between Wildcats and Balmy Beach. Officials say few of the 12,000 seats are available.

Art Price, Detroit featherweight boxer, collapsed last night after his 10-round bout with Andy addler of New York and was unconscious 10 minutes before being revived. Saddler won the bout, at Detroit. In a preliminary, Paul Darby, 162, of Detroit, decisioned Bob Flannagan, 160, London, Ont.

Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati survived an nine-count knockdown in the third round at Pittsburgh last night and went on to carve out a unanimous decision over Jimmy Bivins, ranking Cleveland heavyweight, in a 10-round feature bout. Charles weighed 175 and Bivins 186.

Appointment of Roger Peckinbaugh, former vice-president, manager and general manager of Cleveland Indians, as general manager of the Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League was announced yesterday by John Gehm, president of the Buffalo club.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were having geogriffy in school, and Miss Kitty banged her ruler on her desk, saying, I insist on less whispering and more attention. Does anyone in this class even know the meening of application? she said.

Meening Shorty Judge waving his hand, and Shorty said, Application meens trying to look intelligent as if you were paying attention.

It meens a little more than that, I'm afraid, Miss Kitty said. It meens putting all your energy into an effort to master something such as geogriffy in the present case. I'm sure every boy in this room is perfectly capable of application. I want somebody to tell be an example from your own experience of having mastered some useful thing by diligently applying yourself. Well, Arthur? she said, and Artie Bromfield said, I learned to walk on my hands by trying and trying and trying every day and the next day and trying and trying till at last I could do it and still can.

Which he can, and Miss Kitty said, Does anyone believe that walking on one's hands is a useful thing?

Which Humfree Bond waved and said, Sure it is, because if something gets wrong with your feet you can at least walk short distances on your hands a while, and Sam Cross waved and said, Walking on your hands is a polite way of attracting your mother's attention while she's talking to somebody, instead of delibritly interrupting the conversation.

Oh dear, Miss Kitty said, and I said, Walking on your hands is useful to make the blood rush to your head so you'll appriciate the advantages of walking on your feet, and appriciation is one of the best parts of life.

That almost makes a grain of sense so we'll drop the subject right there, Miss Kitty said.

Which we did feeling against it.

London Letter

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 13 —(CP)—The King's pictures are on display at Burlington House and it's probably the first time his Majesty himself has been able to see them all together.

Londoners love exhibitions and they haven't failed to flock to this one in the big stone building off Picadilly. Their reward is rich, for nowhere else in the world is there such a collection.

More than 500 works are on display, some of which—from Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace—have never before been shown in public. They comprise virtually all the pictures of importance in the royal collection except the Mantegna Frescoes at Hampton Court and the Raphael at South Kinsington.

A Giorgione, a Vermeer, six Holbeins, nine Rembrandts and 38 Canalettos are among the pictures which recall that at least two kings —Henry VIII and Charles the I—were ardent collectors. So was George. IV, unlike his namesake George I, who's credited with saying he "hated painting, and poetry too."

But the collector kings did a royal job. The masterpieces will continue to atract crowds until the exhibition closes.

The King and Queen and all the art critics had a preview of the show before it was opened to the public. For once the critics were unanimous in hailing it as a complete success. There was little else they could do, for here in parade are England's great and the world's greatest painters generation after generation.

Buff King Henry VIII set the foundation for this tremendous collection with the works of hot-tempered Hans Holbein, his court painter at £30 a year. Holbein's vivid portraits still glow with vitality and he set the style for painters for years to come.

Charles I was the next keen collector, sending his agents over Europe to bargain for masterpieces.

Most of them hang here now. The royal collection, broken up for sale under Cromwell, was reassembled by Charles II. Ensuing monarchs steadily enhanced it; George IV with Rembrandts and Lawrences—even the Prince Consort, with rich Italian primitives.

The picture which seemed to attract the greatest attention from the sightseers drifting through the big rooms was Vermeer's "A Lady at the Virginals and a Gentleman Listening."

This sharp Dutch interior came to the collection through George III, who bought for $20,000 a group of paintings assembled by Joseph Smith, his ambassador in Venice. Smith got the work for a song because Vermeer's signature was mistaken for another's.

In the same collection came the canalettos, which give a complete record of the Italian artist's development.

"Five hundred pictures? That's a lot of art," exclaimed a Canadian when he heard about the show. It is, but the connoisseurs don't try to take it at one gulp; instead they savor it on several visits.

But even the most indifferent sightseer takes away bright memories.

General Duty Nurse

By Lucy Agnes Hancock

CHAPTER 12

She slipped across the hall to the room where Elizabeth Newell lay white and still in the narrow hospital bed. Kitty Howard was sewing beside one of the windows and looked up as Sally entered. She came toward her silently, finger on lip; but a quiet voice from the bed said:

"Good morning." It was a mere breath and Sally smiled at the sick woman whom she had not seen before.

"Doctor Channing, your neighbor across the hall ,sent you these roses, Miss Newell," she told her. "Aren't they lovely?" she thought the woman's eyes brightened — she was sure a faint color came into her white cheeks.

"How kind!" she murmured and closed her eyes as if the effort taxed her frail strength.

Sally slipped out and closed the door softly behind her. Miss Newell looked desperately ill. The operation had been a major one —one of the "hopeless" ones Doctor Richards was so successful in performing. She went slowly back to her patient.

As it happened Sally was in the kitchen preparing the midday lunch for her distinguished patient when Mrs. Cantwell arrived and was directed to the door of room 327. When Sally returned with Doctor Channing's luncheon, she found the lady ensconced in a chair close to the bed alternately condoling and congratulating the famous invalid in the best bedside manner. The doctor gave Sally a look of such real distress —almost anguish—that the nurse quickly disposed of the tray on the nearest table and said quietly but firmly:

"I'm sorry, Mrs.—er—Cantwell, isn't it? But Doctor Channing isn't having visitors just now. Will you be kind enough to postpone your visit to a more auspicious hour? Let me assist you with your wrap. I'm sure you want to help us all you can so that our patient will recover his health quickly. Goodby, Mrs. —er—Cantwell. So nice of you to understand—so few people realize — Ugh! How was that, Doctor?"

She returned from ushering the unwelcome caller into the corridor to find the good doctor shaking with mirth.

"Well?" she demanded.

"You were superb, my dear. I can't thank you enough. But don't think for a moment she's beaten. She'll try again if — but you'll still be here this afternoon, thank goodness. Before you go off duty tonight phone Kate and tell her she must spend the evening visiting hours with me. She cordially dislikes Mrs. Cantwell—afraid, no doubt, the lady will marry me and she'll lose her job of head keeper." He laughed. "Now what messes have you brought me under the guise of lunch?"

"Call Doctor Bacon, Sally," Margaret Adams said as Sally went along the hall to her room late that afternoon. "She gave me her number but I have forgotten it."

"That's all right," Sally told her. "I know it." She dialed the number and Carolyn's mother answered.

"Carolyn wants you to come over this evening, Sally. There is something she wants to talk to you about. We'll wait dinner for you."

"I'm just off duty, Mrs. Bacon, but I can be there in an hour."

She bathed and changed and left the Annex, walking briskly down Main Street hill and through the business section of Lintonville before she turned off at Cedar, climbed the gradual incline to Walnut Place and along the softly shaded avenue until she came to the brown shingled house where Carolyn Bacon lived with her mother. The front door was open and as she stood for a moment on the brick entrance porch, she heard Carolyn's soft voice and the deep rumble of a man's laugh. Mrs. Bacon hurried to the door.

"Come in, come in, you naughty girl," she scolded mildly. "You have been neglecting us shamefully and we accept no excuses."

"Then I shall give none," Sally smilingly told her, shedding hat, coat and gloves. "Company?" she asked.

"No one but Dick," her hostess explained. "Come in and meet him, my dear. He's a splendid boy."

"I'm sure he is," She followed Mrs. Bacon to the living room where her daughter and fiance were playing with a kitten. Carolyn ran to Sally and gave her a little shake. Sally thought how young and lovely she looked. That's what love did to a girl.

"Here's the culprit, Dick," she said, turning to the young man who came forward. "This is the young lady who refused to come to our announcement party and I'm pretty mad at her. This is Richard Gregory, Sally Maynard, and you really don't deserve to know him." She laid a possessive hand on the man's arm and smiled at Sally. Sally and he shook hands and Sally decided she liked him. He had a strong, rather homely face with a pair of the most compelling eyes she had ever encountered. No wonder he was the successful lawyer the papers declared him to be.

Richard Gregory was, apparently, in his middle 30s—tall, erect and slim-hipped. His manner was charming—his speech quiet and direct and, as the three talked, Sally was constantly plagued by the feeling that she had heard his voice before—under unpleasant conditions. Yet she knew she had never met him nor been anywhere he was. Once he met her frowning gaze and smiled.

"Something bothering you, Miss Maynard?" he asked.

"Of course there is," Carolyn told him. "Sally is one nurse who is never free of the hospital."

"Not a very wise course," the young man murmured and again Sally felt the tug of memory. Where had she heard that voice? A pleasant voice—even a cultured attractive done.

During dinner she forgot it and not until they were in the garden and Sally was telling Mrs. Bacon about her Aunt Clem's landscaping did the idea again present itself. Carolyn and Mr. Gergory were walking down the gravel path some distance ahead and his voice came back to her, subdued but perfectly audible.

"Not a very pleasant experience was it?" Almost the exact words. The man in Receiving — the man who walked through that darkened room and out the side door. She gave an exclamation of dismay. Who was this man and what was he doing here? What had he been doing in Receiving at Linton Memorial on that wild spring night?

"What's the matter, my dear?" Mrs. Bacon asked, "You look as if you had seen a ghost. What is it?"

Sally shook her head, recovering her poise with difficulty. "It was nothing. I just remembered something and was startled."

The four returned to the house and Sally took a seat where she could watch Richard Gergory's face as she related the incident of the stranger's visit to Receiving.

She saw the man's gaze sharpen for a moment than become amused as she went on.

"I'm sure I should know his voice anywhere," she finished.

"You only think you would," Carolyn laughed. "But it makes a good story. I suppose you have a great many such experiences up there on the hill," she went on, wondering, no doubt, at the interest her fiance was showing in her guest's story.

"Not too many," Sally said. "I suppose, subconsciously, I have been listening for that voice ever since. At the police station they paraded some dozen or so shady characters before us— Margaret Adams and me—but not one of the voices was right. He walked with a sort of swift glide, too, as if he were young and slim and agile. Of course it was dark —he was merely a shadow—a swiftly moving shadow."

Carolyn laughed again. "You've been seeing too many mystery thrillers, Sally," she chided. "Now suppose you tell one, Dick," she suggested and the young man settled himself in this comfortable chair and began.

"I think I can tell something quite as strange as Sally's," he said,(and Sally closed her eyes and was convinced he was the man.

"It was during the present spring that I was on the trail of a gang of international crooks—so close to them in fact I even accepted a lift and rode with them for several miles. I was suspicious but not at all sure of my quarry until the car skidded on a slippery hill and went into a ditch. No one was hurt but from the angry mutterings, the sub-machine gun that suddenly appeared in the hands of the driver and a bulging brief case that landed squarely in my arms, I knew I had hit the jack pot.

"It was pitch dark and sleeting. I jumped a hedge and bending low ran past dark houses over lawns soggy with wet leaves and at last reached a large building that was still dimly lighted. I dashed up the steps and tried the door. It opened and I slipped inside and shut and locked it behind me, and then—of all things—the lights went out.

"But I had seen I was in a wide foyer with steps leading down to another level. Somehow I felt my safety lay in that direction and I descended the stairs to the door at the bottom where I heard voices. I entered and was challenged by a woman. By that time I recognized the smells and knew I was in a hospital. Evidently the voices belonged to nurses —there were two of them. And then I heard stealthy footsetps approaching and slipped over to where a door should be. It was locked as I felt sure it would be on such an eerie night. The rest is obvious inasmuch as I am still here!"

• • •

"Then it was you!" Sally said, immediately relieved. "But tell me how you knew where the door was? I have been harboring the belief that one of the staff was playing a practical joke, except for the voice—it didn't belong to any of the staff."

"And you were the challenger, I take it," Richard Gregory said. He turned to Carolyn. "Remember the morning I so unexpectedly dropped in for breakfast with you, darling? That was the morning after."

"And the gang, Dick? What about them?" Carolyn asked, her voice worried.

"There was enough evidence in that brief case to hang twenty people," he told her. "We got most of them."

"But you didn't have a brief case that night," sally said.

The man eyed her approvingly. "I hid it in a hedge near there. I salvaged it after I was sure they had given me up. If they had known about it my life wouldn't have been worth a plugged nickel. So, as the good old saying gods— 'All's well that ends well'."

Sally sighed. The man laughed.

"Now you can forget about the mysterious midnight visitor with the voice," he teased. "But let me tell you, Sally Maynard, I think you're quite remarkable. Not many people could remember and place a voice so accurately. Particularly when you were so terrified." The man smiled. "Oh, I know you were trying very hard to sound calm and unafraid."

"He's a lawyer, Sally," Carolyn pointed out. "No one can fool him on voices. It's his business to read meaning into every faintest shade of tone and color the human voice may adopt. So, watch your nuances, darling, when you're in the presence of this young man."

"I shall," sally smiled.

"Still snubbing Jim Hallock, Sally?" Carolyn asked casually.

Sally felt the blood rush to her cheeks and tried to answer indifferently, but it wasn't too convincing. "I haven't seen Doctor Hallock to talk to in days, Carolyn. And I don't think I snub him."

"He thinks you do, and it's really young man. I'm very fond of Jim—Dick likes him, too, don't you darling?"

'Fine chap. He's going into the service very soon now, I hear. He seems eager to go. I hope he comes back safely. After this mess is over America is going to need his sort. There aren't too many of them."

Ready to Take Over S. W. Africa If Refused

Lake Success, N.Y., Nov. 13—(AP)—Field Marshal Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, told the United Nations today that he is prepared to take over mandated southwest Africa by unilateral action if the general assembly refuses to approve his proposal for its annexation.

Challenging Russia's assertion that the U. N. Charter compels the placing of all former League of Nations mandates under the proposed trusteeship system, the 76-year-old South African leader declared:

"If the assembly does not view favorably the southwest African request for incorporation, then South Africa has no other alternative but to continue to administer the territory as an integral part of the Union of South Africa."

He spoke as the trusteeship battle flared again, with a British declaration disputing Russia's contention that Palestine and all other league mandates must be placed under U.N. trusteeship.

British representative Arthur G. Bottomley told the General Assembly's 51-power trusteeship committee that "there is no obligation under the charter to bring any territory under the trusteeship system."

Mr. Bottomley, while not mentioning Palestine specifically, said "it is quite clear that a mandatory power is free to place a mandated territory under the trusteeship system, or not to do so."

His statement was made in defence of South Africa's proposal to annex southwest Africa, which Soviet Ambassador Nikolai V. Novikov charged last week would be a violation of the charter.

In supporting the South African proposal, Britain not only disagreed with Russia but with another member of the British Empire—India—which has expressed vigorous opposition to the move to annex the mandate.

Cuban delegate Perez Cisneros expressed the belief that the eight draft trusteeship agreements before the committee would win the necessary two-thirds majority in the Assembly and that their approval would open the way for creation of the trusteeship council during the present session.

He also supported a proposal by John Foster Dulles, United States trusteeship expert, that the Assembly sidestep a showdown at this session on the highly controversial question as to which countries come under the meaning of the term "states directly concerned."

Mr. Novikov had confessed that it was impossible to approve any of the draft agreements until this term was defined.

Meanwhile, the United States and Great Britain were reported working on separate plans to restrict the use of the veto in the United States Security Council. While both were definitely against any action by the Assembly on the veto question, they were said to be planning to work out self-imposed restrictions among the five permanent members of the council.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, Nov. 13 —(CP)— The stock market weakened moderately in the early session and trading turned quiet on the price decline. Volume was off to 664,000 shares for the first three hours. There was partial recovery in the early afternoon.

Golden Manitou was a feature of the action as it climbed 15 cents to 2.85 in heavy turnover. Other base metals, including Nickel, Noranda, Labrador, Pend Oreille and Sherritt, displayed mild weakness.

The tone was soft in the industrial section for the liquors, utilities and miscellaneous issues and the textiles were stronger. Fanny Farmer weakened a point.

Calgary and Edmonton and Homestead were slightly weaker Western oils.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Nov. 13 — (AP)— The stock market drifted lower today, absorbing moderate liquidation without any precipitate decline.

Dealings were light after a moderately active opening, and the direction was downward. Support was uncovered for some issues after losses or fractions to two or more points were registered near the fourth hour.

Canadian stocks moved within a narrow range in the early dealings. Distillers Seagram was off ½ and Canadian Pacific 1/8. Hiram Walker gained as much.

Elk Invades Stable, Defies Attempt to Eject

North Bay, Nov. 13 —(CP)— Robin Buckley is minus a bag of oats, his horses are minus their stable and a female elk—cause of all the trouble over at nearby Phelps township—is putting on weight at a most unladylike rate today.

The tempest in a nosebag started Saturday night when farmer Buckley found an elk in the stable happily munching the horses' oats. The horses refused to enter the stable and when Buckley attempted to shoo the invader out she merely eyed him aloofly and waved a heavy foot at him.

Buckley, prudently recalling grim tales of how one blow of an elk's hoof had snapped bones and created general mayhem, retreated and tethered the horses outside. They regarded him reproachfully.

The embattled farmer came to town and told his troubles to an official of the Department of Lands and Forests. The official smiled benignly, pointed to the game regulations dealing with the preservation of elk, tapped a pocketful of summonses and said he was sure Mr. Buckley would take good care of his guest.

Back to the stable went the disheartened Buckley, loath either to break the law or attempt force on the elk. She still was there—though the bag of oats was fast disappearing—and again evinced displeasure at the landlord's presence. He tiptoed away.

The situation remains unchanged. The elk goes right on eating, her sides bulging sleekly. The horses, nibbling on the scrawny grass outside, won't even speak to their owner. And Mr. Buckley, wondering if the elk plans to start in on the floorboards, next, just doesn't know what to do.

These happy Toronto hunters are shown with one of the largest bears to be taken from the Bala district of Muskoka. It weighs slight more than 350 pounds and was shot by an Indian guide with the party. FAMILY MOVES IN

Guelph, Nov. 13 —(CP)— Bill Drummond, his English war bride Norah, and their 11-months-old son Keith are one of the families to move into Guelph's first six wartime houses built for the families of war veterans. For them it is their first home together. Mrs. Charles Bassett, wife of a navy-veteran, on moving into another of the houses with her 18-months-old twin daughters, said, "I can't believe we have a place of our own."

Newcomers Taylor, Conacher Help Detroit's N.H.L. Bid For 25 Scoring Points

Adams Receives Experienced Players for Boys Just Coming Up

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

In the flurry of off-season trading that saw Detroit Red Wings start this National Hockey League season with a revamped lineup, manager Jack Adams could take bows today for at least two deals — those that brought centre Billy Taylor and leftwinger Roy Conacher to the Wings.

Together this pair added up to 25 scoring points in Detroit's first 10 games, which means the Wings could have been in a lot sadder plight than their present fourth position without them.

Oddly enough, Toronto Maple Leafs have expressed themselves well pleased with the deal that sent Taylor to Detroit for big Harry Watson. There have been no complaints from Boston Bruins about Joe Carveth, the rightwinger for whom they parted with Conacher.

In each case, Adams gave up younger players for two veterans he needed to balance an inexperienced team, which may partly explain why, as in all good horse-trading, all sides went away happy.

Four Years Younger

The 23-year-old Watson, on the injured list at present, is four years younger than Taylor. At 28, Carveth has two years on Conacher but Boston's main interest in this deal probably was in gaining a rightwinger for left-handed Conacher.

Fans in Boston will get a chance to pass judgment on the Carveth-Conacher exchange tonight when both take the ice in one of two N.H.L. contests. The Bruins will be shooting for a victory that would tie them for the top with the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

In the other contest, the 3rd-place Montreal Canadiens are at New York against the Rangers, tied for last place with Chicago Black Hawks.

Red Wings, while five points off Toronto's leading pace, have outscored each of the other five clubs with a total of 32 goals.

Offsetting Detroit's prolific goal-getting, however, is the fact that they have also shown up as the weakest defensive club—with 40 goals scored.

WITHDRAW PRISONERS

Chatham, Nov. 13 —(CP)—The last of 1,200 German prisoners-of-war stationed in labor camps and billetted on farms throughout Western Ontario will be withdrawn from the district tonight, James A. Garner, Ontario Agriculture Department official announced yesterday. Germans stationed in Fingal, Glencoe, Centralia and Chatham were kept behind long enough to complete harvesting work.

CLEANED OUT REGISTER

Toronto, Nov. 13 —(CP)— A youthful holdup man who walked into a north central College Street drug store last night, escaped with $100. The gunman entered while a clerk was sweeping the floor. He emptied the clerk's wallet of about $50 and cleaned out the cash register before leaving.

Western Province Spends Millions on Water Project

By LORNE BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lethbridge, Alta., Nov. 12 (CP) —A wave of new wealth is expected to flow into southern Alberta in the wake of the St. Mary-Milk Rivers irrigation project, calculated to bring stable water supply conditions to 345,000 acres of semi-arrid prairie and rolling hills and make land produce up to 18 times as much as it does now.

Key to the vast project which will cost $15,000,000 is the St. Mary River dam near Spring Coulee, about 30 miles southwest of Lethbridge. It is estimated irrigation waters from this reservoir will be flowing into crop lands by August, 1949, and that the entire program can be completed in seven years if no delays are encountered.

The St. Mary-Milk rivers project, now under way, will bring total irrigated land in southern Alberta to about 700,000 acres. Settled water supplies will prevail on a rolling plain extending about 160 miles eastward to the Saskatchewan boundary, an area which seldom receives enough rainfall to assure heavy yields and which often has suffered complete crop failures.

Employment provided by the project, estimated as high as 460 men in seasonal work for from seven to 14 years, is a minor consideration. Main benefit will come from increased crop values. The dry land to be irrigated now supports three or four persons a square mile. Irrigation will support about 80 persons a square mile.

Value of production from an acre of irrigated land sown to specialized crops is several times that from dry land. Instead of grossing $20-odd an acre from a dry land wheat crop, farmers on irrigated land will raise beet crops worth $125 to $225 an acre and vegetables canning crops worth $120 to $360 an acre. To date the area has been used principally for livestock production, wheat and a bit of rye.

Obstacle Overcome

Heavy irrigation charges, the greatest handicap until recent years, will be eliminated to a large extent under the St. Mary-Milk rivers plan. Previously all construction and operation costs were passed to the land owner.

The federal government has recognized the work as a post-war project and will pay cost of construction of dams, reservoirs, main canals and other structures, estimated at slightly more than $7,000,000, as an outright contribution.

The Alberta government will finance construction of water distribution systems and colonization, expected to cost nearly $8,000,000. Most of this will be recovered by the province thru' annual charges against the lands.

In addition to increasing value of the land tremendously, the irrigation will result in smaller individual holdings and provide for settlement of hundreds of new farmers, many of whom probably will be veterans.

Many of the present farms in the area are several thousand acres in size and a few range up to 20,000 acres. It would not be feasible or financially possible for any one farmer to have such a large expanse under irrigation. Generally most irrigated farms are 160 acres, a quarter section, although they range from 80 to 320 acres.

Old Country Letter

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

This has been a strange week in which the people of the United Kingdom received new indications that they are getting back on a peacetime footing and yet were forced to think of war and preparedness for war.

It's not that the people in London and the provinces accept war as being inevitable. There is a profound hope that the United Nations, despite early difficulties, will somehow manage to stave off future conflicts. Certainly they laugh at every occasional pessimist who predicts war in the next few years.

It's just the way things have been running.

Speeches of the Duke of Gloucester at Canberra, Lord Alanbrooke, former Chief of the Imperial General Staff in London, and Admiral of the Fleet Lord Cunningham in Edinburgh all focus attention on Commonwealth defence.

The Lord Mayor's show in London Saturday — much closer to pre-war pageantry than last year's — seemed almost a report to spur lagging recruiting with its dozens of floats giving a cheery picture of life in the navy, army and air force.

Newspapers bannered speculation that Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government in Tuesday's Throne Speech opening the new session of parliament will forecast a long-term peacetime conscription to maintain adequate forces in the face of grave international unrest.

And finally Sunday was Remembrance Day when Flanders poppies were worn by almost everyone in memory of the country's dead.

Certainly it is not a cheery week, what with a food crisis in the British zone of Germany — now reported to be averted—and uncertainty over the effect of the Republican victory on United States foreign policies and participation in world food planning.

There are more long faces in the United Kingdom than I have seen in a long time. Even Food Minister Strachey's announcement of small extra rations for Christmas provided only a momentary lift.

And yet despite their glumness most people can see that things at home are getting better. They are finding Christmas shopping simpler this year although it is still not easy and gifts are inclined to be on the expensive side.

Everyone has a few more clothing coupons than in 1945. Toys are of much better quality and good variety. Women can buy lipstick, cosmetics and other toilet articles to give away instead of being obliged to keep anything they find for their own use. While cigarets still are short, most smokers' supplies are available now for presents.

The trouble in the United Kingdom is that almost everything rationed through the war is still rationed. Stories of removal of controls in other countries, particularly in the United States, can't help discouraging even the staunchest labor supporter.

A similar relaxation in Britain would be a national tonic.

Given 5 Months For Acid Throwing

Kingston, Nov. 13 — (CP) — Convicted Nov. 5 on an assault charge for throwing acid at his wife, Gerald Sheats was sentenced Tuesday to five months definite and two months indefinite.

Sheats was remanded last week to submit to a mental examination which showed he was mentally sound.

At the trial defence counsel H. L. Wright said Sheats suffered "an obsession" regarding the presence in his house of a boarder, Clarence Young. However, Young testified that although he had several arguments with Garvin he took no part in the acid-throwing episode which resulted during a quarrel.

Mrs. Sheats said that when the acid struck her, a white fog arose from her hair and the back of her neck. She ran to the home of a neighbor who called police and summoned an ambulance to take the woman to hospital.

PIGEON RAISES CHICKEN

Kitchener, Nov. 13 —(CP)— After three weeks of unremitting toil, a pigeon, belonging to Matthew Tabar of this city, yesterday produced a baby chick, and is now proudly strutting back and forth in the hen-house guarding her new foster child. A hen had apparently flown four feet up to the pigeon's nest to lay, and although she had a nest-full with one chicken's egg, she stuck it out for the necessary three weeks.

London, Nov. 13 —(CP)— A copy of part of Lord Nelson's logbook containing his historic battle of Trafalgar message "England expects that every man this day will do his duty," was presented to sea cadets of H.M.C.S. Prevost here Tuesday night by the sea cadet committee.

THE THINGS THAT MONEY CAN'T BUY

HEALTH; A HAPPY HOME; opportunity for your children; your own peace of mind —these are priceless gifts. You can't buy them with money.

But reasonable financial security, based on a planned programme of personal saving, can help to guard and guarantee them.

Take your Victory Bonds, for example. Pretty reassuring to have them tucked away as a financial reserve, always "on tap" in time of opportunity or need. Pretty convincing proof, too, that you really can save when there's a real saving job to be done.

Perhaps today's rising costs or other factors are making it hard for you to carry on your savings programme. By the time you have met all your expenses, perhaps there's mighty little left for that all-important item marked "Savings".

Try putting savings first, not last, on your budget list. Owe yourself a definite amount each month, and make sure you collect it. It means careful budgeting, and putting off buying a good many things you'd like to have. But never forget—this is your share of what you earn. This is the part of your income which will help to assure for yourself and your family all the things that money can't buy.

PERHAPS YOU are already one of the hundreds of thousands of thrifty Canadians who have a savings account with the Royal Bank. If not, we invite you to come in and open one. Perhaps your first deposit will have to be small; don't let that worry you. The important thing is to start. It will be a pleasure to serve you.

Jewish Displaced Persons Camp At Zeilsheim Raided

Alleged Centre of Black Market in American Zone

By DONALD DOANE

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 14—(AP)—United States military police raided a Jewish displaced persons camp at Zeilsheim today and arrested eight men described by army officers as leaders of one of the biggest black market centres in Germany, operating in the camp.

Lt.-Col. Redmond J. Connolly, provost marshal, said the raid followed investigations which indicated the camp, housing 4,000 hmoeless Jews, was the centre of large-scale black market operations extending throughout the American occupation zone of Germany.

About 50 automobiles, several thousand of dollars in military scrip and forbidden American and English money, as well as hundreds of thousands of German marks were seized during the dawn raid, carried out by 100 army military policemen and 25 agents of the army's criminal investigation division.

No resistance was encountered and no violence was observed by correspondents permitted to watch the raid.

Within 10 minutes 25 American army criminal investigation agents who accompanied the police announced they had arrested the chief black market operator. He was not immediately identified.

Bakery Shop Headquarters.

Co. Connolly said a bakery shop was the headquarters of the black market activities in the camp and was the chief objective of the C.I.D. agents.

Road blocks to prevent movement of trucks were set up on all roads leading from the camp, which occupies an entire German village about 10 miles from the centre of Frankfurt.

The M.P.'s were given authority to search persons on the streets for concealed weapons but were ordered not to manhandle any of the camp occupants, most of whom come from Poland. House-to-house searches for contraband were conducted by the C.I.D. agents.

Military police said they staged the raid after receiving reports that many varieties of food were being sold at sidewalk booths in the camp at black market prices—such as oranges at 100 marks each ($10 at the legal rate of exchange.)

They said they also had been informed that "operators" in the camp had dealt extensively in automobiles, some built with secret compartments for carrying contraband cigarettes to Cologne and other German cities.

SOLVED QUICKLY

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 14 —(AP)—This robbery was six months old when finally reported to police, but it took just five minutes to solve. The owner of a mortuary upon returning from a long vacation, reported the theft of a variety of items ranging from chapel chimes to light bulbs. Police records were checked and the articles recovered—in the evidence room where they had been held since May 8 waiting a claimant.

WINS CONTEST

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 14 —(AP)—The beauty queen of the United States' housewives is Mrs. Janice Pollock of Columbus, Ohio, mother of four children and winner of the "Mrs. America" contest here last night. She was chosen from a field of 29 contestants representing several states.

The 126-pound Mrs. America is five feet, 6½ inches tall. Her waist measurement is 25½ inches, her bust 34½, and her hips 35½. Her eyes and hair are brown.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 14—(CP)—Synopsis: Cool air from Hudson Bay drove rapidly southeastward yesterday, has now reached as far as Lake Ontario and will cover all but the extreme southwestern tip of Ontario today. Skies are generally overcast in this area, but will gradually clear in the western districts during the day. Maximum temperatures today will average a few degrees lower than yesterday at all places, and frost is expected in most districts tonight. As this cool air continues its rapid southeastward motion today and Friday, warmer air from the west will enter Ontario Friday, with maximum temperatures about 16 degrees higher than today.

Judging Continues As Winter Fair Enters Third Day

Toronto, Nov. 14 — (CP) — With clear and warmer weather in the offing, judging of livestock and farm products continued today at the Royal Winter Fair, now in its fourth day.

Crowds of visitors from many parts of Canada mingled with city folk in the spacious aisles of the Coliseum, admiring the fine stock, the flower show and the bountiful displays of fruit and vegetables.

Sparkling jumping performances by two Mexican officers, a series of thrills in the W. B. Cleland Challenge Trophy competition and the closest of contests in the $1,500 McKee Hunter Stakes, in which upwards of $100,000 worth of the continent's finest horseflesh competed, made last night's Horse Show one of the finest in the Winter Fair's history.

Placed Five in 10

The Mellon Stable, which entered six horses each valued at $10,000 or more, placed five in the first 10. Sky Glo, a brown 7-year-old gelding from the same stable placed third, and stablemates Ermine Coat, Pappy and Glamour Man also finished in the money.

Portmaker, owned by Dr. Alvin I. Kay of Washington and ridden by Elizabeth Perry of Virginia won the second award. Fourth was Mountain Breeze, a handsome bay property of Jayne and Owen stables of Norwood Park, Ill.

Military competition resumed with the strenuous broad jump even in which time was one of the main factors. Each of the teams from Peru, Mexico and the United States was allowed only one minute to complete the figure eight course.

More than 40,000 people thronged the big Coliseum yesterday. A steady procession of spectators moved through the livestock pens as hundreds of others watched grooms exercise hunting horses in the horse palace ring.

Peterborough Has Master Plan For City of 50,000

Peterborough, Nov. 14. (CP)—Exhibition of a master plan for Peterborough, based on assumption of a population of 50,000 in 30 years, will be opened here tonight by Hon. Dana Porter, Ontario Minister of Planning.

Major objectives of the plan are to provide better living conditions, increased employment, industrial expansion and annexation of outlying areas for new residential sites.

The work was begun a year ago by a committee of citizens in co-operation with town planning consultants, headed by Dr. E. G. Faludi of Toronto.

LIVE MINES FOUND ON RAILWAY LINE IN PALESTINE

Merlin in Paris Is Quoted as Denying Terrorists Threaten Montgomery's Life

Jerusalem, Nov. 14—(Reuters)—British sappers today removed live mines, discovered by the police, from the railway midway between Haifa and Lydda, it was officially stated.

The discovery followed the death of an Arab constable injured yesterday when a mine exploded under a stationary freight train near Lydda junction.

The Jewish terrorist organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, appealed to the Haganah (the Jewish Resistance Movement) over its secret radio "voice of fighting Zion," to join it in "a Holy war against the British oppressors."

Paris, Nov. 14 — (Reuters) — Samuel Merlin, Secretary-General of the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, was quoted in the Paris evening newspaper France Soir as saying today that Jewish terrorists were not threatening the life of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British Imperial General Staff.

Merlin has described himself as political spokesman of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish terrorist organization, but he does not claim any official contact with Jewish terrorists.

France Soir also quoted Merlin as saying: "Several countries in Europe — behind the "iron curtain' as well as in front of it — have already informed us that they are willing to have 'practical relations' with the provisional Palestine government which we intend to establish."

It was announced in London Nov. 12 that the British War Office had decided to give no information for publication about Lord Montgomery's public engagements.

Says Report Joke or Provocation

Reports that Jewish terrorists intended to assassinate Lord Montgomery were "either a joke or a provocation," Merlin said.

"The resistance movement regarded Lord Montgomery as a great soldier who contributed to winning the war and in whose forces Jewish troops played an important part," he said.

"We surely would not wish to deprive ourselves of the sympathy of the British people who consider Lord Montgomery an idol."

London, Nov. 14 — (Reuters)—The Board of Deputies of British Jews, in a statement today, expressed "distress" at reported threats to extend terrorist activities to Britain but also regretted the "sensationalism of these reports which can only tend to create bad feeling against Jews."

Declaring that the Anglo-Jewish community strongly condemned this policy of terror and intimidation, the Board said it fully realized the importance and necessity of all security precautions being taken.

"British Jewry is at one with all others in its anxiety to see rooted out an evil which is contrary to the teachings and principles of the Jewish faith," the statement concluded.

Lady Rodney Closes Career as Transport

Halifax, Nov. 14. (CP)—Veteran survivor of the North Atlantic U-boat war and former West Indies cruise liner, the Lady Rodney today completed her hitch as a wartime transport when she arrived here with 132 wives and 54 children of Canadian ex-servicemen.

Her wartime role ended, the Rodney, one of two surviving Lady ships, now will go into drydock for reconversion to peacetime duties.

Among dependents bound for new homes across Canada were almost 40 Dutch and Belgian war wives, hoping, as one said, "to find a new, fresh world in which we can begin again."

Some Hollywood Players Rootin' For Hooton, Others Are Hootin'

Hollywood, Nov. 14 — (AP) — Some of Hollywood's film players were rootin' for Hooton today. Others were hootin'.

In Boston, Prof. Ernest A. Hooton, Harvard anthropologist, told an audience that the "he-man" type and the "string Bean" type were poor matrimonial bets, and advised the girls to concentrate on the "butter balls," who, he said, are better adapted temperamentally to matrimony.

"Is that new?" inquired Lou Costello, 190-pound butter ball. "I've always said it. Everybody knows the bigger a hunk of sugar is the sweeter it is."

"Yah?" retorted stringbean Bud Abbott. "How about a piece of cheese?"

Sonny Tufts, six-feet three inches, who described himself as one of the greatest stationary tackles in Yale's football history, snorted:

"I studied anthropology at Yale, and that ain't the way they taught it to me. Somebody's been slipping the doc the wrong dope."

Bob Hope:

"I've always wondered what the girls saw in Tubby Crosby . . . now I know."

Curb Market Building Shattered by Explosion And Six Are Killed

Columbia, S.C., Nov. 14 —(AP)—A terrific gas explosion shattered a Columbia curb market wholesale building today(causing six deaths and injuring at least three other persons police reported.

Hospital attendants listed three of the dead as N. W. Wessell, operator of the produce company using the building, Arvie Gantt, of nearby Pelion, and J. C. Abernathy.

Gantt was reported to have been fatally injured by flying debris as he sat in his parked truck across the street, about 30 feet from the building.

The explosion shattered window panes and building foundations were shaken over a wide area.

KNOX CRESCENT PRESBYTERIAN CH., MONTREAL, BURNS

Damage Estimated at $300,000 and Three Firemen Injured, One Seriously

Montreal, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Knox Crescent Presbyterian Church, a Montreal landmark for 60 years, today was a mass of burnt timbers and blackened stone after a spectacular three-alarm fire last night raced through the structure causing damages estimated at $300,000 and injuring three firemen, one seriously.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was first noticed a few minutes before midnight and within five minutes the entire building was aflame.

More than 125 firemen from 15 stations battled the flames and ambulances from hospitals stood by.

An elderly couple who resided in the Presbytery were reported safe.

Fireman Claude Tremblay, 23, suffered burns when, while atop an aerial ladder helping install water guns, flames shot through the roof searing him.

He was brought down by companions and was taken to hospital along with two of his co-workers, cut when panes of stained glass exploded under the heat

Most Imposing Edifice

Situated at the corner of Dorchester and Crescent Streets in west-central Montreal, the church recently celebrated its 60th anniversary and was noted as one of the most imposing Protestant churches in the city. For a time the fire threatened to spread to adjoining buildings.

Firemen scurried over adjoining rooftops to check any possible new outbreak caused by flying sparks. Many residents, aroused from bed, carried belongings into the streets.

Scores of policemen kept hundreds of late theatre crowd spectators away from the blaze.

Many fire trucks were delayed in getting to the fire as they made their way through thick theatre and nightclub crowds which jammed neighboring streets. Some 25 streams of water were poured on the roaring mass.

An unusual incident occurred when a man whom police said was intoxicated tried to enter the blazing church "to save the women and children." Police dragged him out when he got just inside the door.

Built in 1879, the church was the result of the amalgamation of the Knox and Crescent congregations.

Never Hunt Again, Says Hunter With Mark on Scalp

Peterborough, Nov. 14. (CP)—A bullet which tore through his hunting cap and made a red mark across the top of his scalp yesterday has convinced 64-year old Albert Nicholls that he should give up hunting.

"I went on every hunt since I was 14, but I am finished now and will never go on another," said Mr. Nicholls.

His close call from death was the result of mistaken identity by two young hunters. The men had wounded a bear shortly before they shot at Mr. Nicholls. When they saw the red of Mr. Nicholls' cap they fired, thinking it was the red blood of the bear.

WINS HOUSE IN COURT

Toronto, Nov. 14 —(CP)— A Toronto war veteran has won through the courts the ownership of a house he purchsaed and deeded to his wife who later said she was going to leave him.

The judgment, handed down yesterday at Osgoode Hall by Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson, voided the conveyance of the deed to the wife on the grounds of fraud. The judgment said the veteran was being treated at Christie Street Hospital when he deeded the house to his wife and that after the change was made she said: "Now I have it in my name I am going to leave him."

ALBANIA WILL RESIST HONORING PRE-WAR TREATIES

Premier Claims Country Hopeful of Friendship With United States

London, Nov. 14. (CP)—Premier Gen. Enver Hoxha of Albania has informed the United States, according to a Moscow Radio broadcast today, that his government will resist—as "stubbornly" as the United States demands it—the honoring of pre-war treaties between the United States and King Zog.

Nevertheless, he said in a note broadcast as the reply to a United States note of Nov. 5 recalling the American diplomatic Mission in Albania, his country still is hopeful of friendship with the United States and is willing to re-examine the pre-war treaties with a view to renewal—"but only after the arrival of an American envoy."

The United States State Department on Nov. 5 recalled its Mission to Tirana because of Albanian failure "to affirm its recognition of the validity of bilateral instruments between the United States and Albania."

In that note, the State Department said Albanian Government assurances that it would recognize existing agreements with the United States were "a prerequisite to United States recognition (of the Hoxha Regime) in accord with the established practice of this government."

Hoxha's note, as broadcast following publication in the newspapers of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, asserted that even Joseph E. Jacobs, United States Foreign Service officer in Tirana, acknowledged "surprise" at the "last minute conditions imposed by the State Department" a year ago to recognition of the Albanian government.

It contended that the United States had failed to answer a note sent Aug. 13 in which Albania offered to re-examine the pre-war treaties and study the possibility of renewal.

The note declared that while the nine-member United States diplomatic Mission had been in Albania a year and has been treated with "amiability" it had done nothing toward reaching a solution of the year-long impasse.

Princess Visits Cathedral City Of Exeter, Devon

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Exeter, Devon, England, Nov. 14—(CP Cable)—Princess Elizabeth—her charms and graces and her general resemblance to her mother, the Queen—today was the main topic of conversation in this ancient cathedral city set amid the rolling hills of "glorious Devon."

The Princess today began the second and last day of her tour of Exeter.

"Just like her mother" was the general verdict and some folk openly expressed the hope that she would marry an Englishman.

But "it might be a good idea if she wedded a Canadian," said an elderly woman in charge of a tobacco stand. "It would help keep the old Empire together."

Her Royal Highness retired early last night to be ready for today's visit to Topsham Barracks where she met army cadets in training.

Later she was scheduled to inspect the Princess Elizabeth Orthopeadic Hospital which was named after her in 1927 when she was only 19 months old.

USE WALKIE-TALKIES

Baltimore, Nov. 14 —(AP)—The Baltimore Transit Company put into effect today a system of walkie-talkie radios, to be carried under the coats of its traffic inspectors, as an experiment in traffic control. Company officials, describing the experiment as the first of its kind by a major city's transportation system, said the new system will augment the fleet of two-way radio automobiles in use here for the last several weeks.

WHO SHOULD RULE PROPOSED FREE CITY OF TRIESTE?

First-Class Struggle Is Developing in Council Between Russia And Western Powers

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

New York, Nov. 14. (AP) — A first-class struggle was developing in the Foreign Ministers' Council today over the issue of who should rule the proposed free city of Trieste. It appeared certain to put to extreme test the mildly conciliatory attitude which has grown here between Russia and the Western powers.

State Secretary Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Bevin already were confronted with 14 Russian demands for changes in a Paris peace conference decision that would vest wide powers in a governor responsible to the United Nations Security Council.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov assailing the Paris plan as undemocratic, insisted on limiting the governor's power and shifting more authority into the hands of a popularly-elected assembly and a council of government respon- a council of government responsible to it.

Mr. Molotov declared his amendments to be a "minimum essential" of change in the Paris draft statute for Trieste and when last night's Big-Four session ended after three hours of argument his list of amendments, totalling 14, was still incomplete. More were due to be placed on the Foreign Ministers Council table today.

Studying Next Move

Meanwhile, Byrnes, Bevin and Deputy French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville were studying their next moves, evidently to determine which, if any, of Mr. Molotov's points they might accept and which they would oppose.

The Western powers were reported strongly opposed to fixing any deadline for the withdrawal of troops from Trieste. They stuck to the argument that during the transition in the new international zone the Security Councils hould have a free hand to make this decision. Russia argued for a deadline of three or four months.

On another point, Mr. Molotov argued that the Big Four Foreign Ministers should retain direct authority for setting up a transitional government in the Trieste territory, while Bevin and Byrnes held that, as decided at Paris, the Security Council should have this task from the first.

BROUGHT BACK ALIVE

Salt Lake City, Nov. 14 —(AP)—Six policemen captured a silver fox yesterday after a 1½-hour chase from university campus to cemetery to residential district. When the fox was reported cornered at last, Patrolman Russell Cedarlund warned over the microphone: "Don't shoot him; he's too valuable, grab him with your hands."

"Hands, me eyes," grumbled another officer, "I can't get within 30 feet of him." Minutes later three stalwarts ganged up on the panting animal and brought him back alive.

Longer Life for Humans Thru Diet; Man's Brain and Future of Race

New York, Nov 14 (AP)—Longer life for humans, with more years of usefulness and fewer years of dependency due to old age, are clearly indicated by experiments in diet, Dr. Henry C. Sherman, professor of chemistry at Columbia University, told the Nutrition Foundation yesterday.

He described experiments with rats and some observations on humans in connection with diet to a symposium on current progress in the science of nutrition.

The implications for humans in the laboratory findings, he said, include:

A better start in life, higher health and lower death rates at all ages, and an increase in the adult life expectation. This longer adult life would have "an increased period of the prime of life of full capacity, and a smaller percentage of years of dependency."

Washington, (AP)—If dinosaurs with a brain weighing but a few ounces, managed to survive for 140,000,000 years on earth, how long can man and his three-pound brain survive?

That question came up today in the wake of an announcement by the Smithsonian Institution that a dinosaur found in northern Montana in 1942 by Dr. D. H. Dunkle of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History is of a new species of gorgosaurus.

Dinosaurs notoriously were rather dumb creatures. Weighing up to 40 tons, they had pint-size brains. Gorgosaurus' brain was two-bit size, really a dimwit.

Asked to compare the size of a dinosaur brain with that of other creatures scientists gave this picture:

The brain of gorgosaurus was about 1/65000 of this total weight; man's brain represents about 1/50th of his weight.

"But even at that, dinosaurs were very successful monsters," said R. E. H. Colbert, curator of fossil reptiles at the American Museum of Natural History.

"They subsisted on earth for about 140,000,000 years and dominated earth."

Man has been around about 1,000,000 years. He also is dominant. He also has the atomic bomb, bacteriological warfare and other 20th century killers.

"Thus, man's problem is a complexity," commented Dr. Colbert.

Meaning: Nobody has the answer as to what relationship there may be between brains and the ability to survive.

"Revolt" Against Attlee Government Staged by Members

Group Demanding Socialist Foreign Policy for Britain

London, Nov. 14 — (CP) — At least 13 more Labor Members of Parliament today joined a "revolt" against the Attlee government, demanding a Socialist foreign policy to prevent what a resolution called "an otherwise inevitable conflict between American capitalism and Soviet Communism."

Reuters news agency placed the number of dissidents at 57 while the Associated Press listed 53. The AP said that another 20 Labor M.P.'s were opposing the government over peacetime military conscription.

Labor holds about a two-to-one majority over the Conservatives, principal opposition party, in the 640-seat House.

Each group of dissidents, constituting the first real crack in Labor solidarity since Winston Churchill was forced from office 15 months ago after a general election, offered its objection as an amendment to the speech of the King Tuesday. There appeared little chance that either amendment could muster a majority and thus unseat Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet.

Rebellion Called Crisis

The Press Association called the rebellion a "Labor party crisis" and reported:

"The cabinet will give immediate consideration to what now amounts to a determined and defiant throwing down of the gauntlet by quite a substantial body of government M.P.'s. If either the foreign affairs or the conscription amendments was carried in the Commons, it would mean the immediate resignation of the government because technically such as amendment constitutes a censure motion."

The long-simmering revolt against Foreign Secretary Bevin's conduct of foreign affairs found no sympathy in the ranks of the Conservative opposition and was condemned sharply yesterday by Mr. Attlee.

Phil Piratin, Communist, apparently with little backing, introduced another amendment urging joint economic action by Great Britain, France, Russia 'and other Democratic nations in Europe . . . to resist the designs of aggressive American Imperialism which constitues a menace to world peace and security."

The amendment of the dissident Labor members urged the government to "review and recast" Mr. Bevin's foreign policy so as to collaborate with all countries and groups striving for full Socialist control of the world's resources.

Personal Appeals Made

Proponents of an "urgent" appeal for the government to "review and recast its conduct of international affairs so as to . . . provide a Democratic and constructive Socialist alternative to an otherwise inevitable conflict between American capitalists and Soviet Communism" stood fast despite personal appeals from Prime Minister Attlee and party leaders.

Reliable reports from a party caucus last night said the group — reported to number upwards of 50 Labor Members of Parliament — had made only one concession — an agreement not to demand a showdown vote on the issue, which might result in overthrowing the government.

Mr. Attlee and Herbert Morrison, majority leader in the House of Commons, reportedly told the dissenters that their action amounted to a move to censure the government, but it was not clear as to whether the cabinet intended to demand a vote of confidence.

Status of Many 'Company Towns' Rests on Board

Toronto, Nov. 14 — (CP)—The status of many of the "company towns" in Northern Ontario may rest on a decision of the Ontario Municipal Board which today continued consideration of an application from Calvert township for the annexation of the town of Iroquois Falls, some 175 miles north of North Bay.

The town is owned by the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, limited, and Reeve Elmer Lefebvre of the township said the object of the application is to place control of the town in the hands of the people, rather than the company.

"Iroquois Falls is not guided by the wishes of the people living in it," the reeve said yesterday as the Board opened its hearing. "A company town should not be dominated by the company that owns it but should be controlled by the people living in it." He said a senior employee of the firm who retires on pension at the end of this year will not be permitted to stay in the town "where he made his living for a generation, or a generation and a half."

Abitibi directly or indirectly provided employment for all residents. Relations between town and township had been harmonious although the township felt the company could give better rates for water and electricity.

The company supplied water at a rate of 11 cents a 1,000 gallons and electricity at 1½ cents a kilowatt hour. Power was available at lower rates but only in 25-cycle current and persons wishing to use it would have to convert their equipment, which now uses 60-cycle power from the company.

Schools, library and recreational facilities provided by the town were available to township residents but in many cases the distance was too great to make much use of them.

The Reeve said he felt that industrial expansion of the area might be blocked through company ownership of the town and large areas around it.

Two South Hastings Pupils Will Compete for Provincial Honors in Public Speaking

Joan Shannon, Tyendinaga, and Joan Churchill, Foxboro, Will be Contestants

Joan Shannon, S.S. 22, Tyendinaga, and Joan Churchill of Foxboro public school, will compete for provincial honors at the district public school speaking contest to be held at Brighton on Friday.

The above two school pupils were first and second place winners in the public speaking contest sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association, the finals of which were held at Queen Alexandra School last week.

Three pupils from schools in Sidney, Frankford, Thurlow and Tyendinaga competed in the finals competition with judges being W. G. Anderson, Harry Bates, both of Belleville; Mrs. John Milligan, Melrose; Vernon Ott, Frankford; H. O. Walkom, Point Anne; A. D. Duncan, Batawa; G. H. Anderson, Frankford, and Ben Bleecker, Sidney Township. Attendance of parents and friends, as well as school trustees, ratepayers and councillors evidenced the keen enthusiasm with which the contests have been followed in each area.

Brooks Allen, B.S.A., of Marysville, president of the South Hastings Educational Association, conducted the proceedings with the contestants appearing in the following order:

Lois Benedict, of Grade 8, U.S.S. Sidney, speaking on the subject "Abraham Lincoln;" Russel Carmichael, Grade 7, S.S. 4 Tyendinaga, subject "Wm. H. Drummond;" Joan Churchill, Grade 6, Foxboro P. S., "Madame Curie;" June Hamilton, Grade 7, Foxboro P. S., "The Art of Public Speaking;" Hazel Hearns, Grade 8, S.S. 17, Sidney, "Our Governor-General;" Audrey Lidster, Grade 8, Cannifton P. S., "R. L. Stevenson;" Colin McCauley, Grade 8, Frankford P. S., "Roger Young;" Mary Rodd, Grade 6, S.S. 29 Tyendinaga, "Christopher Columbus;" Helen Rose, Grade 8, Frankford P. S., "Early History of Frankford;" Joan Shannon, Grade 8, U.S.S. 22 Tyendinaga, "Hastings County;" Carol Sine, Grade 7, Frankford P. S., "Jenny Lind;" Jacqueline Smith, Grade 5, Wallbridge P.S., "Annie Randolph."

Contestants Welcomed

W. G. Anderson, principal of Queen Alexandra School, returned the decision of the judges and also welcomed the youthful contestants and their parents and friends to the school. He congratulated the contestants on their style and manner, and on a clear enunciation and forceful delivery.

As winner of the competition Joan Shannon was presented with the Col. Vanderwater public speaking trophy, while second and third place winners, Joan Churchill and Mary Rodd of Tyendinaga, were presented with gold medals donated by Warden of the county, James Nickle, of Madoc. The first three winners were also presented with suitably engraved books from the Association, and each contestant was presented with a new silver dollar, also from the Association.

Scholarships for the past school semester were presented to winning pupils, with Harry Harrison, deputy reeve of Thurlow presenting the Warden's Medal to Miss Marjorie Alford, SS 23 Tyendinaga, for the highest standing in high school entrance examinations. Scholarships of $25, awarded by the Association were presented to Miss Barbara Greatrix, S.S. 1 Thurlow, and to Miss Helen Stapley, S.S. 24 Sidney. High scholarship, health and character are considered in awarding these scholarships.

Awards Made

School improvement awards from the Ontario Horticultural Association were presented by Mr. R. H. Macklem, inspector of public schools, to S.S. 5 Sidney—chairman, F. Reid, teacher, Mrs. R. Eggenburger; S.S. 20 Thurlow, chairman, F. Purdy, principal, H. E. Darling; S.S. 10 Tyendinaga, chairman, Mrs. R. Tucker, teacher, Mrs. M. McCauley.

Cordial appreciation was extended from the Association to Mr. Brooks Allen for his untiring work and enthusiasm during his two years as president of the Association and a gift of a Waterman's pen and pencil set was presented by the secretary Mrs. Wanda Sine of Foxboro. Special thanks were extended to the Belleville Board of Education, Mr. L. A. Kells, school inspector and Mr. Anderson for the use of the school auditorium.

District Cheese Makers Hear Message From Premier Of Ontario George A. Drew

Picton, Nov. 14—The milk producers and cheese makers of Prince Edward District deserve high praise for their fine co-operation in raising their standards of cheese manufacture and in turn the standard of their product', said Premier G. A. Drew in a message read at the annual banquet of the District Cheese Makers' Association held here last night. The banquet marked the close of a competition designed to improve factories and the quality of cheese manufactured. Premier Drew noted that cheese production in Prince Edward, for the first eight months of the year, has been 2,187,720 pounds, showing less decrease than most districts.

Several other agricultural leaders sent messages of congratulation. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, referred to the farmers' achievements during the war years, as epic, and pointed out that there is still need for great production to feed the world.

'In the days ahead, some adjustments will be necessary to put the national economy on a more stable basis. I am confident that the farmers of Canada will do their part in this direction and none more readily than the dairy farmers among whom those in Prince Edward are an important unit,' said Mr. Gardiner.

Good Quality Produced

'The most encouraging feature this year is the quality of cheese produced, and the improvement of conditions and equipment of cheese factories', stated Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, in a message. 'Ontario cheese stands second to none in the world, and cheese producers have a duty placed upon them to do their utmost to keep it in that proud position', Mr. Kennedy wrote.

Guest speaker, C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying for Ontario, listed factories responsible for a decrease in cheese production in the Province as including export of cattle to the United States, scarcity of farm help and relaxation of farmers from strenuous work during the war years. He stated that the 19.5 per cent drop in production had been noted in 1946 throughout Central Ontario, while there was a 21.5 decrease in Western Ontario, 18.3 in Eastern Ontario and 22 per cent in Northern Ontario.

Stamped by Canada

J. M. Bain, Chief Dairy Instructor for Central and Western-Ontario, spoke of Canadian cheese for export now being stamped with the word Canada, it being so stamped that the word will appear on every pound of cheese cut.

T. J. Hicks, Ottawa, Senior Dairy Produce Grader, former grader J. L. Irwin, Belleville and others joined in congratulating the district on its record. President of the Chamber of Commerce, E. J. Williams presided and music was given by the Rhythm Ranch Riders and Miss Barbara Diment, Belleville. Prince Edward Dairy Instructor, E. W. Henderson announced awards in the competition and prizes were presented by J. M. Bain, and trophies by D. P. Pyke and H. J. McFarland.

W. H. Remington, maker at the U.E.L. factory at Adolphustown, was winner of the McFarland Gold Trophy, scoring the most points in the entire competition, which was judged by C. E. Lackner, J. M. Bain and E. W. Henderson. The Canadian Bank of Commerce trophy for best outside appearance of factories went to Geo. Gallagher, maker at Black River Bridge.

Prize Winners

Other winners included:

Outside factory conditions—G. Gallagher, Black River, Thomas Wannamaker, Ben Gill; W. H. Remington, Adolphustown; Lyle Lewis, Acme; J. E. VanDusen, Elmbrook; Fred Newcombe, Cressy; Herbert Atherton, Waupoos; Alex Johnston, Quinte; Lester Wyatt, Cloverdale; George Channell, Bloomfield.

Season's workmanship score—W. H. Remington, H. Atherton, G. Gallagher, J. E. VanDusen, T. Wannamaker, L. Lewis, S. Stewart, F. Newcombe, G. Channell, Cyril McKeown of Weller's Bay.

In the cheese scoring contest, W. H. Remington came first with an average of 93.6 per cent, all but two of the 16 district factories having a better than 93 per cent score. Other winners in order were, L. P. Lewis, G. Gallagher, G. Channell, Roy Welbanks, Wilfred Johnston, Zara Bristol, Cyril McKeown, J. E. VanDusen, Fred Newcombe, Herb Atherton, William Anderson, Thomas Wannamaker, Lester Wyatt, Sterling Stewart, Alex Johnston

Kiwanis Juniors Entertained By Club Members

Members of hockey, baseball and football teams carry a big responsibility to their community in that they are models for hero worship by the younger generation. They should watch that the example set is a worthy one.

Thus were the words of advice given by Recreation Director Pete Beach of the Albert College as he addressed the local Kiwanis Club and members of the local Kiwanis junior baseball team who were guests at the regular weekly service club luncheon.

Pointing out the importance of recreation in the development of the younger generation, Mr. Beach held that the result of the game was not as important as the fine things which happen during the contest. "The result of the game is terrifically important at the time," he said, "but the things which stick with us are the many fine acts of sportsmanship which occur and the fine individuals we meet during the contest."

Club Complimented.

Mr. Beach complimented the local Kiwanis club on their show of co-operation in sponsoring recreation for the younger generation in the city and also paid splendid tribute to "Speedy" St. Louis, coach of the local Kiwanis Juniors ball club.

"Speedy," himself a fine athlete and adept at many lines of sport, is not interested only in baseball and in hockey, but he is interested in the young people of the community. He sees something beyond that of producing good hockey and good baseball."

Winning of games was important, but not all-important, if the recreational aspect of sports was considered, according to the speaker. He warned young boys against the physical dangers of indulging too strenuously and too frequently in sports, claiming that many potential athletic stars are burned out before they reach their zenith.

Refers to Incidents.

Illustrating his statement that it is the fine sportsmanship which arises out of athletic competition, rather than the result, which sticks with the individual down through the years, Mr. Beach referred to incidents occurring in Olympic games.

During the 1912 Olympics in Sweden an American had gone through to be a heavy winner in the track and field competitions and after being awarded trophies and prizes by the King of Sweden had been declared ineligible when it was discovered he had accepted reimbursement for expenses incurred while playing baseball in the United States. The trophies were duly returned to Sweden and presented to the second place winner—a Swede—who two weeks later returned them to the American with the statement that "the better man won."

Manager of the Kiwanis Juniors team, Kiwanian Jack McVeigh, introduced Coach "Speedy" St. Louis to the club roster. In doing so he paid fine tribute to the coach who had taken the local juniors through to the provincial finals in 1945 and again in 1946 had reached the semi-finals.

Coach "Speedy" St. Louis in turn introduced members of the local ball club and expressed the opinion that if the boys stayed together they would be heard from another year.

In recognition of the honor won on the playing field during the last season the local Kiwanis Club will tender at a later date a banquet to members of the local club. At this time group pictures of the entire club roster will be presented to each player.

Zellers Dance Much Enjoyed

Last night Zeller's staff from Peterborough, Oshawa and Lindsay were entertained at a dance held by Belleville store, in the I.O.O.F. Hall, to music by "Knobby" Jones and his Orchestra.

Spot dance was won by a couple from Peterborough store. Managers' contest won by Mr. M. D. Wyman, Oshawa. Assistant Managers contests won by Mr. D. Wood, Belleville. Jitterbug contest won by Miss Dorothy Brodie and Mr. Stan Schrieder, and the cracker prize was won by Miss Donna Ferguson, all of Belleville.

Over one hundred guests sat down to tables decorated in traditional Zeller colours. Everyone enjoyed the daintily prepared refreshments.

Appreciation was extended to the Belleville staff by Mr. M. D. Wyman, of Oshawa, on behalf of all the visitors, who had the opportunity of enjoying the dance and for the assembling of Zellerites from other cities.

Thanks were extended to the entertainment committee for the success of the evening.

PRINCIPAL WARREN NAMED PRESIDENT FOR COMING YEAR

South Hastings Educational Council Holds Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the South Hastings Educational Association held at Queen Alexandra School, the following slate of officers for the coming year was presented to the meeting by the nominating committee, which consisted of Mr. K. D. Vivian, convener; Mr. J. A. Detlor, Mr. Frank Tummon; and Mr. Frank Moon; and was accepted, as being the executive for 1946-47.

Hon. Presidents, H. J. Clarke, former Inspector; James A. Nickle, Warden; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., East Hastings; and J. Fred Wilson, M.L.A., West Hastings.

Past President, Brooks Allen, B.S.A., Marysville.

President, J. A. Warren, principal, Frankford.

Vice President, Harry A. Harrison, deputy reeve.

Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Wanda Sine, Foxboro.

Trustees, J. A. Detlor, James Campbell, Douglas R. Atkins, Arthur Bates, William McMechan, Joseph Forestell.

Trustees' representative from Trenton, Frankford and Deseronto.

Secretary's Report

As a result of suggestions and efforts of Mr. R. H. Macklem, I.P.S., the South Hastings Educational Association was inaugurated in November 1944.

The organization plan of the Association, to include trustees, ratepayers, councillors, teachers and parents, makes it an ideal co-operative community organization the secretary's report showed.

Four general meetings have been held, with a decided increase in interest and knowledge in the activities of the association.

In the Spring of 1945 the association brought to South Hastings the Chief Director of Education for this Province, Dr. J. G. Althouse. In the Fall, Mr. M. A. Campbell, secretary of the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association presented a message to trustees and ratepayers in South Hastings.

Early in the life of the association an education survey was made of South Hastings and it is in reference to these findings that the work of the Association has been carried on and a finger has been kept on the pulse of every community, large or small, and its particular needs.

Pupil Work At Fall Fairs

More pupil work has been exhibited at Fall fairs; the scope of the travelling library extended across the three townships; co-operation of trustees, teachers and farm boys enlisted that these boys may attend special classes in farm mechanics and so forth at Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School. School Cash Books, containing necessary revisions required by the Department of Education have been obtained for School Secretaries.

There has been participation in a school improvement plan in which this organization has aroused the interest of Township Councillors and Reeves, and is giving awards to schools showing the greatest improvement.

Encouragement has been given to Visual Education in South Hastings through grants, and organization of Projector and Film Circuits, and training of Teacher Operators.

The Association has been actively interested in the proposed Hastings County Health Unit.

Two Scholarships Founded

They have established two $25 Scholarships— the purpose being to assist a boy or girl of high scholarship, good health, and character who might find it difficult to pursue his or her education beyond Grade 8 without financial aid.

Dental Clinics and Home and School Clubs have been established.

The association has sponsored Township Education Nights. A most successful Education Night was held in Tyendinaga on April 10th.

They have been instrumental in playing girls, who were desirous of offering some help in return for their room and board while attending Collegiate, and who might not otherwise be able to attend.

Advertising has been done and assistance given in securing Music Supervisors.

Public Speaking contests have been initiated in South Hastings with very gratifying results.

This work has all been carried on at the suggestion of and under the direction of Mr. R. H. Macklem, Public School Inspector of South Hastings.

Women's Division of R.C.A.F. Receives Official Farewell From No. 1 Air Command

Trenton Air Station (Staff) — On the parade square that echoed for nearly six years to the tramp of marching air force feet, with aircraft dipping wings in final farewell salute, members of the Women's Division, RCAF of No. 1 Air Command said formal goodbye to the service at impressive parade ceremonies here yesterday afternoon.

Immaculate in their trim winter blues, the WD's stood rigidly at attention in the centre of a hollow square as 650 male personnel of the Command and air station from Air Vice Marshals to the newest AC's cheered them to the echoes.

It was their last formal parade. For on December 21 the Women's Division R.C.A.F., passes into history with a record of service achievement that matches any of the armed services of any country.

Following a farewell address by Air Vice Marshal E. E. Middleton, C.B.E., Air Officer commanding, the smart squadron of WD's under command of Wing Officer W. N. Taylor, senior staff officer, swung smartly past the reviewing stand where the Air Officer Commanding took the salute.

W.D. Squadron Inspected

With the A.O.C. representing the rank and file in symbolic farewell to the "girls" stood AC2 R. C. Rankin, one of the newest R.C.A.F. recruits who stood stiffly at the salute as the squadron marched by. Another feature of the parade was the first appearance of the new R.C.A.F. Band under the baton of Warrant Officer Hunt.

Prior to the march-past, the WD squadron was inspected by the Air Vice Marshal after the entire parade under the command of Group Captain H. H. C. Rutledge, O.B.E., had given the General Salute. With the inspection party besides the A O C and Group Captain Rutledge, commanding officer of the Trenton Air Station, were Wing Commander Galloway, Flying Officer Kightley, Wing Officers, K. O. Walker, M.B.E., and W. N. Taylor M.B.E., and Section Officer Ward, officer in charge of WD's at No. 1 Air Command.

Guests at Dinner, Dance

Climaxing the goodbye ceremonies, the WDs who were transported by bus from Mountain View, 6 RD, No. 1 Equipment Depot, No. 1 KTS, to join their comrades of "Command" and the Trenton Station were guests at a dinner and dance in the evening.

In his address to the departing squadron, Air Vice Marshal Middleton recalled that the WD was the last of the Women's Services to be mustered out. It was formed in July, 1941, preceding the WACs and Wrens, and was reformed in February, 1942, as the Women's Division. There were 17,000 WD's in all with 2,500 proceeding overseas. They had 30 casualties and were awarded 105 decorations.

He congratulated them on their cheerfulness, earnestness in work and play. "They went", he said, "into offices, hangar lines and messes from one end of Canada to the other. On the parade square, your smartness was an example to all, especially in the WD Precision Squadron which became a byword in Canada, the U.S.A. and Great Britain."

The WD's were inspected by the Queen, Princess Royal and Princess Alice, the AOC said. "They endured the rigors of service and hazards of air war with courage and were always a cheer and comfort to the wounded."

Wear Badge Proudly

He asked them on their return to civilian life to remember the brighter side of the RCAF; to wear their badges proudly, and wished them happy memories. He closed with "Canada is proud of you".

On July 2nd, 1941 an order-in-council was passed bringing the WD, RCAF into being. Flight Officer K. Walker, now Wing Officer was appointed commanding officer.

In October, 1940 the first group of 150 recruits were accepted from all parts of Canada and were trained at Old Havergal, Toronto, to become the nucleus of the WD officer and N.C.O. strength. On December 1 of that year, the first squadron of airwomen were taken in to undergo training in all trades. At that time No. 2 KTS, a Manning Depot and Trade Training School was formed. Later the initial training was carried out at No. 7 Manning Depot at Rockcliffe.

Overseas in 1942.

In June, 1942, the W.D.'s proceeded overseas as well as to many isolated stations in Newfoundland, Labrador and Canada.

As the R.C.A.F. W.D.'s reach the end of their active service to Canada they have personnel operating in 57 different trades and have acquired the strength of over 17,000 girls.

Wing Officer Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Taylor, 183 Colin Ave., Toronto, Ont. She joined the R.C.A.F. W.D. in October of 1941 at Toronto and was among the first group of airwomen in Canada. On completion of officers training, she became a member of the Training Depot Staff, later rising to the post of Officer Commanding. Wing Officer Taylor was next named Officer Commanding of No. 7 Manning Depot (W.D.), Rockcliffe.

In March 1943 she proceeded overseas on a tour of inspection of W.D. personnel in the United Kingdom.

September 1944 found Wing Officer Taylor back in Canada and promoted to Senior Staff Officer, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), succeeding Wing Officer W. Walker. She has and will continue as W.D. Chief until the retiring date for all W.D. personnel, December 21st of this year.

Born in Crosby, England.

Wing Officer Walker was born in Crosby, England, and is the daughter of Captain J. T. Walsh, Marine superintendent, Canadian Steamship Lines. She spent most of her youth in Canada and on July 2nd, 1941 became the first woman to receive Commissioned rank in the recent war as Organizing Officer of the new W.D. Branch of the R.C.A.F. Wing Officer Walker was appointed Officer Commanding No. 6 Manning Depot (W.D.) in 1942, later taking the same post at No. 7 Manning Depot. In June of 1942, she was made the Senior Staff Officer of the R.C.A.F. Womens Division at Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa.

In 1943 the W.D. Chief went overseas to supervise the activities of the Air Force girls. In 1945 she organized leave by air air for Army and Air Force personnel from London to Paris and from London to Dublin.

Before returning to Canada Wing Officer Walker became the Personal Assistant to the Air Officer Commanding in Chief.

Council Adopts System to Protect School Children

The matter of providing protection for school children while they are crossing city streets to and from their respective schools is a civic responsibility and not one for the Board of Education, it was agreed by city council this week when members passed a recommendation setting up such a protection system at local schools.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education members held that the responsibility of affording protection to school children while crossing the street near their schools was for the city and this contention has been upheld by officials in Kingston who were visited by a special delegation from Belleville.

Visiting Kingston were Police Chief Walter Probert, Harold Seldon, Administrator Lawrence Kells and Alderman Claude Tice. Chief Truaisch of Kingston told this committee that in Kingston council had incorporated protection for school children as a matter of traffic control. Chief Truaisch claimed that the Board of Education in Kingston was not responsible and that senior pupils in public schools were not efficient to handle the traffic when children were crossing the street.

System Outlined.

In Kingston large sandwich boards have been constructed and these are stationed some distance from the schools in each direction. These inform the motoring public of a "school area" while at the crossing a "veteran" was placed with a large disc bearing the word "stop" which could be used at his discretion. The cost to the city is $30 per month per man. These men are under the control of the traffic sergeant.

In council this week members adopted such a system for Belleville which was suggested by the special committee composed of Aldermen E. E. Flolwell, Claude Tice and William Harvey, and it will be tried for one month.

The recommendation indicated that seven positions would have to be filled, these being King George School; Dundas Street for Queen Alexandar School; Bridge Street at Ann or William; Bridge Street, West, at Highland Ave. for Queen Mary School; Pine Street for Queen Victoria School, and Victoria Ave. and Station Street near Pinnacle for St. Michael's.

Some Wartime Controls Needed During Present Emergencies But Should be Under Constant Review

Montreal, November 14.—Recognizing that some wartime controls must continue through the present emergencies, economic controls generally should be under constant review and eliminated when their necessity has lapsed, B. C. Gardner, president of The Canadian Bankers' Association, said here today.

Speaking before the Association's annual meeting, Mr. Gardner, who is vice-president and general manager of the Bank of Montreal, said "I am a firm believer in the system of ordered free enterprise and the free market. believe that some of the wartime controls must continue until emergencies are over, but I also believe that many such controls tend to become fixed and bureaucratic and that in a democratic country they should be under constant examination, and that the aim should be to eliminate them the moment their necessity can no longer be proved. We welcome, therefore, governmental assurances that such is the present policy."

After referring to the accumulations of money and savings now in the hands of the Canadian people at a time of acute scarcity of consumer goods, Mr. Gardner said governmental controls were only one anti-inflationary factor. The real control of the price level rested on the common sense and thrift of the Canadian people and their respect for law .

"The average Canadian," he continued, "is hard-headed and thrifty; wartime educative methods consolidated his native tendency to save. He balks at high or inflated prices; nor does he hunt or bid omnivorously for goods in short supply. When supply begins to appear, he declines to buy if prices seem to him unreasonable. Educated to value money, he has accumulated something of a 'stake' and is pleased with it. His common sense will not sanction his letting it go except for tangibles at what he considers fair prices."

Mr. Gardner reported that of 8,600 bank employees who entered the armed services during the war, 677 gave their lives and nearly 6,000 have returned to work in the banks. Some await demobilization and others are in military hospitals.

These men and women, now returning to peacetime jobs, are no problem, quite the contrary, said Mr. Gardner: "Their experience in the service of freedom seems to have heightened their competency, broadened the sum of their knowledge and has added confidence to their bearing. Their work, I am sure, will enhance the relations of the banks with customers and public." He also paid tribute to the staffs who manned the banks during the war, working long hours and shouldering many additional duties.

In a general review of economic conditions in Canada, Mr. Gardner expressed hope "that progress in the direction of multilateral trade may not be overtaken or offset by the continuance or emergence of bilateral trading and bulk purchasing and selling through government agencies. Whatever the advantages that may be urged in favor of such devices, their basic weakness is that they build up a wall of government between individuals in the countries concerned.

"Under such conditions, discussions as to price, quality, and terms of sale that would be part of the ordinary course of private trading, all too often become elevated into diplomatic incidents, in which are the seeds of international controversy.

"I am convinced that restoration, not only of world trade but of world order itself, requires a breaking down of these barriers and a re-weaving of the fabric of day-to-day transactions between individuals in different parts of the world, governed by the accepted standards of business ethics and practice and at prices determined by the free play of the market."

In his survey of general economic conditions in Canada, Mr Gardner referred to assets of $7,342 millions, double the prewar figures, held by Canada's 10 chartered banks at August 31, 1946.

"While as individual banks," he continued, "we sometimes pride ourselves upon our assets, I have often felt that we ought to take equal, if not greater, pride in our liabilities .Most of our liabilities are the deposits. We owe them to depositors—millions of individuals—all over Canada. They constitute impressive evidence of the confidence in which our banks are held by millions of persons. The depositor is satisfied to lodge his money with the bank, knowing that his bank is so operated that he can draw out his money or any part of it, in cash, any time he wishes. Our assets are but the counterpart of these deposits."

Mr. Gardner noted that business volume in Canada has continued to drop from the high levels of war activity, but still is 85 percent greater than during the five years before the war. Record production has been achieved in some industries but others have been beset by uncertainties, difficulties and changing conditions. The direct loss of productive effort resulting from prolonged industrial disputes during the past six months has been greater than in any previous year and "it will be months yet before the smooth flow of many materials and finished products is restored."

Advertising in War Effort

During the war years members of the advertising profession in Canada made a magnificent contribution to the cause of victory and of freedom.

Advertising was instrumental in helping to maintain the high morale of the people of the United Nations; increased the production of the weapons of war; stimulated recruiting and boosted the sale of Victory Bonds and War Saving Stamps.

Today the advertising profession, eager to see our nation enjoy lasting peace and prosperity, is helping labor, management and Government iron out grievances and settle unrest, strikes and difficulties now impeding our peace-time production.

With these aims in view and to discuss problems created by reconversion and now confronting the profession, advertising executives from leading firms from coast to coast are meeting in Toronto November 13, 14 and 15.

They are attending the 32nd annual convention of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, an organization formed during World War I and which has since attained a status of high importance in Canadian business and with a rapidly growing membership which has now reached a total of 140 companies.

The Association of Canadian Advertisers promotes a better understanding and appreciation of the protection afforded the general public by the use of trade-marked and branded goods as well as improving the standard of advertising practice.

Indications are that Canada is on the threshold of an era of progress and prosperity unparalleled in the long history of our country. To attain the highest degree of growth and expansion during this era, business, industry and finance must be backed with sound, sane and honest advertising.

That members of the advertising profession should meet in convention in the interests of their respective firms in particular and Canada in general augurs well, indeed, for the future of our land.

Yuletide Parcels

Relatives and friends of the Britons are not forgetting them as preparations get under way for the celebration of Yuletide. War which brought closest relations between the people of the Old Country and Canada's representatives in Europe in the forces made ties between Canadians and Britons more strong. Soldiers returning home to Canada brought fond memories of that great land overseas and of the hospitable people of the British Isles.

Britons still feel the stress and the results of war in shortages and many Canadians no doubt will think of them in the days immediately ahead and will have parcels soon on the way for the British Christmas. In Britain thousands upon thousands of Canadian service folk knew the fortitude and hospitality of the Britons in those trying times. They nevertheless were made hospitable by the people. They remember that at the coming season of Yuletide.

Looking Forward

Somewhere in the offing is winter. In the miracle of nature man cannot know definitely when it will strike, but he knows winter is to step down out of the clouds one of these days with a blanket of white.

Winter adds to the effort people have to exert to keep the roads and walks cleared. In Belleville winter cannot however again create quite the dread some people had of the coming of the frost king with his myriads of snowflakes in other days not so long ago. For Belleville has snow plows, which were used last winter to excellent effect. The relief that they brought was something that no doubt many persons could hardly have believed would ever come to the harassed and worried citizen, one of whose winter's occupations from time immemorial has been shovelling snow at the behest of the snow king.

Wild Grapes

Those who know the countryside intimately, can appreciate such descriptions of nature as in the following from a New York Times editorial writer in which he refers to the wild grape. His intimate knowledge of aspects of country life is apparent. Of the fox grape he says:

"When the autumn starts downhill to winter the wild grapes hang in smoky-blue clusters. Most of the leaves have dropped from the vines, but a few of the large yellow-tan foliage saucers make a contrasting background for the bunches of fruits. This has been a good season for Vitis labrusca; the blossoms were thick in the spring; no frost blighted the greenish-white bouquets. Now the wild grapes hang in profusion along slender brown stems.

"The dictionary is, as usual, terse and objective. It says: a smooth-skinned juicy berry, the edible fruit of two genera (Vitis and Muscadinia) of vitaceous vines. It also defines grape as a color, bluish blue-red in hue, of low saturation and very low brilliance. This does scant justice to the subject. On a mellow sunny late-fall day the fox grapes remind one of colorful beads strung irregularly along heavy wrapping string. The vines climb over frost-heaved stone walls; they make a cross-stitch tangle on rail fences above faded goldenrod in fence corners. They hang from sumacs and birches in brushy nooks of upland fields; they spread over sprawling stone piles at pasture edges. In the woodland that surrounds the meadow vines hang from tall maples and elms.

"Each fall the countryman takes a half-bushel basket and harvests a generous mess for jelly making. Cultivated grapes are good and serve their purpose; but there is something different about the peculiarly tangy, musky-tasting wild grapes. The deer, grouse and pheasants are partial to them; blue jays eat a few for variety in their diet. On a day when the sun is blessing the earth with warmth and the land lies quietly drowsing it is pleasant work to pick the fragrant, thick-skinned berries. Fox grapes are just one of the wild vines that add beauty to the countryside. Now for a brief spell they hold their smoky-blue clusters to the autumn air."

Photograph Whole Country by Radar

Radar will be extensively used in helping to map Australia from the air. The National Mapping Council is planning to put up radar stations all over Australia for this purpose.

These stations, it is understood, will accurately fix the position of cameras so that the whole of Australia's 3,000,000 square miles can be photographed from the air. It will be the first time that radar has been used on a large scale to photograph a country.

The national mapping of Australia will be carried out in accordance with the specifications of the International Civil Aviation Organization, which has been accepted by the Australian Government as part of an international agreement.

No Royalties

Adrian Conan Doyle, son of the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, replied to a recent Moscow newspaper article describing the fictional detective as a deplorably capitalistic type, according to Newsweek. In a letter to The London Daily Mirror, Doyle suggested that the Russians "entertain their readers with a bright article on the practices of their own Government who have overlooked the legal and absurdly moral necessity of paying a ruble in royalties" on the Sherlock Holmes stories published in the U.S.S.R.

Modesty is a shining light; it prepares the mind to receive knowledge and the heart for truth.—Guizot.

THE BRAIN

Oft to me my father said:
"You've a brain within your head,
And I beg you to remember
It's for use in times of doubt.
Its chief purpose is to cope with
All the problems you must grope with,
So don't ever rashly answer
Till you've thought the matter out.

"Very marvelous is the brain.
It is fashioned to contain
All that's known to human knowledge,
All the memories of the years,
And the sense that lies within it
Can be called on in a minute,
If you'll only stop to use it,
When the need for it appears."

I have blundered. Who has not?
For so often I've forgot
What my father tried to teach me,
And I've tried to teach my son.
Into trouble I've gone sinking
When I've acted without thinking,
And I've paid with bitter sorrow
For the foolish things I've done.

EPILEPTICS, HERE'S YOUR ORGANIZATION

A reader asks about the drug tridione with phenobarbital in the treatment of epilepsy—treatment which has proved generally satisfactory for control of the seizures and the psychic dis-ease or uneasiness, under the close supervision of the physician, of course. The reader goes on to speak of the difficulty of holding a job and remarks:

"I hear a great deal about organizations which help the lame, the blind, the tuberculous, victims of poliomyelitis, heart disease patients and other handicapped persons. Epileptics have to earn their livelihood, too, but we are dismissed because of the seizures even though our work is satisfactory. I cannot count the number of superiors who had no further use for me after they learned I have epilepsy even though my work had been perfectly satisfactory to them. On one job a worker badly crippled and one with heart disease were retained but I was discharged. . . ."

There is an organization for the education of the public, the correction of the many fears and the refutation of the misinformation concerning epilepsy. It is The American Epilepsy League, 50 State Street, Boston, Mass. You can't get medical advice or treatment from the organization. But you can get reliable information pertaining to your problems by addressing your inquiry to the League and inclosing with your letter a properly stamped, self addressed envelope. The League has various books and pamphlets of special interest and value to any one who is subject to any form of epilepsy or any one who teaches, cares for or employs epileptics.

What I said above about tridione is all I know about it. It is a comparatively new synthetic drug, and from reports of physicians who have had experience in the use of it in epilepsy and other neuroses, the drug is safe only when the patient taking it remains constantly under the observation of the physician. That's all I can tell you about it.

A neurosis is a functional disorder or disease of the nervous system for which no physical cause can be found. Epilepsy is a neurosis. So is migraine (periodic sick headaches ushered in, usually, with an aura or warning, such as "fortification spectra" or dancing jagged flashes of light in one side of the visual field). In fact some medical author has characterized migraine as the "sensory equivalent of the motor neurosis, epilepsy"—but of course that implies the grand mal type of epilepsy—both loss of consciousness and convulsions, rather than the petit mal type—lapse of consciousness with convulsions.

Occurrence of grand mal or petit mal in a family is no more significant of taint, deficiency, delinquency or anything of the sort than is migraine, or so-called "nervous exhaustion."

Is it beneficial or harmful for growing children to eat a light lunch at bedtime?

(Mrs. W. M. L.)

Answer — It is beneficial—and don't make it too light, Mom.

Mischievous

Neighbor gives her two young children turpentine for most any ailment and kerosene when they have sore throat. She says I'm crazy when I express fear that it may do harm.

(Mrs. C. T.)

Answer—If they were my children I'd rather give them a little scientific neglect.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did Peru get its name?

"Peru" (pronounced PAY-roo by Peruvians) is one of uncertain origin.

It is generally believed to be derived from "biru," a native word meaning "river." According to the generally accepted story, when Francisco Pizarro and his gold-hungry followers arrived in what is now Colombia they asked the Indians where their gold ornaments came from. The natives said Biru and pointed southward toward the Iscuander River. The Spaniards mistook "Biru" for the native name of the territory and the term, corrupted into "Peru" became the Spanish name of the region.

Another story is that "Biru" was the name of a warlike castique who ruled a small territory near the Isthmus of Darien and with whose warriors the Spaniards fought a fierce battle.

Peru is bounded by more countries than any other South American country except Brazil. It touches Colombia, Ecuador, Chile, Brazil and Bolivia.

Much of its territory lies in the high Andes and it contains seven peaks more than 19,000 feet in altitude. A strip along the coast, 1,400 miles long and about 30 miles wide, is almost a desert and receives little water except from mountain streams.

Lima (pronounced LEE-mah by Peruvians) was called the City of Kings when it was founded in 1535 by Pizzaro. The word is a modified form of "Rimac," the name of the river on which it is situated. The Lima cathedral, also founded by Pizarro, is supposed to contain the remains of the assassinated Conquistador.

Land-locked Bolivia, the only South American country without access to the sea directly from its own ports, was at one time known as "Upper Peru."

It received its modern name from Simon Bolivar, Liberator of South America, who is known as the George Washington of South America because he led a series of revolutions and military campaigns that resulted in liberating six countries from Spanish rule—Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Panama, Peru and Bolivia. In fact the liberation of all South and Central America resulted largely from the activities in which he played a major part.

Because of its magnificent mountain scenery Bolivia is known as "The Switzerland of South America." Prime Minister William E. Gladstone once ordered Bolivia stricken from official British maps because the Bolivian minister made a comment reflecting on the honor of Queen Victoria.

The Bolivian monetary unit is called "boliviano."

Two Committed For Trial On Forgery Counts

Fred A. Scott, Belleville cattle buyer, and Dr. S. H. Shipsides, of Wellington, Prince Edward County veterinarian, were committed for trial on forgery counts when they appeared for preliminary hearing at Picton police court on Wednesday.

The charges involved the preparation of export papers for shipment of cattle to the United States and were in connection with the "cattle ring" cases in the Bay of Quinte district wherein several American and Canadian cattle buyers and two veterinaries were charged with violation export regulations under the Contagious Diseases of Animals Act.

Mr. Scott was granted bail of $4,000 and Dr. Shipsides was given his freedom on $5,000 bail. Their trials on the forgery counts are scheduled for Picton on January 8th. Both Mr. Scott and Dr. Shipsides will be placed on trial for conspiracy, also involving shipment of cattle to the United States. Preliminary hearings in the latter charges were heard in Picton during October.

At Picton on Wednesday Crown Prosecutor Malcolm Robb of Belleville, proceeded with two charges of forgery against Mr. Scott, and on one charge of forgery against Dr. Shipsides.

Say 36 Taoist Priests Burn Abbot, Layman

Peiping, Nov. 13 —(AP)— Chinese police reported today that 36 priests in the famous Taoist Temple Paiyunkuan (White Cloud) revolted yesterday and burned to death the temple's Abbot and its Taoist layman on a huge bonfire.

Police related this story:

The priests accused the two men of violating Taoist regulations. They smashed into the men's living quarters and dragged them to the temple gate.

The priests beat the two men with clubs, trussed them with the ropes, flung them on a pile of firewood, doused them with gasoline and fired the bier.

Twenty-seven of the priests surrendered and the other nine were turned over to police.

The Abbot, An Shih-Lin, was more than 50 years old.

The layman, Pai Chin-Yi, held no official title in the temple.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary Tea Delightful Event

Cool winds and dull skies out-of-doors did not reflect upon the warmth of welcome extended to all guests at the afternoon tea, sponsored on Wednesday by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, at the home of Mrs. G. H. Stobie, Campbell Street, where beautiful lamps shed a rosy glow around the invitingly arranged rooms.

Large bowls of white, golden and bronze 'mums added considerably to the attractiveness of the drawing room; while in the tearoom candlelight was reflected from the sheen of the antique "sideboard" and from the surface of the long oval table, where a lovely Venetian lace scarf was centred with a bowl of bronze 'mums, flanked by silver candelabra holding tall ivory tapers.

Mrs. Ray Grant and Mrs. Robert Andrews were co-conveners for this very successful social event. Guests were received by Mrs. Stobie, hostess and interim president of the Auxiliary.

Inviting the guests to the tea room were Mrs. J. G. Galloway, and Mrs. H. Wray, where Mrs. Simpkins and Mrs. W. C. Mikel poured for the first hour, being later relieved by Mrs. J. Imlah and Mrs. R. Abrams.

Assisting with the serving of the guests were Mesdames E. M. MacDonald, R. Anderson, G. Wilson and W. Allore for the first hour, with Mesdames L. Langlois, Lally, Elliott and McCabe composing the second group of serviteurs, while Mesdames Aman, Bradford, Turvey and Redner replenished the plates and teapots.

The home-baking and talent table, in charge of Mrs. R. Flynn and Mrs. G. Scott received a well merited popularity, and the beautiful cake on a table in the reception hall was the envy of all who bought tickets for a "draw".

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. Camken, who reports the venture as being entirely gratifying to the ladies sponsoring it.

Are You Living on the Fats of the Land

When the expression "living on the fat of the land" is used, it generally refers to an abundance of choice foods and a high standard of living. However, in the instance it is used in rather a different sense, since "fats" are a matter of particular concern to every Canadian homemaker at the present time.

The fats used in the various countries naturally differ. In Italy with olive trees growing on all the sunny hillsides, olive oil has become a staple and expensive fat. England, the beef-eating nation, has in the course of the centuries developed many ways of using suet. Several European countries, primarily Agricultural, found themselves with more cream than could possibly be kept sweet and fresh. Therefore, what was more natural than for the cooks to discover uses for sour cream?

Food habits are built by food abundances. It is also equally true that as a nation eats in its youth, so will it continue to eat in its maturity. However, circumstances have altered our former eating habits and food whims. To obtain any kind of fat today is a triumph and to make the most of available supplies the homemaker must be "fat-wise". The Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture has a few suggestions to help you.

Stock Highly Prized

Grandmother highly prized her stock of pure lard and attributed to it the success of many tender delicacies that graced her table. Modern processing and refrigeration prevents rancidity and the development of off-flavors during storage. Today the homemaker may use lard with the assurance of achieving excellent results in pastry, baking powder biscuits, cookies, muffins and for pan-frying. Lard is used as an ingredient of all blended shortenings.

"Pork squares" of jowls are an excellent source of additional fat. This meat has been cured and smoked. It may be sliced thinly and cooked like bacon, or baked in the piece at a low temperature. It costs less and requires fewer coupons than bacon. This fat may be used as the shortening in muffins, spice and molasses cakes and cookies, as well as in white sauces, soups and for pan-frying.

The present scarcity of fats has eliminated from Canadian menus those foods fried in deep fat. Such rich foods as pastry, croquettes and other sauteed foods should not be served too frequently. When pie is the dessert let it be of the single crust variety. It will still be a family treat, yet conserve supplies of fat. Cake pans should be heated slightly before greasing, this will reduce the fat required for this purpose. Lard and home-rendered fats as well as blended shortenings will require more salt than that used in recipes calling for butter.

When adding fresh dripping to old fat, be sure the old fat has not developed off-flavor nor become rancid. The oftener fat is heated the lower the temperature becomes, at which it smokes.

JACK HORNER PUDDING

1-20 oz. can red plums.
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour or
1 2/3 cups pastry flour
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 tablespoons [illegible] lard or other mild-flavored [illegible]
1 egg
1/2 cup milk

Pit the plums, halve, add juice and water. Place in a shallow, covered saucepan and bring to boiling point. Sift together the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder. Cut in the lard, until mixture has a fine even crumb. Combine well-beaten egg with milk and add to dry ingredients. Mix lightly. Drop by spoonfuls over plums. Cover and allow to steam without removing lid for 25 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Six servings.

OATMEAL COOKIES

2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teapsoon baking powder
1/3 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teapsoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/2 cup raisins
1/4 cup mixed peel (chopped)
1 1/4 cups oatmeal
1 egg
1/4 cup milk
8 tablespoons mild-flavored fat (melted)

Sift together the flour, salt, baking powder, sugar, cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Add raisins, chopped peel and oatmeal. Mix well. Combine well-beaten egg with milk, and melted fat. Add to dry ingredients and mix lightly until well-blended. Drop by spoonfuls onto a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven 350°F., for 15-20 minutes. Yield 2 1-3 dozen cookies.

WEDDINGS

SONNE—CARRE

White chrysanthemums were used as decorations in St. Stephens' Church, Lachine, Que., on Saturday afternoon at five o'clock for the marriage of Kathryn, daughter of Mrs. F. W. Lundy Carre and the late Mr. Carre of Lachine, to Edward Leyland Sonne, son of Dean and Mrs. Leyland Sonne, Lachine, with the Rev. T. C. Kirby officiating.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Henry Carre, of Ottawa, the bride wore a street length frock of dusky pink crepe, with brown hat and matching accessories, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

The maid-of-honor was Miss Audrey Charlton, cousin of the bride, who was in a frock of grey crepe, matching hat and burgundy accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Robert G. Sonne acted as groomsman for his brother and the ushers were Mr. John Edward and Mr. Alastair Cameron.

For the reception held at the home of the bride's mother, where white 'mums were used as table decorations, Mrs. Carre received in a gown of navy sheer, with black hat and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Leyland Sonne assisted, wearing a gown of grey crepe, with black hat and corsage of pink roses.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Currie and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carre of Ottawa, Mr. and Msr. Francis J. Carre, of Belleville.

EARLS—SHARPE

At two o'clock on the afternoon of Sat. Nov. 9, a nuptial ceremony of some local interest was solemnized at the "Holden Homestead", Frankford, Ont., when Ruth Anita, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. M. Sharpe, of Lakefield, Ont., became the bride of Lloyd Earls, son of Mrs. F. W. Riddell and the late Mr. Leonard Earls, Flint, Mich. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, assisted by the Rev. F. G. Joblin, of Port Perry, in the presence of about 35 guests, the bridal party standing under an arch of the evergreen backing the traditional bridal color-scheme of pink and white. Rev. Mr. Joblin officiated twenty-six years ago at the wedding of an older sister, Pearl, now Mrs. W. L. Houlden.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. W. L. Houlden, the bride, entering the drawing-room to the strains of the Wedding March played by her sister, Mrs. Houlden, made a charming picture in a gown of white satin, fashioned with fitted bodice, long sleeves and a bouffant skirt of white lace, her long veil falling gracefully from a halo headdress. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Miss Thelma Jean Houlden, as bridesmaid, was gowned in midnite-blue brocaded satin, and carried white and pink carnations; while Mr. Mack Sharpe, brother of the bride, performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining-room where evergreens, miniature flags and white chrysanthemums were used in decoration. For the reception, the bride's mother wore a turquoise blue gown with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, wearing a black ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For travelling to Toronto, London, and other points in Western Ontario, the bride donned a suit of light grey wool, top coat of blue with silver fox collar, and black accessories. After their return Mr. and Mrs. Earls will reside in Flint, Mich., where the groom holds a remunerative position with Buick Motors.

Among the many beautiful gifts received by the bride was a cabinet of silver from the parents of the groom, and a silver tea service presented to her by her associates in the office of the National Grocers, Belleville, where she has been employed for the past two years.

Spinsters' Dance By Dee Bee Club Great Success

On Tuesday evening in Club Vanity Fair, approximately one hundred and seventy-five couples enjoyed dancing to music by "The Commodores" at the annual "Spinsters' Dance" sponsored by the Dee Bee Workers' Agency of Deacon Bros. Ltd.

Miss Arlie Gilbert and Mr. Walter Hubinsky; Miss Armstrong and Mr. Rosebush; Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" McBride. The prize for dancing with "Kilroy" was presented to Miss Goodfellow.

Attracting considerable attention were the representatives from the "Illicia" photographic studios, who were busy taking flashes of the dancers.

This very successful social event was under the able direction of Miss Margaret Meeks, with Mr. W. A. VanTassel performing the duties of "Master of Ceremonies".

New Soapless VEL Makes Suds Old Fashioned

by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

Have you tried soapless VEL yet? It's the newest thing in washing helps. Over a million dollars have been spent in developing this new cleanser. It does everything that any good soap will do—yet it is not soap and doesn't act like soap.

OUTCLEANS— OUTLASTS SOAP SUDS

When you add warm—or even cool water to VEL, it forms light, billowy suds instantly. But just like a frothy drink, the bubbly foam soon subsides, leaving a clear solution that cuts grease and lifts out dirt in double-quick time.

WATER STAYS CLEAR

Unlike the cloudy, milky-white water which soap produces, VEL keeps the water almost transparent so that you can see what you are doing . . . see the things you are washing. A teaspoonful or so of VEL in the dishpan quickly dissolves grease making that inevitable chore of dishwashing less tedious. VEL contains no soap so leaves no soapy scum—makes china and glassware sparkle so that drying is unnecessary.

VEL LIFTS OUT DIRT

VEL literally lifts out the dirt from soiled clothes and deposits it at the bottom of basin or wash tub. Lack of suds has nothing to do with VEL's new and scientific cleansing action, so don't contrast it with soap products. You need have no fear of VEL's effect on colours or fabrics for it's a mild gentle cleanser which is as safe for woolens and nylons as it is for the weekly family wash.

WONDERFUL FOR FLOORS— WOODWORK

For the speedy removal of greasy dirt from floors, walls and woodwork, just put about a tablespoonful or two of soapless VEL in a pail and add hot or warm water. You'll find VEL makes hard rubbing and rinsing unnecessary.

THOROUGHLY TESTED

My own rigid tests with soapless VEL prove that it's foolish to cling to old-fashioned ideas about suds. And don't think VEL is just a temporary substitute for soap. It has a permanent place of its own in every home.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

PRESBYTERIAN Y.W. CLUB

Madoc.—The Young Women's Club of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church met on Monday evening, November 4 at the home of Miss Marion Robertson.

The meeting opened with the singing of the hymn, "Unto the Hills".

During the business period it was decided that the club would donate flowers for the anniversary services. Mrs. K. Nicol and Miss Loreen Connor were appointed to act as the nominating committee. It was arranged to hold the December meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh Keller.

The worship period took the form of a "Remembrance Service". "The Call to Prayer was given by Mrs. Clarke followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mrs. K. Nicol read the Scripture lesson from Isaiah, Chapter 52, verses 7-10 and Revelation, Chapter 21, verses 1-7. This was followed by the singing of the hymn. A duet "Let us Have Peace", was rendered by Mrs. Nicol and Mr. Douglas Blue accompanied by Miss L. West.

Rev. J. G. Murdock as guest speaker, gave a very interesting address on "The Organization of Our Church".

The National Anthem and prayer by Rev. J. G. Murdock closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clarke.

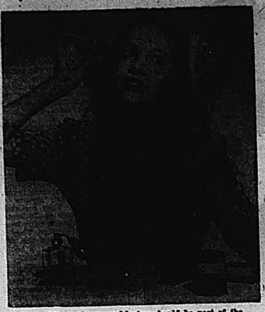
Eyebrows in Fashion Again



Care of the eyebrows and lashes should be part of the daily beauty routine.

By HELEN FOLLETT

CRUELTY to eyebrows is a thing of the past. Beauty fads come and go, and the emaciated forehead scimitar is following the usual trend. If you are still tweezing yours down to a single line of a dozen or so poor little fuzzers, you are not in the fashion procession. Look at the lovelies of the silver screen. They have eyebrows again, home-grown, fairly luxuriant.

The ideal eyebrow is dark of color, carries a gloss, arches slightly in the middle portion, tapers away to a fine point at the far terminal. The distance between the eyebrows depends upon the setting of the eyes. If the eyes are close together, the distance should be greater than if they are far apart. As a general rule, the inner end should be just above the inner corner of the eye.

Leave Some Brow.

If the eyebrow is tweezed too much on the lower side, the eyes will look smaller. Worse still, the face will carry a look of perpetual surprise. The expression will be more or less vapid and mash-like. We've had enough of all that. It was a tiresome whimsy in the first place, putting eyebrows completely out of business.

Pluck the shafts that have wandered from the fold and then stay your hand. When washing your face, shampoo your eyebrows. This practice will make the growth soft and silky, but will stay put after being groomed with a small brush. Put mineral oil or brilliantine on the bristles to give the eyebrows gloss.

Should Conform

The brows are as distinctively a part of the face as any other feature, and should conform in shape, size and color to the general outlines and compositions of the face. That fact seems to be overlooked by the enthusiastic weeder who demolishes the growth and resorts to a crayon.

Remember that a moderate arch is considered more beautiful than a high arch or a straight line.

Also, when putting mineral oil on your brows, touch the lashes, too. The lashes will keep healthy and strong.

Bancroft

Bancroft. (Special.)—One of the largest Veteran parades to be held for years assembled at the corner of Station and Hastings Street shortly after nine, Monday morning. The parade was in charge of the Legion, President Mr. Theodore Tryon, a veteran of World War 11. It moved along Hastings Street to the Community Hall for a Union Service at 10 a.m. This service was in charge of Rev. R. McLauchlin of St. Paul's United Church while Rev. R. Gardam of St, John's Anglican Church, gave the address. The combined choirs of St. Paul's and St. John's Churches were in attendance for the service. Following the short service the Veterans again assembled and marched to the cenotaph on Bridge Street where the usual ceremony was held. The two-minute silence was observed and a wreath was placed on the cenotaph by Mrs. Roland Haryett assisted by Mrs. Thornton.

A Veterans' Banquet was held in the Community Hall, Monday evening, which banquet was put on by the war workers, with President Theodore Tryon in charge. Mr. Bert Braden of the Erie Flooring of Harcourt, was the guest speaker, who gave a lengthy and interesting address on Education. Mr. J. L. Churcher fittingly expressed appreciation to, the speaker. Mr. Don Wilson made an address of thanks to the local War Workers for the splendid banquet and also for their work while the boys were overseas and since their homecoming.

The veterans held a dance in the community hall Monday night which was largely attended for dancing to music provided by Jimmie Duffus and his orchestra from Peterborough.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Father's Name First in Christmas Card Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When sending a Christmas greeting card (or for any other occasion) in what order should the parents' names be written when a child's name is included in the signature? I thought that it was proper to use this order: Jane, John and Junior. But I have been criticised and told that this order is correct: John, Jane and Junior. P. N.

When a child's name is included in the signature, the father's name should come first (the "Mr. and Mrs." order): John, Jane and Junior. Or John and Jane and Johnny; with the first name added when necessary for identification.

Girl's Parents Should Announce Her Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter's engagement is to be announced soon, and my aunt (my mother's sister) would like to give a cocktail party in her honor and have the engagement announced at this party to be given in her home. Would this arrangement be proper?

Mother.

It would be in the best taste for you and your husband to make the announcement first, abiding by the fine tradition and then have the party given by your aunt a party to celebrate the engagement, not to announce it. This does not mean that you and your husband have to give an engagement-announcement party. Your daughter and her fiance may just tell or write to friends, and then, if you wish, you may send the news of the engagement to the newspaper. Then the announcement will be made by you and your husband, as it should be made, and even the day following the announcement, the party may be given "in honor of" the engagement.

Cutting and Serving the Bride's Cake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wedding reception is to be held in a hall, and the wedding cake is, of course, to be sent there. When is the cake supposed to be cut, before or after the meal? I know I cut the first piece, but would it be proper to let someone else cut the rest of the cake? If so, who?

L. L.

If there is to be a sitdown luncheon or dinner, the bride's cake is reserved for the dessert course, to be served either alone or with ice cream. You cut the first piece just before the dessert course. When the cake is not to be reserved for the dessert course (as at a reception, with buffet service), you cut the cake as soon as all your guests have been received.

And yes, usually, after the bride has cut the first piece of cake and shared it wth her bridegroom, a caterer's assistant takes over the cutting and serving of the rest of the cake. Or, if the service is buffet, the guests may cut it themselves. Or sometimes the bride asks a girl relative or friend to take over this responsibility.

Mother Shouldn't Give Bridal Shower For Daughter

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A neighbor of mine is giving a shower-tea for her daughter. I say this is not correct, that an intimate friend of the girl or a group of her friends should give the shower. Am I right?

F. J.

Yes, you are right in thinking that it is not good taste, for very obvious reasons, for a mother to give a bridal shower for her daughter. When an intimate friend of the bride-to-be or a group of her friends (perhaps members of her club or a group of co-workers) give the shower it is then in the proper spirit of this special kind of party.

A SWING to the right or left is seen in hats developed to indicate spring trends. One such hat has black velvet draped to one side on smoke gray felt—a beret type —with a red pheasant-tail quill thrust across the front.

Melville

Melville — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cory, Belleville, celebrated their golden wedding Monday evening. Among guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton.

Rev. Bowen Squires and Mrs. Squires moved on Friday to their farm on North Lakeside recently purchased from Mr. Carl Woof.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Root, Pleasant Bay, moved on Monday to Mr. G. F. French's house vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Squires.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carley were at home on Friday evening to about twenty guests to a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carley. A large number gathered to charivari the happy couple later in the evening when they were generously treated to ice cream, cookies, candy and cigarettes.

About sixty friends and neighbors gathered at the school on Saturday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kinnear who are moving to Consecon. On behalf of the community Mrs. R. Cruickshank and Mr. W. H. Morton presented them with an end table and electric table lamp while Mrs. W. H. Morton read the address, and on behalf of the Ladies Aid Mrs. J. Root read an address and Miss Muriel Carley presented Mrs. Kinnear with a fruit bowl and matching candlesticks. A short program was given by the school children accompanied by Miss Marion Mikel at the piano. A community sing song with Mr. Chas. Kent as accompanist was enjoyed by all present. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Margetson, with guitar accompaniment, gave several selections and Mrs. G. French contributed two piano solos which were much enjoyed. Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a social time.

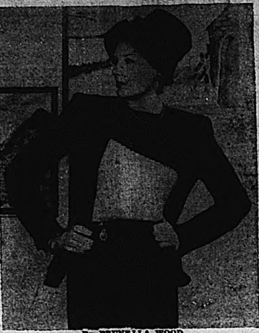
Congratulations to Mr. Howard Palmer and Miss Goldie Wannamaker, Wellington, who were married on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Jas. Morton, Mrs. W. H. Anderson and Mr. Jas. Wickson were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carley and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carley.

The Ladies Aid met at Mrs. Arthur Kinnear's on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kinnear and baby, Murray, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kinnear.

The Knit Pullover Blouse



By PRUNELLA WOOD

The handsome knit pullover which steps with Vera Maxwell's navy and white tweed suit, marks a new high in the fashion career of what we used to call 'sweaters." It is knit of white wool with a navy yoke set on at a diagonal line...and the model is made with a fitted waistline which makes it very flattering.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What Makes an Ideal Husband?

It's always interesting when people disagree with you.

A few weeks ago, when answering a letter from a 17-year-old girl who thought she was in love with two boys at once, I expressed the opinion that no girl of that age was ready to make a decision on so momentous a matter as love.

Now a reader who is "almost 18," writes in to "object very strongly to this generalization," saying that while she agrees that the girl in question did sound immature, she does not believe she is typical of the average girl of that age.

Then she proceeds to offer "a thumbnail sketch of the man I hope will be my future husband," as proof that she is mature enough to know how to choose one.

So here's her description of the man who measures up to her ideal of a husband. What do you think of it, girls? Does he measure up to your own ideals, and do you agree with her that any girl who picks a man with these qualities has a mature viewpoint on the subject of husbands?

Her young man is 23, and "he is not handsome, nor, as a matter of fact, even cute. He is quite average-looking, although with the nicest laugh-lines around his eyes when he smiles, and he doesn't have a glamorous profession. But he has, ever since his discharge from the army, helped to support his mother rather than see her work. He is very considerate of other people, and has excellent manners, also tact.

"Although he lives in a different city, when I had a slight accident, recently, he called me up several times during the week just to cheer me up a bit. He has a wonderful sense of humor. He is quite intelligent, but doesn't flaunt it, and he is always willing to learn from others and take well-meant criticism. He is very versatile, and managers to fit into any group, never offending anyone. I can feel perfectly natural with him, and we have as good a time going for a walk as we do dancing in a high-priced atmosphere.

"Does this sound immature?

"E. S."

It sounds, "E. S." as though you were a lucky girl to have found a young man with so many excellent qualities, and if he lives up to them all, then I'm sure he should make you a fine husband. I am not so sure, however, that just because you may have been unusually lucky in having a very worth-while young man come your way, it proves anything about your maturity, or lack of it.

From what you say, I get the impression that you feel it proves something because you appreciate this boy, even though he is not handsome and doesn't have "a glamorous profession"—whatever that may be. But he evidently does have charm, and when you have charm added to all the sound qualities he seems to possess, I would say you had "All this, and Heaven, too"! And I wouldn't think it would need very much mature discrimination to decide to settle for such a desirable young male.

On the other hand, if good fortunes hadn't dropped him right in your lap, so to speak, but, instead, another young man had come along—very handsome, with a "glamorous profession," and with equal or more charm, but perhaps not quite so many good qautilities —would you have had the wisdom to withstand the impact of his charm and hold out for solid worth? That I should say would be the real test of whether or not you were truly mature.

But, if you like, I'll amend my original statement to read that the average, 17-year-old girl isn't old enough to make a discriminating choice of husbands. And I'm willing to admit the possibility that you may be above the average. Only I must have better proof than the facts contained in your letter before I would be convinced of it.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

The Shapely Head Is a Beauty Asset

In that remote period when air beauty was measured by the yard rather than by quality or arrangement, it was the way of women to say that they could only wear their hair high, or they could only wear it low. They had fixed ideas on the subject, though of course, fashion influenced them to deviate from their accepted modes.

At that time, so we hear tell, a good deal of consideration was given to head contour, as it was established by the style of the hair-do. Now that women are putting their minds to growing longer hair, doing everything to produce more pigtail material, this subject of head shaping is coming up again. Hair stylists are stressing it. They are shaking their own heads at the long, tall woman who insists upon wearing a long, tall coiffure. They turn thumbs down when the round-faced girl asks for a bouffant, round, fluffy arrangement.

At the present time we have no standardized hairdress. You can bun it atop your plate. You can have a chignon at the napeline. You can flount a short bob or a shoulder length. You take your choice. If you are a smartie, you can roll your own rolls, wave your own waves, and look as cute as the next one.

No sooner had the coiffure dictators tooted the upswept arrangement with huge coils on the crown than they began to promote the short cut which, of course, is ideal for summer and autumn.

A writer in a monthly magazine devoted to the interests of the beauty industry says that the length of the hair should depend upon the length of the neck. Let us hope that his notion gets around in the puchritude works, since the exact length is a problem to most cropped customers and, evidently, the operators themselves haven't very clear ideas on the subject.

"There can be no doubt," he writes, "that there is a proper hair length for each individual within the new short hair pattern. Any trend must be adapted to particular needs.

"A girl or woman with a long neck should definitely not have it bared to the same extent as the individual with the short neck," he continues. "The reason is obvious; the more that is seen of the long neck, the longer the neck will appear; the less that is seen of the short neck, the shorter the neck will appear."

The short cut requires skillful trimming and tapering. Too many operators are casual about this treatment. Many a woman has found, after a trim, that she has to nip off a tress here or there, that they don't all work neatly into rolls and ringlets. So, let's hope for better hair cuts, let the short locks fall where they will.

Fashion Flashes

NO USE talking, that Schiaparelli is a whiz. At her showing she produced a woolen motor coat with chemically treated woolen buttons that turn green when weather is fine. Another idea is the roomy, loose-hanging tweed coat with huge pockets having waterproof lining to hold travel necessities.

PERFECT for ski or winter country use is a handbag of brown and white ponyskin with heavy cowhide leather handle. Leather thongs draw the bag together and there is an outside change purse attached to the drawstring.

THE NEAT LOOK characterizes some of the nicest of the new hats. Braagaard does a neat little bonnet type of smoke white felt with a lifted brim, pointed in front, that slants off to one side. Verimilion velvet, softly draped, forms the high, puffy crown.

AROUND TOWN again, and going out o' nights, is the bag with the jewelled frame, so long absent from the fashion scene. A rounded pouch of white satin, with pointed side gussets, is trimmed with discs of flat black sequins arranged scale fashion, the discs outlined wth gold thread. The elaborate gold metal frame is encrusted with tiny pearls and gold beads.

A DRESS can be formal without a deep decolletage. Bronze satin is used for a magnificent formal evening gown, delicately embroidered all over in tiny rhinestones. Broad boat-shaped neckline and long tight sleeves. Skirt has a slight train. Definitely an "entrance" dress!

RECIPE

From ONE easy mixing—THREE days' baking!

Luscious raised muffins for Saturday lunch... tempting fruit whirls for Sunday breakfast... and a rich, tender loaf that's perfect for the lunch-box sandwiches—all from one batch of dough! Clip this easy recipe now!

BASIC 3-WAY RECIPE

- 8 cakes compressed yeast*
- 2¼ cups lukewarm water
- ⅓ cup molasses or brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 6½-6¾ cups sifted flour
- 2 tablespoons melted shortening
- 3 cups All-Bran

If you do not plan to store dough in refrigerator, use only 3 yeast cakes*

Crumble yeast into large bowl; add lukewarm water; stir until yeast dissolves. Add salt, molasses or sugar, add 3 cups flour; beat well. Add shortening; beat well. Add All-Bran and remaining flour; mix thoroughly. Sprinkle with flour, turn out onto board; knead until smooth and elastic (about 10 minutes). Put in bowl twice as big as mound of dough; brush with melted fat. Dough may now be stored, if desired. (To store, cover with waxed paper and store in refrigerator.) If dough, or part of dough, is to be baked at once, let rise until double in bulk. Punch down. Let rise 15 minutes, shape and bake according to the following directions. (If just bread or muffins are desired, make only half the recipe.)

ALL-BRAN RAISED MUFFINS: Form ⅓ of dough in balls to fill greased muffin pans ⅓ full. Brush with melted fat; let rise to double in bulk. Bake at 425°F. about 15 minutes.

ALL-BRAN FRUIT WHIRLS: Roll ⅓ of dough ½ inch thick. Spread with fruit filling. Roll up and cut in inch slices. Place on greased cookie sheet and brush with melted fat; let rise to double in bulk. Bake at 400°F. about 20 minutes.

ALL-BRAN BREAD: Form ⅓ of dough in loaf; place in greased bread pan; brush with melted fat. Let rise to double in bulk. Bake at 400°F. for 15 minutes; reduce heat to 350°F. and bake 45 minutes.

P.S.—Kellogg's All-Bran is guaranteed to keep you regular naturally or double your money back!

Switch to Swift's

1,100 Housewives Invited to Test SWIFT'S CLEANSER

We asked 1,100 members of a prominent Canadian women's organization to test and criticize the new Swift's Cleanser. They put it through the most severe tests in their daily cleaning routine. They used Swift's Cleanser on kitchen sinks, bath tubs, basins, toilet bowls, windows, linoleum, cutlery, greasy pots and pans, every type of surface. The result? 77% of these women pronounced it EXCELLENT. Now, after using it in their own homes, 3 out of 4 of these prominent Canadian housewives are changing to Swift's Cleanser!

Why are they changing to Swift's?

Because Swift's Cleanser works fast, yet it's safe on the finest surfaces; because it cleans effectively with less rubbing; because it removes stubborn stains; because it's smooth and easy on the hands; because it's the only cleanser that does both—cuts grease fast, doesn't scratch ever!

Try Swift's Cleanser yourself ... test it in your own kitchen. You, too, will agree SWIFT'S is Canada's Finest Cleanser

Y. HOOP LOOPS GET UNDER WAY

House League basketball got under way last Friday night in the gym at the Y.M.C.A. with four games being played. The Junior League produced the best competition on opening night with two close games being played. In the opener the Bums had a tough time taking the Saps, the final score being 16-15, and in the second game the Mugs edged out the Goons by 17-14. In the Senior League the Wildcats took the Phantoms by default and the Whizbangs took a defaulted game from the Dodgers. The failure of two teams to have a full team on hand marred the opening, but both teams feel confident that this will not occur again. Players were picked up to make games on both scheduled periods and some good play was witnessed.

Junior games get under way at 6.30 and there is something doing right through till 10.00 o'clock. The gallery is available without charge for spectators, and basketball fans will see some fine competition if they care to come out.

This week's games bring together the following on Friday night: 6.30 Goons vs. Bums; 7.15 Mugs vs. Saps; 8.00 Whizbangs vs. Wildcats; 9.00 Dodgers vs. Phantoms.

Junior.

Bums — Buchanan 7, Dudley, Rose, Taylor, Soule, Mazer, R. Button, Capt. 7, Trumpour 1, Maxwell, total 16.

Saps — Burke, Spiegel, Capt. 9, Strachan, Ketcheson 2, Fenn 2, Walmsley, Croll, Scrymgeour 2, McBride, total 15.

Mugs — McBurney, Capt. 5, Scott 2, Leslie 2, Dolan 4, L. Button, Batchelor 2, Williams 4, total 17.

Goons — Galbraith, Capt. 2, Faulkner 10, Jeffrey 2, Muirhead, Lazenby, Waite, Shaw, total 14.

Senior.

Wildcats — Ostrom 6, Whiting 3, Rapino, Ritchie, Mason 26, total 35.

Phantoms — Mott 4, Lyall 14, Scott 2, Dolan, Rose 3, Garrow 5, total 28.

Whizbangs — Faulkner 6, Spafford 15, Hayman 8, Vaughan 4, Watkin 2, total 35.

Dodgers — Hyde 4, Bonnell 2, Rollins 8, Garrow 2, Waterhouse, total 16.

The smiling young gentleman above is "Whipper" Billy Watson, British Empire wrestling champion, and who may be the National Wrestling Association world's title-holder this week, who meets the husky Rusky Kwarianni at the Hume Arena Friday night. The Muscovite Mauler is a burly chap who favors the rough tough style of subduing an opponent. The clever Watson will have his hands full come Friday, and that's no joke, son.

SAYS EX-SERVICEMEN COULD PROFIT BY HIS EXPERIENCE

Veteran of World War II Returned Home Feeling Rundown, Troubled with Stomach, Nerves on Edge, Tells How He Was Helped by Short Treatment of Syntona.

Here is the story of a World War II veteran who has returned home after five years active service in the army. Told for its possible value to other ex-servicemen who many find themselves in a similar condition, it is the personal experience of Mr. Frederick Gibbs, 104 Queen St., Kingston, Ontario.

"During my five years service in the army, I associated with many of the fellows in all branches of the services, and I know from personal experience that many of them suffered from stomach conditions and have returned home feeling rundown after the strain of modern warfare," said Mr. Gibbs.

"In my own case I was feeling pretty badly used up and for one thing I couldn't seem to get sound sleep at night. My nerves were all on edge. Many times I got up mornings feeling as tired as I did the night before. Then, too, my stomach was acting rather badly. Food I ate gave me gas which caused cramps and a distressed, heavy feeling in my stomach all the time. Often I got bad attacks of heartburn and throbbing headaches and many days I didn't feel like doing a thing.

"Looking through the paper one evening I read about Syntona and how it was helping so many people, so I got some and I certainly feel that this medicine has done me a wonderful lot of good. My appetite is greatly improved and I can eat my meals now without having to suffer with gas, indigestion or such distress afterwards. Also, my nerves are relaxed and I am getting sound, restful sleep at night. As a result my energy has returned and I feel so much better all day long that even my work seems easier.

"I think it is wonderful to find a medicine like this and I do not hesitate to recommend it to all ex-servicemen and to all others having similar troubles."

Thank you, Mr. Gibbs. We are very happy to know that Syntona has given you such gratifying results. We hope your message will reach others who may be suffering from the conditions which you describe and that it will be the means of bringing them the same gratifying relief.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Joe Carveth Turns Hat Trick Against Former Mates to Tie Boston Bruins for N.H.L. Lead

Rangers Move to Fourth Spot by Holding Canadiens to Draw

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

From some unknown reserve—now listen closely, Jack Adams—the athlete always seems to draw his greatest strength against the men he once called mates and that goes for the National Hockey League as well as any other sport.

That bit of philosophy, duly delivered, is intended to return a smile to the Detroit Red Wings' mentor. But it won't. The odds are that nothing short of a victory will alter the way Joe Carveth treated his former mates last night.

The husky right winger, whom Adams traded to Boston Bruins before this season opened, pulled out all the stops with a three-goal performance that led the Bruins to a 5-2 victory over the Wings at Boston. To make it worse, these three gave Joe a total of four in 10 games and all four were scored against Detroit.

The victory shot Bruins into a first place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, idle meanwhile and opened up a two-point margin between these two and Montreal Canadiens, held to a 4-4 draw by the Rangers at New York.

Black Hawks in Cellar

A crowd of 13,900 at Boston watched Carveth score a goal in every period as the Bruins took an early 2-0 lead over the Red Wings and increased it snugly. Big Milt Schmidt notched the other two for Bruins while centre Bill Cowley and defenceman Jack Crawford each picked up a pair of assists.

The Canadiens, playing before an audience of 15,543 at New York, twice came from behind and held a one-goal lead in the third period before Tony Leswick knotted the score for the final time. It was Leswick's second goal of the night, with Cal Gardner and Church Russell getting their others.

For Canadiens, defenceman Leo Lamoureux, Maurice Richard, George Allen and rookie defenceman Roger Leger were the scorers.

PROVINCIAL LEAGUE

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Nov .14. (CP)—Victoriaville Tigers trimmed St. Hyacinthe 6-3 in a Provincial Hockey League fixture here last night.

The teams played to a 3-3 deadlock in the initial period and peppered the goalies with shots in the wide open play. Kenny Hayden opened the scoring with shots in the wide open play. Kenny Hayden opened the scoring at :44 when he broke away on a solo rush to slip the disc past Renaud in the Saints' nets.

The Saints came back to tally two goals on efforts by Marcel Despelteau and Paul Hebert and the Tigers offset this lead by retaliating with a pair of markers by Burnett and Leduc.

The Victoriaville team came back stronger in the middle period and managed to keep the Saints forwards at bay while their marksmen notched another two goals. Thibault nicked the first one on a smart passing play with Boyer and Hebert and Wray registered the second goal after picked up a relay from Dussault and Thibault.

The St. Hyacinthe squad battled grimly in the last period to get back in the running, but the Tigers tightened up their defence and added another goal when Dussault fired a shot past Renaud for the sixth Tiger score.

Cote Score Five

Lachine, Que., Nov. 13. (CP)—Sherbrooke Randies walloped the league-leading Lachine Rapides 11-7 in a Provincial Hockey League tilt here last night.

At Cote with five goals and Tony Demers with four were the big guns for the Randies while other Sherbrooke marksmen were Doug Webster and Mac McDougall. Bob Morin, Les Ramsay, Andy Perron and Don Maher tallied for the Rapides.

INCREASE PARKING FINE

Kingston, Nov. 14 —(CP)—Motorists in this city will probably be glad when parking meters, already installed, are put into operation. Then they will know it's time to leave or place another penny in the slot, since city council passed a resolution Tuesday making $2 the maximum fine for parking violations.

Western University Places Eight Players in 12 Positions Of Intercollegiate All-Stars

McGill Has Two Chosen and Two From Toronto Varsity

By WILF GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 14. (CP)—The quick-striking university of Western Ontario backfield and its smart-blocking, hard-charging line provided selectors with a solid base for the 1946 Canadian Press Senior Intercollegiate All-Star football team.

Football writers and coaches in the four cities in the Union, in choosing the team for CP, turned to the Western Club of London, Ont., successful defenders of their league crown, for players for eight of the 12 positions.

The next best representation was won by McGill University who had two players—a backfielder and a lineman— picked to combine talents with the Western Players and the single choice from the University of Toronto Club.

However, a Varsity man placed in the three-way tie for one of the outside positions in which the voting failed to provide a clear-cut decision. Queen's University, who ended in a tie with McGill for third place in the standing, missed out in having a player selected for the squad—actually comprising 14 players on account of the deadlock.

Equally Divided

The eight Western players who won disputed possession of positions were divided equally between backfielders and linemen. Bob McFarlane, 200-pound speed demon and the loop's scoring king, was picked for the secondary half spot, his brother Don for flying wing, George Curtis for one of the running and passing back positions and Herb Ballantyne for quarter.

Only backfield position not going to a mustang was taken by Husky Murray Hayes of McGill, who led his team in scoring with 15 points.

The 1946 team:

Flying Wing—Don McFarlane, Western

Half—George Curtis, Western

Half—Murray Hayes, McGill

Half (Secondary)—Bob McFarlane, Western

Quarter — Herb Ballantyne, Western.

Snap—Doug Cook, Western

Inside—Rudy Grass, Varsity

Inside—Norm McLean, Western

Middle— Ticky Dick, Western

Middle—Brian Little, McGill

Outside— George Turnbull, Western

Outside—Don Currie, Western, Bill Wardle, Western, Gord Lawson, Varsity (tied).

White's District

White's District — On Monday afternoon and evening Mr. D. Ketcheson, representative of the National Film Board, showed pictures of reforestation, fire-prevention, the lumbering industry of Canada and colored pictures of the St. Lawrence River.

Miss Mary Rush of Toronto was a weekend visitor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rush.

The 105th anniversary services of White's Church were held on Sunday morning and evening with the Rev. F. G. Joblin of Bowmanville, a former pastor, as guest minister. A large choir of both young and old assisted in the services. The church, which has been redecorated throughout, was enhanced with cut flowers and potted plants and presented a pleasing appearance. Visitors from the neighboring churches of Wesley, Centenary, Johnstown, Aiken's, Trenton, Belleville, Foxboro and Thurlow were present, and a friendly spirit prevailed throughout.

Mrs. H. Rutter opened her home on Wednesday for the November meeting of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society with the president, Mrs. Glenn Meyers, presiding. Mrs. Mooney as delegate gave an interesting report of the Sectional Rally at Canifton, and Mrs. Mooney gave a chapter of the Study Book. The hostess, assisted by the social committee, served refreshments and an hour of fellowship was much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wickett and Wayne of Foxboro were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bowers and family.

Mr. George Rush of Hamilton was a weekend guest of his uncle, Mr. C. Rush and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boulton of Toronto were weekend guests of Mr. J. Meggison.

Activities of Greek Guerillas Reach Alarming Proportions

(Editor's Note: Ross Munro, Canadian Press European Correspondent, has visited troubled Greece and in this story, his third, gives the background to guerilla activity along the northern frontier facing Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Albania.)

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Athens, Nov. 14 (CP)—Disturbances along the mountainous northern frontiers of Greece, where activities of guerillas have reached alarming proportions, are one of the most pressing problems in this country today.

It is an internal conflict which has growing international implications and dangers.

The guerilla bands, averaging 50 or 75 men, roam the borders opposite Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Albania, raiding villages, burning, looting, killing. The situation parallels that which existed during the Axis occupation, when resistance groups stirred up so much trouble that the Germans used seven divisions in an abortive attempt to crush them.

Only about 20,000 fighting men are available to the Greek government in its efforts to clear up the trouble and results so far have been slight; but it is expected winter weather will reduce guerilla activity and give the administration and army a breathing spell.

While the guerillas probably number only 3,000 to 5,000 men, they are led resourcefully and their psuedo-civil war has put all Greece on edge. Many Greeks now refer to the frontier as the "northern front." Athens itself, while quiet enough, has a strange tension which reminds one of a wartime base town such as Algiers during the Tunisian campaign.

Few Greeks take an objective view of the situation. Their interpretation is colored by their particular brand of politics.

The mainstay of guerilla operations seems to be the Greek Communist party of K.K.E. (Kommunistikon Komma Ellados). K.K.E. is the heart of the National Liberation Front or E.A.M. (Ethnikon Apeleutherotikon Metopon), which is Communist-controlled but has many members among Republicans and other non-Communists. The Communists refuse to have anything to do with the government and violently oppose King George II.

They are working for inclusion of Greece in the Balkan Communist Bloc, but find themselves in a dilemma when Communist countries like Bulgaria and Yugoslavia make claims for annexation of northern Greek territory where deeply Nationalistic Greeks would fight rather than concede a yard.

Most authorities in Athens say the Communist-aided guerilla warfare is helped by other Communists in Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania with arms and faked frontier papers. A serious charge is frequently repeated that there is a guerilla training school in Yugoslavia where tactics, Communist doctrines and Communist methods are taught.

Tactics of Crown Counsel Given As Grounds for Appeal

Hamilton, Nov. 14—(CP)—The "dramatic emphasis" placed by the Crown on statements made to police by Mrs. Evelyn Dick by expressively reading them in question-and-answer form to the jury is one of the grounds of the young widow's appeal against her conviction of murdering her husband, John Dick, and the sentence of death imposed on her.

In the appeal notice her counsel, John J. Sullivan, expects to file at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Wednesday other tactics of Crown Counsel T. J. Rigney, K. C., in presenting the case also are given as grounds for the appeal.

Circumstances under which Mrs. Alexandra MacLean testified for the Crown at the trial of her daughter, whose death sentence is to be executed Jan. 7, also are mentioned as a ground for the appeal.

Through her counsel Mrs. Dick will claim that "evident pressure" was used in that Mrs. MacLean had been released at the preliminary hearing on murder charge but held as a material witness.

GOLDWYN GIRLS ANSWER BISHOP'S PLEA

The Goldwyn Girls, now in England to display American fashions, heard that the Bishop of London, Dr. J. W. C. Wand, had appealed for gifts for his £750,000 fund to reconstruct church life in his diocese, so visited the Bishop at his palace and contributed towards the fund. Seated around the Bishop in his palace are, LEFT to Right, Diana Mumby, Irene Vernon, Mary Ellen Gleason, Karen X Gaylord and Martha Montgomery.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Nov. 12 (CP)—Circles close to the Canadian espionage probe are highly interested now in the outcome of a second series of trials commencing in Ottawa Tuesday.

Their interest and conjecture has been aroused by the even split between acquittals and convictions in the previous series of four trials before juries in the Ontario Supreme Court.

In both acquittals, the verdicts were directly opposite to the findings of the Royal Commission on espionage. Although further similar verdicts are not likely to have any outward impact, they may have an historic effect in future arguments as to whether the government was justified in its methods of handling the accused.

Both acquitted men, Eric Adams and Matt Nightingale were detained without legal counsel for weeks at the R.C.M.P.'s Rockcliffe barracks. Both were branded as guilty by the Commission before they ever went on trial.

Both are free on bail pending disposition of further charges but it is considered doubtful that the Crown will press them.

The new series of cases involves Gordon Lunan, Durnford Smith, Prof. Israel Halperin and Dr. David Shugar, all former government officials or servicemen. Their fates rest in the hands of a judge alone, those of either Judge A. G. McDougall or Judge J. P. Madden of the Carleton County Court.

It was Judge McDougall who acquitted W. M. Pappin, passport office clerk of charges arising from an attempt to get a false passport for a Russian agent. It was the third acquittal in the cases of 18 Canadians detained since last February.

There have been four convictions, three acquittals, three pleas of guilty, and eight cases are in varying stages of progress. Sentences have ranged from six years to a fine.

The painted portraits of Sir Robert Borden and Prime Minister Mackenzie King will be hung in the parliament buildings probably during the winter. Dr. A. Beauchesne, clerk of the House of Commons is making the arrangements.

There still will be four Prime Ministers whose painted pictures are not in the buildings, Sir J. J. Abbott, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Viscount Bennett and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

The Senate and House of Commons make provision out of their funds for almost life sized painted portraits of the speakers of each chamber.

No provision, however, is made for Prime Ministers. A special effort has to be started to provide a painting of a Prime Minister—often at the expense of friends.

The portrait of Mr. Mackenzie King has been painted by an English artist and is hanging in the National Gallery. Sir Robert Borden's picture is being executed by a Canadian artist from photographs, a bust and likely from the memory of the artist.

Under present plans, they will be hung near the entrance to the parliamentary library.

Sir J. J. Abbott and Sir Mackenzie Bowell both were members of the Senate when they were Prime Ministers and it has been suggested that the Upper Chamber take steps to provide portraits.

Case for Crown About Completed

Cornwall, Nov. 13. (CP)—Inspector W. J. Franks of the Criminal Investigation Branch, Ontario Provincial Police, disclosed today that the case for the Crown against William Earl Lama, Harrison's Corners farmer awaiting preliminary hearing in connection with the killing of his wife and daughter August 16 was "just about completed". He has been assisting township police chief R. H. Hawkshaw in assembling evidence in the case.

Lama has remanded in custody at county jail on two successive Fridays since his capture in Moulinette October 26 after evading police for 71 days.

Canadian Legion Submits Brief On Housing

Ottawa, Nov. 14. (CP)—The Canadian Legion said Wednesday in a brief presented to Prime Minister MacKenzie King and members of the Cabinet that the Dominion's "entire program of rehabilitation and reconstruction" is "in imminent danger of complete failure" unless the government takes control of building.

Briefs on housing, veterans pensions, dependents and rehabilitation were presented by Legion representatives from the nine provinces and from Legion commands in the United States. Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price, Dominion president, headed the delegation.

The housing brief asked:

1. Immediate government control of building.
2. Use of government emergency power "to control, divert or acquire" materials for building low-income houses under wartime housing regulations and to enable other approved agencies such as housing enterprises and integrated housing to develop more rapidly than at present.
3. Expansion of wartime housing "to double its present proportions and establishment of easier terms for veterans seeking homes under terms of the National Housing Act.
4. Development of a Veterans' Housing project with mortgage loans amounting to 95 per cent of actual cost, amortized over a 30-year period at 3 1-2 per cent interest.

Want Canteen Funds

The delegation suggested that, pending final disposal of profits from army canteen funds, part of them should be set aside immediately as an interim fund to assist army veterans. The R. C. N. and R.C.A.F. already had funds to provide financial assistance for their veterans.

Another brief dealt with Canadians who served in the United States forces during the war. The G. I. Bill of Rights had been extended to provide American rehabilitation benefits for United States citizens who served in the Canadian forces.

But "a considerable body" of Canadians did not receive G. I. Bill of Rights benefits and, because they live in the United States, received only limited rehabilitation from Canada. The Legion recommended help for such men.

The delegation re-affirmed the Legion request for provisions in the War Veterans' Allowance Act of "Imperials" who served in the South African and First Great Wars and had lived in Canada since Sept. 1, 1930, the day the Act came into force.

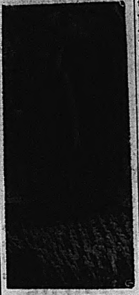
PLOWING THROUGH WAVES

Port Colborne, Nov. 14 —(CP) The Morris-Brock, 65-foot steel car ferry, continued today to plow through the Great Lakes en route from Brockville, to New Orleans and the Gulf of Mexico by way of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. At New Orleans her present crew, all from Brockville, will hand the vessel over to another group of sailors who will deliver the ship to its new owners in Venezuela.

BRITAIN REMEMBERS



Canon Smyth, of St. Margarets, and Dr. Don, of Westminster Abbey, London, Eng., are shown as they officiated at the ceremony of opening the remembrance field at Westminster Abbey to honour the memory of the men who died in World War II. For the first time an airborne trooper's beret is placed on the field with the tiny crosses of remembrance.

Stock Promoter Fined $10,000 For False Advertising

Toronto, Nov. 14 — (CP)—Don Miller, Toronto stock promoter who yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of false advertising, Wednesday was fined $10,000 in county criminal court. The advertising concerned the Fresnore Mining Company, of which he was vice-president.

Paul Moran, former manager of the mine, testified that he was told to "go into town and get drunk and spread the news of a big strike by the company." He described as untrue several advertisements from newspapers and mining magazines.

In a plea for leniency, Isadore Levinter, defence counsel, told the court that Miller har lost $58,000 in his mining operations but Judge James Parker replied "Quite so — but the public lost more."

In passing sentence Judge Parker said he was taking into consideration that the accused was a sick man and he would not take the responsibility of sending him to jail.

"To my mind this was a campaign of advertising to try to induce people to invest in and buy Fresnore stock," said Crown Attorney Norman Borins. "I feel that Miller convinced himself very easily in view of the geologists' reports. In making out the advertisements he went for beyond exaggeration."

MARMORA

RemembranceDay Dinner Held By Canadian Legion

Marmora. (Special.)—After a lapse of a few years, the Remembrance Day dinner was again held by Marmora Branch, No. 237 Canadian Legion in the Town Hall on Monday evening. Catering was in the hands of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Branch and the ex-service men did justice to the excellent menu served them. Comrade Wilbert Mumby, branch president was toastmaster, and after "The King" had been submitted, called upon Colonel A. V. Yates, M.C., to propose what constituted a new toast at these gatherings namely "Old Vets to the New".

In a very able speech, the proposer called for the co-operation of the veterans of the First World War with those of the Second war in the affairs of the Legion. He also read a telegram from Major Percy Gray of Ottawa, extending felicitations.

Lieut. Percy Gray, who responded in a neat speech said that the younger veterans realized the great uphill fight of the old veterans to secure recognition of the rights of the ex-soldiers and to carry on. He expressed appreciation of the gifts, which the Legion had sent to the fighting forces in the Second World War. When the men returned from this war, they found a ready made organization into which they could fit.

They were told to take over the job here and in so doing, they realized that the way had been paved for them by those who had learned to score in the hard way. He conveyed thanks to the old veterans from the new veterans for the spirit of comradeship the former had shown.

In proposing "The Legion", Flying Officer Floyd R. Loveless reminded his hearers that all branches of the services had been taught loyalty and discipline and then extolled the Legion for its fellowship in a speech, for which, like the previous speakers, he was warmly applauded.

Comrade P. J. O'Neill, secretary of Marmora Branch, struck a high note in his response. He paid tribute to the late Earl Haig for his job in forming the Canadian Legion as a branch of the British Empire Service League and also to former President Walker of the Canadian Legion for paving the way for the inclusion of the Second World War veterans, when the possibility of their becoming an organization by themselves was receiving some consideration.

He spoke also of the progress of the Marmora Branch and the acquiring of their own hall, concluding with a few illustrations from local happenings as to what comradeship demands. "The Ladies" was the next toast and good speeches in its connection were forthcoming from Rev. J. M. Brownlie, proposer and Mrs. T. Dickson, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, who replied.

The final toast "Fallen Comrades" was proposed in a brief speech by Rev. E. M. Cadigan, branch chaplain.

The Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Comrade George Brooks and a two minutes' silence observed. Last on the program was the showing of some interesting films by A. R. Graham of the Forestry Department of the Ontario Government who served as a sergeant in the Air Force in the recent war and was assigned to photography.

NEW RACING CAR

Moscow, Nov. 13 — (AP) — The Russians announced today that they have built a small racing car, 70 centimetres (about 23 inches) high, with which they hope to set international records. The announcement said the car on its last official tryout made 139.8 kilometres an hour which is "by no means its limit."

The car, made of duralluminum, resembles a large, flat fish.

Rawdon

Rawdon, Nov. 13 (Special)—On Friday afternoon, Nov. 8, Miss Eleanor Ann Smith and her mother, Mrs. Herbert Smith opened their home for a special meeting when the children of Mount Pleasant Sunbeam Mission Band entertained their mothers, the W.M.S. ladies and the Baby Band members. About fifty were in attendance to hear the guest speaker, Mrs. W. H. Baugh of Tamworth Mission Band, who is secretary of the Belleville Presbyterial.

Introduced by Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mrs. Baugh spoke to the children about the new study book on India entitled "Shera of the Punjab". She said it was an honor to belong to a mission band, and in future years the girls will be the members and officers of the W.M.S. and the boys will take their places as officials of the church. Mrs. Baugh displayed a model of a typical Indian village and several books of interest.

A display of "World Friends" made an attractive addition to the atmosphere of the room. Ruth Linn presided for the presentation of an interesting program and Joan Johnson read the secretarial report, after which all the children repeated the Mission Band Purpose.

Mrs. Cyrus Summers conducted the worship service, with Betty McConnell as pianist. The Bible lesson was read by Edwin Reid, and a timely story, telling how children in India helped refugee children in China, was read by Marian Johnson. Eleanor Smith gathered the thank offering which amounted to $6.80.

A duet was contributed by the Misses Ruth Sharp and Ruth Dunham, and a story "Living Epistles" read by Ray Sharp. Shirley McKeown rendered a piano solo and the leader of the Band, Mrs. Bert Jeffs, told a temperance story entitled "The Marketing Basket". Joan and Ronnie Johnston sang "Father We Thank Thee" with Mrs. J. Holmes as accompanist.

Mrs. Jeffs expressed appreciation to Mrs. Baugh after which the girls of the band served dainty refreshments to their guests. Mrs. J. Holmes and Mrs. Raymond McConnell tendered a vote of thanks to the Mission Band for a pleasant and profitable afternoon.

Senator McGeer Runs for Mayor Of Vancouver

Vancouver, Nov. 13. (CP) — Senator G. G. McGreer, accepting the nomination to run again for the post of Vancouver's chief magistrate which he held in 1935-36, last night predicted a campaign for city taxes on the land other governments hold here and warned city racketeers to "get out of town".

Accepting the unanimous nomination of the civic non-partisan association for the mayoralty in the Dec. 11 Civic elections the former iron moulder-barrister who became a senator, said he was critical of the federal and provincial governments for having $19,000,000 worth of property here on which they pay no taxes after taking all our revenues," and said "I'll be knocking at (Premier) John Hart's door. . . .And I'll also be knocking at (Finance Minister) Ilsleys door to get better terms and a new deal for Canadian cities."

Crofton

Crofton — Mr. and Mrs. Carman Burr of Picton spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Munro.

IS THAT PALE YOUNG GIRL YOUR DAUGHTER?

Parents should not ignore the depressed moods, the listless, tired air, the pallor, headaches, fickle appetite—the crying spells—so many daughters exhibit during those years when they are passing into womanhood.

If her health at this stage is not maintained by a sufficiency of good rich blood, all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her later life unhappy.

So should you notice any of these disturbing signs in your daughter, lose no time. Get some Dr. Williams Pink Pills at your druggist. They are wonderfully effective in helping to build up iron-impoverished blood and have helped to transform thousands and thousands of sickly, pale daughters suffering from simple anaemia into happy active girls full of vitality and high spirits, hungry for meals, glad to help with the housework, attractive to others. Right now simple anaemia may be undermining the strength and resistance your daughter needs so badly. Don't wait—get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

FIGURES IN MYSTERY OF POLISH TREASURES

M. BABINSKY

DR. A. F. FIDERKIEWICZ

Dr. Alfred Fiderkiewicz, Polish minister to Canada, accused his predecessor, M. Babinsky, of being involved in the disappearance of Polish national art treasures valued at $10,000,000, which had been sent to Canada during the war for safekeeping. The minister holds the historic coronation sword of the Polish kings, Szczerbiec," after examining the contents of three trunks of Polish art treasures stored in the vaults of the Bank of Montreal in Ottawa. "The Eagle of Poland" is emblazoned on the sword's blade and figures of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John are inscribed upon its helt. The trunks are part of 36 boxes of valuables The remainder, placed at various convents and Catholic churches in Quebec, are missing, Dr. Fiderkiewicz charged.

Counsel Objects To Gouzenko As a Witness

Ottawa, Nov. 13 (AP).—At the direction of County Court Judge A. G. McDougall, David Gordon Lunan today pleaded not guilty on the second day of his trial on a charge of conspiring to communicate confidential information for Russia.

Defence Counsel J. L. Cohen of Toronto told the court he was against any plea on the grounds that Lunan, former Canadian Information Services official, was improperly before this court in that he had never been committed on a conspiracy charge.

Crown Counsel John R. Cartwright of Toronto said the court could only direct a plea of not guilty if the refusal of the accused to plead was wilful. If the judge ruled that Mr. Cohen's objection was not sound, he should direct the accused to plead.

Judge McDougall said that Lunan was properly before him and directed him to plead.

Lunan said, "If I am properly before the court, I plead not guilty".

New Legal Argument.

Mr. Cohen initiated a new legal argument when the Crown called its first witness, Igor Gouzenko, former Russian Embassy cipher clerk. He objected to Gouzenko as a witness.

Earlier, Mr. Cohen took exception to what he called "unfortunate references" to his client in a Canadian Press report of yesterday's proceedings. He said the story referred to matters that were not adduced in court.

He read to the court excerpts from last night's Canadian Press account, which referred to material made public by the Royal Commission on espionage and to Lunan's refusal to testify at the earlier espionage trials.

Judge McDougall said the greatest care should be used by the press and he was sure it would be in the future.

At yesterday's session of the trial of the 31-year-old native of Scotland, Crown Counsel Cartwright had indicated his case would be based primarily on the evidence of Gouzenko and the testimony of Lunan himself before the Royal Commission.

Reject Argument.

Judge McDougall rejected Mr. Cohen's argument that Russian Embassy documents identified by Gouzenko were inadmissible in court on the ground of diplomatic immunity.

Mr. Cohen maintained that the documents were stolen and were still the property of the Soviet Embassy. The court in accepting them, would be putting itself in the position of a receiver of stolen goods.

Mr. Cohen urged that the judge not simply "rubber stamp" rulings on the same question by higher courts.

Mr. Cartwright argued that the same point had been argued before and that Judge McDougall was bound by the previous rulings.

Over repeated objections by Mr. Cohen, Gouzenko told the now-familiar story of his coming to Canada in 1943 and his experience as a cipher clerk for the military attache at the Embassy. He described Lunan as a "recruiting agent" for the Russians.

BRANT—MARACLE

All Saints' Church was the setting at high noon Monday, Nov. 11th, for a wedding of much local interest, when Miss Myrtle Maracle became the bride of Elwood Daniel Brant, late of Sudbury, Ont. White chrysanthe mums adorned the altar. The bride, was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. John A. Brant, was becomingly gowned in a frock of primrose botany wool, with nail head trimming, and matching veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of roses and baby mums. Her only attendant was Mrs. Wm. Stolar, sister of the groom as matron of honor, who wore an attractive gown of printed silk jersey. Mr. Wm. Stolar was groomsman.

The wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Stephen Maracle, where covers were laid for sixty guests. Pink and white streamers and a white wedding bell decorated the living room. The bride is one of the Reserve's most popular young ladies, and the bridegroom is a veteran of the last war having enlisted with the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards in Sudbury. Their many friends wish them much happiness and are pleased to know that Mr. and Mrs. Brant will make their home here.

STOCKINGS

Wear Longer! Look Lovelier Than Ever Before!

You'll be delighted the way Dreft suds leave no soapy film to heavy-up hose and cloud their beauty. No wonder legs look more attractive in lovely, sheer-looking stockings! What's more—colors stay fresh far longer than with any soap. Nightly Dreft-washing prolongs stocking life—gives noticeably longer wear!

New WOOLENS

Wash Softer, Fluffier Than With Any Soap!

When washed in Dreft suds your precious new woolens are a joy to look at—a delight to feel! No soapy deposit to coarsen woolens and dim their colors. Your lovely new sweaters and baby things wash softer and fluffier than ever before. Yes, softer and fluffier than with even the most expensive soap flakes!

Made in Canada A Hymcol Product

LINGERIE

Stays Brighter! Fresher! No Soap-Fading!

It's the greatest suds discovery in 2000 years! You'll agree when you see how your lovely lingerie stays color-bright and fresh far longer when washed with Dreft. There's no film to give that faded look. Dreft's rich suds keep your pretty colored slips, blouses, "undies" fresher than any soap could ever do.

DISHES SHINE even without wiping!

Your dishwashing miracle is here now! No soap in the world performs the miracles Dreft performs in your dishpan. It makes dishes shine—even without wiping!

Dreft cuts grease! Dreft's rich, abundant suds rinse clean and clear—leave no greasy streaks or cloudiness the way all soaps do. Even glasses sparkle and gleam—towel or no towel! Try it—and marvel at the results.

— Gives you 5 Times — More Suds than any Soap in Hardest Water!

- No Soap-Fading! Now you can wash stockings, lingerie, woolens—knowing that with Dreft there's no cloudy film to give that faded look!
- Dishes Shine—Even Without Wiping! With Dreft your dishes actually shine—whether you wipe them or not. You'll be amazed the way even glasses sparkle!
- Instant Suds—More Suds, Too! In water hot or cold—soft or hard—Dreft's amazing suds billow up instantly. And Dreft suds last so long!

Marmora

Remembrance Day Service

Marmora (Special) — Marmora Branch No. 237 attended divine service at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday evening for the annual "Remembrance Day" service. Comrade, Rev. J. M. Brownlie, rector of St. Paul's officiated and delivered an impressive sermon on "The Invisible City", using two passages of the 11th Chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews as the basis for his remarks namely "He looked for a city which Hath Foudations" and "They Without us Shall not be made Perfect." Following the processional hymn "Soldiers of Christ Arise," the National Anthem was sung, the Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Comrade George Brooks and the two minutes' silence observed. The morning Sunday School session also observed the day, W. J. Cottrell, assistant superintendent who was in charge led in the responsive reading of "The Souls of the Righteous" and gave a brief talk on "Remembrance" citing a personal experience in the Deansgate trenches near Ypres; When bereft of the opportunity to attend public worship on a Sunday, for the first time since enlistment, he felt he received a silent message from God in seeing a solitary forget-me-not growing out of a torn sandbag in the wall of the trench.

HOCKEY RULES

Interpreted

By BILL GRAY

DELAYING THE GAME BY MAKING ADJUSTMENT TO CLOTHING

Rule 43

Adjustment to Clothing and Equipment

(a) Play shall not be stopped nor the game delayed by reason of adjustments to clothing, equipment, shoes or skates.

(b) For an infringement of this rule, a minor penalty shall be given.

(c) The onus of maintaining clothing and equipment in proper condition shall be upon the player. If adjustments are required, the player shall retire from the ice and play shall continue uninterruptedly with a substitute.

(d) This rule, however, does not apply to a goalkeeper, who may, after stoppage in play, with the permission of the referee, delay the game for adjustments to clothing, equipment, shoes or skates, or otherwise.

(e) For an infraction of the rule by a goalkeeper, a minor penalty shall be imposed.

Lou has averaged 75 pts. per season for 5 years—a neat total of 377 points
Ed Igoe

Wielder of one of the most potent sticks in professional hockey today is Louis Napoleon Trudel, star left wing of the Cleveland Barons and veteran of fifteen seasons in the monied ranks. A native of Salem, Mass., Lou learned to play hockey in Western Canada. He broke into the professional game with the Tulsa Oilers in the old American Hockey Association in the fall of 1932.

Trudel was purchased by the Chicago Black Hawks the following season and he starred for the Windy City sextette for five seasons before being traded to the Montreal Canadiens. He was with the Flying Frenchmen for four campaigns and then played for New Haven and Washington before being purchased by the Barons of the American Hockey League midway in the 1942-43 season.

Army, Navy, Air Force Trophy to Be Presented to Champion Batawa Team

Emblematic of the Belleville and District Baseball League championship, the handsome Kelleher-Robinson Memorial Trophy, donated by the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans Unit No. 201, Belleville, will be officially presented to the winners, the Batawa Baseball Club at the Army, Navy, Air Force Unit 201 club rooms, Front Street, tonight.

It is expected that the Batawa team will be presented in a body while the presentation will be made by a high-ranking official of the veterans' organization.

The presentation will be made following the business session of a general meeting of the club. The trophy is a handsome affair some two feet in height bearing the triumphant form of a laurel-wreathed athlete atop a silver ball. The base of the trophy is fifteen inches square and bears a silver plaque upon which is inscribed the names of those in whose honor it was given. Small crests bearing the name of the winner will be placed annually along the side of the pedestal.

The trophy was given by the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' unit here to perpetrate the memory of two gallant athlete sons of Belleville who gave their all in the greatest game of all, Gunner "Joe" Kelleher and Gunner "Pop" Robinson.

Gunner "Joe" Kelleher

Gunner Jack Edward Kelleher, more familiarly known in sports and military circles as "Joe", was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelleher of this city. His father was a well-known athlete and baseball player and young "Joe" came by his love of athletics naturally. In his schoolboy days he developed an early ability as a baseball player and he improved with age and experience until he became one of the topnotch hurlers in the district. He played as a youngster with the St. Michael's Academy squad, later joining the Alemite and Kiwanis Juniors teams. He was at one time associated with the Central Ontario Baseball League team here, in the latter days of that organization.

"Joe" was one of the more promising athletes of the city when he signed to join the army. He became associated with the artillery in Kingston in the 3rd Field Battery RCA. He saw action in France, Holland and Germany and was killed near Spaldorf in the latter country.

While in training in England, he played with Canadian baseball squads, one of which won an overseas championship.

Joe married the former Shirley Brown and left one daughter Karen Marie to mourn the loss of a brave father and a fine athlete who was a credit to his native city as well as to his King and Country.

Gunner "Pop" Robinson

John Ronald Robinson, like Joe Kelleher, was more familiarly known by a nickname. He was always called "Pop" and throughout his youth and young manhood his many friends, and they were legion, knew him as such.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robinson, Earl Street, Belleville, and was well known in athletic circles here. He went to the Grier Street public school and later to Belleville Collegiate Institute.

First a baseball player, "Pop" starred at first base as well as other positions, playing with industrial and school teams. He then turned to softball and starred with well known teams of the city and district.

He joined the 32/34th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery in early June, 1941, going overseas with that unit. He trained with it in England and landed in France for the beginning of the Great Adventure on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

He fought his guns on the beachheads of Normandy and through the hell of Falaise and Caen. It was at St. Germain near the latter place where "Pop" was fatally wounded when a German 88 millimeter shell exploded near his gun. He was wounded on July 14, 1944, and died three days later without recovering consciousness. "Pop" was married and his wife and two small daughters survive him.

Like Joe Kelleher, "Pop" gave his all that civilization as we know it, might live. He was one of the city's outstanding athletes and his memory, with that of his buddy "Joe," is perpetuated in the Memorial Trophy being presented tonight.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

"It looks like the best wrestling card I have achieved all season," said Manager Walt Gerow today while looking over his practically all-star assembly of matmen for Friday night. Gerow has the tremendous iron-muscled Cossack Kola Kwarianni meeting Whipper Billy Watson British Empire champion (and possibly world titleholder if the meeting of the National Wrestling Association this week so decides). "Kwarianni proved himself so tough and unbeatable even by the very good Emir Badui" continued Walt "that I asked Maple Leaf Gardens especially to release Watson for this bout."

• • •

From the way the big Russian (who wears his Cossack uniform everywhere except in the ring) handled the Sheik, it is obvious that it will take a top-notcher to match him. Kola the Krusher uses his pendulum hold which suspends his opponent by the neck and swings him back and forth like a dog shaking an old shoe. The Whipper's neck is one of the strongest and best developed of all the heavyweights, but it is doubtful if it can stand up under much of that pendulum stuff.

• • •

As far as Kwarianni is concerned this match with the Whip is the highlight of his invasion (matwise) of Canada. This is the first time he and Watson have met and the contrasting styles and unknown tricks of each are due for a terrific tryout. It's a match that Phil Lawson the Whip's manager has consistently avoided since the hairy Russian appeared on the North American scene. However, Phlyng Phyl decided that he would rather have the Whipper find out just how tough this Kwarianni is in a city the size of Belleville rather than risk defeat before the hometown audience in Toronto. Which of course is all to the advantage of Belleville wrestling fans.

• • •

That other popular (?) Russian wrestler Ivan Rasputin is on the card against a stellar newcomer Paul Boesch. Boesch is the most-decorated wrestler in the United States army during the late unpleasantness and has a string of medals for bravery and ability under fire, a yard long. But more important in the wrestling ring is the fact that he is one of the smoothest pieces of mat machinery the sport has seen in a decade. He'll need it all against old "rope-trick" Rasputin.

• • •

Pat Flanagan who made such a great job () holding Natie Brown to a thirty-minute draw gets another chance at the Arab Emir Badui, who says he is rapidly learning that you have to fight rough and raw to get anywhere in this Western Hemisphere style of grappling

• • •

Probably the most ardent and faithful fan club in the hockey world is that band of hockey zealots from Chicago known as the Black Hawk Standbys, say the N.H.L. publicity boys.

• • •

The Standbys were organized in 1944 and have a membership of 55. The club has its own charter, individual membership cards and a slate of officers whom they elect every November. To be a member of the Standbys you have to be a loyal second balcony fan and refuse to sit anywhere but in the second balcony which is composed entirely of "rush" seats. Each member pays monthly dues of 75 cents.

• • •

As they always sit in unreserved seats the Standbys have to line up to procure pasteboards for the sell-out Hawk games. On games played during the week the Standbys start to line up around three in the afternoon and on Sunday night games they fall in line around one in the afternoon. The members waited up all night to purchase tickets to the first game of the playoffs last spring between Montreal Canadiens and the Black Hawks.

• • •

The club has its own president, vice-president, recording secretary, secretary, treasurer, sergeant-at-arms and publicity editor. It's the sergeant-at-arm's duty to be the first man up to the seats each game and to hold them for the rest of the members. Shirley Jacobson, the publicity editor, sends out a breezy, informative monthly paper called "Standing By With The Standbys" and in bold letters on the cover are these words, "Published by, for, and in the interests of, all loyal second balcony fans."

• • •

The club gets together for monthly meetings and have special parties at Christmas and at the end of the season. The party at the end of the season is known as the Trophy Party and it is at this gathering that the club presents a trophy to the Hawk with the highest number of scoring points during that season. Last year Max Bentley received a beautiful trophy, measuring three feet in height. Once during every season the members charter a bus and ride over to Detroit to see the Hawks tangle with the Red Wings. They also have their annual summer picnic.

• • •

Chicago Black Hawk players attend as many of the Standbys gatherings as possible and meet all the members. Naturally the different members have their favorite players. Red Hamill, captain of the Hawks, is extremely popular as are Bill Mosienko, Doug and Max Bentley, Pete Horeck, Alex Kaleta and Johnny Mariucci. The members also dub certain players with nicknames. Hamill for instance is called "Father;" Mosienko is "Mouse;" Mariucci is tabbed "Choo Choo" and Pete Horeck has the unusual nickname of "Yo-Yo." They call Horeck "Yo-Yo" because he is up and down so much.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Carveth, Boston, who sniped three goals as Boston trimmed Detroit Red Wings 5-2.

Milt Schmidt, Boston, who bagged a pair of goals in the same game.

Tony Leswick, Rangers, who sank two markers, including the tying goal as Rangers held Canadiens to a 4-4 draw.

Edmonton, Nov. 14. (CP) — Two veteran United States imports to Canadian gridiron battles have hung up their football toggery for the last time—but both intend to continue their efforts to aid in the fall pastime.

Dean Griffing and Jerry Searight two of Western Canada's most colorful grid performers, are expected to coach Alberta entries in the Western football conference next season.

They announced their retirements at Winnipeg following the recent Blue Bomber victory over Calgary Stampeders for the conference championship.

The pigskin stars say they are getting "too old" to take the bruising punishmen meted out by taking an active part in the game—in fact, to listen to them moan and groan you'd think the pair were doddering old men instead of a couple of healthy-looking athletes who still walk with a springy vigorous stride.

In griffing Western football loses one of its top-rate performers. Known as the "bad man" the Stampeder coach, even with his consistent ragging of both players and spectators, is "tops" with everybody.

The "Dean' came to Canada in 1936 from Kansas State college to take over the reins of Regina Roughriders. In his first year the starry centre led Riders to the Western title, but because several players were ineligible the club didn't go east in search of the Dominion title.

A favorite with Regina fans, he stayed with the Riders for the next five seasons and then went east where he starred with Toronto's Balmy Beach. He returned to Calgary handled for the last two years— and will probably head for some time to come.

Searight came to Calgary in 1936 from the University of North Dakota and joined forces with the Calgary Bronks for the next two seasons. From the Bronks, the better than average centre headed east to Montreal where he played with the Royals and other Clubs until 1941.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Every so often I stand on my head. In this position I read one of my Horse Sense rules upside down and backwards. My aim is to see it from some angle that no one else has so far considered.

One of the rules in my book is: A simple (meaning non-jump) takeout to a new suit is forcing for one round; if the chain of new suit takeouts has not yet been broken.

So they show me this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH
♠A Q 9 6
♥9 6
♦J 8 7 6 2
♣A K
NORTH
♠7 5 4
♥A Q 5 3
♦K 5
♣8 6 4 3

The bidding started off like this:

SOUTH	NORTH
1 D	1 H
1 S	1 NT

That is where the bidding should have stopped. But it seems that south then bid two no-trump and they got into trouble. Now they try to blame it on the rule; a new suit takeout forcing for one round.

North made a takeout to no-trump, they point out. According to this rule, they claim, the new bid takeout to no-trump forces south for one round. The chain of takeouts was not broken, they said.

No such a thing. Nothing in any rule of mine says a no-trump bid is forcing. Only a new suit bid is forcing. And no-trump is not a suit. It certainly is not. Not if you stood on your head.

When north bid one heart over one diamond, it was a takeout to a new suit; forcing for one round. When south bid one spade over one heart, it was a takeout to a new suit; forcing for one round.

At no time up to there was the chain of new suit takeouts broken. But when north bid one no-trump, it was not a suit. This broke the chain of new suit takeouts. It did not force south to bid again.

Each Horse Sense rule is right to start with. Nothing should be subtracted. Nothing need be added. Nothing will be changed.

INCREASE HONORARIUM

CHAPTER 12.

Sally said nothing for a mo- ent., She was hoping against ope that Blair Canfield's name ould not be brought up and as f her very fear generated the ought, Richard Gregory said ympathetically:

"So many fine young men will ot come back. Of course there re any number of the missing who later are found in concentra- ion camps or stranded on un- nhabited atolls far off the beaten track and most of them appear none the worse for the experience. I have found it a very good idea to hang on—not to give up hope."

"But, Dick," Carolyn prot[illegible] "Sally was a child and Blair couldn't have been much more when he went away. What do youngsters or seventeen or eighteen know of love? They might not even like each other now. Have you ever thought of that, Sally?"

"Why must we talk about it?" Sally asked wretchedly.

• • •

"Because it is spoiling your life, darling," the young physician persisted. "Dick is going to see what he can do about it. He has ways and means of finding out things and perhaps your Blair is alive somewhere. If so, you should know and if he actually is dead—why, then you can put him completely out of your mind and life. I don't mean to sound callous, darling; but you are too young to spend all your life grieving over a childish romance."

"I'll find out what I can, Sally," Richard Gregory promised her, "and will let you know as soon as I have anything definite to report."

Sally said nothing. Her heart was lead—her mind in a turmoil. What had she done? This Richard Gregory would discover there was no aviator by the name of Blair Canfield lost in the Pacific at the beginning of the war. Then what? Just what did that make her? She heard the clock in the hall chime ten and stood up.

"I've got to go, Carolyn," she said and scarcely recognized her own voice. "I'm on a very special case right now—Doctor Channing—and there are certain things I must do tonight. The dinner was delicious, Mrs. Bacon, and I have enjoyed meeting you, Mr. Gregory."

"May I walk back to the hospital with you, Sally?" Carolyn's fiance asked as she slipped into her light coat.

"It really isn't necessary," she demurred. "I don't mind going alone—I'm not the least bit timid—"

"I can believe that," the young man grinned. "But just the same I want to go, if I may."

"Of course you may," Carolyn told him. "Good night, darling, and when you see Jim Hallock, be a little kind to him. He deserves it."

• • •

Sally said good night and the two started out on the long walk back to the hospital. They had gone scarcely two blocks when Richard Gregory asked softly: "Just what is there about this Blair Canfield, Sally? Just why do you want me to keep hands off?"

And because Sally was upset and at the end of her rope, she blurted out the whole story almost in one breath. The hand on her elbow pressed gently and the voice that had haunted her for weeks murmured sympathetically:

"I think I understand, my dear. You're not the stuff of which successful liars are made, hence your feeling of embarrassment and shame. But you haven't committed a very heinous crime, Sally. I doubt if anyone, even the man himself—were such a person in existence—could find it in his heart to censure you. My advice to you is to forget it—the entire affair. Put Blair Canfield—and that name sounds strangely familiar to me somehow—entirely out of your life. What about this young Hallock? He seems a fine chap and Carolyn thinks he's fond of you."

"No!" the girl cried. "Don't you see? He knows about — he thinks—he's heard—"

"That's all right," the man said evenly; "competition is often a very good thing."

"Shall you tell Carolyn, Mr. Gregory?" she asked dubiously.

"Why should I?" he countered. "And why not waive formalities, Sally? After all, I'm going to marry one of your best friends. 'Dick' is very easy to say and I want us to be friends. No, I shall be quite unsuccessful in getting any information regarding Blair Canfield—possibly even prove conclusively that he is dead. It shall be our secret, Sally. No one else need ever know. Feel better?"

Doctor Channing recuperated rapidly and Sally found him amusing and helpful. So many patients, especially men, became testy and difficult as they improved. Not so the patient in 327. Sally wrote letters for him on the portable machine his sister brought to the hospital and even read the proof of several chapters of his new book. He still continued to send most of his floral offerings to his neighbor across the hall, and Sally brought back to him reports of her gratitude and her progress. Miss Newell was now sitting up for a few minutes each day. She proved to be an attractive, middle-aged woman—a former high school teacher with a delightful voice. She used to sing, very softly, quaint little tunes that entranced her nurses and Sally. She had written prim little notes of thanks to Doctor Channing upon receipt of his flowers, and the doctor urged his sister to stop in and visit her. Much against her will, Miss Kate did so and the two became friends.

The first day Doctor Channing was able to use a wheel chair, he was a happy man. It was [illegible] and the weather delightful with doors and windows wide, [illegible] steered the chair into the corridor and pointed it toward the elevator intending to go to the roof. Doctor Channing was eager to see the spot which the staff praised so extravagantly and then, too, he had become bored being confined to his room. Linton's stood on a hill—the highest spot in town—and from the roof a panorama of great beauty spread out—the town itself in its fertile valley surrounded by lakes, forests, winding roads and broad fields beyond which hills piled to the edge of the sky. But as they came out of room 327 into the corridor, the doctor's keen blue eyes encountered the soft brown gaze of his neighbor across the hall and he bowed ceremoniously and waved his good right arm in friendly salute. Sally paused.

• • •

"Want to stop a minute, Doctor?" she asked. "She's sweet and almost as clever as you are." She kept the chair moving until it was well inside the door. "Miss Newell, this is my favorite patient, Doctor Channing. You two should know each other—you are both so—well—wonderful!"

Miss Newell's eyes twinkled for a moment. "I have enjoyed your flowers, Doctor Channing," she said. "Your sister explained your dislike of flowers in a bedroom. I have no quarrel with that because it has made my stay here much pleasanter. I am glad you are getting along so well. I suppose you will be going home soon?"

"I doubt it," the doctor told her firmly. "I like it here. I have the best nurse in the establishment—yes, I have—no argument about that. And I hope you don't mind, young lady," to Kitty Howard who was Miss Newell's devoted attendant. Kitty laughed and wrinkled her pert little nose at him.

"I don't mind at all, Doctor Channing," she told him. "Because, you see, it's just a matter of opinion."

"Kitty is wonderful," Miss Newell pronounced. "At that, I think we are both very fortunate, Doctor Channing. Won't you have a cup of tea—both of you? I always like a cup of tea about four each afternoon. My English ancestry cropping out."

They drank their tea and nibbled at the small, sweet cakes Kitty passed and it wasn't until Sally heard the startled voice of Mrs. Cantwell from the door of 327 that the little party broke up.

• • •

Doctor Channing grew red and flustered and Sally hushed him gently and closed the door into the hall. Kitty giggled and Miss Newell smiled. They heard the quick tapping of Mrs. Cantwell's high heels as she hurried away down the corridor and Sally whispered:

"Want to risk the roof, Doctor? Or shall we stay here? I imagine she will rouse the hospital fearing you have been kidnapped."

"Will she be allowed on the roof?" he asked and Sally saw that he was really concerned. She was amused. To her it all seemed very silly.

"I don't imagine it would make much difference to her whether she is allowed up there or not. If she wanted to go to the roof she would just go there. Anyway, I think you have been up long enough. I'll take you back to your room and settle you in bed."

"It's your turn to come across the hall next time, Miss Newell," the doctor said as Sally wheeled him out. "Make it soon—I get lonesome."

Doctor Channing was barely back in bed when they heard people approaching. It sounded like an army and Sally looked up from the fresh sheet of paper she had inserted into the typewriter to see not only Mrs. Cantwell, but the Chief, himself, with Miss Sunderlin, Doctor Willoughby and the senior interne who was grinning broadly. Miss Kate Channing followed a few paces behind. She came into the room, her face showing surprise and something like bewilderment as she watched Mrs. Cantwell trying to explain her distress at finding Doctor Channing's room empty.

"I'm sure of it," she kept saying. "I couldn't have been mistaken. It was this room, I tell you, and no one was here—it was completely empty."

The members of the staff melted away and Kate Channing slipped her arm through that of Mrs. Cantwell and drew her out of the room, closing the door behind them.

"Aren't you just a bit hard on the lady, Doctor?" Sally asked. "After all, she probably can't help I-lik—admiring you. I do myself."

"I know, my dear," the man frowned, "but you don't know what I have endured at the hands of that woman. I can't, for the life of me, think what I could have done to deserve this."

"Cheer up, Doctor," Sally said. "She can't marry you without your consent, you know."

"Not marry me; but there's such a thing as breach of promise. Did you ever hear of that? She doesn't know that I'm perfectly aware of her case against Bromwell Avery, the artist. Cost him a cool fifty thousand, smashed both his romance with Helen Moredock and his career. The man's never been the same since. The woman's dangerous."

"She must be," Sally agreed. "Can't your sister protest you? Or, why don't you get married? That's the best protection I know of."

"You say it very glibly, my dear; but who would marry an old bookworm like me? I'm neither extremely wealthy nor even tolerably handsome and I'm no longer young."

"And yet the Cantwell woman wants you. You must have something, you know. I tell you, how about your neighbor across the hall? Why not consider her? She's lovely—sweet, talented and about the right age. Come on, Doctor," she urged, "I'll help. Try writing notes to her—just friendly little billet-doux—"

How true, how true, the little sign in the background says: "Pay today and trust tomorrow." It's all well and good, thought George J. Anderson, proprietor of a Quincy, Mass., restaurant until he had a customer of parts unknown come into his establishment and tell George he could get him two 100-pound bags of sugar for $25 apiece. George paid on the line and after the villain left he discovered the sugar was not sugar but salt. His only comment was, "Experience is truly the best teacher." Photo ABOVE shows Mr. Anderson as he tasted the bitter disappointment.

HAMILTON TIGERS WHITEWASH OWEN SOUND MOHAWKS

In Junior Series Barrie Defeats Zsabos and Stratford Takes Oshawa

(By The Canadian Press)

Two-way ties prevail today for first place in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association race and in the Junior "A" division, with Hamilton Tigers and Toronto Staffords sharing the pace-setting honors in the senior series and Toronto St. Michael's College and Barrie Flyers splitting the top berth in the junior circuit.

The deadlocks were created last night when the Tigers blanked Owen Sound Mohawks 8-0 in Hamilton and the Flyers edged out a 6-5 win over Hamilton's junior club in Barrie, while Stratford Kroehlers scored the first major upset of the season by whipping the highly - touted Oshawa Generals 7-5 in Stratford.

The Tigers' win was their 3rd in as many starts. The Mohawks' held the Tigers to a single goal in the first period but the power of the Hamilton club showed in the next two frames when they scored three times in the second period and four times in the last session.

Paul Miocinovich and Frank Liscombe sparked their attack with two goals each. The other tallies were bagged by Doug Runions, Johnny Conick, Dinning and Bert Peer.

Kilpatrick, 125-pound forward, was the best of the Mohawk players.

In the Barrie- Hamilton junior game, Murray Fife scored the winning goal for the Flyers at 13:50 in the third period after Hamilton had tied the score earlier in the session.

Get Two Goals Each

Larry Heale of the Flyers and Barnes of Hamilton topped the scorers with two goals each. Other scorers for the Flyers besides Heale and Fife were Larry Zeidel, Gariepy and Barrett. Hamilton marksmen besides Barnes were Cadieux, Narduzzi and Bain.

Oshawa was knocked over by the Kroehlers when Sam Casonato broke out in the third period for three goals. It was the Generals' first defeat in three starts.

The Kroehlers were at full strength for the first time this season with Nick Mickoski, former Winnipeg player, back in action between George Robertson and Wayne Service. He followed Casonato for scoring honors with two goals and an assist.

Kroehlers grabbed a one-goal lead in the first period, outscoring the Generals 2-1. The Generals reversed the scoring in the second frame and when they entered the third they were tied 3-3.

Shortly after the start of the final period, the Kroehlers grabbed the lead again and from then on they kept in front. A goal each was scored by Roth and Whatton besides Casanato's three and Mickoski's two.

Ceresino and Bauer punched 2 goals home for the Generals and Gamble one.

No games are scheduled for tonight but on Friday Hamilton Pats go to stratford for a senior game. The juniors swing into action again on Saturday with Barrie at Toronto Marlboros, St. Catharines at St. Mike's, Hamilton at Windsor, Toronto Young Rangers at Oshawa and Stratford at Galt.

District Guide Being Sought By Large Posse

Gore Bay, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Search continued today for Stanley Richards, 43, Kagawong district guide, missing from his settler's shack since Nov. 2. Police believe he might have been the victim of foul play.

In four days searchers have covered 20 square miles in the nearby bushland and today's search will cover the entire section which the man is thought to have disappeared. The area is five miles north of Kagawong and 25 miles west of Little Current.

Investigating the man's personal affairs, police said they have uncovered no clues which would give them a lead to Richards' mysterious disappearance.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 14 —(CP)— Industrial stocks advanced .61 in the index and the mining groups were lower in the early session. Base metals dropped .48 and the golds .35. Volume was about normal at 940,000 shares for the first three hours.

The paper, utility and miscellaneous industrial stocks worked higher and the food stocks were lower. Steel isues were quiet and firm. Montreal Locomotive added ½.

In the base metals Golden Manitou changed hands in heavy volume and the price showed little net change. Noranda, Normetal Sherritt and Steep Rock lost ground.

Among the weak gold issues were Louvicourt, Teck Hughes, Frobisher, Buffadison, Detta and Osisko. Donalda firmed a few cents. A gain of 2 cents for Anglo-Canadian was about the only change in the Western oil list.

.. NEW YORK EXCHANGE ..

New York, Nov. 14. (AP)— Individual stocks made further progress on the recovery side of today's market although many leaders backed into lower territory.

Slowdowns were plentiful after a fairly active opening. While a few "thin" issue such as Eastman Kodak and Dow Chemical were up three to five points on single sales, declines of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

Mohawk Reserve

THE BAY OF QUINTE CLERICAL UNION

Mohawk Reserve — The Autumn meeting of the Bay of Quinte Clerical Union was held in the parish of Camden East, Friday, Nov. 8th.

At eleven o'clock there was a celebration of the Holy Communion, the celebrant being the Very Reverend the Dean of Ontario, Dr. Briarly Browne, assisted by the Reverend Harvey Scuse, and the Reverend Maurice Oldham, Rector of the parish.

At noon luncheon was served in the parish hall to the visiting clergymen.

This was followed by the afternoon session, which was opened with prayer by the President, Dr. Briarly Browne.

Reports on the recent General Synod held in Winnipeg were given by the President, the Reverend Grant Sparling, and the Reverend Canon Kidd. These instructive addresses were greatly enjoyed by all present.

The meeting closed with the Benediction.

SIXTY P. C. INCREASE

Toronto, Nov. 14 — (CP) — A police committee report tabled yesterday at a county council meeting said there has been a 66 per cent increase in infringements of the Liquor Control Act of Ontario in suburban York county in the first 10 months of 1946 as compared with all of '45. The report said there were 102 liquor cases this year to Oct. 31 compared to 60 last year.

BEER RATION BOOSTED AGAIN

The Ontario Liquor Control Board announced Wednesday that beer coupons 105 to 108, inclusive, will be accepted from home consumers on and after Nov. 16, and up to and including Dec. 14. At the same time the board stated the expiration date for coupons 101 to 104 will be Nov. 30.

This latest announcement is further indication that the supply of beer in this province is becoming more plentiful and there should be a greater quantity available this Christmas than for some years past.

Canadians Have Glorious Future, O.C. Trenton Air Station Tells Veterans on Remembrance Day

Trenton — Group Captain H. H. C. Rutledge, O.B.E., Officer Commanding Trenton R.C.A.F. Station, was the guest speaker at the Remembrance Day banquet in the New St. James Hotel on Monday evening, November 11th. He was introduced by Squadron Leader Allan Vanderwater.

The toast to "The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League," was proposed by W.O.1 John A. Silver, M.B.E., and responded to by Councillor Ross Burtt. There was "The Last Post" with two minutes' of silence in honor of the fallen of the First and Second Great Wars, Reveille, and a toast to "His Majesty, the King."

Speaking to a large gathering Group Captain H. H. C. Rutledge, O.B.E., said:

"I am very pleased to be with you this evening to participate in your act of remembrance for comrades of two great wars which have destroyed a great percentage of the Empire's finest manhood through the several forms of war casualties. We glorify them and call them blessed. I am also glad to be here participating in one of the finest and strongest forms of human relationship I know, and that is the camaraderie born and developed in the armed services. I meet many ex-service personnel and almost without exception they observe that most of all they miss the spirit of comradeship they experienced in the Navy, Army or Air Force. I have not met many merchant marine but I am sure they will have the same feelings.

Spirit Necessary.

A spirit of comradeship is necessary to any community whether it be under arms or in peacetime enterprises but the spirit of comradeship must not be rigidly segregated into cells and organizations. It was only by integrating the comradeship of each element of the armed forces, and of the three major services and the major powers backed up by highly organized and integrated civilian production and technical skill that we are able to be here tonight.

You have within the Legion the means of perpetuating the comradeship born of war. The Legion is of such great importance that it can be a powerful influence in the future of the community and country. I urge you to give it your wholehearted support, be prepared and willingly to provide leadership and to bear the responsibility of office.

Need for Leadership.

Whether or not you were aware of it, many of you during your service career were charged with great responsibilities, either collectively or individually. The newspapers these days are alleging and decrying the shortage of leaders in all phases of community and national life and decrying the timidity which prevents or stops able people from coming forward to provide leadership. It is abundantly apparent that in all walks of life and in all countries there is great need for leadership.

Many of you will have done considerable travelling in foreign countries and admittedly it was not at your leisure and probably you did not see what you would have selected personally but you have all had an opportunity to observe a variety of circumstances and peoples and you should be in a good position now to apply the benefits of your observations.

Your service training undertook to develop in you a proficiency in arms or trades which may or may not be applicable in the present instance. In addition it undertook to develop within you the highest peak of physical and moral courage—it undertook to develop within you self discipline, reliability, integrity and initiative. All of these things are indeed fundamental qualities in any walk of life. While your training for the past several years undertook to develop within you basic fundamentals of self discipline, reliability and initiative and to develop physical and moral stamina, your day to day was planned for you, your career was largely planned, you had perquisites of travel and cheap living, and while at times your living conditions were most uncomfortable, much time, energy and thought was devoted to providing you with comforts and facilities which few of us may ever enjoy again.

Even Clothes Designed.

Even your clothes were designed and provided for you. Out of all that however the greatest and most efficient and effective fighting units of all times were produced by this country. We pride ourselves in this Democracy that we are able to produce a so-called civilian armed forces and I ask you to reflect back and recall all the good you can that went into providing such a magnificent force and to ensure that it is applied in the development of your own lives and careers and the future of your community and country.

Just a year ago I was on a staff appointment in London and for a short time was a member of several committees all of which planned the repatriation of Canada's armed forces. At that time it was estimated that with the shipping available and the number of people to move that the whole repatriation scheme would require about two years. We were aware of the necessity and were prepared to implement plans for continuing education and providing vocational training. It is a never-ending source of amazement that it was possible to complete repatriation a year in advance of what originally seemed possible, and furthermore the movement of wives and dependents is about completed.

Praises Program.

The rehabilitation program of this country I think is as good and in many respects better than any country in the world. The rehabilitation grant and its associated credit is indeed substantial. The educational and vocational benefits are available although many institutions are greatly taxed for space and accommodation. One of the greatest difficulties the country is faced with however is that many thousands do not know how to work and are unwilling to buckle down and make a start, or that having made a start, lack the application and force to stick and make a success. I regret that, for the moment we decline and are unable to meet the challenge of peacetime work and routine, we are not living up to the standards and principles that developed into those wonderful fighting forces. We are too concerned for our creature comforts, we are too bound up in our towns and villages, the spirit of adventure is dying, we refuse to admit that we have got to work for ourselves individually.

We are rightly proud of our country. She has done well during the war. She has done well by us. Now it is up to us to make good the boasts we made in the pubs and homes and clubs abroad. Canada has a staggering responsibility and a magnificent future. The destiny of civilization is centred in the North American continent and territorially we are the major portion of it. We must be economically sound but more than that we must improve our stock through initiative enterprise and hard work. The eyes of the world are upon us—we have a glorious heritage and history—you have glorious memories—you have participated in a glorious effort. Through your efforts and mine we must have a glorious future.

Says Tojo Admits Full Responsibility For Official Acts

Tokyo, Nov. 14 — (AP)—Former Premier Hideki Tojo accepted "full responsibility for all of his official acts, including the execution of the Doolittle fliers," associate prosecutor John W. Fihelly said Wed., during a recess in the International War Crimes trial.

Mr. Fihelly said that in 51 separate interviews in January, February and March at Sugamo prison, Tojo "always was genial, sometimes laughing, and quite willing to reply fully to any interrogation about his own acts. But he would not implicate any other defendants."

$140,000 GREENHOUSE OPENED AT NIAGARA

More than 1,000 persons from the Niagara district, and Ontario government officials, including six cabinet ministers, attended the official opening of the $140,000 greenhouse of the Niagara Parks Commission at Niagara Falls, Ont., recently. After Mrs. Charles Daley, wife of Labor Minister Daley, also commission chairman, opened the door, a thousand viewed the display of more than 2,000 'mums in full bloom, the largest 'mum display in Ontario. Photo shows Miss Jane Michener, daughter of Ontario's provincial secretary, Roland Michener, and Miss Pam Pepler, Oakville, being shown a display of 'mums by Labor Minister Daley.

Canadian Council Of Churches Needs More Lay Support

Quebec, Nov. 14 (CP)—The organization of lay support for the Canadian Council of Churches headed today a lengthy list of problems before the 100 delegates of nine Protestant denominations attending a general meeting of the council.

The sessions, which will continue through Friday, began yesterday with devotional services and an address by the council president, Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Anglican Archbishop of Toronto and Primate of all Canada.

The permanent organization of the council—Canadian unit of the World Council of Churches—brought before the conference three reports—covering a score or more vital problems facing the Protestant community.

Gambling, penal reform, civil liberties and industrial relations will be covered by the report of the Department of Social Relations. The Department of Ecuminenical Affairs will report on maintaining Christian communications, broadcasting world news, chaplaincy services to prisoners of war, concern for refugees church reconstruction and relief in Europe, youth conferences, the World Council of Churches and plans for study work.

The Department of Evangelism will submit its finding and recommendations regarding the Week of Prayer, University Christian Missions and efforts in support of the Crusaders and Advance Movements in the churches.

Rev. W. J. Gallagher of Toronto, general secretary, told the delegates that a deputation of the council had called on Prime Minister Mackenzie King last January to make representations regarding Japanese Canadians, laws against gambling, prison reform, religious liberty, European relief and international relations.

Mr. Gallagher said efforts to obtain a satisfactory chaplain service for veterans' hospitals had not been successful "from our point of view."

An annual budget of $25,000 was desirable to maintain effective work in the three departments of the council secretariat.

Represented at the meetings are the Church of England in Canada, Baptist Federation of Canada, Churches of Christ, Evangelical Church, Presbyterian Church in Canada, United Church of Canada, Ukrainian Orthodox Church, Salvation Army and the Society of Friends. Affiliated organizations represented are the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A. and the Student Christian Movements of Canada.

Archbishop Owen in his opening address yesterday called the Ecuminenical Movement represented by the council, "an adventure in understanding on the part of different groups of Christians."

"We are exploring ways for the rapprochement of groups which have been separated in some cases for centuries," the Anglican Primate said. "I think of the Ecuminenical Movement as an exploratory adventure. I believe in it. It is a deep adventure toward unity, towards the healing of the deep wounds of the centuries.."

Two Jap Soldiers Guilty of Crimes Against Canadians

Sent to Prison on Numerous Charges of Beating Prisoners

Ottawa, Nov. 15. (CP)—Defence headquarters announced today that two Japanese soldiers—Cajt. Takio Kaneko and Sgt. Toshiharu Uchida—have been convicted of war crimes against Canadian prisoners and have been sentenced to prison.

A statement said Kaneko was sentenced to 28 years' imprisonment and Uchida to 15 years.

Convicted today, they were charged with numerous beatings and collective punishments to Canadian and other prisoners of war.

The statement said news of their convictions was received in a cable today from the Canadian war crimes investigation detachment now operating (in Japan.

Kaneko and Uchida were on the staff of war camp No. 5, the dread mine camp where, it was alleged, prisoners were forced to work lightly clad in freezing temperatures far down in the mines.

Among the numerous charges against them also was that of misappropriating Red Cross supplies.

Enroute To Canada

One of the principal witnesses at the trial, for the prosecution was Sgt.-Maj. H. B. Shepherd of River Bend, Que., who now is on the Pacific Ocean en route to Canada and is expected to reach the West Coast next week.

Testifying on behalf of the two former Japanese army men was Col. Manjiro Fukumoto, former chief of the Fukuoka prisoner-of-war camp No. 5, who said that "slapping, according to Japanese army regulations, was not a recognized form of 'punishment,' but rather a precautionary or corrective measure."

He further explained that prisoners of war were not regarded as an exception to standard army treatment.

The two cases were among the more important of the 50 or more being prosecuted by the Canadian war crimes liaison detachment in Tokyo under the direction of Lt.-Col. Oscar Orr of Vancouver.

Anti-Nazi German Group 'X', Trained In England, Fought as Commandos, Served With Canadians at Dieppe

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 15 — (CP Cable)—Col. Peter Laycock, British-born commander of the top-secret wartime "Troop X," today told the hair-raising story of the German anti-Nazis who fought with the Allies against Hitler.

In an interview with The Canadian Press Col. Laycock described how "Troop X" took part as small, specialized groups in raids at Dieppe, Walcheren, Salerno and other places.

Six of the highly-trained Germans, who, in the words of Lord Mountbatten "believed in democracy and the right of liberty," fought with the 2nd Canadian Division at Dieppe Aug. 19, 1942. Larger numbers fought at Walcheren and Salerno.

The first news of the German participation in the Dieppe operation came from Lord Mountbatten in a speech at Mansion House here Oct. 23.

Trained in England

"German Commandos, trained in England, gave invaluable help to the Allies," Col. Laycock said later in referring to the Walcheren, Holland, raid of Nov. 1, 1944.

"We used them in clearing Germans out of dug-outs. A loud-speaker apparatus was employed through which the Germans addressed the Nazis in their own tongue.

"They also gave invaluable help in the interrogation of prisoners and much useful information was obtained through them."

Col. Laycock said his own unit comprised troops of six nationalities — German, French, Polish, Dutch, Belgium and British —and was the only army unit to fight with the Royal Marines at Walcheren.

Col. Laycock, whose brother, Maj.-Gen. Robert Edward Laycock, succeeded Lord Mountbatten as chief of combined operations, said both he and his brother shared the secret of "Troop X" with Lord Mountbatten but "few other officers, even of the highest rank, knew of it."

Leader of the German Commandos now is a naturalized Briton living in South Kensington as Edward Langley. He is married to an English woman.

Some Had Escaped Gestapo

Many Germans under Langley were refugees. Some had escaped from the Gestapo and others were students from Heidelberg. All shared a hatred of the Nazis.

It now is disclosed that the people of Eastbourne, Sussex, billeted the Germans and talked with them in the streets without having any idea that they were Germans.

These Commandoes used ordinary, undramatic English names while training and wore ordinary British battle dress. Some talked English so fluently that they were never suspected, while those who retained their foreign accents passed themselves off as Poles, Czechoslovaks or Australians.

Langley said 25 per cent of the troops were officers. Some were severely wounded while others were captured by the Germans and were never heard of again. When the troops disbanded some men were posted to security jobs in the British zone of Germany.

In tribute to them, Lord Mountbatten said: "They never let us down.. they were fine soldiers and it is to these men that we have to look for the building of the new Germany."

Push Button And Produce Cosmic Rays in 'Lab' Soon

Dover, N. J., Nov. 15 —(AP)— A prediction that cosmic rays soon will be produced in the laboratory at the push of a button was made yesterday by Prof. Donald W. Kerst, inventor of the betatron.

Prof. Kerst spoke at the dedication of the Army's new betatron in Picatinny arsenal.

"Though cosmic rays have been much talked about, actually very little is known about them," he said. "We cannot even imagine what may be developed when we can have cosmic rays in the laboratory, produced by a betatron operating at the push of a button."

TERRORISTS SAY GOVT. BUILDINGS HAVE BEEN MINED

Underground Telephone Warns Paper That Government House Will Be First to Go

Jerusalem, Nov. 15 (CP)—Jewish Terrorists striking a fresh blow in their war of nerves against the Palestine government, today telephoned a warning to the newspaper Palestine Post declaring that "we have mined Government House (the residence of Lt.-Gen. Sir Alan G. Cunningham, British high commissioner), the Palestine broadcasting service building and the offices of the district commissioner."

Another telephone warning said the St. George's Cathedral here also has been mined.

A small package was found in the district commissioner's offices and the police were warned to keep away "until the sappers give the OK."

At the same time, an unknown gunman last night shot and wounded a British officer in an ambush near Lydda railway station, 12 miles southeast of Jaffa, it was officially stated. The officer fired at the attackers as he fell to the ground, but they escaped.

People Warned

Meanwhile Arabs and Jews were warned against using Palestine railways in leaflets pasted on house walls and lamp posts here.

The leaflets presumably were put up by supporters of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, which has claimed responsibility for a series of recent railroad explosions. They warned that passenger and freight trains as well as troop trains might be blown up by mines.

Railroad tracks are strongly guarded and locomotives are preceded by hand cars.

Shipment of thousands of tons of citrus fruits awaiting transport to the port of Haifa has been delayed by the railway blasts.

Scour Bushland For Lost Guide

Sudbury, Nov. 15 (CP)—After scouring bushland in the Maple Point area between Mudge Bay to the east and Gore Bay to the west, search parties were swinging southward today in efforts to find Stanley Richards, 43, Manitoulin Island guide of the Kagawong district missng since November 2.

In five days, posses have scoured more than 25 square miles of the Maple Point district without success. Kagawong district resident advanced the theory that Richards probably has met his death.

Provincial Constable J. L. Needham of North Bay, posse leader, is making every effort to find Richards, dead or alive. He discounts the theory Richards might have been killed by poachers and thrown into the Kagawong swamp.

It is more than 10 miles from the point of Richards' disappearance to the Kagawong swamp, Constable Needham said.

British Troops in Greece Chief Factor in Preventing Civil War

Editor's Note: In this story, last of four, Ross Munro, Canadian Press European correspondent who has just visited troubled Greece, tells how British troops by their mere presence in the Balkan country help maintain order by preventing united operations by guerilla bands along the northern frontier.

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Athens, Nov. 15 — (CP)—Presence of some 20,000 British troops in Greece is the chief factor which prevents guerilla activity along the northern frontier from spreading into civil war, says a United States diplomat who has toured the northern regions.

Elements of the 4th and 13th British Infantry divisions are in Greece, but each division is being gradually reduced and they now total only about four brigades, compared with a normal six brigades. The brigades would total about 12,000 fighting men, with the other 8,000 in Greece made up of base details in Athens and line-of-communication troops.

On Athens airfield is a squadron of R.A.F. Mosquitos and some R.A.F. Spitfires, but the British airmen seldom do any flying and then only to keep in training.

The British infantry brigades are scattered through northern Greece. They take no part in attempting to cope with the guerilla bands. This is the responsibility of the Greek army itself.

But the mere presence of British troops in the danger zones seems to deter the Greek Communists from extending the guerilla warfare to a point where a clash with the British forces would be practically inevitable, said my American informant.

Thus the frontier skirmishes are fairly scattered and there is no cohesive action between one band and another.

Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Secretary, has stated many times that British troops are in Greece to see that democracy is re-established — to give the Greeks a chance to put their own house in order without civil war and bloodshed.

While some progress has been made towards this goal, the situation here is still uncertain and explosive. Advances towards the democratic government which Britain would like to see in Greece could be eliminated possibly in a few weeks, some diplomats here say, if the British force were suddenly withdrawn and the two extremes in Greek politics—Royalists and Communists—opened a political battle that might easily lead to one with guns.

Nuernberg Trials Fairest in History Says Woman Lawyer

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP) — The recent Nuernberg war crimes trials will go down as the fairest in history, Eileen Mitchell, Toronto lawyer, said today in an interview. The slight, blue-eyed past president of the Ontario Women's Law Association attended the trials as a guest of the British war crimes executive.

"Even the accused — if they had any sense of shame or guilt left — must have wondered why they had allowed themselves to be led into conflict with nations as humane as those which produced such righteous judges as the tribunal presided over by Lord Justice Lawrence of Britain."

Miss Mitchell spent six months studying the juvenile delinquency problem in Great Britain.

MRS. EVELYN DICK CHARGES TRICKERY AGAINST POLICE

Talk or be Hanged Choice Given Says Notice of Appeal Against Sentence

Toronto, Nov. 15—(CP)—Talk or be hanged . . .

That, in effect, was the choice given her by the Crown, Mrs. Evelyn Dick said in her notice of appeal against conviction of the March torso killing of her husband, 40-year-old John Dick.

Of proceedings since her conviction just one month ago today when an Assize court jury recommended mercy, her appeal notice said:

"It was intimated to me that if I did not testify against others charged with the same crime the recommendation of mercy by the jury would receive scant consideration."

So far she has remained steadfast in her refusal to talk further about the March 6 murder, her refusal to testify for the Crown against her father, Donald MacLean, and her former boy friend, William Bohozuk, with whom she admitted intimacy five days after she married John Dick in October, 1945. Both men are charged with the killing.

The Crown has made it evident that the young widow's testimony is vital to the case against the two men who stood trial for two days following her conviction last month and then, when she refused to testify, had their case remanded to Jan. 16.

The notice of appeal was filed at Osgoode Hall yesterday by defence Counsel John Sullivan just one day before the deadline of 30 days after conviction. He said an appeal application for an order of reprieve from her sentence of death on Jan. 7 would be filed some time next month.

In the notice Mrs. Dick said her mother had testified against her only after the Crown rewarded Mrs. Alexandra MacLean "by withdrawal of a charge against herself." Mrs. MacLean at first was also charged with the slaying of her son-in-law whose dismembered body was found March 16 on Hamilton Mountain but last spring the charge was withdrawn and she was released on bond as a material witness.

Mrs. Dick, in her appeal notice, mentioned the holding of the Grand Jury in session during her trial and said there was no reason for this "except as it might possibly concern my mother."

"It was a procedure shocking all sense of decency by compelling a mother to testify against her own daughter under fear of prosecution against herself."

The condemned woman said statements she gave to police were obtained by trickery and cajolery . . . "I was without benefit of legal advice; alone and helpless; and hounded by agents of the law; wheedled and cajoled by promises of release and prosecution of a lesser charge if I would implicate others."

Also her notice objected to the trial judge, Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow, allowing as evidence her 5 statements to police, the last of which declared Bohozuk killed her husband by firing two bullets into Dick's head from the back seat of a borrowed car while the murdered man sat in the front seat beside his wife who drove the car to a lonely spot about 15 miles from Hamilton. The statement said Bohozuk received the murder weapon from Mrs. Dick's father.

WILL JOIN RED WINGS

Stratford, Ont., Nov. 15—(CP)—Bruce Burdett, a Stratford hockey product who played for the local Indians in senior O. H. A. ranks last season, left for Detroit Thursday to join the Red Wings of the N. H. L. He has been on Toronto Maple Leafs' negotiation list for some years.

THREE CANADIAN WARSHIPS WILL BE AT CEREMONY

Members of Crews Will Take Part in Parade During Inauguration Of Mexican President

Ottawa, Nov. 15 (CP)—Three Canadian warships will take part in ceremonies attending inauguration of the new President of Mexico, Miguel Aleman, Dec. 1, Naval Service Headquarters announced today.

The ships will be the 18,000-ton aircraft carrier Warrior, the cruiser Uganda and the destroyer Crescent.

Following three days of training exercises off the southern coast of Mexico, the three warships will anchor Nov. 28 at Acapulco, Mexico, about 200 miles south of Mexico City, and will remain there until Dec. 3. On the day of the inauguration the warships will dress ship, fire appropriate salutes and participate in local ceremonies arranged in conjunction with Mexican authorities.

Capt. Frank L. Houghton, C.B.E., R.C.N., commanding officer of the Warrior, and senior Canadian naval officer afloat, will be in Mexico City from Nov. 29 to Dec. 2 as naval attache to the special Canadian mission for the inauguration, headed by the Canadian Ambassador to Mexico, Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside.

Participation in the Mexican celebration has meant considerable revision of training cruise plans for the Canadian warships.

Flying Exercises

On Nov. 11, Warrior arrived at Kingston, Jamica, with the tribal class destroyer Nootka in company. Three days of flying exercises were carried out en route.

The two ships leaving Kingston Thursday, are due at Colon, canal zone, on Saturday. From there, Nootka will turn north to return to her base at Halifax and will visit Bermuda on the way.

Warrior will proceed through the Panama Canal and will be met at Balboa by the Crescent, which sailed from Esquimalt Nov. 7, commanded by Lt.-Comdr. C. P. (Pat) Nixon, D.C., R.C.N.

The two ships will refuel at Balboa, canal zone, and said from there Nov 20, to rendezvous with the Uganda off Acapulco on Nov. 25. The Uganda, commanded by Capt. Kenneth F. Adams, R.C.N., will leave Esquimalt Nov. 17, to join the other ships.

To Visit California

All ships will visit San Diego, California, from Dec. 8 to 12 and will sail on the latter date for Esquimalt where they are due on Dec. 16.

Naval authorities have denied recent reports that the Warrior would be de-commissioned on reaching Esquimalt. On the contrary, an extensive winter training program has been prepared for the aircraft carrier, which will also participate in spring exercises in the Pacific. Land base for her aircraft at the Pacific coast will be Patricia Bay, near Esquimalt.

Airline Pilots' Strike Ended, Will Arbitrate

Washington, Nov. 15. (AP)—The Trans World airline pilots' strike—the United States first major walkout of commercial fliers—ended today with an agreement to submit the dispute over pay and working rules to arbitration.

Paul E. Richter, executive vice president of T.W.A., and David L. Behncke, of the A.F.L. Pilots Union—signed the agreement early today in the office of Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the National Mediation Board.

T.W.A. said it expects to put its first planes into the air about 7 a.m., local time Saturday, with transcontinental flights starting from both coasts.

The walkout of approximately 1,000 pilots began Oct. 21 over demands for higher pay for pilots and co-pilots of four-engine planes. It grounded 115 aircraft along most of the company's 28,000 miles of route on three continents, threw nearly 15,000 non-flying employees out of work and cut off $2,000,000 in weekly revenue to the company.

The agreement ends the strike by leaving to the decision of a three-man panel a number of disputed points. Most important of these are the rates of pay for pilots and co-pilots on Douglas Skymasters and Lockheed Constellations flying domestic and international routes; the question of a minimum monthly pay for pilots in the international service; the question of flight time limitation for pilots in the international service, and whether there should be a new bidding procedure for runs.

Demand For Immediate Change In Foreign Policy To Be Debated In House

Critical Cleavage Caused In Ranks of Labor Party

London, Nov. 15 —(AP)— A demand for an immediate change in British foreign policy, which has caused a critical cleavage in the ranks of the ruling Labor party, will come before the House of Commons Monday for debate, Speaker Douglas Clifton Brown ruled today.

Cabinet sources left no doubt that they intend to fight with all their power the proposal by more than 50 Labor rebels for recasting British foreign policy so as to avoid what they termed an "inevitable conflict" between the Soviet Union and the United States.

It appeared certain that with the full force of the government and Conservatives under Winston Churchill both lined up behind Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's conduct of foreign affairs the Cabinet would receive a thumping vote of confidence, if the issue comes to a showdown vote

The so-called "Bevin chasers," sponsors of an amendment to the parliament-opening Speech from the Throne demanding that Britain's foreign policy be tied neither to that of Russia or the United States, already have announced they do not intend to press for a vote, however.

Some of the insurgents, themselves had said privately they would not vote against the government, but intended to carry out in debate their already sharply worded criticisms of what they call "Bevinism."

State Minister Hector McNeil has been designated to speak for the government in the debate, expected to be the hottest in the House of Commons since Labor took over the government 15 months ago. Suggestions that Mr. Bevin might fly home from New York to defend himself were discounted in official circles.

Tom Briberg, Labor, one of the sponsors of the amendment, capped a free-hitting argument in the House last night with a hotly-worded attack on Britain's close ties with the United States and a demand that Britain become more friendly with Russia. He said the United States was the only great power in the world where some "ordinary people wanted war."

Speaker Interrupted

Brendan Bracken, a member of the Conservative opposition which has supported Mr. Bevin's foreign policy, interrupted Mr. Briberg with the comment that "several hundreds of thousands of young Americans died in the war and he (Driberg) should refer to the country more civilly."

T. M. Warby, Labor, another of the amendment's sponsors, urged Prime Minister Attlee's government to try "the policy of equal friendliness and equal frankness towards both the Soviet Union and the U. S."

The argument raged just as hotly outside parliament, too. Harry Pollitt, general secretary of the Communist Party, told a party rally, without amplification: "I believe America aims to take Britain for a ride."

George Bernard Shaw, 90-year-old literary sage, aligned himself with the revolters in a letter to a newspaper in which he accused the government of "preparations for the next war."

Quintuplets Born In Beirut, Report

Beirut, Nov. 15 (Reuters) —A Beirut woman, Zahieh Zahran, has given birth to quintuplets, it was reported here today.

There were said to be three boys and two girls, all in the best of health.

DANDELIONS IN BLOOM

Brantford, Nov. 15 — (CP)—It may be mid-November and Christmas will soon be here, but there are dandelions in full bloom in this southern Ontario city. Street superintendent Fred Unger picked a handfull yesterday just to prove it to the boys at city hall.

Princess Tours Wards in Exeter Hospital

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Exeter, Devon, England, Nov. 15 (CP Cable)—This ancient cathedral city, which remembers royal visits back to the time of Charles II, last night bade farewell to Princess Elizabeth at the end of a two-day tour of Devonshire.

The Princess yesterday visited Exeter's famed orthopedic hospital, named for her 10 years ago, and then left by train for London.

On her visit to the hospital she paused by a cot endowed by the King and Queen at the time of the dedication of the hospital and studied a picture of herself at the age of 10 which hung on the wall.

"Why I don't think I've seen that one before," she remarked "Perhaps they forgot to show it to me."

The Princess toured the wards and talked with many patients, including 16-year-old Margaret Pickard of Bude, Devonshire, who presented her with a pair of gloves she had made.

"Thank you," said Princess Elizabeth. "They're very lovely."

Devonshire newspapers displayed the Royal visit prominently with numerous pictures and the Western Morning News published an editorial reviewing past Royal visits including that of Charles II to Plymouth after the civil war of the 17th century.

As Princess Elizabeth's limousine drove into the city yesterday she noticed a townswoman, Mrs. Vincent Thomas, standing to one side with five brown and white cocker spaniels and a Scottie. The Princess stepped from her car and paused to look at the dogs.

"Oh, they're lovely," she said to Mrs. Thomas, adding that she had two Welsh corgies and one Tibetan lion dog of her own. "I wish they could meet."

More Than $200,000,000 Expected '46 Outlay of U.S. Tourists in Canada

Chicago, Nov. 15. (CP)—Influx of United States tourists to Canada in 1946 is expected to be 28 per cent higher than in 1945, with a total of more than $200,000,000 expended in the Dominion, Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau, said here today.

The expenditure by American tourists would have been higher, except for scarcity in Canada of articles the tourists usually seek, Mr. Dolan said in an address prepared for delivery before the National Association of Travel officials.

Such items as Irish linens, British chinaware, silverware, woollens, footwear, Canadian homespuns, novelties and souvenirs, were scarce.

"It is a sad report to make," he added, "but . . . we did not have as much Scotch or French, Italian and Spanish wines and brandies, which in the good old days the Nationals of your country used to seek in such abundance. . . . Likewise our supply of malt liquors had something to do with a lessening of expenditures by our American visitors this year."

Canadians this year are spending an even greater per capita amount in the United States, the Travel Bureau head disclosed. This year they would spend $120,000,000 outside the Dominion—most of it in United States.

The friendship between Canada and the United States was an example of what travel could mean to international relationships.

"If in our hopes and in our ambitions we can foster upon this continent, by means of travel, a friendship so enduring and so genuine, may we not express the fervent hope that peoples of other lands, torn by dissension and distrust will see this example and gain some measure of confidence in one another because of this record of achievement which has been ours?"

RGBT. E. KNOWLES MINISTER, AUTHOR, NEWSWRITER, DIES

Well-Known Canadian Dies at His Home in Galt at Age of 77

Galt, Nov. 15 —(CP)— R. E. Knowles, Presbyterian clergyman, author and newspaperman noted for "human-interest" interviews with many of the world's celebrities while he was writing for the Toronto Daily Star before the war, died at his home here today. He was 77.

He had been in failing health for some years and in recent months was confined to his home.

Mr. Knowles, an extensive traveller throughout Europe and North America, also was a well-known lecturer.

Born in Osprey, Grey County, Ont., he was a graduate of Tassie School here, Manitoba College, Winnipeg — from which he received a B.A. degree in 1890 — and Queen's University, Kingston. He was ordained a Presbyterian minister in 1891.

He held only two pastorates—Stewarton Church, Ottawa, and Knox Church, Galt — and then retired from the active ministry after 17 years in service here to become a full-time writer.

Among his better-known books were "St. Cuthbert's," "The Undertow," "The Web of Time," and "The Singer of the Kootenay."

As a lecturer he had two favorite subjects—"The Secret of the Scottish Success" and "The Imperial and National Position of Canada." A staunch supporter of the Conservative party, he was often in demand as an after-dinner speaker.

As a journalist he covered the Scopes "Monkey Trial" in Tennessee—in which lawyer Clarence Darrow won much of his fame—and interviewed many of the great and near-great of the world who visited Toronto. Among them were scientists, authors, sportsmen, stage stars, politicians, labor leaders and members of royalty and the peerage and to all his stories of the interview Mr. Knowles gave the personal touch of his own reaction to the personage in question.

"Canadian J. M. Barrie."

Observers — noting his wry, Celtic humor in handling some of his assignments—nick-named him "The Canadian J. M. Barrie."

Mr. Knowles was married twice. His second wife, Georgina May Hogg of Galt, survives him. Among his recreations in former years were golf and curling and he was a member of the Authors' Club in London.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, November 15 (CP)—Synopsis: A large area of high pressure, giving clear skies, covers the entire eastern half of the continent, with the highest pressures in a north-south line through Southwestern Ontario. To the east of this line maximums yesterday averaged a few degrees below normal, and temperatures have now fallen to freezing at most places. West of this line of high pressure a strong southerly flow brought warm air to central states and prairies with maximums Thursday in the high fifties. An outbreak of very cold air from the polar regions has swept rapidly southeastward into Alberta and is expected to reach Ontario late Saturday or Sunday.

Two Sentenced To One Month In County Jail

Pleading guilty to charges of receiving stolen property and of being unlawfully in possession of liquor, Peter Milne, Cannifton Road was sentenced to one month in jail and assessed a fine of $100 plus $3 costs, when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills on Friday.

In a third charge in connection with the same offence, Lorne McNally, Ivanhoe, was sentenced to one month in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the bottling room at Corby's distillery and stealing a case of unsealed and unlabelled whiskey.

Russell Babcock, Herchimer Ave., was dismissed of a charge of receiving stolen property when the Crown offered no evidence.

E. E. Foilwell acted as defence counsel for McNally while Ormonde Butler acted for Milne.

Charges against the three men came on October 28th following their apprehension by local police after it had been reported that an automobile had been seen acting suspiciously in the neighborhood of Corbyville. The licence number had been procured and the auto had been stopped on Cannifton Road. In the car which was driven by Babcock, with Milne as the second occupant, were 12 bottles of liquor.

Liquor Stolen

Subsequent investigation by police revealed the liquor had been stolen from the bottling room at Corby's by McNally who had placed it over the fence into the ditch where it was picked up by Milne. A summary of the evidence in the case against McNally was given by Provincial Constable Sam Ervine who from statements by the accused told how the liquor was gotten out of the bottling room. McNally had shown every co-operation when questioned, it was stated.

In presenting a summary of the evidence in the Milne charge, Inspector Clair Hayes told how McNally and Milne had made arrangements for the former to get the liquor out of the bottling room to be picked up later by Milne.

According to the story told by Milne to police Babcock had been an innocent party in the matter and had borrowed a car to drive Milne to Corbyville, presumably to visit a sick friend.

Although originally charged with receiving stolen goods, the charge against Babcock was dismissed by the magistrate when the Crown offered no evidence.

Milk Prices Probe Will Open On Monday

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP)—Mr. Justice Dalton Wells will open his Royal Commission investigation into Ontario milk prices Monday, Nov. 18, it was announced last night. The preliminary hearing will lay the groundwork for the entire probe by introduction of evidence relating to the legislative background of the milk industry, control of prices and production and the operation of the Milk Control Board of Ontario.

The province-wide itinerary for Commission hearings is to be announced at the opening hearing.

The Commission appointment was made in October by the Ontario government after the retail price of milk went up three cents a quart to prices ranging from 15 to 17 cents in the province. The increase was agreed on by producer and distributor organizations after the Dominion government cancelled its producer subsidy of 55 cents a hundredweight. The price to the producer was increased by $1.00 a hundredweight. The price changes became effective Oct. 1.

Teachers Plan Region Conference

In spite of the accumulation of work that November brings for most teachers, a fine representation of the city staffs arrived at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday night for the supper meeting.

The President, Miss Hart, brought the meeting to order after the singing of "O Canada".

The main item under discussion was the President's Conference which is being held for the region in Belleville on Saturday, November 16, at the Queen Alexandra School.

As so many are coming from long distances, coffee and muffins are to be served from 9.00-9.30 a.m., following registration. Volunteers for assistance as hostesses were requested and many agreed to lose some precious sleep to act in this capacity.

The Association decided to send a Christmas parcel of food to Miss Heaseman who is teaching in England this year.

Queen Mary School is in charge of the program for December.

Coroner's Jury Attaches No Blame in York's Death; Makes Two Recommendations

Ameliasburg—(Staff)—A coroner's jury probing the circumstances surrounding the death of Cecil York, 24-year-old Belleville war veteran and electrician's apprentice, who was electrocuted while assisting in laying a power line on a Rednersville farm on Nov. 7th, exonerated "from blame any one person involved in the tragedy."

The jury brought in two recommendations after hearing evidence for upwards of three hours and deliberating for forty-five minutes.

The first was that "when electrical installations are being done in the vicinity of high tension wires, either the power be shut off, or special equipment be used to prevent the possibility of accident. Secondly, "that it be made compulsory to give instruction to all beginners and apprentices in the electrical trade concerning danger from high tension wires."

The inquest was held in the Town Hall here last night with Coroner Dr. R. S. Thompson, Wellington, presiding. The crown was represented by County Crown Attorney Gordon Walmsley who questioned lengthily several witnesses, while the probe was in charge of County Constable Earl Marvin of Wellington. The jury was composed of Foreman A. B. File and Messrs. Ross Burr, Harry Bisdee, Harold Ward and Bernard Redner.

Heard Man Scream

Mrs. J. D. Jenet, wife of Brigadier Jenet, owner of the farm on which the tragedy occurred told the jury that she was in the cottage on the farm near where the men were working. She heard a scream and saw one of the men lying on the ground near a pole by a ditch. She went to her home and called the doctor and police.

O.P.P. Constable Sam Ervine, Belleville, who investigated the accident testified that York was dead when he arrived on the scene some 25 minutes after the tragedy had occurred. Doctor Russell Scott had arrived a few minutes later and after examination ordered artificial respiration which was unsuccessful. The witness related the story of how George Keegan, electrician in charge of the job and an employee of the Hibbard Electric of Belleville told him that the dead youth had pulled up the slack in the wire they were laying from the Jenet house to a pump house some 500 feet away and across a highway. Keegan was installing an insulator near the roof of the Jenet house when York suddenly called "George, George" and fell over. When Keegan arrived at his side, York was dead.

Dead on Arrival

Dr. Russell Scott, Belleville, told the jury he had arrived at the scene a short time after the tragedy occurred and that York was dead when he arrived. Artificial respiration was of no avail. There were burn marks on the fingers of the deceased's right hand and on his right foot. From history gathered at the scene he was of the belief that the heart action had stopped immediately upon receipt of the shock.

George Keegan, Hibbard Electric electrician, who was in charge of the work related how he and York had started the work with material which was already at the Jenet farm. They had put insulators on the three poles located between the highway and the pumphouse and Keegan had inserted the wire into the insulators with York paying it out so no tangle would occur. At the highway they took a handline and threw the wire over a lower wire and underneath the two high tension wires. Later in answer to a juror's question, Keegan testified that he had looked across the highway from the first pole and found there was plenty of clearance for his line between the high tension wires and the lower one.

Went to Third Pole

Just prior to the accident he was on a ladder installing an insulator on the Jenet house. He recalled having told York to go down and take up the slack of the wire. The deceased youth went down to the third pole near the pumphouse. "Then I heard York call 'George' twice and I turned and saw him stagger and fall. When I reached him he was dead."

Questioned closely by the Crown, Keegan said he was sure he heard an intermittent humming noise "like a boat whistle" just prior to York's call. "There was the possibility," he said, "that when York pulled the wire he first pulled then jerked it, causing it to flip up and contact the high tension wires."

D. Kavanagh, hydro inspector told the jury that the high tension wires were 19½ feet and 22½ feet above ground and there should be 40 inches clearance between them. There could be an electric "jump" of a quarter inch from a high tension wire to another without leaving a mark on the wires, he testified when shown a piece of the wire involved which did not show any burn marks.

May Have Jerked Wire

Arthur Lloyd, in charge of rural hydro in Prince Edward County said that in this case the wire being laid, if stretched taut could have touched the high tension wires. He offered the opinion that York may have seen traffic approaching along the highway and given the wire a sudden jerk causing it to touch the high tension wires. "There were cases," he said, "but they were rare, that hydro power was suspended to allow jobs of this nature to proceed without danger. It depended on the time of year and the circumstances."

Paul Hibbard, of Hibbard Electric told the jury that the job had been a normal one and was done in the usual routine. York had been a good, conscientious worker. He had displayed from time to time in his shop, the witness said, posters regarding safety. This was corroborated by Keegan.

RSM Angus Duffy Special Speaker At Y's Men's Club

Value of the non-permanent militia and the regimental spirit which must be present to make it a success, was emphasized to members of the Belleville Y's-Men's Club at their regular Thursday evening dinner meeting when Angus Duffy, former R.S.M. for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment overseas, acted as the guest speaker.

History of the H. and P. E., from the time of its inauguration back in 1920 when a group of men from Belleville, Trenton and Picton and other towns organized the non-permanent militia of the regiment was traced by Mr. Duffy who told of the regiment going "active" at the beginning of the war and of its first contingent proceeding overseas.

"It was only the tremendous enthusiasm of the regiment which enabled its members to put up with the bewildering program of training, combined with the dreadful lack of equipment when the regiment went active," stated the former R.S.M.

Battles Described

The speaker spoke on the training in battle drill which built the men physically and mentally and which taught the men companionship which enabled the men to undergo any hardships. Several of the important battles in which the regiment engaged were graphically described by the speaker who paid tribute to the heroism of the officers and men.

Turning to the post-war Mr. Duffy spoke of the value of the non-permanent militia and made a strong appeal for its support. If Canada showed she was determined to fight against any aggression and demonstrated her preparedness, there would not be another war, according to the speaker.

Y's-Men's members expressed their appreciation for Mr. Duffy's talk which was claimed to be one of the finest addresses heard at the club. The speaker was introduced by President Archie Boyd and was thanked by Bryson Leslie. Ross Booth introduced the guests.

Given Six Months On Theft Charge

"I don't want to go to the county jail, I would rather be at some other place," pleaded 20-year-old Arthur Jones of Newfoundland when he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment after pleading guilty in local magistrate's court to a charge of breaking and entering the local Salvation Army Citadel and stealing a box of clothing.

"This man seems very indifferent about the whole thing," commented Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, as he read the charge to the youth. "Possibly he better be remanded for mental examination." The accused, however, elected trial before Magistrate T. Y. Wills and pleaded guilty to the charge.

In giving a summary of the evidence Inspector Clair Hayes stated that a call from Brockville police had been received on November 6th., stating that Jones had been apprehended and had been found in possession of a box of clothing admittedly stolen from the Salvation Army Citadel at Belleville. The theft of the clothing was later reported by local Salvation Army officials.

In his statement to police Jones admitted that he had heard local Salvation Army officials conversing about the boxes of clothing in the basement of the local Citadel and on the night of November 5th had entered the building by the coal chute and had stolen a box of clothing.

"Unfortunately," commented the witness, "the accused took a box containing only women's and children's clothing. When arrested in Brockville he had in his possession a C.N.R. locker key and the box of clothing was discovered in the locker.

The six months' jail imprisonment term was given by the Magistrate "in view of the accused's past record."

Kelleher-Robinson Memorial Trophy Presented to Batawa By Army and Navy Veterans

The Kelleher - Robinson Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the Belleville and District Baseball Championship, was formally presented to the Batawa baseball team, 1946 champions, and finalists in the Ontario Baseball Association Intermediate "A" series, last night following the general meeting of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans, Unit No. 201, held in the Front Street club rooms.

The handsome trophy, donated to the baseball league by the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' branch here to perpetuate the memory of two Belleville athletes who died in the Second Great War, was presented to Manager Bill Easton, of the champion team, by Comrade J. H. Lazenby, of the veterans.

Approximately fifteen members of the Batawa Shoemen team were present at the ceremonies and were guests of the veterans at an informal reception afterwards.

Related Histories.

Comrade Lazenby in his presentation address related the histories of the late gunners, "Joe" Kelleher and "Pop" Robinson, former star athletes in whose memorial honor the trophy was given. He recalled the gallant sacrifice made by these men who were foremost in the field of sport and in the grimmer game that saw them give their all.

He complimented the Batawa squad on their achievements on the baseball diamond, both in the city league and in other fields of baseball endeavor. "They had been a credit to their own community and to the league they represented," he said, "and he hoped to have the pleasure of presenting the trophy to them again next year."

Manager Easton accepted the trophy on behalf of his squad and expressed the collective appreciation of himself and his team for the gesture of the veterans in giving teams of the city league something to play for. He also voiced the thanks of his squad for the generous invitation to be present at the presentation and the fine reception afforded them.

Most Valuable Player.

Tim Williams, star second baseman of the Army, Navy, Air Force Flashes, the veteran-sponsored entry in the Belleville Softball Association last summer, was the recipient of two presentation surprises.

Williams was voted the most valuable player on the Flashes team and accordingly was given the Angus Duffy prize of $5. This was augmented by a similar amount donated by the organization itself.

Plans were being formulated, it was learned at the meeting, for the provision of Christmas comforts and other seasonal supplies for disabled veterans in institutions, hospitals, etc. A committee will be formed in the near future to look after details of the plans.

The executive of the branch is meeting the Belleville Hockey Club executive tonight at a special session to discuss hockey possibilities for the coming winter.

PICTON

Four-Horse Hitch Of Sawyer-Stoll Second at Fair

Picton, Nov. 15 — Shown in the four-horse hitch class at the Royal Winter Fair, the entry of the Sawyer-Stoll Lumber Co., of Kaladar, which is in charge of George Atkinson of Bloomfield, won second award in a class of 17 entries. First place went to Mr. Hepburn, St. Thomas, former Ontario Premier. There were teams from three Canadian provinces and three from the U.S.A.

In classes for single draught horses Mr. Atkinson won fourth and fifth place in large classes. He will exhibit the company's six-horse hitch on Friday and a team on Saturday.

Also showing horses at the Royal is Arthur Wright of Waupoos, judging to be done on Saturday.

On Wednesday 30 Prince Edward Junior Farmers spent the day at the fair, travelling by bus from Belleville along with a large number of Hastings County Junior Farmers.

Boys' Parliament.

An acclamation for the Older Boys' Parliament was given in Prince Edward County when nominations closed yesterday. Member-elect is Bill McKay of Carrying Place, who is Chief Ranger of the Senior Boys' Class of Rednersville United Church. Sessions of the parliament are in London during the Christmas vacation. Robert Whattam, Wellington, is the retiring member.

Form Club.

A unique club has been organized here, following the plan of one Toronto church. It is called the 50-50 Club and membership is open to young married couples. This takes in those who do not wish to join the older groups for men and women or the groups, in which, when married, they feel too old to join.

It is also unique in the fact that all the officers are two people. A banquet on December 2nd will have Rev. Earl Lautenslager, minister of Howard Park United Church, Toronto, originator of the club idea, as speaker.

Officers of Picton United Church 50-50 Club are: Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Williams, president; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ward, vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. Findly McArthur, corresponding secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lockwood, recording secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Blakely, treasurer. Directors are Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGinnis, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Clealan Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wellbanks.

Horse Destroyed After Being Hit By Motor Car

One horse was so badly injured it had to be destroyed and a car extensively damaged early last evening near the Bowerman's school house, Prince Edward County following an accident in which it is stated, the car drove into four horses crossing the road.

W. H. Bedell, Hillier township, was returning to his home at dusk when, police say, four horses owned by Herbert Johnson started across the road directly in front of the car. Bedell could not stop the vehicle in time and it crashed into the animals, seriously injuring one of them.

County Constable Earl Marvin, Wellington, who investigated the accident, despatched the horse after ascertaining its injuries. The animal was said to be 19 years of age and blind in one eye.

According to Constable Marvin, the horses were being driven from a pasture field to the Johnson barn, but no one was with them on the road when the accident occurred.

The Bedell car had both windshields smashed, windows of the car broken and its side damaged.

Must Instill into Worker's Mind To Think Safely and Act Safely Accident Prevention Meet Told

"A good safety program lies not only in the making sure that all machinery is amply guarded and kept in good repair but in instilling in the mind of the worker the need to think safely and act safely that he may enjoy the fruits of his labors and his family his support," G. S. Stanton, of the Stephens-Adamson Company here told the Central Ontario Division, Industrial Accident Prevention Associations meeting in Trenton Wednesday night.

Speaking to approximately 65 superintendents, foremen, personnel, directors and other key men of the division at a banquet held in the Dutch Mill, Mr. Stanton pointed out that a safety committee is good training ground and is the establishing of more leaders in safety to make the task easier.

"Leadership is necessary today more than ever before. It is like an invisible bond throughout all departments of the plant, something not seen but felt, stopping man mentally before committing an unsafe act."

Must Apply Pressure.

Mr. Stanton warned that if accident prevention was disregarded entirely, before many months had passed all industry would be in chaos. "It is necessary for a steady consistent application of pressure to keep down the tide of injuries, lest we be engulfed in the flood."

Management must be wholeheartedly and sincerely behind a safety program and must instil in the supervisory staff the same spirit as they themselves. Management is too modest, failing to appreciate that the organization which it heads is something it has built up and is a lengthened shadow of itself.

The supervisory staff in turn must see that those individuals who will be coming in contact with workers have the proper attitude with regard to safe practices and be willing to exert the same abilities in accident prevention as in other phases of the business, the speaker said.

Should be Trained

He pointed out that in most plants the foreman must shoulder most of the responsibility in this respect. "Foremen should be adequately trained have considerable experience and native ability to recognize dangerous conditions and correct them before trouble results.

"The foreman is a leader of men. He's got to be. You cannot drive men today. You have to be in there ahead showing the way and setting a safe example. He should day by day instil the need to think safety, talk safety and act safely."

Mr. Stanton emphasized the importance of leadership. "It was in effect thousands of years ago and the course of the world has been changed because of leadership, good or bad. It is instinctive for us to look to some superior force, but it remains for a good leader to grasp that force and hold it in its proper channels so as to bring forth results a credit to all."

With proper leadership, the worker will ingrain into himself the habit of safety until he hesitates before committing an unsafe act.

Two Big Obstacles

Two of the biggest obstacles in the way of a successful safety campaign, he warned, are; expecting too much at the beginning and relaxation of effort after the initial push. Leaders should not be discouraged at first and should realize that results can best be seen after long persistent effort. He urged that the safety program once started be kept continuously in action lest employee interest be harder to gain the next time the story is told them.

"Safety committees," he said, "should be drawn from all departments of the plant. It will be of much assistance as a work is more responsive when anything is endorsed by representatives of his own group. Given leadership, Mr. Stanton concluded, the accident record will improve in every plant.

Outlines Work On Board

Mr. Stanton who is chairman of the Central Ontario Division was introduced by A. B. Ross, Consolidated Optical Company.

R. B. Morley, general manager, Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, Toronto, also addressed the assembly, on general organization. He outlined the workings of the Workmens' Compensation Board and how it applied to industry and also defined the Ontario Act, which, he said, was a model for all other Compensation Acts across Canada.

The general organization of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations has a group of efficient inspectors whose duties take them into plants in the province and who are trained for accident prevention.

He explained the importance of divisional meetings which could be attended by plant personnel in an area where they could deal with local problems. Eight divisions are now in action throughout Ontario.

Stressing the employers' duty, Mr. Morley pointed out that he must provide a reasonably safe place for his employees; and with equipment suited to the job and see that adequate maintenance is given to tools and equipment. It is the employers' problem, in the last analysis, to interest his people in the prevention of accidents. Any good plan of accident prevention calls for the complete co-operation of the supervisory forces and the workers. The idea of accident prevention has to percolate through all the ranks.

Mr. Morley was introduced by H. M. Burley, chairman of the Belleville section of the Central Ontario Division.

Queen Alexandra School, Home Club Holds Meeting

Judging by the number of parents who accepted the opportunity, to inspect "Johnny's" and "Mary's" work on Tuesday night in Queen Alexandra School, when the teaching staff played "host" to the visitors, a vital interest and spirit of co-operation is evidenced.

In the assembly hall large interesting posters, with captions "Tolerance," "Responsibility," "Courtesy," "Co-operation," "Respect for Public and Private Property," which had been drawn by pupils, illustrated the theme of the November meeting of the Home and School Club, "Education for the Atomic Age."

During the business period the subject of "Traffic Control" was discussed with the result that a recommendation is now before the City Council. Mr. Anderson, principal of the school, accepted the prize money for the recent Hobby Fair awards to be later presented to the different classes of the school, and Mrs. Barclay presented Mrs. Gilbert Scott with a "Past President's" pin on behalf of the club, as a token of appreciation for the splendid work done last year.

Excellent Addresses

Four teachers delivered very excellent addresses, enlarging upon the subject "Education for the Atomic Age." Miss Young said: "Atomic energy is here to stay. We must prepare ourselves to meet it It can be used in two ways, first, to destroy, second, to benefit mankind. If our race is to survive we must be able to use this energy in beneficial ways. This has brought about many changes and our program of studies has been planned accordingly. We must help the children to become citizens who can adjust themselves, and who can discern the difference between change and progress. Schools of Ontario exist for the purpose of preparing children to live in a democratic society which bases its way of life upon Christian ideals.

Miss Lashbrook pointed out that, through the teaching of literature, social studies, natural science and arithmetic, the school seeks to develop in the child an understanding of his environment, and the human relationships involved in the working of a society that will serve him well in adult life.

Produces Good Citizens

Miss Elson proved that inculcation of good work habits and social attitudes in pupils, eventually produces good citizens. She believes that teachers like to hear parents, when inquiring concerning their children's progress, ask, "Does my child get along well with other children?" or "Is my child taking his part in the daily life of the classroom?" Adults must study and adopt better methods of inculcating Christian and democratic ideals into the youthful minds. We must, in our behavior, set a high standard for daily living, and portray a sound philosophy of life.

Miss McPherson believes that Arts and Crafts have a most important part in the emotional life of a child, and that these contribute considerably to his enjoyment. The teaching of art is not to produce good "artists," but to produce good citizens. Mention was made of the murals in Miss Hart's room, as an example of teamwork, which was undertaken as a group project.

Mr. Anderson, discussed some specific problems relating to the school. By his very "human approach" he seeks to dispel the idea which, he said, some children have, that the "principal" is "the man with the stick." He expressed appreciation for the co-operation of the teaching staff, and stressed the importance of their job of harnessing the "atomic energy" in the pupils.

An opportunity for further discussion of these very "live" questions over a cup of coffee, gave the visitors much food for future thought.

Egyptian King Opens Parliament

Cairo, Nov. 15 (AP)—King Farouk declared he had great hopes that "real friendship" between Britain and Egypt could be strengthened but said the 1946 treaty between the two countries was "unsuitable for further existence and unacceptable for revision."

In a Speech from the Throne marking the opening of parliament, he told the people that their demand for the withdrawal of British troops from Egypt already was in progress of being met—that the evacuation already is under way and "will continue until it is completed within an agreed period."

King Farouk indicated, however, that no decision had been reached in negotiations with Britain concerning the demand for "unity of Egypt with the Sudan under our crown."

Traffic Control Lights Ratified By City Council

Placement of traffic control lights at various street intersections in the city thus bringing Belleville up-to-date from the standpoint of proper traffic light control, was ratified by city council Tuesday evening with the passing of a recommendation from a special committee of council.

According to the recommendation traffic control lights will be placed at the intersection of Pinnacle Street and Victoria Ave.; at the four corners of Bridge and Pinnacle streets and at Bridge and George streets or at Bridge and William streets.

Other traffic lights were recommended for Bridge Street West and Coleman streets; at Bleecker Ave. and Pine Street, the present blinker light to be removed; at MacDonald and Dundas streets; at William and Dundas streets, and at North Front and College streets.

Other recommendations made by the special council committee of G. E. Thompson, Charles L. Hyde, Jack Allin and E. O. Butler, called for the securing of "no parking" and "one hour" parking stencils to be used in marked areas in the city dealing with parking hours and limitations.

Want Signs Placed.

The committee further recommended that conspicuous signs "City of Belleville, speed limit 30 miles per hour, strictly enforced," be placed at the entrances to the city.

The local taxi situation also came in for consideration by the committee which recommended that the police commission consider an amendment to the taxi by-law prohibiting the parking of any motor vehicle used as a taxi on both sides of Victoria Ave., Bridge Street, Front Street, and on any portion of the market square, including either side of Market St. or McAnnany St., and that the taxi firms be given fair notice of the proclaiming of such by-law.

Cross Victoria Ave.

The committee also recommended that the city busses when proceeding north on Front Street, cross the Victoria Ave., intersection before discharging and taking on passengers, a suitable place in this location to be provided.

Removal of the boulevard on Station Street, and also the widening of the curb boulevard, on Coleman and Water streets, was considered by the committee and referred to the incoming council.

The committee also recommended that the necessary action be taken to prevent parking of any kind on the upper and lower bridges, or on the approaches.

RETAILERS make constant use of banking services. In some cases these are simple but essential; the bank takes cash receipts on deposit, makes change, operates current accounts, and accepts and records used ration coupons. Other retail accounts involve considerable handling of drafts, and—a very important service—the making of loans to enable retailers to take advantage of trade discounts. All this entails Banking in Action.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce has among its customers many retail houses, from the small corner store to the large chain and department store. Strict attention to their particular needs is given to all the Bank's customers.

Use our services for your banking requirements, whatever they may be. Consult our local Manager.

Farewell to Women's Division

For more than five years the members of the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. have been familiar figures in many parts of Canada and abroad. Here they have been seen day after day through the long years of war and since, serving with devotion the many tasks which they alone could do so effectively. They have earned their place in the hearts of all Canadians for the magnificent performance of duty they were able to give and no small measure of the total achievement of the R. C. A. F. has been due to these young women who have worn the Air Force blue with honor and devotion.

Now the time has come when they are bidden farewell. At the Trenton Air Station on Wednesday there were appropriate ceremonies bidding official farewell to these devoted members of the Air Force. They passed in review to the cheers of the men members of the force and in their farewell parade they won the praise of the Command and the air station. The ceremonies were impressive. They had done their duty well and will be returning to civil life shortly. Canada's Air Force will never forget the Women's Division for what it achieved. On December 21 the W. D. of the R. C. A. F. passes into history, but the achievements of these girls in what they were able to do in the war effort will live to inspire Canadian women and girls for the generations to come.

Formed in 1941, they have been stationed in many centres and in these parts of Canada they will individually and together be greatly missed. The Women's Division was the first of the women's services to be formed and they are the last to be mustered out.

Canadian young womanhood have given an impressive proof of their devotion and made possible achievements without which Canada could not have done what she has altogether accomplished. In the three services the women have performed duties as only devoted women can do and the results showed during the years they have been in uniform. 17,000 young Canadian girls joined the R.C.A.F. Women's Division, 2,500 went overseas, thirty were casualties and 15 were awarded decorations. Words cannot possibly give the full story of that devoted service in so many branches of the work allotted to them wherever they were called.

They as members of the services have found a warm place in the hearts of Canadian people. Their development and advancement in the service has not only brought distinction to the Air Force but also has resulted in benefit and development which no doubt each one of the W. D. members has experienced through this devotion and service.

They have given their whole heart to the service in many capacities and so all Canada feels indebted to them so deeply that the people's obligation can never be fully repaid, except by giving them the highest praise and the credit and honor they have justly won. The formation of the Women's Division was an inspiration, which helped to bring rich rewards in victory.

In this part of Canada they will be held in the memory for long. These girls for years have been popular and admired by all as they were seen going about their duties so devotedly undertaken and gladly and ably carried out.

They now pass into civil life again, with the memories of service done as only members of the services can render them, their lives and the lives of others touched and enriched by their devotion to their sense of love of country and duty.

What Accident Records Show

In the record of driving experience of drivers of motor vehicles involved in all reported accidents in Ontario last year, it is a fact that as compared with the increase of 28.3 per cent in persons involved in all the accidents, there was a 30 per cent decrease in the number of inexperienced drivers (less than three months' experience) involved, while the number of experienced drivers (five years' experience or more) rose 32 per cent above the 1944 total.

The 640 drivers in fatal accidents in 1945 may be compared with the 538 in 1944 and a five-year average of 661. As compared with this 18.9 per cent increase from the 1944 total, there was advance of 66.6 per cent in age group 18 to 24 and an increase of 55.5 per cent in the number of drivers involved of age 55 to 64 years.

The lack of driving experience, according to the report of the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Highways Department, cannot be considered a predominating factor in accidents as of 19,[illegible] drivers in reported accidents during 1945 whose driving experience was stated only [illegible] per cent reported less than one year's experience behind the wheel.

Of 18,458 accidents reported during 1945 more than half, 62.4 per cent occurred in the cities. While city accidents showed an increase of 16.9 per cent from 1944, the total was relatively lower than the total for that year or the five-year average figure.

40 per cent of all collisions took place with other motor vehicles last year and 22 per cent with pedestrians. Among fatal collisions, those with other motor vehicles were 15.2 per cent but collisions with pedestrians were 50.3 per cent. There is a moral here for the motorist and the person who walks on roads or streets or crossings how fatal collisions with pedestrians are. However the greatest increase in fatal accidents during 1945 was found in the non-collision type, this being 59.3 per cent increase and the collision with bicycle type 55.6 per cent increase. These changes may be considered with the advance in the total number of fatal accidents amounting to 21.6 per cent.

Condition of cars involved in accidents showed last year that 97.90 per cent involved in all accidents were in apparent good condition. The comment of the department is that, "it is generally recognized that faulty motor equipment is a principal cause of a small percentage of traffic accidents and it may be surmised that any such faulty equipment may be a contributory factor in a large share of accidents. It is difficult to measure the extent which mechanical defects may contribute to the occurrence of accidents since very often evidence of such mechanical failure is not available due to damage resulting from the collision and motorists are not prone to report such failure."

Century of Publication

The Galt Reporter this week marked the one hundredth anniversary of its founding and only on October 26th last it observed its fiftieth anniversary as a daily newspaper. The Reporter can look back on this long period of service in its municipality and district with a great deal of satisfaction.

A century of service of this kind is something to be proud of with the knowledge that the newspaper has had no small share in the work of co-operation in the advance of that part of the Province.

We congratulate the Reporter on attaining its century of service and extend best wishes as it enters upon the second century of its progress.

An extensive operation in the Eastman Kodak Company plant in Rochester, New York, is the recovery of the silver from waste film which, in 1945, amounted to 2,500,000 ounces, or 16.66 per cent of the total quantity of silver used. Despite the thoroughness of the recovery processes, which included the extraction of fine grains from the air, the amount of the metal irretrievably lost was 150,000 ounces worth almost $107,000, says Collier's Magazine.

DREAM SHIP

Time was we used to sit and plan
  And hope and work for things,
But Time, the enemy of man,
  An end to dreaming brings.
And now, I pass shop windows by
  And never stop to stare;
There is no "some day" drawing nigh
  To purchase what is there.

Time was we looked at many a thing
  Some glistening case within.
Then I was always promising;
  "The day my ship comes in!"
But all the promises were vain,
  That day will never be;
And I've no cause to send again
  Another ship to sea.

'Tis woman's life to dream of things,
  And man's to work to buy.
But Time and Hope have speedy wings
  And soon away they fly.
Unwanted now, those trinkets gay;
  For them she couldn't wait.
The ship of dreams I'd sent away
  Came into port too late.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why was the crown prince of France called the daughin?

"Dauphin," which occurs as "Daulphin" and "Dolphine" in early spellings, is the French form of Latin "delphinus" and Greek "delphis," meaning "dolphin."

In the 12th and 13th centuries it was the title of certain feudal lords in southeastern France, particularly the counts of Auvergne and the Viennois. Whether the title originated as a family name or because the device in the crest of the founder of the family consisted of a dolphin is not known for certain.

At any rate, the lord of Viennois was one of the chief Dauphins and his province comprising the present departments of Isere, Drome and the Haute Alps, became known as the Dauphine, was childless and in 1349 he ceded his dominions to Charles, the eldest son of John II and the grandson of Philip VI of Valoic, one of the considerations being that the heir apparent of the French throne should bear the title "Dauphin of the Viennois."

Charles V, who ascended the throne in 1364 and who was known as Charles the Wise, transferred the title and province to his eldest son and through the long ascendency of the house of Valois and Bourbon it was the official title of the heir apparent to the French crown. In the course of time the Dauphin of the Viennois was deprived of the province, but the title, shortened to "Dauphin," continued to be the crown prince's honorary appellation, corresponding to the Prince of Wales in England and the Prince of the Asturias in Spain. He was sometimes called the "King Dauphin" to distinguish him from the Dauphin of Auvergne, who held that title until the 15th century.

"The last King Dauphin was the goulene, who renounced the title son of Charles X, the Duc d' An- after the revolution of 1830. Louis, Duc de Bourgogne (1661-1711), was known as the "Grand Dauphin." His father, Louis XIV, had 39 French scholars compile a choice edition of the Latin classics for his use and that edition is still known as the "Delphine Classics". In English "delphin" is used in the sense of "pertaining to the Dauphin" and as a variant of "delphic," pertaining to Delphi, a town on the slope of Mt. Parnassus in Greece and the seat of a temple to Opollo whence emanated the delphic oracles.

The Grand Dauphin's eldest son was known as the "Second Dauphin" or the "Little Dauphin." Louis XIV reigned 72 years and outlived both the Grand Dauphin and the Little Dauphin, neither of whom ever ascended the throne. The Dauphin's wife was known as the Dauphin's" or "Dauphiness."

The son of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette is known as the "Lost Dauphin" because he died in prison under mysterious circumstances in 1795, two years after the execution of his parents. When his uncle, Louis XVIII, ascended the throne in 1814, he proclaimed the Lost Dauphin King Louis XVII to keep unbroken the continuity of the Bourline line.

Plane Crash At Amsterdam Kills 26 Persons

Amsterdam, Nov. 15 (CP) — Twenty-six persons were killed when a Douglas plane of Royal Dutch Airlines flying from London burst into flames when touching down on Schipol airfield near here Thursday night.

The pilot of the machine was said to be a Briton.

No details of the remainder of the crew or of the passengers, all of whom were killed, were available immediately.

The Dutch line's plane was arriving from London at 6.45 p.m., GMT (1.45 p.m. EST) and was in regular service when the accident occurred.

Cause Not Known

Cause of the crash was not immediately determined, but it was reported that the plane circled for some time over the airfield before coming down.

The plane carried a crew of five and it was understood that five of the 21 passengers were British, the remainder Netherlanders.

The KLM office in London said the dead included several Dutch army officers. Several other Dutch army officers, scheduled to travel on the plane, missed connections and were left at Croydon airport. The plane took off from Croydon at dusk.

An eyewitness said the plane was gutted in seven minutes. One wing, hurled 100 yards, lay embedded in the mud of the sodden field.

Tried Three Times

Bits of wreckage lay strewn around and among the debris were human remains, burned beyond recognition.

In a hut on the edge of airfield the charred remains of passports and other personal papers—all that remained to identify the passengers and crew—were spread out for identification.

There were several women aboard but no children.

An eyewitness, however, said the pilot, apparently had difficulty finding a runway because of low clouds. Three times the pilot tried to land but pulled up his plane, this source said.

Sun in Partial Eclipse Nov. 23rd.

Ottawa, Nov. 15 (CP)—A partial eclipse of the sun which, at one stage will be 70 per cent in the shadow of the moon, will occur Nov. 23, the Dominion observatory reported.

Providing the sky is clear, the eclipse will first be seen in Ottawa at 10:46 a.m. E.S.T. The maximum phase, with 60 per cent of the sun's diameter obscured by the moon, will be at 12:18 p.m. and at 1.51 p.m. the eclipse will end.

Time of the maximum phase will vary across the Dominion.

BROUGHT BACK ALIVE

Salt Lake City, Nov. 14 —(AP) —Six policemen captured a silver fox yesterday after a 1½-hour chase from university campus to cemetery to residential district. When the fox was reported cornered at last, Patrolman Russell Cedarlund warned over the microphone: "Don't shoot him; he's too valuable, grab him with your hands."

"Hands, me eyes," grumbled another officer, "I can't get within 30 feet of him." Minutes later three stalwarts ganged up on the panting animal and brought him back alive.

BABIES NEED VITAMINS

All babies should receive a daily vitamin supplement, not only in the first year but throughout early childhood. Even babies raised on natural food thrive better if they get their vitamins in addition to breast milk, for the vitamin content of human milk depends largely upon the diet of the mother or wet nurse, and their diet is just as likely to be deficient in vitamins as is the diet of most other people who subsist mainly upon manufactured or refined food. As for Infants raised on the bottle, no matter how carefully the milk is "modified" and no matter whether plain or fancy sugar is added for modification, they are likely to fare worse than breast fed babies because the vitamin content of cow's milk is poorer than that of human milk to begin with, and the dilution and manipulation of milk to "modify" it for infant feeding still further lower's the vitamin content of the baby's diet.

The vitamins infants and young children need are A. B. C, and thiamine, riboflavin and niacinamide (the last three being the main components of the vitamin B complex).

The minimum daily requirement of these vitamins to keep an infant or a young child thriving is estimated by nutrition authorities to be approximately as follows:

Vitamin A .... 1500 to 2000 units
Vitamin D .... 400 units
Thiamide hydrochloride .... 0.4 Milligram
Riboflavin .... 1 Milligram
Niacinamide from 2-4 Milligrams
Ascorbic acid.. From 10 to 20 "

(Thiamine was formerly called B.; riboflavin, B2 or G; niacin, nicotinic acid; and sacorbic acid, vitamin C.)

Physicians and nutrition authorities now agree that infants and young children need as much vitamin A and vitamin D as youths and adults, but the child's minimum daily requirement of thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and ascorbic acid is generally less than that of the youth or adult, in ratio with their body weights—that is, if the child weighs 40 pounds and the adult 160 pounds the child's vitamin B complex and vitamin C requirement is about one-fourth of the adult's.

Egg yolk, sardines, butter, cream, whole milk Certified, Grade A Raw or Pasteurized, are the best natural food sources of vitamin A for infants and children.

There are no natural food sources of vitamin D that can be relied upon for infants and young children, although top milk, cream, butterfat produced in the summer or from cows exposed to sunlight or ultraviolet supplies some, as does egg yoke if the hens are exposed to sunlight or ultraviolet; and, for older children, fresh or canned salmon, sardines and herring are the best food sources of vitamin D.

The minimum daily requirement of the B complex vitamins mentioned (thiamine, riboflavin and niacin) for infant or young child is not so clearly defined, and anyway it is practically always advisable to supplement the diet of infant or young child with one or another concentrate of the B vitamins, in my opinion; at least it can do no harm to insure the growing child an optimal intake of B complex.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Fertility

Recent survey showed Oregon and Washington are the very lowest of all the states in fertility, number of babies born yearly in proportion to population. Might low iodine content of soil, water and food in these sections account for the low fertility? I understand low fertility is characteristic of live stock in that area too. Would increased use of wheat germ (for vitamin E) improve fertility? (W. C. R.)

Answer—In my opinion both of your suggestions would be worth trying, for human or animal infertility.

Community Chest Drives Fall Short Of the Objectives

By IAN MacNEIL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Despite the fact few local objectives have been exceeded in community chest fall welfare campaigns just concluded through the Dominion, a Canadian Press survey today indicated agencies and contributors alike were content with the community system of welfare support.

Objectives across Canada total about $10,000,000 and contributions reported to date are approximately 85 per cent of that figure.

Symbolized by the red feather, the nation's community welfare funds were conducted this year in 40 cities and represented 680 member social agencies.

The chest promotes social welfare and health of the community by co-ordinating existing services preventing duplication and thus waste of funds, promoting co-operative planning, improving standards of work, and generally developing better understanding and support for both private and public (tax supported) work.

In the Maritimes Halifax passed its goal of $73,000 in the allotted time while St. John fell slightly short of its $70,500 total.

Montreal $110,000 Short

Montreal fell $110,000 short of the $1,140,000 objective but received almost $100,000 more than last year.

Ottawa reports collection of $235,002 against an objective of $237,650. The campaign has concluded but fund officials said donations were still being received.

Toronto's campaign failed by more than $200,000 of its $2,000,000 objective. The drive opened Oct. 21 and closed today but welfare officials said they were confident late subscriptions would boost the figure to the two million mark—the highest quota in Canada.

Collections in Oshawa were considered a marked success with a two-week campaign realizing $68,650. The objective was $55,000.

Campaign Extended

In Cornwall an extended campaign is rapidly approaching its goal of $14,925. More than $11,000 has been received.

Chest officials in St. Thomas expect their campaign to close with $15,000 against an objective of $20,000 while Belleville is lagging $3,000 short of its $12,000 goal.

Kingston fell approximately $12,000 shy of a $32,000 objective but contributions still are trickling in.

In Winnipeg, the three-week drive ended with only 48 per cent of a $485,000 goal but late donations boosted the figure to $411,890—85 per cent of the total asked.

Campaigning is still underway in Vancouver in an effort to reach the goal of $750,000 of which $550,000 has been collected.

New Downpours Strike California

Los Angeles, Nov. 14. (AP) New downpours, accompanied by brilliant lightning flashes and almost deafening thunder, struck the metropolitan area early today as crews prepared to start mopping up damage from a three-day storm, one of the worst on record this early in the season.

Rain totals in the suburbs rocketed as high at 6.58 inches in fashionable San Marino. Even Long Beach, on the normally dry seacoast, reported 5.56 inches. This compared with a mark of .20 for the entire season to date a year ago. Los Angeles' figure was 4.54 inches.

Two were counted dead, one by automobile and another by drowning, and the disappearance of a Western Air Lines plane with 11 aboard also was directly attributed to the weather.

Driverless Bus Aflame, Rolls Thru Movie Street

Hollywood, Nov. 14. (AP)—A driverless bus, set aflame in a new outbreak of movie strike violence, rolled blazing through a service station and into busy Beverly Boulevard today, crashing into three parked automobiles. No one was injured.

Police arson investigators said the bus had been stolen a few hours earlier from a garage which furnishes a number of the 41-passenger vehicles to studios. The studios use them to carry non-strikers throughout the picket lines.

Meanwhile, the bombing of two more non-striking film workers' homes—the fourth and fifth in 48 hours—brought a suggestion from District Attorney Fred Howser that the County Board of Supervisors offer a $1,000 reward for information leading to identity of vandals responsible for two nights of terrorism. A $5,000 reward already has been posted by the non-striking international Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees.

French Decorations Are Presented To Canadians

Ottawa, Nov. 15. — In the course of his trip to Toronto and Western Ontario the Freich Ambassador, Count Jean de Hauteclocque, assisted by Colonel Henri Mesnet, Military, Naval and Air Attache, will present a number of French decorations to members of the Canadian armed forces for distinguished service in military operations leading to the liberation of France. A decoration will also be presented to Mr. N. C. Urquhart, president of the Canadian Red Cross, that of Officer of the Legion of Honor.

Hamilton. (CP)—Appeals for international peace, co-operation and goodwill, and commemoration of gallan deeds in Flanders marked the first post-war visit of the French Ambassador to Hamilton. The Ambassador—Count Hauteclocque—conducted investitures of the Croix de Guerre, two of them posthumously, after a civic reception today. He placed a wreath at the Cenotaph.

Arrest of 8 Squatters May Forestall Invasion Of Millionaire's Home

Montreal, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Police Thursday suddenly arrested eight squatters in a McGill College Avenue house in a move that was said to have forestalled invasion of an unnamed millionaire's 20-room home on Pine Avenue.

Henri Gagnon, squatter leader and organizer of the Labor-Progressive party, said the Pine Avenue operation was to have been the last. It took first choice over three other sites.

"When police raided us Thursday morning and took everybody down to headquarters we had to cancel the afternoon's plans" he said.

As one of the occupants answered the door, police entered and told the whole group they were under arrest for unlawful occupation. The agency detectives carried warrants, issued on request of the building owner, Henry Joseph.

WANT STORES TO CLOSE

Kitchener, Nov. 15 — (CP) — The executive of the Kitchener Retail Clerks Association Wednesday night protested that some of the chain stores are breaking an agreement to remain closed on Saturday night. As a result they will ask the city council to pass a bylaw compelling all stores to close Saturday nights.

This practice has been in vogue here for the war years. Prior to that Saturday night was a busy shopping period.

Canada's Butter Stock Dropped During October

Ottawa, Nov. 15 —(CP)— Canada's stock of butter dropped last month, although fluid milk, cream, and butter, were sufficient for local needs, the Prices Board reported today in its October food survey. The board predicted this winter Canadians will find a "moderate" improvement in supplies of types of food which have been scarce during the year.

Cereals, packaged flour, cream corn, corn syrup, popcorn, yellow-eye and white beans, bananas, canned goods, apples and potatoes, were in better supply during the month.

Powdered milk and ice cream were still short in Montreal, and there was little improvement in the Cheddar cheese and evaporated milk situations. Retailers in districts where fresh milk is available gave priority on canned milk to infants and invalids. Nov. 1 these "restricted areas" were widened where priority sale of canned milk is by coupon. In the first eight months of 1946 tinned milk sales exceeded those for the whole of 1944.

Supplies of chicken and fowl were adequate, and large processing plants in Manitoba worked to full capacity.

With the 1946 salmon pack not yet released, stocks of canned salmon were low in British Columbia. Winnipeg was short on frozen fish, and fresh cod was unobtainable in Prince Edward Island.

Egg supplies in Nova Scotia were inadequate. In Prince Edward Island production was 10 per cent below last year and New Brunswick received supplies from Western Canada.

Cocker Spaniel Best-Represented Species in Show

Toronto, Nov. 15 —(CP)— Dogs continued to hold the spotlight as the post-war edition of the Royal Winter Fair, brighter and better than ever before, entered its fourth day.

Judging of upwards of 800 dogs —the largest entry list at a Canadian dog show — started as soon as the Winter Fair opened on Monday. It is to reach its climax Saturday night with the competition for the best dog in the show and the best Canadian bred.

Best-represented species in the show is the Cocker Spaniel. Dogs of that type number 58, compared with 45 Great Danes, the second most popular breed. Other large types are Kerry Blue Terriers and Dachshunds and the entry list ranges from big Alaskan Malamutes to tiny Mexican Chihuahuas.

The cat show, which also boasts a large entry list, is due to start next Monday and continue for three days.

The pet displays are only part of the exhibition which daily attracts thousands of visitors from many parts of Canada and adjacent areas of the United States. In the royal flower court 6,000 roses are in full bloom amid a profusion of other species of flowers, familiar and exotic.

Capacity Crowds.

Other displays include livestock exhibits, a poultry show and exhibits of seeds, grain and other farm products.

The horse show last night attracted a capacity crowd.

Jarvis Bay, a beautiful six-year-old chestnut gelding owned by Vernon G. Cardy of Val David, Que., captured the international challenge cup for hunters. Mr. Cardy received the trophy from Mrs. William C. Cox of Cohasset, Mass., noted American judge of horses.

Col. Franklin Wing of the United States army team took seven hurdles clean in a jump-off event to take the feature military touch-and-out stake. His brown gelding, Democrat, performed superbly over a difficult eight-jump course. Second was Harvey, an eight-year-old chestnut gelding ridden by Lieut. Raoul Campero Nunez of the Mexican army team.

The Ontario Jockey Club trophy was presented to William Bovaird of Brampton, Ont., owner of Tariau, grand champion stallion, after a parade of many of the great horses of the Canadian turf now at stud.

Two-Masted Schooner Overdue Five Days

Halifax, Nov. 14 —(CP)— With the R.C.M.P., United States Coast Guard and R.C.A.F. co-operating, an intensive air and sea search was undertaken today for the two-masted Newfoundland schooner Francis Geraldine, overdue five days at Bay of Islands, Nfld. with her five-man crew.

The vessel sailed from here Nov. 4 and has not been sighted or heard from since. It was feared she might have foundered in recent lashing Atlantic gales.

Capt. Charles Benoit sailed the schooner out of Halifax harbor as 40-mile-an-hour winds and choppy seas were subsiding. All men aboard the 34-ton vessel are from the Bay of Islands area.

Demanding Probe Of Reported Offer Of Mystery Lawyer

Washington, Nov. 15 —(AP)— United States Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt called upon Attorney General Tom Clark today to investigate a "mysterious" New York lawyer's alleged offer to trade asserted government influence for $400,000 in stock and $180,000 in counsel fees.

Mr. Wyatt's demand to the Attorney General for an immediate inquiry followed a statement by Preston Tucker, head of a new automobile manufacturing firm, that he had been approached by the New York lawyer with an implied offer to help him in a lease dispute, involving the $171,000,000 government - owned Dodge - Chrysler war plant in Chicago.

The housing expediter said that the lawyer tried to talk Mr. Tucker into signing contracts purporting to affect the success or failure of Mr. Tucker's bid for the wartime plant.

Mr. Wyatt quoted Mr. Tucker as saying the unnamed lawyer "intimated he could use his influence to stall action by the office of the housing expediters in transferring the plant" to the Lusron Corporation.

The contracts called for the New Yorker to receive $400 in Tucker Corporation stock, a retainer of $36,000 a year for five years as counsel for the firm, and a 99-year exclusive dealership in New York for the projected Tucker torpedo car.

Mr. Wyatt's statement emphatically disowned "any representation by such an attorney of any connection with his (Wyatt's) office or influence in the plant matter."

Never Hunt Again, Says Hunter With Mark on Scalp

Peterborough, Nov. 14. (CP) —A bullet which tore through his hunting cap and made a red mark across the top of his scalp yesterday has convinced 64-year old Albert Nicholls that he should give up hunting.

"I went on every hunt since I was 14, but I am finished now and will never go on another," said Mr. Nicholls.

His close call from death was the result of mistaken identity by two young hunters. The men had wounded a bear shortly before they shot at Mr. Nicholls. When they saw the red of Mr. Nicholls' cap they fired, thinking it was the red blood of the bear.

STUDENTS TO USE BRAINS

New York, Nov. 14 —(AP)— It's brains, not brawn, that the city fathers want as they prepare for removal of snow from New York's streets this winter. About 350 mathematically-inclined college students are being recruited to estimate cubic capacity of rented trucks. The cost of the snow-removal job is based on these calculations.

100,000 Acres Of Sugar Beets Under Snow in U.S.

Washington, Nov. 15 — (AP)— Heavy snowstorms in the Rocky Mountain area have buried about 100,000 acres of unharvested sugar beets, threatening the loss of 170,000 tons of already scarce sugar, the United States Agriculture Department said Thursday.

Officials emphasized that there has been no serious damage so far. If the snows melt soon, they added, the bulk of the beets can be retrieved and processed.

More snow and continued cold weather, on the other hand, would cause heavy losses, they told a reporter.

Harvest of the sugar beet crop was reported to be completely halted in Colorado, hardest hit by the storm.

1,000 MEN COMBING WOODS FOR TWO HUNTERS

Bridgetown, N.S., Nov. 15 — (CP)—A search party of 1,000 men combed the woods in this area Thursday in the fourth day of searching for two hunters, Brooks Salsman, 19, and Robert Forsythe, 46, missing since last Sunday.

Aircraft joined in the hunt for the two men who failed to return from a weekend hunting trip.

Hundreds Killed In Earthquakes Which Rock Peru

Lima, Peru, Nov. 15 (AP)—At least 410 persons were reported to have lost their lives in a series of earthquakes which began in Peru last Sunday and have crippled communications and caused widespread devastation.

The minister of the interior said that Conchucos, a town of 4,400 north of Lima, was apparently the hardest hit. Three hundred persons were killed and 250 injured there.

Sihuas, a town of 11,549 was reported completely destroyed. So far 40 bodies have been taken from the debris. Thirty fatalities were reported at Pomabamba.

INQUEST ON MAN FOUND ON BROCKVILLE STREET

Brockville, Nov. 15 —(CP)— An inquest will be held Nov. 20, into the death Oct. 12 of Ernest L. Stephenson, 78, who was found lying on a street. Death was first attributed to natural causes. Reports received by police he had been run over by a car led to exhumation of the body and a post mortem examination last Sunday by Professor W. D. Hay, Kingston, provincial pathologist.

SAYS HE WAS RETRIEVING BEER ON THE ROOF

Toronto, Nov. 15 (CP)—Bruce R. Craig, 26, told the magistrate he had climbed the outside wall of a three-storey downtown hotel to retrieve some beer on the roof—but was unable to descend the same way. That's how he became charged with vagrancy.

He had entered a woman's room in the hotel on the way down and she lodged a complaint. Craig said she had given him permission to enter. She denied it. Judgment was reserved to Dec. 21.

VETERAN ENTERS FLAMING HOUSE TWICE TO SAVE FAMILY
GEORGE McCONNELL WINS Dow Award

THE DOW AWARD
is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily newspapers.

It was a cold, gray, October dawn when George McConnell awoke, gasping and choking. His home was afire . . . and his first thoughts were for his wife and three small children. But he knew he must get air before he could do anything. Rushing to the door he filled his lungs with the cool morning air . . . and then turned back into the flames. Groping, almost blinded by the smoke, he reached the bedroom . . . and led his wife and two of the children outside. Then once again, although suffering from burns, he entered the inferno . . . and carried the one-year-old baby, crib and all, out through the blazing doorway to safety. Within a few minutes the frame house was destroyed. But thanks to McConnell's courage and presence of mind, the mother and three children were unharmed.

To George McConnell of Aurora, Ontario, we are proud to present The Dow Award.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Friends of Mr. Fred Leonard, Front Street, will be sorry to learn that he is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Carr, of Musclow, are visiting their son, Mr. William Carr and Mrs. Carr, Earl Street.

Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Dyson, of St. Catharines, were recent visitors in the city. They accompanied Miss Frances Sullivan as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall, Plainfield.

Dr. G. H. Stobie is in Ottawa attending the annual meeting and convocation of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons meeting there Nov. 15 and 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Coulter, of Centre, Prince Edward County, are moving to their new home at the Bay Shore, Rednersville.

An outstanding Canadian in the person of Dr. Charlotte Whitton, O.B.E., who received her Ph.D. from Queen's University, and is a graduate of the School of Social Studies on Toronto, will be in the city over the weekend as a guest of Rev. J. G. Sparling and Mrs. Sparling at the Christ Church rectory. Dr. Whitton has recently been appointed a director of Canadian Welfare Council at Ottawa. A popular writer on social questions in the Toronto Saturday Night and other magazines, she has now been released for special work among women. Belleville people, who heard her two years ago when she addressed the Women's Canadian Club, will be glad to know there will be another opportunity to listen to this well-known speaker at a mass meeting for women, in Christ Church Parish Hall, after the Sunday evening service.

WEDDINGS

HOLLAND—CHURCH

Picton. (Special.)—Rev. A. E. McCutcheon officiated at the marriage in Picton United Church, Wednesday afternoon, of Vera Kathleen, daughter of Mrs. Church and the late Mr. Sylvester Church, Picton, and Frank Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holland, of Windsor, Ont. Mrs. E. S. Theaker was at the organ.

Given in marriage by Mr. Stuart Snider, the bride made a charming picture in a gown of sky-blue sheer, and a finger-tip veil falling from a flower headdress. Her bouquet was of red roses.

Mrs. Charles Culmer was matron-of-honor, wearing sand crepe with matching hat. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Mr. Culmer ably performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where Mrs. Church received wearing a gown of rose crepe, with black hat. She was assisted by the groom's mother in a green wool suit with matching hat. They wore similar corsages of rose-colored carnations.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Hugh Frizzell, Mrs. Sherman Steel, Mrs. Stuart Snider, Mrs. Frank Snider, and Miss Loretta Church.

For travelling to points in Western Ontario, the bride donned a blue suit with black hat and accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Holland will reside in Windsor. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holland, Windsor and Mr. R. Sherman of Toronto.

BURLEY—BELL

Pink and white chrysanthemums and ferns formed the floral setting at St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, for the marriage at four o'clock, Saturday afternoon of Laura Ella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell, Thurlow Township, to William Kenneth, son of Mr. Harry Burley, and the late Mrs. Burley, of Belleville, with Rev. Arthur Smith officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white tulle with lace inserts. It was fashioned with a fitted basque, a sweetheart neckline and tightly fitting long sleeves. Her floor-length embroidered veil was held in place by a headdress of orange blossoms. She wore lace mitts and carried a bouquet of Rapture roses.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Harry Lummiss, of Belleville, as matron-of-honor, was gowned in powder blue similarly styled sheer, with shoulder-length veil falling from a coronet headdress. She wore matching mitts and her flowers were in a nosegay of pastel shaded "baby 'mums" centred with pink roses.

Little Miss Beverly Flower, of Massassaga, niece of the bride, was flowergirl, making a quaint picture in a floor-length gown of pink net over taffeta with sash and slippers of heavenly blue. Her half-cap was made of net and roses, and she carried a nosegay of small 'mums and roses.

Mr. Ross Livingston, of Roslin, was the groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Arlington Bell and Mr. Harry Burley.

Miss Marjorie McPherson of Corbyville, was soloist. Wearing a gown of pink net over taffeta, with matching hat, she sang from the gallery "Thine Alone" and "I'll Walk Beside You".

The groom's gift to the bride was a strand of pearls; to the groomsman, a cigarette lighter; to the ushers, gold tie clips. The bride's gifts to the matron-of-honor, and to the soloist, were gold pendant, to the flower girl, a birthstone ring and to the serviteurs, earrings.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Pope, a sister of the bride, in Belleville. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a dress of brown crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Miss Mary Burley, sister of the groom, assisted. She wore a black pin-striped suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride's table, beautiful with a lace cloth and decorations in pink and white, with small flowers, was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Mr. Ted Farrar, of Toronto, performed the duties of toast-master.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Hamilton and Napanee.

Junior Fashion C.D.S. Council Formed in City

Junior Fashion Councils are thriving in Toronto, Winnipeg, Montreal and Hamilton. Their activities are the talk of the Teens. And now, Belleville forms the newest link in the chain, and four of Belleville's charming Juniors are making fashion history.

Last Friday, November 8th., saw the Junior Fashion Council of Belleville Canadian Department Store start on its blithe young way with our own Phyllis Madeline Archard, Albert College; Agnes Marie O'Connor, St. Michael's H.S.; Lois Marie Flindall, Belleville C.I. and V.S.; and Audrene Lois Martyn, Belleville C.I. and V.S. The Junior Fashion Council of 1946-47 was chosen to represent the girls of their respective schools.

At the inaugural meeting, the Council was welcomed by Mr. Francis, Manager of Belleville C.D.S. who is keenly interested in this venture. Miss Ruth Hicks, Senior Fashion Councillor, introduced Miss Audrey Brown, Senior Fashion Councillor of Eaton's Toronto, who gave a brief outline of the reason for the Council, the duties of the Councillors, and the development and history of Fashion Council work throughout the Eaton organization, Miss Brown came down especially to meet the new Belleville Junior Fashion Council, and was very impressed by their alert interest.

The girls were particularly enthused by the program submitted for their instruction and advancement in such things as fashion training, retail merchandising, advertising and display work, buying for the retail market, all of which will be touched on as part of their Junior Fashion Council work. Talks on beauty, good-grooming, and other subjects are also on the agenda for these fashion-alert teen-agers who assume their duties so capably.

The Junior Fashion Council of Belleville C.D.S. will meet each Friday at 4.30 p.m. They have their own cosily furnished council room, where they will report the fashion trends for teens . . . discuss their needs, and in this way help the C.D.S. to better serve this active and style-conscious group of teen-age girls.

Belleville will watch with interest this newest venture of four of her most charming daughters. It is hoped that where they lead, others will follow.

RECORD FOR TWO-YEAR-OLD

Chatham, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Break out the record books! There in a two-year-old toddler in Chatham who has walked a mile in 40 minutes, or so it seems at least. At 12:15 p.m. Marilyn Webster's parents told police she was missing from the front of the house. At 12:55 p.m. the youngster was reported a mile away. She had crossed busy streets and two railroad tracks to get there.

Councillors Hold First Meeting

Canada Helping to Drive India From the British Commonwealth Says Speaker

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club on Thursday evening in the assembly room of Queen Alexandra School, Mr. P. Kodanda Rao of India stated that "Canada, by her attitude of discrimination against native Indians, is helping to drive India from the British Commonwealth."

Introducing the speaker, Mrs. B. C. Sisler, president of the club said: "Mr. Rao is a graduate of Madras University, and being a native of India is well informed, and prepared to express an opinion concerning "The Situation in India Today", which is the subject of his address this evening. In 1934 he was invited to be a Carnegie Scholar at Yale University, later being sent by the Government of India as advisor to the Indian Representative on the International Relations Committee."

The olive-skinned, white-turbaned member of "The Servants of India Society" of which he is secretary, explained that this organization, though in comparative poverty, is trying to serve India without reference to creed, caste, race or religion.

In discussing the question the speaker said: "There are four hundred million people in India today, with many, many problems. There are two outstanding political parties, i.e., the Indian National Congress and the All-Indian Moslem League. The first has no religious limitations, and I sympathize with its policies for, having been founded by an Englishman, it is still a very cosmopolitan organization from a religious point of view."

Mr. Rao belongs to neither of these political bodies, but is a member of the "India Liberal Party", which has no definite following, but its opinions, while not accepted, are respected by a large part of the population.

Great Revolutionary Changes

"During the last two months", continued the speaker, "there have been great revolutionary changes in India. On Sept. second the Viceroy, or Governor General, invited the vice-president of the National Congress to become Prime Minister and form a cabinet. Then India became a free country for all practical purposes, though no changes were made in the constitution. The Viceroy may legislate without help from the legislature, but has promised not to use this perogative, thus, by an act of goodwill, tremendously changing the status of India. The constitution will, however, be altered when the Assembly called into existence by the Prime Minister, will frame a new constitution to be later recognized by England.

Crimes of every description are being committed in certain localities because of small civil wars between Moslems and Hindus, and these disturbances cause some anxiety. These religious Wars cannot be stopped, and the government cannot provide protection; but they are mostly confined to the large centres like Calcutta and Madras, although they have spread into some rural sections. But, by the influence of law and order, the people will soon tire of disturbances and they will be discontinued.

Contains Two Principles.

"Speaking of India's independence," said Mr. Rao, "the Indian constitution contains two principles not found in any democratic country. First, the people are asked to vote only for persons of their own race and religion, and therefore, cannot vote on purely political grounds. Second, India may become a political hierarchy, where the importance of each community in the eyes of the lawmaker, decides its representation in the legislature. But the British government does not go ahead without the consent of the Moslem League.

"One suggestion made some time ago was to divide the country into two parties, Moslems and Hindus — each ruling its own part of the country, making two independent sovereign states. The British government has tried vainly to bring the two political parties to an agreement, so the committee made its own findings, deciding that India will not be divided with a fifty-fifty representation, which was the main demand of the Moslem League. Equality in representation for these two parties was not considered advisable, because other parties must also be considered. The result was deadlock.

No Co-ordination.

Now, the British government wishes to hand over the government of India to Indians. The Central Government is still responsible to England under the 1919 Act, but the provincial governments are not, so there is no co-ordination."

Continuing, the speaker expressed the opinion that "the democratic government of the old days was efficient in some respects, but three million people have died of slow starvation because of inadequate control of food. Russia aggressively attacks England's presence in India. The Labor party of England is now compelled to promote self-government, because when the Conservative party was in power the Laborites were constantly criticizing the government's constitution, therefore, they have now invited the Moslem League to join a new Interim Government, and invited the National Congress to assume responsibility.

The Molsem League swore vengeance against this combined government, causing demonstrations of every kind, but now they realize that disturbances, though easily provoked, are difficult to control; and it is not worthwhile standing out against the British Government, so it has accepted the representation offered, and the Indian Government now consists of representatives from both the Nationalist Congress and the Moslem League, and there is some possibility of them working together to co-operate for the betterment of India."

Influence of Ghandi

"Whether India stays in or out of the British Commonwealth depends upon the relationship with other nations included in the Commonwealth," stated Mr. Rao. "One important factor is the influence of Ghandi. I admit that he will control the situation on a level of which there is no parallel, because he takes the Sermon on the Mount seriously, as a code which people should follow in daily life. I do not suggest his followers live up to that code, but he lives up to it. He does not understand anger or revenge, but wishes to forgive and forget all past injuries. His influence will be a strong factor to bring England and India together as partners."

"In 1921, at an Imperial Conference in London," he continued, "my chief said, "Indians will not migrate to countries where we are not welcome." "Today Canada does not accept Indians as citizens but still discriminates against them in British Columbia, where they are not given Canadian citizenship, although they have been accepted in the United States where the bars against immigration and naturalization have been removed. But, we do not retaliate. We wait! Some day Canada will see a better way of dealing with India than has been practised during the past twenty-five years. By her example Canada says Indians are good enough to fight with us, and die for the Commonwealth, but they are not worthy of our friendship. Canadians are practically saying, "Go and seek friends elsewhere." Therefore, it is up to Canada to make the decision as to whether we stay in or out of the British Commonwealth, and thus determine where our friends will be."

On behalf of the Women's Canadian Club and the visiting listeners, Mrs. Sisler expressed appreciation to Mr. Rao for this enlightening address, and voiced the wish that all Canadians might come to a better understanding of India's position in world politics, and affairs.

St. George's Parish Guild Sponsors Bazaar and Tea

Christ Church parish hall, Everett Street, was a hive of activity Thursday afternoon, when the ladies of St. George's Parish Guild sponsored a bazaar and afternoon tea in the hall, which had been made attractive for the occasion with potted plants, ferns and flags, while the small tables with their snowy cloths, scattered invitingly about the central floor space, added much to its "homey" appearance.

Mrs. Wm. Parry, president of the Guild, received the guests and extended a very cordial welcome.

The long tea table with its beautiful linen and lace cloth, was charmingly arranged with a centrepiece of bronze 'mums. Presiding over the silver tea service Mrs. J. G. Sparling poured for the first hour, with Mrs. Theobold and Mrs. Orne presiding later in the afternoon. Assisting with the serving were Mesdames Rose, Rowbotham, McFee, Tompkins and Mosley.

Co-conveners at the apron and fancy work table were Mrs. R. Orne and Mrs. W. Beare, with offerings of aprons in all sizes, styles and colors, as well as other useful household articles too numerous to mention.

The home-baking table in charge of Mrs. Symons and Mrs. Collins, was a most popular resort, where many delicious varieties of cakes, cookies, pies and jellies vied with the more substantial offerings of home-made bread and buns.

The gayly colored packages on the "Touch and Take" table, convened by Mrs. Ford, were in high favor with the children and "teen-agers"; and the tickets on sale to raffle a hand-made quilt, a fine fat roasting chicken and three large baskets of groceries were sold by Mrs. Pepper, Mrs. Collyer and Mrs. Armstrong respectively.

The ladies holding winning tickets were: Mrs. D. Freeman for the chicken; Mrs. Collyer for the quilt; Mrs. L. Symons for first basket of groceries; Mrs. Varley, for the second basket; Mrs. Alex. Carmichael for the third basket.

Mrs. Trump was treasurer for the occasion and reports that the proceeds of the afternoon are more than the ladies had anticipated, and are correspondingly gratifying.

TABERNACLE W.M.S. MEET

At their November meeting on Tuesday afternoon, in the ladies' parlor of the church, members of the Tabernacle W.M.S. Auxiliary enjoyed an outstanding program, especially prepared to honor the Life Members of the organization, only four of this group being unable to attend.

The President, Mrs. J. Ross, conducted the short opening exercises and the business period, which included reports from the Temperance Secretary, Mrs. G. F. Lant, and from Mrs. A. D. Archibald, Sec. for Christian Stewardship. Ladies chosen as a nominating committee to present a slate of prospective officers for the year 1947 at the December meeting were Mesdames F. B. Jarrell, M. C. Burgess and C. E. Hogle.

Miss Myrtle Johns read a comprehensive report of the Sectional Rally recently held in Cannifton Church, for which she was tendered a vote of thanks.

Mrs. Laura Adamson was in charge for the presentation of the very excellent program. Mrs. W. J. Harrison opened the Worship Service with "The Shepherd Psalm", (repeated in unison) as the Scripture Lesson and used "Christian Homes" as the theme for meditation, followed by prayer.

Two very lovely solos, contributed by Mrs. F. E. Houston, with Mrs. M. P. Duff as accompanist, were 'I'll Walk Beside You" and "Coming Home". Mrs. J. A. Charlton gave a reading "Mrs. Wiggs' Sunday School Class" in her usual capable manner.

After the Mizpah benediction delicious refreshments were served by ladies of the East Hill Group, with Mrs. W. P. Cornell in charge. During the tea hour the soloist was Mrs. H. S. Robbins, who sang, with violin accompaniment by Mrs. G. E. Currie and with Mrs. Duff at the piano.

Parents' Night Observed By Sea Cadet Corps

Under the sponsorship of the local Optimist Club, members of the Belleville Sea Cadet Corps played hosts to their parents at the Armouries on Thursday evening when "parents' night" was observed.

A packed gallery of proud parents and other friends saw the members of the local corps on parade as they were inspected by their senior officers, while following the inspection a program of sports was enjoyed, consisting of basketball, tug-of-war and boxing. Three action-packed boxing bouts among six enthusiastic corps members were staged. The participants were Tom Hannah, 157 vs Bruce Milligan, 150; Bill O'Sullivan, 134 vs Pete Korie, 135; Bob Varley 130 vs Gerald Burley, 155.

Concluding the evening's program, the Optimists proved themselves the ideal hosts when the "Opti-Mrs." served all present with cokes and hotdogs.

The ladies of Tabernacle Auxiliary are deeply indebted to all of these ladies from Bridge St. Church, who, during 1946, have contributed so unselfishly of their time and talents to assist with W.M.S. programs. Mrs. Adamson voiced the appreciation of the Auxiliary.

Smart Sailor

By ALICE ALDEN

NO NEED to wear a tapering, tall crowned pixie hat or a head-hugging, ear-covering affair, if you don't like them. Not when Lilly Dache dishes up a beautiful new hat like this squared Spanish sailor, worn straight across the brow, which is nice with an up or down coiffure. It is made of chrome yellow felt, the brim faced with contrasting black felt to blend with the black feather pompons placed above and below the brim.

Two Contradictory Proverbs: Which Will Prove True In This Case?

There are two old sayings that directly contradict each other. One of them is: "Absence makes the heart grow fonder;" the other, "'Out of sight, out of mind."

The girl who writes this letter is obviously at a loss to know which of these is going to apply in her case. Here is her problem.

"I have known this young man for five years and we like each other a great deal. Both of us married separately during the war, and we are both divorced now. No matter how long the separation, he always comes back to me. He never said he loved me, yet he feels happy with me. He warned me against falling in love with him, as it would not do either of us any good. His previous experience has made him shy of the word "marriage" altogether.

"Now he is going over to Europe for possibly two years in civil service, and the thought hurts me a great deal. I care for him a lot, but would not dare admit it to him now. But I'm worried that he may fall for a European girl, because he will be lonesome while away. Several of my friends have married and are engaged to foreign girls, so I'm pretty worried.

"I have a child whom I love dearly, yet I want very much a little happiness of my own. I may be going out of town to work, which will help me in many ways.

"Which way is left to me to hold my friend's affection, if not love? Can only understanding and sincere letters help me? And patience? I have had his confidence now for five years. He had wanted to marry me five years ago, but I felt we were both too young, only 20. Is there anything you can advise to help the situation?"

Your statement as to the relationship that has existed between you and this man has me a little confused. In one place you say "He never said he loved me," yet later on you speak of his having wanted to marry you years ago. Do you think perhaps you may have jumped to conclusions at that time, and imagined his feeling for you was more serious than it actually was? For certainly if he wanted to marry you, he would have told you then that he loved you.

If he goes away now without saying anything about loving you, I'm afraid you will have to accept the fact that his interest in you is merely that of a friend. It seems to me pretty evident that such is the case, anyhow, since he has already had ample opportunity to declare himself if he had wished to do so.

And of course there is no way of predicting whether things from now on will become a matter of "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," or "Out of sight, out of mind." It may be that when there are several thousand miles of distance between you, he may discover that his feeling for you is much deeper than he realized, and you may get a letter telling you this. On the other hand, it may be, too, that the very reason he has decided to go so far away is because he thinks you are emotionally interested in him, while his own interest is purely platonic, and he feels this will be the best way to handle the situation. If this is the fact, his letters to you will undoubtedly indicate that, too, as time goes on, by becoming fewer and fewer.

While you're waiting to see which of these two things is going to happen, however, all you can do is to write him friendly letters, which will let him know that you think about him. Let the tone of them be guided by his own, however, and don't be sentimental or too affectionate in them unless he is.

I think you would be wise to make a change in your surroundings, as you suggest you are going to do, for that will bring you fresh interests and new friends. Don't let yourself concentrate too hard on this one man. Be sensible enough to realize that there may be nothing in it for you and don't leave yourself out on a limb.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Prepare For The War Against Time

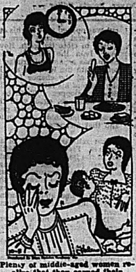
Youth is the spring and summer of life; it never gives a thought to autumn and winter. The young fry—bouyant and steppy, going places, expectant of romance—have an idea that the human body is made of wire and fiddle strings, that one can't wear out.

Youth soon slips into the twenties. It seems only a short time until the Twenty Girls are edging along toward thirty. Long before that they should have an eye on the future, so that they can retain youthful appearance as long as possible.

Premature wrinkles are common nowadays, when life seems to be a delirium of activity. By being a follower of the goddess Hygeia, by taking excellent care of one's health, having a balance of work and play and getting plenty of sleep, facial lines can be avoided until old age comes upon one. How one lives during the 20 to 30 period has more to do with future appearance than many young women realize. Premature wrinkles on the face of a girl of sound constitution are a disgrace. She hasn't taken care of her health, she hasn't had enough sleep, or she hasn't eaten the right foods.

We would emphasize the foregoing words to those high-stepping young career women who often arrive at the office looking like the wrath of heaven. They explain that the night before was pretty marry, and that they got only a few hours of sleep.

If you break the laws of health, you are going to pay and pay and pay. Not only in an unsteady nervous system, but in defects of appearance. Only human beings are stupid that way. A dog will romp and play, exhaust himself, then lie down and sleep. A gay young woman will dance and play, exhaust herself, then start all over again the next night. If she thinks she can pull herself together by getting a facial and laying on the drug store complexion, she's just plain crazy. It can't be done. The marks of fatigue will get worse and worse as the birthdays accumulate. More young women are worn out with late hours and are worno ut by work. Fun is what they consider pleasure than are worn out by work. Fun is often too exciting; work isn't exciting at all. Excitement and tension make the face drawn and old looking.



Plenty of middle-aged women realise that they earned their good-looks griefs

We all must have recreation and pleasure to keep the spirits high and youthful. But we should not have them at the expense of health and vitality. Life is an occupation. We can't live happily unless the physical mechanism is normal. A tired girl is a sick girl. She is easily discouraged, likely to be snappy and snarly.

There are plenty of women of middle age who realize that they brought their good looks griefs upon themselves. They know that they have reaped a harvest of wrinkles and grey hairs because of late hours, wrong eating habits and emotional storms.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Party For Their First Wedding Anniversary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I are planning to give a party to celebrate our first wedding anniversary. We are going to invite six couples, and we would like to have them meet at our apartment for refreshments before going out to dance for the evening. In the invitations should I mention just what our plans are? Would you please word the invitations for me? How far in advance of the party should they be sent? And how could I tell them that we don't expect gifts? And should I call the service "buffet" since I am planning to serve the food on card tables in the living-room?

2. I would like to have corsages for the ladies. Should we also have a lapel-flower for each man?

3. Since it is our first anniversary don't you think we should invite the couple who were our attendants at our wedding?

N. W.

1. Since your anniversary party is to be so informal, I suggest you invite your few guests by telephone: then you can tell them definitely about your plans ("We'd like to have you and Bill arrive at O'clock, we'll have a buffet supper here, and then go dancing"), and you will know at once if they can come. Be sure to tell the guests what type of attire you expect them to wear. If in your invitation, you don't mention the reason for the party (just call it "a party") your guests will not have to be told not to bring gifts. (Yes, the kind of service you are planning is "buffet".)

2. It would be festive to give each man a boutonniere, either as he arrives or placed as a favor at his place at table.

3. Yes, they would really be the guests of honor!

Etiquette Problems of the Baby's Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have a baby in about two months, and would be grateful if you will please answer a few questions.

1. Are the birth-announcements sent only to relatives and close friends? May I send them to casual friends also, or do you think this would be considered as hinting for a gift? I definitely don't want anyone to feel an obligation to send a gift simply because they received an announcement.

2. Would it be proper to send an announcement to my former employer?

3. Are the printed "Thank you cards from the baby" acceptable to send to thank for gifts brought to a baby shower, given either before the birth or after? Or must I write these notes by hand, as one does for wedding gifts?

F. T.

1. Customarily birth-announcements, when they are sent at all, are sent only to relatives and intimate friends who haven't been informed by telephone or telegraph. In other words they usually are sent only to those most intimately concerned with the news of the baby's birth. However, there is no rule against sending them to casual friends or acquaintances if you wish to. If you do, I'm sure you needn't worry about their feeling an obligation to send a gift, for today people are fairly casual about making any response to such an announcement from mere acquaintances.

2. Yes.

3. If you wish to be regarded as a polite and appreciative person you should always write a note to thank for a gift. Printed cards of thanks are an atrocity. Avoid them as you would the plague, for that's just what they are!

New Soapless VEL
Is New Modern Cleaner

by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

Soapless VEL has changed my ideas of washing clothes and doing dishes. This modern discovery has shown me for all time that heavy suds, such as soap products produce, are not necessary for cleaning.

The light fluffy suds you get with VEL are somewhat like a frothy drink or an ice-cream soda—the goodness is beneath the froth and bubble—and lasts long after the suds subside. You don't need lasting suds with VEL. I've found that the clear solution left after VEL suds dissolve, has all of VEL's original cleaning power. And it acts just as soft as rain water. That's why VEL is so easy on the hands and so beneficial in the bath-tub.

VEL FOR DISHWASHING

A teaspoonful or two of soapless VEL in dishpan or sink (nothing else, please!) is all that is required to speed up dishwashing. No need to add soap or any other cleaner to your VEL solution. Soapless VEL alone cuts grease quickly and leaves no smears on glass or china, nor scarcely any scum around the sink. For hard-to-clean pots and pans and for egg-stained spoons and plates, VEL's cleansing action is really amazing.

VEL FOR DELICATE FABRICS

I have found that soapless VEL dissolves instantly and completely in lukewarm water. This makes it particularly good for washing lingerie, woolens and nylons. Unlike soap, VEL is a neutral product, free from soapy alkalis. It contains nothing to harm colours or delicate fabrics. Use a little less VEL than soap (no need to add more when the suds subside). You'll find one rinsing is sufficient and it eliminates soapy film and scum.

VEL FOR HOUSEHOLD CLEANING

A tablespoonful of soapless VEL in a pail of warm water quickly removes grease and dirt from painted surfaces, walls, windows, mirrors and tiles. No rubbing, rinsing or drying is necessary. Just wring out the cloth and wipe off the dirt.

Fashion Flashes

UTTER LUXURY always rings the bell at press fashion shows. So there was applause for a full-length coat of wild mink lined with gold brocade and topped with a fur-banded lame hood, starred for evening elegance.

SPOTTED HERE AND THERE is the real picture-type hat. A new model is of black velvet, the brim slanting, the open crown concealed by black and white ostrich plumes. A bow and streamers of black satin ribbon appear towards the back under the brim.

A RUN FOR ITS MONEY is being given black by brown. The many shades of this color are seen in daytime, sports, general, dinner and full evening wear, as well as in accessories. Dark brown crepe is used for a pretty afternoon dress trimmed with vertical bands of copper sequins from the deep square neckline to hem.

THE TREND to important but not overdone fur-trimmed fabric suits gets stronger, say country-wide reports. Dark blue woolen is used for a handsome afternoon suit. The fitted jacket has a softly curved, rounded hemline; collar and notched revers, that taper to the waist, are trimmed with snowy ermine.

GOOD USE of color marks the season's fashions. Medium gray woolen is used for a good daytime dress with fuchsia velvet inserts at the collar and waistline. Semi-dolman sleeves and softly flared bias-cut skirt lend character.

A DELICATE TOUCH of fine trimming marks shoes being readied for early Spring, such as a simple closed-toe-closed-heel pump of black suede with an all-over diamond quilting effect in stitching of bronze or copper thread.

Canadiens and Red Wings Stage Battle Royal With Habitants Winning by 4-3

Detroit Feeling Loss of Quackenbush in Defence Spot

By STEVE ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Jack Adams probably wasn't far from wrong when he said only the other day: "If we only had a couple more good defencemen, I wouldn't have a worry in the world."

Since Jolly Jack lost Bill Quackenbush last Sunday at Detroit, his Red Wings haven't been faring too well. Wednesday night they were downed 5-2 at Boston and last night, after a battle Royal, they dropped a 4-3 decision to Montreal Canadiens.

The way Adams figures it, the broken wrist which blond Bill suffered may be a rude jolt to Detroit's chances at the Stanley Cup. Of course you say, the Stanley Cup is a long way off. But Quackenbush may be out for 10 weeks and by that time the Wings will have played more than two-thirds of their season's schedule.

The Detroit mentor is happy enough about his forward lines and promises they'll pack more punch as the season progresses, but the problem of defence has him frowning.

"The only way to get defencemen these days is to develop them," he said. "We've got a couple of fair prospects . . . but they're still a couple of years away from being National Hockey League calibre."

Most N. H. L. clubs carry five rearguards and the New York Rangers travel with six. But the Wings — stop pacing the floor, Jack, you're wearing out the rug! — only carry four. Adams has tried four rookies behind the blue line this week — Thain Simon, Doug Baldwin, Hugie Miller and Al Dewsbury.

15 Penalties Handed Out

In all, 15 penalties were handed out by Bill Chadwick, eight of them to Canadiens including a major and misconduct. The teams were weary from their games the previous night and started at a slow pace. Pat Lundy gave Wings a 1-0 lead in the first and the slow play was indicated by the few penalties — three.

Roger Leger and Leo Gravelle, a couple of Montreal rookies, provided the second stanza scoring and the game started to liven up. Slamming, slashing and general roughhouse brought five penalties in that canto with Murph Chamberlain drawing a misconduct.

The last period opened the flood gates to four tallies and seven misconducts, major ones going to Kenny Reardon and Sid Abel. Glen Harmon and Maurice Richard were the Canadiens' scorers while Ted Lindsay picked up a brace for the Wings.

The three-way first place tie between Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins and Canadiens will come under fire Saturday night when the Canucks visit Leafs. The tail-end Rangers are at home to the tied-for-fourth Chicago Black Hawks in the other game tomorrow night.

HOCKEY RULES

Interpreted
By BILL GRAY

"FACE-OFF"

Rule 52, Sec. (d)

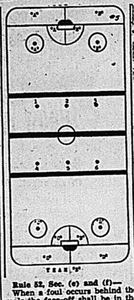
If, because of any violation of the rules by the attacking team in their attacking zone, the play is stopped, the puck shall be faced in the Neutral Zone at the face-off spot nearest to where the play was stopped.

Illustration:

For all infractions of the rules committed by team "A" in their attacking zone the face-off shall be at spot 4, 5 or 6.

For all infractions of the rules committed by team "B" in their attacking zone the face-off shall be at spot 1, 2 or 3.

For infractions of the rules by either team in their own defending zone the face-off shall be at the spot where the puck was last played, except as stated hereunder.



Rule 52, Sec. (e) and (f)—

When a foul occurs behind the goals the face-off shall be in the nearest end face-off spot, on the side where the foul occurred.

No face-off shall be made within fifteen feet of the goal from front, side or rear.

Illustration:—

If the foul occurs in either sections "A", "B", "C" or "D" behind the goal line the face-off shall be in either end face-off circle "A", "B", "C" or "D", whichever corresponds.

If foul is committed in either sections "A", "B ,""C" or "D" of the semi-circle the face-off shall be in either end face-off circle "A", "B", "C" or "D", whichever corresponds.

EXPERTS CALLING ALOUETTES AND CATS TO WIN

League Playoffs on Saturday Will Likely Attract 35,000 Fans

By FRED KERNER
((Canadian Press Staff Writer)

If you look at things from a mathematical viewpoint, you've easily figured out what teams are going to win the two senior league championship games tomorrow! If you're a gambling man, your bets have been made; otherwise you've probably told all your friends—the figures show Montreal Alouettes over Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four and Hamilton Wildcats over Toronto Balmy Beach in the Ontario union.

But if you're a Toronto fan, you bravely overlook these figures as well as the fact that both your hometown teams are playing away from home and hence are doubly rated as underdogs.

More than 35,000 fans will crowd into stadia at Montreal and Hamilton to witness what promises to be a pair of thrilling football games.

Sneaking a peak at the record you find Montreal has defeated Toronto twice, tied once and lost one. In the four games the Alouettes outscored Argos by a 64 to 29 total.

Then you glance at the O.R.F.U. figures, Beaches and Wildcats met twice during the season and the 'Cats won both games. The scores were 8-1 and 13-7. Over the whole of the 10-game season the Torontonians tallied 112 points while Hamilton ran up a 166 total. Beaches had 84 points scored against them and Wildcats only 66.

To the mathematician, the results look obvious. The rabid grid fan—and what fan can deny he's rabid—shrugs his shoulders at the figures and starts to quote the time-worn platitude: "Anything can happen . . ."

And while the teams in the East batter each other, the Western Canada champions — Winnipeg Blue Bombers—are taking things easy in preparation for their big day — Nov. 30, when they meet the best in the East for the Grey Cup.

A week from tomorrow the winners of tomorrow's tilts play in the Eastern Canada final.

PROVIDENCE REDS START TO CLIMB

(By The Canadian Press)

Providence Reds are climbing in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League. The Providence Club moved into third place last night by beating St. Louis Flyers, last-place Western Division Club.

The Reds won, 4-2, to hang up their third straight victory and pass Springfield Indians, who were idle. Hershey Bears still hold a comfortable margin in first place, while New Haven Ramblers are holding on to the runner-up spot.

Goals by Bill McComb and Bill Warwick in the third period brought the Providence victory after Chuck Scheeza had scored two for the Reds in the second period. Pat McReavy in the first and Carl Liscombe in the second period scored for the losers.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

It seems that a rift has appeared in what appeared to be harmonious lute of the hockey situation here. A few days ago the Belleville Redmen Intermediates at a special meeting decided to throw in their hockey lot under the aegis of the executive of the Belleville Junior Hockey Association. The president and secretary of that body were present and told the Intermediate representatives what they were prepared to do.

• • •

In other words the executive of the Junior team told the older brothers that their conditions were that if amalgamation was considered, the joint teams would be administered by their body. During the meeting it was announced that a certain business man in the city had agreed to sponsor the Intermediate squad. That narrowed the field down to the point where the Intermediates had to accept the Junior Exec's terms and cancel the sponsorship, or operate on their own as heretofore under the financial wing of a sponsor.

They conferred after the Junior executive had left the meeting and after a lengthy discussion, decided to inform the sponsor that they had decided for over-all administration under the Junior Hockey Club Executive. A "Booster" committee was formed at a subsequent open meeting of officials, players and fans of both squads and all appeared to be well.

• • •

Now it appears, that another organization in the city is desirous of sponsoring the Intermediate squad, and the smooth surface of co-operation is being somewhat ruffled. The would-be sponsoring organization, the Army, Navy, Air Veterans Unit No. 201 Belleville, informed us the other night that a special meeting has been called for tonight in their executive rooms with members of the Belleville Hockey Association officials.

• • •

While we have not been given any information about what the Belleville Hockey Association will do, if they stick to their former platform as laid down at the special meeting of the Intermediates, if the older club is sponsored, it will mean they will be on their executive own, and the Junior Exec will resume its former status and devote its activities entirely to junior hockey.

• • •

However, we were also informed yesterday that the hockey association plans a special meeting of its own tonight prior to meeting the Army and Navy officials and will formulate its platform. Insofar as the printing and sale of the "Booster" tickets has been shelved for the time being, all appearances point to the Hockey Association people withdrawing from the overall administrative picture and, as was before mentioned, revert back to junior activities.

• • •

However tonight's meeting will tell the tale, and it is hoped that something for the general good of hockey comes out of it. If the Intermediates are taken over by the Army and Navy and the Junior masterminds go back to their own activities, it will mean complete re-organization on the part of the big brothers squad. And if such is the case no time should be lost.

• • •

And just in passing, there are some more or less familiar faces in town these days, who are connected with outside hockey teams, and they aren't in the city talking to hockey players with a view to finding out who Kilroy is.

• • •

FLASH:

Kola Kwariani, burly Russky, slated to meet Whipper Billy Watson in the main bout at the Hume Arena tonight suffered severe cuts over the eye in a recent wrestling bout and his physician has ordered several days rest. Ivan Rasputin, the other Mauling Muscovite, who also appeared on the card will take on the Whipper instead while Henry Piers, the likeable Dutch giant will wrestle Pat Boesche in the semi-final. Flanagan will meet the Sheik as scheduled in the preliminary.

• • •

Kwarianni was bopped around considerably in his last two appearances and up in Peterboro he was given the once over not gently and not lightly. A large cut was opened up over his eye and several stitches were required to close the gash. However, Ivan the Terrible, Rasputin, has an ancient grudge to settle with the Whipper and he jumped at the chance to take the place of his fellow from the Siberian steppes. 'Twill be a right noble go, egad, with the jousters having something personal behind their ring antics and that means action.

That self-styled friend of all umpires, Frank Frisch, deftly got in the last word with Dusty Boggess in a brisk exchange during the past season. The outraged Flash fired away at the umpire with a torrent of expostulation and abuse, winding up with the epithet of "blubber-head."

"Don't you call me a 'lugger-head'," exclaimed the angry Boggess.

"I didn't," needled the Flash.

"Yes, you did," shouted the umpire, rapidly reaching the boiling point.

"Mr. Boggess," said Frisch, pityingly, "I didn't call you a lugger-head. I called you a blubber-head, and that proves something I've long suspected. I always knew you were blind but now I've discovered that you can't even hear."

Upwards of 35,000 fans may watch two key struggles in Canadian Senior football this Saturday with the right to enter the Eastern Canadian final the big stake for four teams in two unions.

• • •

At Montreal, the home-town Alouettes look for well over 20,000 to watch them play the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts in a sudden-death game for the Inter-provincial Rugby Union title. More than 12,000 will be on hand at Hamilton where the sensational young Wildcats pit their strength against the hard-driving Balmy Beach team from Toronto in the Ontario Rugby Football senior final.

• • •

The Winnipeg teams in the two games will play the following week in the Eastern final.

• • •

A third game also is on the weekend senior program, a charity exhibition match in Toronto between the Indians of the O.R.F.U. and the tail-end Hamilton Tigers of the Big Four.

• • •

The Western Canada champions' Winnipeg Blue Bombers continue to mark time awaiting the annual East-West classic November 30.

The Montreal game brings the East's two scoring champions into action — Joe Krol, versatile Argo half, and Virgil Wagner lean, hard-hitting import from the United States who plays on the Montreal halfline. Each wound up the season with 65 scoring points, Wagner's all coming on touchdowns.

• • •

At Hamilton the Wildcats, welded into a superb attacking and defensive machine by Frank Gnup of Manhattan University in his first season as a Canadian football strategic and player, face their toughest test of the season. The Wildcats haven't been beaten since their first game of the year, and hold two triumphs over their Toronto opponents in schedule play.

• • •

But Beaches, with veteran Bobby Porter returning to action to direct field traffic from the quarterback post, have shown new life in the last few games and their new-found strength gives them fresh confidence.

• • •

The Argo-Alouette contest will settle an issue the teams failed to decide over the season's schedule when they wound up in a first place tie. However, the Alouettes held an edge in the four games they played with each other. The Montreal team won two games to Toronto's one and another was tied.

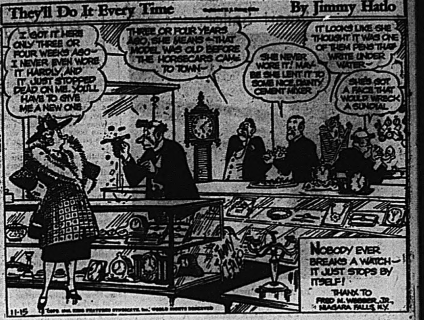
They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo



I GOT IT HERE ONLY THREE OR FOUR WEEKS AGO— I NEVER EVEN WORE IT HARDLY AND IT JUST STOPPED DEAD ON ME. YOU'LL HAVE TO GIVE ME A NEW ONE
THREE OR FOUR YEARS AGO, SHE MEANS—THAT MODEL WAS OLD BEFORE THE HORSECARS CAME TO TOWN—
SHE NEVER WORE IT! MAYBE SHE LENT IT TO SOME NICE DAINTY CEMENT MIXER
IT LOOKS LIKE SHE THOUGHT IT WAS ONE OF THEM PENS THAT WRITE UNDER WATER—
SHE'S GOT A FACE THAT WOULD WRECK A SUNDIAL
NOBODY EVER BREAKS A WATCH— IT JUST STOPS BY ITSELF!

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP)—Let no one speak of those good, old—and rugged — days of hockey because right now under the Big Top that is the National Hockey League it's a tough business and probably old Ching Johnson, New York Rangers' veteran who wound up in the late '30s all held together with piano wire, would be one of the first to admit it.

There's no doubt Ching was tough — so tough he continued to play even with a broken jaw but if anybody thinks the league is softening up to any great extent one look at today's Toronto Maple Leafs should be enough.

Consider Syl Apps. He had a knee so badly twisted it wouldn't bear his weight but he missed only six games and then came out and scored three goals. Now Bob Goldham has the same kind of injury and Harry Watson has a shoulder twist that's taken him out of play.

A little bent and still playing are Gus Mortson with a broken toe, Howie Meeker with a broken finger, Garth Boesch with a sacro-iliac hurt, Vic Lynn with an injured back taped up and Gus Morton who needed four stitches to close a scalp wound but would not take any time off.

Sure, it's a game for young resilient bodies and if the rock-ribbed, bump-'em-down defencemen like Ching are not so numerous the game is still tough.

And speaking of bumps, Joe (Toronto Star) Perlove asks what about the young fighters and what are they thinking of—"going miles out of their way to get their teeth kicked in, their ears scrambled and their noses splattered."

His remarks recall those late '30s when some of the New York Rangers hung out in a 49th St. place called "The Green Door" and the same Ching Johnson, fading now as a hockey great, was the object of hero worship from a little black man named "Beezle" who in his day had been some fair shakes as a club fighter. Fair shakes that is until he sparred too much with Tony Canzoneri and got hit too often by better fighters than himself.

Beezle's flat nose was no much further flattened it was hard to find.

Nobody knew just where or why he hooked onto Ching but he'd follow him around and shine the big Johnson shoes everytime Ching stood still — or else try to give Johnson a hotfoot and Ching would humor him, pretending it worked.

Sometimes Beezle would put his dukes up for the edification of Green Door habitues and say: "Tony Canzoneri's boy? No, me fight for Chingie."

He still figured he could fight so one day the boys matched him against the Chinese cook of the Green Door and it was no surprise to Beezle when he laid the cook out cold on the kitchen floor.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. See it in this rule: A simple takeout to a new suit is forcing for one round; if the chain of new suit takeouts has not been broken.

Simple means without a jump. Takeout means a bid something different than partner has mentioned. New suit means a suit that has not yet been mentioned by either partner.

Forcing means partner is required to bid or otherwise keep the bidding alive. For one round means at the first opportunity only. A chain means continuous.

Unbroken chain of takeouts to new suits means that partners have bid only new suits. At no time after the opening has either partner rebid his own suit, or assisted Partner's suit, or bid no-trump.

A bid is not forcing merely because it is a takeout to some new suit. If an earlier bid was anything but a new suit, a takeout to a new suit is no longer forcing.

South and north held this pair of partnership hands:

South	North
♠ Q 9 4	♠ A K 10 6
♥ A K Q 7 4	♥ 9 5
♦ 9 3	♦ 8 4 2
♣ A 9 5	♣ K J 8 6

The bidding goes like this:

South	North
1 H	1 S
2 H	3 C
3 S	4 S

The two heart bid was not forcing. It was not a takeout to a new suit. The three club bid was a takeout to a new suit. But it was not forcing. South had broken the chain of new suit takeouts.

South did not bid three spades because he was forced. It was voluntary. He had adequate support for a spade assist. The north four spades bid was not forced. He had another trick for the raise.

Whether forced or not, bid the stuff you've got.

Proposed Change In Stymie Rule Flusters Committee

London, Nov. 14 — (AP) — A proposed United States modification of the stymie rule in golf flustered the staid rules committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club yesterday and a spokesman said it would be a "serious break in tradition."

The 12-man committee of the Royal and Ancient, guardians of the sport since King William IV gave the St. Andrews Club his Royal blessing in 1834, found general agreement at a meeting today to discuss rules, revisions proposed by the United States Golf Association. However, it took no final action on the rules.

But the stymie change raised some eyebrows. Cyril Tolley, secretary of the committee and two-time winner of the British amateur championship, said it might be the major stumbling block to full accord.

"We are holding on to the old traditions as much as possible and this would be a serious break," he said. "We don't know how the Dominions will react."

The principal changes from the United States concern the stymie and tardy players.

They would permit the lifting of a ball lying within six inches of the hole and interference with an opponent's play, and allow the disqualification of players who delay or waste time in a tournament.

CHAPTER 13.

"Heavens!" he cried. "Not love letters. I know enough about law to realize letters may prove to be dynamite, and often are. No, let's keep it verbal— then if nothing comes of it—"

"You mean you will?" Sally cried jubilantly. "Grand! Let's start with that visit tomorrow. I'll get things we can serve—let's see, I'll plan things tonight after I go off duty. We'll have a real party."

"But how can you be sure undesirables won't pop in?"

"I'll No Visitors si[illegible]. And I hope Sunderlin or the Chief won't come nosing around while the party's on."

"I hope you won't get into trouble doing it, my dear. We could have it in the morning. Not many people call mornings."

"That's an idea and we'll make it breakfast instead. Fine! I'll get Kitty to help."

And so next morning soon after nine, Kitty Howard wheeled her patient across the hall to room 327 and the four had a merry time. It lasted until after ten when, by the grapevine, word reached them that the Chief and retinue had begun their daily journey of inspection. By the time the dignified visitors reached the third floor, Doctor Channing was back in bed, listening to his nurse as she read from his latest manuscript while, across the hall, little Miss Newell sat by the sunny window knitting. Both patients greeted their callers pleasantly and the tour of inspection moved on down the corridor to the elevator where the Chief and Miss Sunderlin rode to fourth and the others in the company took the stairs two at a time and were on hand to follow sedately as Doctor Richards and the superintendent took up their slow journey.

• • •

Doctor Channing left the hospital the first week in June. Elizabeth Newell went back to Bascom Junction, a village some sixty miles distant. Sally wished she might have been present when the two said good-by. She had a hunch Doctor Channing thought well and often of the slim little woman who had lived across the hall from him for five weeks. But she could find out nothing from her patient although she confessed that she tried. She managed to bring Miss Newell's name into the conversation often during the first days after her reparture, but the good doctor was extremely reticent—he was not committing himself.

Kitty Howard was more communicative. She said she had watched surreptitiously as the two shook hands on the day her patient had left and she claimed there was something very romantic about that parting. Miss Newell had been up and about a few hours each day for two or three days and the doctor was walking with a cane and limping scarcely at all. She said he came across the hall and the two stood for several minutes just outside in the corridor and held hands.

"I don't think he kissed her," Kitty said regretfully; "but I know he said something special because when she came back her eyes were shining and her cheeks were like roses but she wouldn't talk. Very suspicious, my dear. Don't you agree? Wouldn't it be grand if it really came to something, Sally?" she said. "They are both so swell!"

Sally had drawn night duty on another special case and was still in bed one afternoon when Bess Hamilton dropped in to her room.

She sat up and reached for a robe and slippers. "Stay here, if you like, while I shower," she told her caller. "I won't be more than a minute. I want to take a long walk before I go back on duty. It seems good to have the sun shine again, doesn't it?"

"It's only 3 o'clock, Sally," Bess pointed out when the girl returned. "Why not come over to the lake with me for a swim? I'm on call tonight and we can be back in plenty of time to change."

"Okay," Sally nodded, "I'm game. Stuff my swim suit in the bag there and I'll be ready in a jiffy."

A few minutes later the two nurses reached the bus stop at foot of Main Street hill. The sun was warm on their bare heads and there was little or no shade on that corner.

A shabby coupe slipped down the hill and stopped for a red light. Sally tried to make herself invisible with little success for the car door opened and a voice called:

"Hi, there! Going somewhere, you two? Hop in and I'll take you."

"We're going to the lake, Doctor," Bess answered, and waved him on his way. But he lingered.

"Swell! That's where I'm bound. Hop in. That bus will be crowded to its doors and probably won't be along for an hour."

• • •

Much against her better judgment Sally followed Bess Hamilton into Jim Hallock's battered car. The seat was wide but Miss Hamilton was plump and there was barely room for the three; but they reached the lake much more quickly than if they had waited for the bus. Doctor Hallock parked his car and the three walked the short distance to the beach.

"Why, there's Holden!" Bess exclaimed as she spied Norma in a brief bathing suit talking to a young man. "I hope she doesn't see us—in your company, Doctor," she laughed. "I just don't trust that baby."

"Let her do her worst," muttered Jim Hallock, casting an inquiring glance at Sally. "You're not afraid of her, are you, Sally?"

"I don't know why I should be," Sally told him not quite truthfully. "Oh, isn't that Doctor Bacon? What is she doing here? I thought they had gone to the mountains for the summer."

Carolyn Bacon caught sight of them and hurried forwad. "Jim, you're darling to bring them!" she cried enthusiastically. "This is wonderful! You know, Sally, Mother and I have taken the Sloane cabin for the season and just now we're all alone. I'm so glad you came. We have a fine beach and we can have a picnic supper later—hot hamburgers and coffee or ice cold ginger ale —whichever you prefer. Sound attractive?"

"Wonderful!" Sally said.

The Sloan Cabin proved to be rather large and rambling, tree shaded and with a private beach adjoining, that of an exclusive club. Wide screened porches extended all round it while inside were all the comforts of home. Sally immediately fell in love with the place and Carolyn urged her to make use of it whenever it was possible. Bess and Mrs. Bacon found they had a great deal to discuss and Carolyn was suddenly busy preparing for the picnic supper. So Sally, eager to take advantage of this rare opportunity to swim, changed quickly and dived from the edge of the long pier.

She wasn't aware she was being followed and drew herself up on the float where she lay on her back with closed eyes, breathing in the invigorating piney air while the sun poured new life into her body.

• • •

"Mind if I join you?" Jim Hallock asked as he slid down beside her on the swaying float. "Gosh I'm tired! I've had only three hours' sleep since night before last. What a life!"

"And I was just thinking how wonderful it is," Sally laughed. She waved a comprehensive hand to include their surroundings. "All this—"

"—and Heaven to — with you here beside me," the young man murmured. "I should like to stay right here indefinitely. Why go back at all, Sally?"

"Not even for hamburgers and coffee, Doctor?" she teased.

"I like to hear you laugh, Silly," he told her, raising himself on one elbow to look into her face. "You"re going to get a fine sunburn."

Sally laughed again. Somehow she felt light and carefree. "How quickly you change from the ethereal to the practical, Doctor Hallock," she chided. Silence blissful and satisfying, prevailed for some time. Then, "But I'm agraid we're not being very appreciative guests, are we, coming off here by ourselves like this? There's Bess waving to us. She hasn't even been in and it was she who suggested coming here."

"Why can't you always be like this Sally?" he asked.

"Like what?" she countered and was away before he could answer.

Bess Hamilton was waiting on the beach and walked with them to the cabin.

"It's after 5, Sally," she told her when they were alone. "We ought to catch the 6 o'clock bus if we're to get back to Linton in time to change and go on duty at 7. The busses are crowded at this time of day and we may not even be able to get on. I hope that supper is about ready or I'm afraid we'll have to go hungry."

"I'll dress in a jiffy, Bess, and help Carolyn with it," Sally promised. She patted the older nurse on her plump back. "Don't you worry, darling. We'll get back. Wow! Is my nose red! I bet it peels like an onion. I should have oiled it before I went out."

When Sally returned to the others the table in the little pine grove near the cabin was set for a buffet supper while on the outdoor grill Hamburgers sizzled and coffee sent up tantalizing odors Once again Carolyn and her mother drew Bess Hamilton into their circle and Doctor Hallock found a seat close to Sally.

"You're on the Terry case, aren't you, Sally?" he asked as he poured steaming coffee into her cup. "Pretty tough, isn't she?"

"Oh, no," Sally told him, conscious of the subtle maneuvering on the part of her hostess but determined to ignore it. The lake was changing momentarily. Long shadows were creeping out from he shore. White cotton clouds dotted the intense blue of the afternoon sky and were reflected in the quiet water beneath. Mellowed and softened by distance came the sound of singing. She wished she could just sit here silently and look and listen and dream. She roused with an effort. "She'll be all right after she's thoroughly rested and eaten quantities of nourishing food. That girl was exhausted and starved, Jim—strange as that may sound. You know the type, Doctor. Spoiled."

"I like 'Jim' better, Sally" he told her with apparent irrelevance.

• • •

Sally was eating the juicy hamburger with relish. "My, this is good! I don't know when I've eaten anything I like better. Did you cook them?"

"Of course," he told her proudly. "I made the coffee, too. When Carolyn asked me to come out for a swim and supper I accepted on one condition that we have hamburgers—that I should cook, and coffee that I be allowed to make. I'm something of an artist when it comes to camp cooking."

"Then you—then Bess and I just barged in," Sally said. "Why didn't you tell us—"

"She probably knew you wouldn't come if you knew I was invited, Sally Maynard," the young man pointed out. "As it was, I played in luck for once. This was all merely coincidental —no breaking of hospital rules so your very active conscience need cause you no least qualm."

"I never even thought about it" Sally said promptly. "But when plans are made for one guest and two extra ones are thrust upon the hostess it isn't always convenient or—or pleasant."

PAIN MISERY?

Sore back, broken rest
Sciatica, lumbago
CAN be caused by your kidneys.

No wonder you're tired, depressed and irritated with these nagging aches pestering you day and night. How about your kidneys? If they're not as active as they should be, acid impurities remain in your system giving rise to backache, stiffness, stiff joints, rheumatic pains, aches.

Nature may need help to clean out these toxic wastes: And that help is available to you in Gin Pills—a remedy that has helped kidney sufferers for more than 4 decades. Gin Pills are especially compounded to aid the kidneys and the best proof that they can and will aid them is that every package of Gin Pills is sold on a clear understanding of Relief—or money back!

"EVER SO MUCH BETTER" says Montreal user. "I had rheumatic aches and sore back—could hardly straighten up after bending. A friend advised Gin Pills and in a few days the condition was improved. Now I'm ever so much better."—I.F., Montreal.

Here is how Gin Pills help. In your kidneys millions of tiny tubes are employed to remove impurities from the blood. When they grow sluggish in this all important work, trouble develops. Gin Pills are designed to help keep the kidneys functioning properly.

Use proves Gin Pills merit. Get a package from your druggist today. Take them as directed. You too will agree that Gin Pills are just the help your kidneys need.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Nov. 15 —(AP)— Stocks, with scattered exceptions, negotiated a slow retreat in today's market.

Dealings were slack after a fairly active opening. Quotations then began to slip and declines of fractions to a point or so were well in the majority near the fourth hour.

Canadian issues were off fractionally at mid-day. Both C.P.R. and Hiram Walker eased ¼. Distillers Seagrams lost ⅛.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP)—Produce prices in the spot market here today were reported as follows:

Eggs: Receipts heavier than current requirements, spot prices declined all grades; wholesale to retail, A large 50, A medium 48, A pullet 45, B 43, C 35; country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free, A large 42-43, A medium 39, A pullet 35, B 37, C 30.

Big Four's Mythical All-Star Team Includes Three Players Imported From United States

Only One Hamilton Man Chosen to Represent City on Mountain

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 15 (CP)—Three teams that thundered apace through the 24-game Interprovincial Rugby Football Union schedule, until final day brought elimination to one, shared almost equal recognition today on the Big Four's mythical all-star lineup.

To the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts went four places on this dream team, selected for The Canadian Press by football writers and coaches in the league's four cities. To Ottawa Rough Riders, who missed the post season play-offs by two points, also went four positions and to Montreal Alouettes, three.

Lanky Dick Groom standout end of an outclassed team, gained one position for Hamilton Tigers in the vote, weighed to provide equal voting strength to each union city.

The All-Stars:

Flying Wing: Ken Charlton, Rough Riders.

Half: Joe Krol, Argonauts.

Half: Royal Copeland, Argonauts.

Half (secondary defence): Virgil Wagner, Alouettes.

Quarter: Frank Dunlop, Rough Riders.

Snap: Don Loney, Argonauts.

Inside: Benny Steck, Alouettes.

Inside: Bill Zock, Argonauts.

Middle: Herb Trawyck, Alouettes.

Middle: Hank Christman, Rough Riders.

Outside: Dick Groom, Tigers.

Outside: Bert Haigh, Rough Riders.

The Alouettes, who play off with Argos for the league title Saturday, just missed a fourth berth when Ches McCance, burly flying wing from Winnipeg Blue Bombers, lost by a single voting point to Ottawa's speedy Ken Charlton. It was Charlton's second straight all-star selection.

Four on Second Year

Beside Charlton, three others rated places for a second year in a row. They were Joe Krol, Argos' high-scoring half from Windsor, Ont., Royal Copeland, the blond pile-driver, and Hamilton's Groom, who was also an Ontario Rugby Union all-star two seasons ago.

Of the five United States players that each team except Argos imported this season, three won all-star rating. Two are middles—husky Hank Christman of Rough Riders and Herb Trawyck of Alouettes—while the third is Virgil Wagner, Montreal's speedy half who tied Krol for individual scoring honors with 65 points apiece.

Frank Dunlap, Ottawa's starry pass-pitching quarter, was chosen to call signals for this select array.

Montreal, whose hornets failed to rate an all-star selection last season, gained further honors in that Trawyck, their 232-pound negro from Pittsburgh, won nearest to unanimous choice with 45 votes of a possible 48.

THE BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Although held scoreless during his last two games, Billy (The Kid) Taylor of Detroit Red Wings continues to lead the National Hockey League scoring race with his five goals and 11 assists for 16 points. Maurice Richard, Montreal, climbed to within two points of Taylor as he scored a goal last night to bring his total to 10 plus four assists to take over second spot. Roy Conacher, Detroit, notched two assists to hold down third spot with five goals and six assists for 11 points. George Allen, Montreal, has fourth spot with five and five for 10. Five players are grouped with nine points each for fifth berth.

The leaders:

	G.	A.	Pts.
Taylor, Detroit	5	11	16
Richards, Montreal	10	4	14
Conacher, Detroit ...	5	6	11
Allen, Montreal ..	5	5	10
M. Bentley, Chicago	6	3	9
Brown, Detroit ...	5	4	9
Schmidt, Boston	5	4	9
Carveth, Boston ...	4	5	9
D. Bentley, Chicago	3	6	9

Williams Wins Most Valuable Player Award

(By The Canadian Press)

With a margin of 27 points in a ballot of the Baseball Writers Association of America, slugger Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox yesterday gained the award of the most valuable league player of 1946 over Hal Newhouser, ace twirler of Detroit Tigers. The vote total for Williams was 224. In third and fourth places were second-baseman Bobby Doerr and short-stop Johnny Pesky, both Boston Soxers, with 158 and 141 points.

Mickey Vernon of Washington Senators, winners of the league's batting championship, was fifth while pitcher Bob Feller of Cleveland Indians finished sixth.

British turf circles continue amazed over the success of racehorses from France during the past season in winning 22 events representing total stakes of $157,684. The opinion is that British horses were underfed during the war years.

Manager of the team for the past three years, Ray Blades yesterday submitted his resignation to the St. Paul club of the American Baseball Association.

Gerald Patterson, winner of Wimbledon in 1919 and 1922, was appointed manager of the Australian team which will defend the Davis Cup in the finals with the United States in December.

F. M. Oferall, breeder of racehorses announced at Shannon, Eire, yesterday, that eight colts would be flown to the United States next Tuesday for the winter meetings at Hollywood Park and Santa Anita.

Boston Celtics last night lost their fifth straight game of the Basketball Association of America season by dropping a 64-62 overtime tussle to the Bombers at St. Louis before 2,070 fans. At Philadelphia the Warriors won their second straight game 68 - 65 against Washington Capitols with 4,549 devotees in attendance.

The Illinois Racing Board announced yesterday at Chicago that Charles Mitchell, Ringwood, Okla., had been ruled off the tracks of Illinois for life following charges he had substituted horses. Involved were "Joe S." and "Lucky Lady."

Mexico Makes Bid For Next Bout Of Joe Louis

Cleveland, Nov. 15. (AP)—During a lull in raids on American baseball talent, sports-minded Mexican capitalists have set their sights on grabbing the next title defence of heavyweight champion Joe Louis, veteran boxing manager Jack Kearns reported today.

Kearns, former pilot of Jack Dempsey and manager of Cleveland's Joe Maxim, currently ranked No. 3 heavyweight contender by the National Boxing Association, said he had received a "juicy offer" for a title match between Louis and Maxim at Mexico City this Winter.

Kearns said it was not the "peso-pitching Pasquel" brothers who made the offer for a championship scrap south of the border, but declined to name the Mexican sponsors interested in "stealing" the match from the United States.

"The Mexican promoters have indicated that they are willing to post several hundred thousand to finance a championship match between Louis and Maxim," said Kearns, "and I plan to meet with one of their representatives in New York within a month to discuss plans for the bout."

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Leo Gravelle, Montreal, who notched one tally and assisted on two others as Canadiens edged Detroit Red Wings 4-3.

Ted Lindsay, Detroit, who scored twice.

Sports Roundup

By AL COLLETTI
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 15 (CP)—Revival of the old New York Americans National Hockey League franchise is quite possible if no hitches develop in the proposed construction of the new Madison Square Garden between 58th and 60th streets at Columbus Circle—Manhattan's exact geographical centre—The Circle, where soapbox oratory still is a popular nightly pastime, would be the site of the world's largest indoor arena able to seat 22,000 for a hockey game...With ice available at the old and new Gardens and additional dates for the schedule makers, many of the technical and financial difficulties associated with one arena supporting two N.H.L. teams might be overcome ...Additional ice would also be a boon to amateur hockey which each year has slowly been reduced at the old Garden by better-paying attractions.

Assorted Shorts

An air express company, using specially-padded DC-3 twin-engined planes, recently flew 12 thoroughbreds, valued at more than $150,000,000 from Saratoga to Los Angeles in 18 hours...The company claims this was the largest mass movement of race horses by air in turf history...Garth Boesch, rookie defenceman of Toronto Maple Leafs is the first N.H.L. player to sport a moustache since Andy Blair left the circuit in 1936...Canadian welterweight champion Johnny Greco, who was brought up in a large family, figures he wasted a lot of his youth waiting for his turn to wash. So in building a new house, Johnny has installed five bathrooms and is seeking space for more...Joe Tinker, 61, former Chicago Cubs shortstop of Tinker to Evers to Chance fame, has the middle toe of his left foot amputated last week in an Orlando, Fla., hospital...Gangrene infection threatens loss of another toe and possibly his left foot.

Pounding the Turf

Steps have been taken to assure uniform track conditions at all New York racing plants as a result of a conference between the newly-formed trainers' committee and the presidents of the New York racing associations...The Saratoga racing surface, termed "too hard" by the trainers will be inspected by track maintenance experts and considerable work will be done before next season.

STIRLING

Veterans Who Paid Supreme Sacrifice To be Remembered

Stirling, (Special.)—At its recent meeting in Legion Club room at Stirling, Branch 228 decided to establish a "Corner of Remembrance" in the Club room where the photographs of the men of the village and immediate adjoining district, who paid the supreme sacrifice, will be hung. The Legion will make all arrangements for the framing of the photographs and the next-of-kin supplying the photographs and the Legion will pay all the costs.

It was unanimously agreed that all photographs should be in the uniforms of Navy, Army or Air Force; that all should be the same size, namely 7 1-2 inches wide and 9 1-2 inches high and that all should be in black and white not colored. For the information of next-of-kin it is advised that any competent photographer can take from any photograph a print in black and white 7 1-2 inches wide and 9 1-2 inches high. Next-of-kin are asked to leave prints at Bob Patterson's store as soon as possible, and preferably not later than Nov. 30.

Toronto Police to Wear Cork Helmets Again On Formal Occasions

Toronto, Nov. 15 (CP)—Toronto's finest will wear their once-discarded familiar cork helmets—similar in design to that worn by London "Bobbies"—when Governor General Alexander visits the Royal Winter Fair next week, and on similar formal occasions in the future, the police commission said.

For ordinary wear the uniform peaked cap will still be worn. "Tea cosy" winter hats of persian lamb—which cost constables $26 each—will not return to fashion although traffice officers will still wear their leather-and-fur helmets in cold weather.

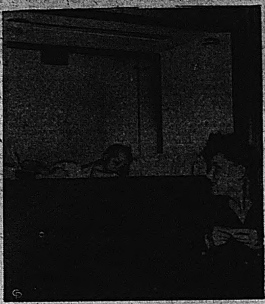
REARING BABY IN A GLASS BOX



Mrs. John Gray of Sea Cliff, L.I., halts in her knitting to glance at her pride and joy, seven-weeks-old John, Jr., in the glass box where he spends most of his waking and sleeping hours. The baby's father, an engineer, designed the box even before little John was born. It is temperature-controlled, humidity-controlled and dirt-free, with a built-in air filter. John romps about on a plastic nylon sheet, which only needs wiping off. The baby needs no bed covering, because temperature is maintained at 84 degrees. An alarm system serves racous notice if the temperature gets too high or too low.

Hope Felt Trieste Deadlock May be Near Settlement

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

New York, Nov. 16 (AP) — Several concessions by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov prompted Big Four diplomats today to make guarded assertions that the Foreign Ministers Council was at the point of breaking its months' old deadlock over Trieste.

In a three-hour informal debate among the Big Four foreign ministers last night, Mr. Molotov showed signs, according to persons in the meeting, of making a serious effort to meet American, British and French insistence on putting Trieste police under control of the United Nations Security Council.

United States State Secretary Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Bevin declared repeatedly that only by having a police force independent of hte locally elected government could the United Nations be sure of protecting the independence of Trieste and the rights of its two natianalities — Italian and Yugoslav.

Mr. Byrnes declared the whole issue—which is the great block in the way of an Italian peace treaty —is the question of who is to hire and fire the police force.

Mr. Molotov, responding to proposals by Deputy French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve De Murville, agreed:

1. That the proposed governor of Trieste—a direct agent of the Security Council—should have the right to appoint the police chief upon the recommendation of the local council of government.

2. That he had no objection to having the police chief direct the recruiting of the police force.

3. That the governor should have a veto over administrative as well as legislative actions of the local government—another way of recognizing that he should have actual supreme power.

Mr. Molotov agreed at another point in the discussion that the police chief should be subordinate to the governor in an emergency affecting the independence of the Trieste territory and that the governor would decide when emergency action was necessary.

Diplomats familiar with the course of the discussion said it represeted considerable progress over previous debates on the same subject and that today's session cight produce a real break.

Govt. to Assist Bancroft With Hospital Wing

Toronto, Nov. 16.— (CP) — Health Minister Kelley last night announced the Ontario Government has agreed to contribute $165,000 toward the cost of outpost hospital expansion. This sum represents one-third of the total cost of the program.

The Ontario Division of the Red Cross Society, which laid the plans for the expansion, also will provide one-third of the cost and the balance will be raised among groups in the communities concerned.

The program includes building of three new hospitals and construction of an addition to a fourth, providing a total of 74 beds. Improvements and alterations will be made to three other hospital buildings.

The new buildings are to be constructed at Bancroft, Nipigon and Huntsville—the first two with 20 beds and the latter with 22 beds. A new wing and service department will be built on the Englehart hospital and a 12-bed wing with service department will be added to the Bracebridge hospital.

Improvements and additions have been approved for the Beardmore hospital and at Red Lake alterations will be made to a donated building.

Mr. Kelley said a survey would be made by the Red Cross in other parts of the province and further grants will be considered.

Montana, Wyoming Blanketed With Heavy Snowfall

Denver, Nov. 16 —(AP)—A new storm swept south along the Rockies today, blanketing Montana and Wyoming with snow and hampering rescue efforts in eastern Colarado where many families still are marooned and much livestock is weakened by two weeks without food.

The weather bureau said the snow would be light, but predicted strong winds that would drift the snow already on the ground, and low temperatures which cattlemen said would cause heavy livestock losses. The storm centred along the eastern slope of the mountains.

It came on the heels of the first storm to strike Colarado within two weeks, bringing deah to eighteen persons.

Snow and wind originating from a cold air mass that came out of the west, gave the blizzard swept plains another lashing yesterday, virtually halting red Cross-Army relief operations from Rush, 40 miles east of Colorado Springs.

Thousands of head of cattle remained without food since the blizzard started two weeks ago

Army weasels making mercy missions from Rush were slowed to three miles an hour and planes which have been dropping food packages to humans and hay to livestock were grounded at Colorado Springs.

KRUG CONSIDERS RADIO APPEAL TO REPUDIATE LEWIS

Administration Seeks To Hold 400,000 Soft Coal Miners to U. S. Government Contract

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Nov. 16 —(AP)— The administration, in a toe to toe showdown fight with defiant John L. Lewis, sought grimly today to hold 400,000 soft coal miners to a government contract United States Attorney Tom Clark says is binding.

No official was telling just what will be done if Mr. Lewis persists in his contention that he can and will terminate the contract next Wednesday midnight, halting production at the 3,300 government-operated mines.

But there was talk that interfor secretary Krug may take to the radio, tell the miners their chief's manoeuvre has no legal justification, and ask them to keep on mining coal.

May Call Congress

Although represented as determined not to put Mr. Lewis in the role of martyr those concerned with the fuel crisis spoke of:

1. Possible action under the Smith-Connolly Act, which provides a year in prison and a $5,000 fine for inciting a strike against the government.

2. A special session of the adjourned congress to enact new laws forbidding strikes in so vital an industry as coal mining.

The Lewis position, however, is that there simply will be no valid contract in existence after the termination time he has set —and the United Mine Workers do not work without a contract.

Here he clashes head-on with Attorney General Clark, who advised Mr. Krug yesterday the contract is binding for as long as the government runs the mines.

Underscoring the gravity of the situation, the solid fuels administration said the United States has only a 37-day supply of fuel on hand, compared with the 42-day stock just before last spring's crippling two-month walkout.

Strike Appears Certain

A strike four days hence appears certain unless:

1. Mr. Lewis accepts Mr. Krug proposal for the 60-day truce, which President Truman called "eminently fair to both mine workers and operators."

2. Mr. Krug and the government back down and give Mr. Lewis a new contract calling for shorter hours without loss of pay.

3. The soft coal operators themselves step up with some satisfactory settlement.

4. The government finds some legal way to stop the strike.

Little success was seen for the proposal that Mr. Krug make a radio appeal to the miners. The late President Roosevelt tried that, under the added stress of wartime, in May, 1943. But the miners stayed home until Mr. Lewis gave them the nod to go back.

Russ Plan Social Insurance Costing $11,913,000,000

Moscow, Nov. 16 — (AP) — Government expenditures for social insurance in Russia will reach a total of 62,700,000,000 rubles — (about $11,913,000,000) under the new Soviet five-year plan, it was announced Friday on the 25th anniversary of the inauguration of the system.

Russian workers collect insurance during old age, disability, sickness, pregnancy, recovery from pregnancy, vacations in health resorts and absence from work for other legitimate reasons.

Family, Tired of Living in Tent, Become First Squatters in District

Kingston, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Mrs. William Lawless, 33, of nearby Portsmouth, tired of living in a tent with her husband and four children, last night gained entry to a vacant four-roomed house in Portsmouth village.

She then moved into the house with her children and husband, creating the first "squatting" case in this district. Lawless, a stonemason, served overseas with the Canadian Army for five years.

"We just couldn't stand the cold in the tent any longer," said Mrs. Lawless today. "I decided I was just going to get into this empty house. We have sufficient money to pay good rent for accommodation but simply cannot find anything to rent."

The house in question is controlled by the Old Age Pension Commission, Toronto. It was formerly owned by two pensioners, both of whom died recently. Portsmouth authorities have taken no action against the Lawless family. The children are Joan, 13; Billy, 12, Margaret, 10, and Elsie, eight.

R.C.A.F. Station at Trenton Entcrtains Lincoln Bomber, Greatest British Aircraft

After demonstrating the latest devices in British air armament to senior R.C.A.F. officers at Rockcliffe on Friday, the R.A.F. Lincoln bomber "Thor" glided to a stop at the Trenton Air Station today where it and its party will remain two days before taking off for Winnipeg.

Present plans will take it to Edmonton Nov. 22, where the "Thor" will stay nine days to check engines and equipment leaving for Vancouver December 2nd.

Air Vice Marshal Gerard Combe, CB., director general of armament in R.A.F., accompanied the party to Ottawa. From Rockcliffe west, the mission will be in charge of Group Captain R. H. E. Emson, C.B.E., A.F.C.

Two of the party trained in Canada, while many of the others flew operationally with Canadian air crew. Flight Lieutenant R. W. Fleming received his navigator's wings at Mount Hope, near Hamilton. The second pilot, B. C Fitch, DFC, trained at 35 S.F.T.S., North Battleford.

From the Empire Air Armament School at Manby, near Louth, Lincs., the party included: Air Vice Marshal G. Combe, CB, director general of armament (Air Ministry); Group Captain R. H. E. Emson, C.B.E., A.F.C., leader of the mission; Wing Commander M. H. de L. Everest, captain of aircraft; Squadron Leader B. R. Murphy, pilot attack instructor; Flight Lieutenant R. W. Fleming, navigator; F/L B. C. Fitch, D.F.C., second pilot; F/L R. A. Denny, D.F.C., flight engineer; F/L G. W. Milburn, gunnery leader; F/L F. E. Murphy, radar officer; F/L D. F. Shallow; electrical & instrument officer; Flying Officer R. F. Cartwright, wireless operator; and F/O D. J. White, bombing leader.

Britain's Best Bomber

The four-engined "Lincoln" aircraft, one of Britain's biggest and best bombers, brings with it all the technical and combat experiences gained in the air war in Europe.

At this school, a team of specialists in bombing and gunnery, drawn from the Royal Air Force and Dominions Air Forces, brings its wealth of practical experience to the task of training. Instruction is given on the latest armament equipment, and the most modern methods adopted. Graduates are of presentation are appointed to fill every variety of armament post all over the Empire.

KEEN CONTESTS IN PROSPECT FOR MAYOR'S CHAIR

Many Municipalities Will Vote on Money By-Laws for Added Improvements

(By The Canadian Press)

The municipal election pattern in Ontario takes shape within the next 10 days with nomination day in most cities either Nov. 22 or 23 and elections Dec. 9.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows that present prospects are for acclamations for the mayor's chair in half a dozen cities. In some others keen contests are in prospect and in still others interest so far is light and the field has not taken shape.

One city — Welland — beat the general opening gun by holding its nominations yesterday and qualifications today. Mayor H. W. Walker received an acclamation for his second straight term in office. But the Welland election has an issue of keen interest without a mayoralty race—a vote on whether the city's water board will remain as a separate body or come under the city council's jurisdiction.

St. Catharines, Owen Sound and Toronto vote Jan. 1 with nominations in mid-December. Timmins — the province's largest town — holds its election in mid-December. Oshawa votes Jan. 6, with nominations Dec. 30.

Vote on Two-Year Term

Kingston, which votes this year on giving mayor and council a two-year instead of a one-year term, is likely to give Mayor Stuart Crawford an acclamation for a second term if he decides to stand for re-election. So far he has not decided.

Second-term acclamations are likely for Mayor J. Matthews of Brantford, Mayor J. G. Brown of Kitchener and Mayor William Ovens of Peterborough. At St. Thomas Mayor Richard A. Sanders, practically assured of a second term acclamation, announced this week that he would not be a candidate. Immediately Alderman Bruce Caldwell announced he would seek the mayor's chair but it is not yet known whether he will have opposition. Mayor W. C. Nelson may be unopposed at Sarnia where voting is Dec. 2.

So far no opposition is in sight for Ken Serviss, four years mayor at Galt, Mayor W. H. C. Brien of Sault Ste. Marie or Mayor J. Maurice King at Stratford.

Three-way Battle

Guelph may have a three-way battle for the mayoralty, with Mayor Gordon Rife facing opposition from Alderman Len Owen and William G. Taylor, a former mayor. Mayor Arthur Reaume, seeking his fourth two-year term at Windsor, will be opposed by Controller Arthur L. Mason, Cyril Cooper, a former controller, and Dr. G. T. Bailey, the latter a newcomer to municipal politics.

At Brockville, the situation is uncertain. There Mayor N. S. Cuthbertson has not announced whether he will seek a fourth term and no other candidates have come forward. At North Bay, Mayor W. F. Stones is retiring after three years in office, and prospective candidates are two aldermen — J. F. Grainger and Arthur Beattie.

WPTB OFFICIALS CANCEL PERMIT FORSLAUGHTERING

Probe Studies Sources of Meat Sold in Chatham Stores

Chatham, Nov. 16 —(CP)— Prices Board officials today announced they had cancelled the slaughtering permit of James Edmonson, Chatham meat packer, because of "failure to keep proper records required under existing ration regulations," and G. E. Dalgliesh, regional foods officer, said other charges would be laid against other Chatham butchers next week.

"Watch the police blotter and you'll see the results of our probe," he said.

The action against Edmonson followed an investigation by the Prices Board of meat supply conditions in this district, opened Oct. 31 on orders of Mr. Dalgliesh.

The regional officer said "a number" of complaints had been made to Ottawa by local residents against practices of Chatham butchers.

"The investigation," he said, "has been and is being conducted to determine the sources of meat sold in Chatham stores. Prices paid were not included in the investigation and no test purchases were made. The investigation is being continued and further developments are expected shortly."

Mr. Dalgliesh said four investigating officers making the investigation had "faced more abuse in Chatham than we have in most places in the province," and said one butcher had wielded a steel sharpener against one of his officers.

"A butcher waved a steel at one of our men and we were forced to refer the matter to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police," he said without further comment except to add the incident was the only one of its kind investigators encountered.

Mr. Dalgliesh denied rumors circulating here that he and Harvey Simpson, Chatham rationing officer, had received any "threatening" telephone calls although he said "cranks" had done their best to "unnerve" the investigators.

POLICE SAY SON ADMITS SLAYING MOTHER

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 16—(AP)— Police said Girard Farley, 18-year-old ex-sailor, admitted Friday he beat his widowed mother to death with an iron bar.

Farley was quoted by police as saying:

"I just flew off the handle and killed her."

The widow, 55-year-old Mrs. Mary Farley, was found beaten to death last night in the second floor bedroom of her home. Her face and head were battered.

WOMAN WILL RUN

Guelph, Nov. 16 — (CP)—First woman to seek a seat on the city council in many years, Mrs. Elizabeth Mowat announced she would be in the field for 1947 aldermanic honors. A Federal government employee Mrs. Mowat is on the staff of the National Employment Service.

THREE WOUNDED AS CONSTABLE FIRES ON THUGS

Youthful Drug Store Bandits Battle Police In Hold-up And Make Their Escape

Toronto, Nov. 16 — (CP)—An emergency squad of 100 police officers today stood ready to strike at a moment's notice in the event of fresh escapades by two youthful drug store bandits who last night wounded three persons, none seriously, in a point-blank gunfight with a police constable in a midtown Yonge Street drug store.

Police said they believed the gunmen had staged four holdups in other central Toronto drug stores in the last eight days. A $500 reward awaits the persons who bring about their capture.

Barefaced, each brandishing a black automatic, the holdup men, who appeared about 19 years old, strode into the J. Dudley Webb drug store four blocks south of Bloor Street as the proprietor's wife, Nora, 43, rang up proceeds of a cigaret sale. One confronted Mrs. Webb, pointed his gun at her and snapped:

"This is it."

At the same moment, Constable Dougald MacKay, 41, who had been chatting with clerk Silvic Lombard, 61, in the dispensary, stepped out of the narrow passageway into the store.

Store Rings with Gunfire

One gunman fired the second he saw the flash of the policeman's buttons. As the constable's revolver replied, the second bandit fired.

For half a minute the narrow store rang with gunfire. Flying bullets smashed bottles; broken glass littered the drug store.

One slug struck Constable MacKay in the side and staggered him. Another wounded clerk Lombard and still another hit Mrs. Webb in the hip.

The gunmen plunged out of the drug store and raced along St. Joseph Street. Radio-equipped police cruisers sped to the area within a minute or two but officers reported no sign of the men, believed to have ducked into a laneway.

Constable MacKay said he thought he wounded one of the bandits.

The three victims were taken to hospital where it was found none was in critical condition. All suffered shock. Lombard was allowed to go home after treatment.

3,500 Cases Of American Blood Plasma Recovered

By SPENCER MOOSA

Shanghai, Nov. 16 — (AP) — United States officials today recovered most of the 3,500 cases of American blood plasma recently sold inadvertently to a Chinese concern. The plasma, at $25 a pint which Chinese readily paid for it, would have retailed for $1,050,000.

A tip from two Associated Press correspondents led directly to the recovery of 2,000 cases in one warehouse and indirectly to the discovery of several hundred additional cases in a second. American officials estimated the two lots represented the bulk of the plasma included in the recent sale of uninventoried navy surplus medical stock at Okinawa.

The navy shore patrol placed guards over both stocks of plasma and officials of the Federal Liquidation Commission conferred with United States Consul General Mennett B. Davis on how to obtain a release order from Chinese authorities. The plasma eventually will be shipped to the United States for distribution by the Red Cross.

Two thousand cases of plasma were discovered in the Commercial Express Transportation warehouse. Hundreds more cases were found by F.L.C. officials in the former International Settlement on a tip obtained at the first warehouse.

Each case of plasma contained 12 packages of 500 C.C.'s each.

Says Proper Precautions Not Taken

St. Catharines, Nov. 16—(CP)— Proper precautions had not been taken and the omission led to the death of windbw-washer Walter Korweluk, 19, Sept. 12, a coroner's jury found Thursday night.

They said the man who fell 2 storeys to his death had been instructed to sit on the window ledge with his legs held by the sash but instead had stood outside on the ledge and then lost his grip.

Big Powers Smash Hope to Eliminate U. N. Veto

Council Agrees to Discuss Restrictions of Its Use

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, N.Y., Nov. 16. (CP)—A temporary lull in the heated debate raging over Big Five control of the United Nations Security Council was expected to follow a proposal today that the Big Five delegation leaders get together on means of restricting use of the veto.

A British plan aimed at softening the veto was submitted to the major powers by Foreign Secretary Bevin as a basis for Big Five consultations on the veto which authoritative sources said probably would begin Monday.

France was expected to propose today that the General Assembly's 51-Power Political and Security committee suspend the veto debate while the Big Five met to try to agree on a formula that will satisfy their opponents.

Although full details of the British plan were being kept secret, authoritative sources disclosed it made these suggestions:

1. The possibility of limiting the veto for use, only when the negative-voting country's "own vital interests" were concerned.

2. That absention from voting should be considered a veto. Under the present Security Council rules an absention by one of the Big Five is considered a negative vote, and thus a veto.

3. That the Council should be more of a Mediation and Conciliation Board, making every attempt to nip disputes by direct settlement and thus lessen the opportunity of using the veto.

4. Define more clearly exactly what is and what is not a dispute.

Will Support Britain.

The United Nations was expected to support Britain on these points in the consultations.

Both the United States and Russia warned yesterday that any change of the charter would wreck the United Nations.

Interest shifts today to the Economic Committee considering the pressing problem of relief for still needy countries in 1947 after the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration goes out of business.

Hon. Paul Martin, Secretary of State, is expected to speak for Canada and advocate continuance of some sort of United Nations organization to complete the job started by U.N.R.R.A.

The proposal of Fiorello La Guardia, director - general of U.N.R.R.A., for a U.N. emergency council administering a $400,000,000 fund for European and Asiatic relief in 1947, has been killed by the United States.

Alternatively the United States proposed that the countries which have done all the relief provision so far—the United States, United Kingdom, Canada and Australia—can do whatever is necessary by bi-lateral action in consultation with existing agencies.

In the Committee on Social and Humanitarian Problems debate will continue today on a Danish resolution calling for equal political rights for women in all United Nations countries.

Meanwhile the Headquarters Committee, of which Canada's L. D. Wilgress is vice-chairman, is receiving additional offers for permanent home sites, the latest two free and attractive offers from Pennsylvania of sites near Philadelphia.

Troops Sent To Ease Tension

New Delhi, Nov. 16 —(Reuters) —British troop reinforcements have been sent from Lucknow to several places in the United Provinces where sporadic rioting occurred after the disturbances in the neighboring province of Bihar, the United Provinces government announced today.

The troops have been sent in "an effort to ease tension and create confidence among the community," the announcement said.

Special armed constabulary had been sent to Moradabad, a battalion of the King's Regiment and a squadron of the Royal Armored Corps were on their way to Bareilly and other regiments were patrolling the Amroha area, Agra, and Cawnpore, it added.

175,000 Visit Winter Fair In First Four Days

Toronto, Nov. 16. (CP)—The Royal Winter Fair rolled up an estimated attendance total of 175,000 in its first four days and as it went into its fifth day an executive declared it assured of the best year in its colorful, quarter-century-long history.

Yesterday alone approximately 45,000 patrons passed through the entrance to the spacious coliseum. Today's attendance was expected to surpass that mark.

A capacity audience again jammed the horse palace for last night's horse show.

Only a few scattered seats remain for evening horse shows next week. A horse show is scheduled for every afternoon from now on.

The vast throngs of spectators and exhibitors led Winter Fair officials to insert newspaper advertisements appealing to patrons to eat their meals before going to the fair.

Exhibitors asserted the quality of stock this year is higher than in any of the 17 previous fairs, particularly with regard to horses and cattle.

A fair display which attracts considerable attention is that of Bantam poultry. Bantams on display came from all parts of the province, with cages from Barrie, Lynden, St. Catharines, Dundas, Toronto, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Georgetown, Willowdale, Oshawa, Prescott and other centres. Most popular types are the red and white Pyles, Brechins, Black Reds, Golden and Silver Duckwings.

Another popular spot is the tropical fish exhibition in a corner of the flower court. J. N. Bickerstaff of Toronto, imported a pancake-like discus from the Amazon to win first prize in the class for new and rare fish.

Several fanciers from Buffalo, N.Y., are scheduled to bring their carefully-nurtured fish to the show. Word was that their main concern was transportation, as a temperature drop of a few degrees can wipe out a collection in a matter of minutes.

Rotarians and Annes Enjoy Delightful Chicken Supper

Rollicking rotund Rotarians, and the few that are of the streamline type, with their good wives eyed askance anything that resembled a chicken this morning. In fact, 'tis reported from reliable Rotary Anne sources, several of the clan refused to greet the morning egg today.

For last night at Plainfield, the service clubmen and their ladies, 118 of them, did justice to a typical Plainfield chicken dinner, and that means that the Biddy flocks of the genial Plainfielders, to use sports parlance, took an "awful beating".

In fact groans were heard throughout the entire evening. The heavily laden tables, sounded a groan overture that crescendoed into those of stuffed Rotarians later in the night.

It is one occasion that the usually staid, some stern, Rotarians let down their figurative hair. Those who have it, that is. It was the annual playnight of the senior service club and even the famous Kilroy did not grace the festive board with his presence.

The culinary art of the good mesdames of Plainfield, was never better exemplified. Golden brown chicken, and plenty of it, in fact chicken in all delectable styles of serving, was placed before the throng. In fact so excellent was the cuisine, that today the Plainfield hens which survived the Friday invasion of axe-armed housewives, went high hat and refused to have anything to do with the duck and turkey families of the neighbors.

But that is not all. The sumptuous repast was but a tasty forerunner of the revelry and hilarity that followed. Opening a merry round of program entertainment were the melodic offerings of Harry Moorman and his quartet. Then, belts properly loosened, the Rotarians sat back and enjoyed a humorous quiz conducted by President Bert Howard. The climax came when the leaders of the four tables were requested to assume the role of circus barkers, with sound and histrionic effects. Rotarian Perc McGuire essayed the role of the sword swallower; Mac McLean portrayed, verbally, that is, the Tattooed Lady; Jack Marshall yodelled the part of the Fire Eater while Newt Thompson wriggled and tonsilled the difficult (for Newt) part of a Contortionist.

The result had the Rotarians in the proverbial stitches. The antics verbal and otherwise of the "barkers" won round after round of applause, but the Tattooed Lady as staged by Mac McLean won the prize. In fact Rotarian McLean's presentation of this colorful role needed nothing more than posing. And that is what he did.

Toast to Ladies

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Harry Croll, a gentleman of more than passing literary ability, who had the pleasure of hearing his own speech delivered by the good lady. Mrs. Croll, who responded to her husband's colorful eulogy to ladies in general and Rotary Annes in particular. Little did the genial Harry know as he toiled night after night producing the oratorical masterpiece which was the response to the toast, that he was selected as the voice of the men to the ladies.

Rotarian Mack Robertson proposed a vote of thanks to the Plainfield Women's Association of the United Church who provided the dinner. The Rev. Mr. Campbell, minister of the church, formally welcomed the guests, while Mrs. Campbell also spoke briefly.

Pinned to Ground By Fallen Branch, Aged Man Dies

Result of injuries and exposure suffered when he was pinned to the ground by the branches of a tree which he had fallen, Louis Duquette, 87, of Johnson's Corners, near Flinton, died at his home on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Duquette Tuesday evening had gone out to saw down a tree for firewood and when the tree fell its branches pinned him to the ground and he was unable to move. As the elderly man lived alone he was not missed until the following morning when his son found him still pinned beneath the tree. Dr. G. M. Dales, Tweed coroner, has been instructed to investigate the accident.

SEA CADET CORPS ATTENDS SERVICE

Members of the local sea cadet corps will hold a church parade on Sunday morning, it has been announced by Commanding Officer Zeran. Leaving the Armouries at 10:30 the cadets will march along Bridge Street to Coleman and then north to Catherine Street to Holloway Street Church for service.

EMPLOYEE OF BATA COMPANY BURNED

Employee of the Bata Shoe Company, Mr. Stan Regent, Batawa, suffered burns about the hands and face late Friday afternoon when it was reported a tank of inflammable liquid exploded. The injured man was attended by Dr. McMullen of Frankford and was later admitted to Belleville General Hospital where he is under the care of Dr. G. S. Cronk. It was reported that the burns were not serious.

Urges Children be Acquainted with All Occupations

The Home and School Association of Queen Mary School held Open House from seven-thirty till eight-thirty Friday evening, after which the regular meeting was held with Mrs. H. Croll presiding. A very fine program was presented for the entertainment of the guests. Miss Marion Corradi gave an exhibition of dancing, and grade seven pupils sang in chorus. A playlet "Sharing the Work" was very well presented by Jean Doig, Stanley Safe, Robert White and Loretta Wood.

The speaker of the evening was Vocational Guidance Counsellor Mr. Musgrove, who was introduced by Mr. Frederick, principal of the school. Mr. Musgrove said in part:—"Do you judge your child's report by that of the next child. Think of your child as somebody different from any other child. Look for the side that shines the most brilliantly."

Explaining that the work he is doing will eventually take in all grades, he stated it is the intention to keep a cumulative record of each child's progress through the different grades. Mr. Musgrove continued: "Get the pupils acquainted with all occupations, and help them decide the ones for which they are best suited." He said, "We must work first for the school and then for the community, as we help the children prepare themselves for jobs in their own city, when possible."

Mrs E. M. McDonald expressed appreciation for this fine address. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Mrs. S. Jones, Plainfield, Hurt In Car Accident

Mrs. Samuel Jones, age 42, of Plainfield, is in Belleville General Hospital in serious condition as result of a motor accident which occurred at Corbyville Friday evening when a truck loaded with gravel turned over on the highway and was struck by an oncoming vehicle.

Mrs. Jones was riding as passenger in her husband's car which was proceeding south and crashed into the northbound truck driven by Earl Way, R.R. 5 Belleville, as it turned over on a curve.

Driver of the auto, Mr. Jones, suffered arm, leg and facial injuries, while a daughter, Edna, age 13 years, sustained a broken right wrist and a son, Victor, age 17 years, suffered facial injuries. Three of the injured were rushed to hospital by Bush's and Martin's ambulances, but all but Mrs. Jones were later permitted to go home. Driver of the truck was uninjured.

Traffic Officer Sam Ervine who investigated the accident reported that both vehicles involved were badly wrecked while gravel from the loaded truck was scattered over the highway.

Dr. Ralph Bird rendered first aid at the scene of the accident.

Saturday Market

Prices held steady on the local produce market Saturday morning as apples and potatoes were offered in quantity.

First grade McIntosh, Delicious and Talman Sweet apples sold at $3 the hamper or at from 65 to 70 cents the six-quart basket, while cooking varieties were available at prices down to $1.75 and $2 the bushel.

On the vegetable market potatoes brought $1.50 the bag while carrots were 35 cents the basket, onions 40 to 50 cents, parsnips 50 cents the peck, and brussels sprouts 45 cents the quart. A few farmers still offered a few cauliflower up to 35 cents each; sauerkraut brought 15 cents the quart; cabbages a dime each and squash up to 20 cents each.

On the inside market eggs held steady at 50 cents for first with mediums being quoted at 45 cents. Fowl seemed fairly plentiful at from 38 to 40 cents per pound while capons fetched up to 45 cents per pound.

Several vendors offered whitefish on the outside market at 35 cents the pound, while pike sold at 25 cents.

Young pigs averaged around $7 each, while one farmer offered dry hardwood blocks sawed into stove lengths at $15 the cord.

Nomination Day Will Be Friday, November 22nd

Civic Nomination Day this year is Friday, November 22, and a meeting of the electorate of the city will be held in the council chambers, City Hall, on that day between the hours of 11 a.m. and 12 noon for the purpose of receiving nominations for the various offices, Returning Officer Wilfred Holmes announced today.

Nominations for the offices of mayor, aldermen, school trustees and public utilities commission will be received, the term of the mayor's office being one year, and two years each for aldermen, trustees and utilities commissioners.

This year sees a new departure in nomination activities. Formerly, nominations for the mayoralty were received between 10 and 11 a.m., while those of other offices were received between 12 noon and 1 p.m. The intervening period between 11 a.m. and 12 noon in former years was utilized by mayoralty candidates in addressing the electorate.

This year all nominations will be received between the hours of 11 a.m. and 12 noon. If addresses by candidates are in order, these will be delivered after the closing time for nominations.

Civic elections this year will take place on December 9, as new governmental regulations covering civic elections called for an interim period of fourteen days between nomination and election.

Obituary

ANGUS A. NICOLSON (Tweed)

Tweed, Nov. 16 (Special)—Angus A. Nicolson died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. A. McCarey, here on Thursday after an illness of one year's duration. He was in his 85th. year and was born in Madoc township, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Nicolson. He was a retired farmer and made his home in this village for the past ten years. In religion he was a member of the Presbyterian Church and fraternally he was an Orangeman and a member of the Order of Oddfellows for 25 years.

The late Mr. Nicolson was well known in the district and during his active years took much interest in municipal affairs, being Reeve of Madoc township for some years and served well as a member of the County Council. He was interested in the cheese industry and for fifteen years he was president of the Rose cheese factory.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. G. (Beatrice) Rutherford, Oshawa; Mrs. W. C. (Mary) Spry, Madoc, and Mrs. S. A. (Mildred) McCarey, Tweed; one son, Alex. Nicolson, Oshawa; nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from the home of his daughter in Tweed, and interment took place at Lakeview Cemetery, Madoc. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. Murdock.

Vice-presidents are: W. L. Graydon, M.C., and Woodrow Blakely; secretary, Douglas Calley; recording secretary, Vincent Gentil; treasurer, Finlay McArthur; executive directors, Lance Nethery, G. T. Walmsley, K.C., Sheriff H. J. Colliver, James Inrig, Arthur Miller; flag bearer, Robert Carter; standard bearer, Fred Howarth.

Bank of Montreal Staff Honors Retiring Manager

Members of the staff of the Bank of Montreal here paid signal honor to Mr. Thomas H. Dredge, branch manager for the past eight years, who is retiring from active duty with the bank at the end of the month, at a dinner party and dance held in the New Queens Hotel last night.

Featuring the function were presentations to Mr. and Mrs. Dredge by staff members. Mr. Dredge was the recipient of a handsome Sterling silver cigarette humidor while Mrs. Dredge graciously accepted a beautiful nosegay of blue, white and pink roses and baby 'mums.

Mr. Frank W. Bolus, of the accountancy staff in making the presentation to the retiring manager expressed happiness of the staff in that Mr. and Mrs. Dredge were remaining in Belleville.

Mr. Bolus briefly reviewed the successful banking career of Mr. Dredge and touched on the relationship between manager and staff during Mr. Dredge's eight-year tenure of office here.

Fair to Staff

"He was fair to his staff at all times and his amiable, even disposition in business relationships further strengthened the happy bond of association. His capacity for work was an example to his officers, and his sincerity in his dealings with the public was marked."

"He was quick to greet his customers whether on business or merely daily social exchanges. When he placed at the foot of his letters 'My Own Time' is at your disposal, he meant just that," Mr. Bolus said.

Presenting Mr. Dredge with the gift, Mr. Bolus said "On behalf of the staff, I am expressing the appreciation and thanks of all of us for many years of happy association. We have enjoyed working with you and this gift is but a small token of our esteem and affection. We wish you sir and Mrs. Dredge, and "Jock" your popular Scotty, many many years of happy retirement."

Presented With Bouquet

Miss Violet Osier, then presented Mrs. Dredge with the colorful floral nosegay on behalf of the staff. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dredge made brief addresses of appreciation.

Present at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Becker. Mr. Becker recently arrived from Renfrew and will assume managerial duties here, succeeding Mr. Dredge.

Dancing followed the dinner. Approximately 40 staff members and their wives were present.

British Empire Wrestling Crown Retained by Watson By Defeating Ivan Rasputin

Three Falls Needed Before Russian Succumbs to "Commando Hold"

That British Empire wrestling crown is still sitting jauntily on the noble brow of the Whipper William Watson, and all the efforts of the hairy husky Russky Ivan Rasputin to dislodge it in the main bout at the Hume Arena Friday night were as futile as a bee sting on a battleship.

The Whip had a rather strenuous evening at that before the short but wiry hair-covered Rasputin finally said "Uncle" and it took three falls to decide whether the rassle diadem would remain on the handsome poll of Mr. Watson, or hop across the ropes to grace the noggin of the Son of the Steppes.

However, the pride of East York and the Lawson Stable of Bigger Better and Handsomer Pachyderms, applied his now famous Commando hold when the proper moment arrived and that won him the first heat and set him back in the driver's seat in the third stanza after the little bear who toddles like a man had hugged the Whip to a count-out, in the midway session.

Fast and Furious

The bout was fast and furious at times and afforded the faithful plenty of action. Watson does not at any time indulge in the stalling tactics that several of the big bad boys do, but rather favors the quick rousing style that has made him a general favorite throughout wrestledom in this county and the United States.

Last night he found a foeman that favors his own style. The Rasputin is a long way from the novice stage in this form of mat calisthenics and he too believes in carrying the attack to the opposition rather than doing roly-polys on the canvas and yawning in prone positions while an excited populace shrieks to the referee to break it up.

But don't go yet. Don't imagine for a moment that the dapper scion of the Watson clan had things all his own way. The Russky had him in a bad way on several occasions with his bear-hugging tactics and on one occasion by way of diversion and showing that he is no respecter of persons he applied his clutching hold to the midriff of one M'sieu Ernie Powers, the referee until that worthy's tongue was swinging across his somewhat bulging equator like the pendulum of a grandfather's clock.

No Punches Pulled

The Russky did not pull his punches and slammed the Whip willy-nilly at times. But on occasions that was what the Watson wanted and the two stood toe-to-toe and after playing pat-a-cake for a moment or so slugged it out in style, with the Whipper usually being on his feet after the rapid exchange of elbow cuffs.

Rasputin was not averse at times to stepping on the champion's toes nor after heaving him to the canvas try to dribble him about the ring like a soccer football. He punched and slammed, booted and slugged whenever the opportunity presented itself, but when the Whip applied that Commando hold after twenty-two minutes of first-fall milling, he decided it was enough for the time being and the champ got the nod.

Rassy, however, came back strongly in the second heat and pinned the pride of the pewsters after a body slam. In the third heat Watson displayed his real championship form. He took all the foe had to give and surged to the attack to win the fall and match when his Commando hold again subdued divin' Ivan.

In the semi-final big Henry Piers, likeable Dutchman and Pat Boesche a newcomer here staged a flurry-durry of a bout with both men and they are big ones putting on a neat display.

Flanagan Wins Decision

Pat Flanagan and Shiek Emir Badui lithe agile wrestlers staged a highly entertaining preliminary with the crowd howling its approval of two clean aggressive matmen. The bout was fast with no draggy moments and Flanagan won a popular referee's decision after thirty minutes of good mat entertainment.

Kola Kwariani, giant Russian who was scheduled to meet Watson in the main bout, was injured in a previous match and could not appear. Rasputin moved up from the semi-final ranks to the main bout and Piers filled his slot in semi-go.

It is from the staff officers and instructors of this school that the members of this highly specialized mission have been picked, the object of the tour being a liaison visit in its most comprehensive sense. It is hoped that the mission will be afforded an opportunity to obtain first-hand information on armament problems in the countries visited, and to exchange views on all aspects of armament training.

The Lincoln aircraft "Thor II" is a more up-to-date aircraft than its predecessor — "Thor 1" — the "Lancaster" aircraft which recently toured the Middle East, Rhodesia, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. (These aircraft have been named after the god of war in Scandinavian mythology).

Carries Ten Tons.

The Lincoln embodies all the finer points of the Lancaster, and was designed to carry ten tons of bombs over the long distance involved in the war against Japan. The well-proven Mark XIV bombsight, which was used with such great effect in the offensive against Hitler's Europe, is installed in its nose-end; and notable amongst the other radar devices in the aircraft is H2S — one of the greatest wartime achievements of British science — which enables the crew to locate and bomb their target with remarkable accuracy on the darkest nights. This instrument throws on a screen in the aircraft a picture of the ground beneath, so that in complete darkness, or through dense cloud, the bomb-aimer can pick out the towns rivers, lakes and built-up areas over which he is flying and find the correct position for the release of the bombs.

Defended from Attack.

The aircraft is defended from attack by three power-operated multi-gun turrets, equipped with the famous gyroscopic gunsight so largely responsible for Allied air supremacy in the closing months of the European war. The tail turret (a Boulton & Paul Type-D) is, in addition, fitted with .5 calibre guns and a special radar blind-firing device. This device not only detects attacking aircraft when they are completely invisible to the human eye, but shows the gunner exactly where to aim his guns so as to shoot down the unseen enemy.

The mid-upper turret (the famous "Bristol 17") is fitted with two 20-millimetre cannon of immense hitting-power. The front turret ((Boulton & Paul Type-F) is remotely controlled by the bomb-aimer, who can fire the two .5 calibre guns without leaving his own comfortable compartment.

It is hoped that this aircraft will attract keen interest in Canada and the U.S. where many people will be given the opportunity of seeing for the first time some of the remarkable armament developments of the European air war.

Among our most cherished assets, something money cannot buy, the confidence and good will of those whom we have served. Therefore, it is our aim to serve all to the best of our ability at that time when our services are required.

"I wouldn't want to be any happier," says Mrs. Robert Fitzsimmons, 81, who saws wood, milks cows and does other farm chores on her farm near Markdale.

Bridge she built unaided using wooden rollers and a crowbar is 157 feet long across the Saugeen River which flows through narrow arches. Howard Graham calls attention to its fine workmanship.

More Scottish Than Scotland

(Ottawa Journal)

train in Sydney, Nova Scotia, recently, was greeted in Gaelic by Mayor Jock MacLean, found himself stumped. Said the Scottish peer: "I didn't know you spoke Gaelic in these parts." Said the Mayor: "Stick around awhile and we'll teach it to you."

A precedent was honored. When England's Scottish Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald landed in Nova Scotia some years ago and Nova Scotia's Scottish Premier Angus MacDonald hailed him in Gaelic, the Scottish Prime Minister could only answer in the tongue of the Sassenach.

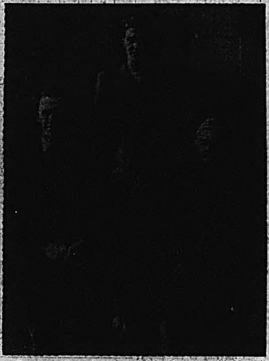
Thus the Scots of Nova Scotia, keeping alive through the years the memories and glories and the tongue of Scotland. In Antigonish you will find them, in Tignish and Ingonish, men and women who "have the Gaelic" and with a song in their hearts:

"From the lone shelling of the misty islands,
Mountains divide us and the waste of seas;
But the heart is young, the Higland blood is ardent,
And we in dreams behold the Hebrides."

And not only among the old. At St. Anne's, the spot where long ago Scottish settlers landed, there gathers each summer the descendants of the clans for their "Gaelic Mod." Then is heard again the call of the bagpipes, and the old tartars are brought out, and youngsters sing again in the old tongue the stirring songs of Scotland.

This past summer, at St. Anne's, the writer of these lines watched a "Gaelic Mod"; saw those people of Nova Scotia's sea and valleys in their Scottish dances, and heard their youth in Gaelic song, and saw their Angus MacDonald in kilt move proudly among them. Everywhere was pride, clean courage and self reliance, and with them the Scottish trait of reverence for tradition. Hard by, on a hillside, stood Cape Breton's Gaelic College.

We live in the day when "internationalism" is fashionable, when traditions and ancient moorings are at a discount, when men mumble about "one world." Yet reverence for old renown, even memoried sorrow, is not something to be despised. As expressed by these Scots of Nova Scotia—and of Glengarry and Zorra in Ontario—it is something to be admired.



Four generations are represented in this group with Mrs. Fitzsimmons — her son, Robert S. Fitzsimmons; granddaughter, Mrs. Angus Bowles and great grandson Brian Bowles.

Federal Offers Not Acceptable To Nova Scotia

Halifax, Nov. 16 — (CP)—Federal government financial proposals in their present form are not acceptable to the Nova Scotia government, Premier Angus L. Macdonald said in a statement today.

He added that the government now is preparing alternative proposals for submission to Federal authorities but gave no indication as to what the new provincial suggestion might be.

The premier's statement followed last night's caucus of Liberal party members.

"Neither the original proposals with their subsequent amendments nor the offer contained in Mr. Ilsley's budget speech are wholly satisfactory to the government of Nova Scotia," he said.

So far three provinces — New Brunswick, Manitoba and Saskatchewan—have reached agreement with the Dominion.

The agreements are to run for five years and will replace the 1942 wartime taxation agreements under which all provinces agreed to vacate the income and corporation tax fields in return for payments based on what they collected from taxes in 1941.

Mr. Macdonald did not say what proposals were unacceptable to Nova Scotia. As the Dominion offer stood in the last budget the provinces would agree to vacate the personal income tax field and in the corporation income tax field a uniform five-per-cent tax would be collected by the Dominion for the provinces. The government would pay the province $15 per capital depending on the value of overall national production.

Should Nova Scotia fail to come to terms with the Dominion government by the deadline at the end of this month, the province would be free to impose personal income tax.

Seven Americans Will Share in Nobel Awards

Stockholm, Nov. 16 —(AP)— Seven Americans known for work in science and in world organizations will share in this year's Nobel prizes.

The bulk of the awards were announced here and in Oslo Thursday and last night. They consist of interest from a $9,000,000 bequest of Alfred B. Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite, who died in 1896.

The $34,000 peace prize was split between Emily Green Balch, 79, Wellesley, Mass., economist and worker in international women's organizations, and Dr. John R. Mott, 81, Orlando, Fla., evangelist who has helped found five world federations.

The $34,000 literary prize was given to Herman Hesse, 69, who was born in Germany but now lives at Mintagnola, Switzerland.

The physics prize went to Dr. Percy Williams, Bridgman, 64, of Harvard University, for his invention of high-pressure apparatus and discoveries he made with it in high-pressure physics.

The chemistry prize was divided three ways. Half went to Dr. James B. Sumner, 58, of Cornell University for his discovery that enzymes, such as digestive juices, might be crystallized. The other half was split between Dr. John Howard Northrop, 55, and Dr. Wendell M. Stanley, 42, both of the Rockfeller Institute for Medical Research, Princeton, N.J., for preparing enzymes and virus proteins in pure form.

On Oct. 31, Dr. Herman J. Muller, 55, Indiana University geneticist, was chosen for the $35,205 medical prize for his discovery that X-rays may be used to produce mutations, or biological changes, in species.

Pilot 'Positive' Of Identity Of Wreckage

Burbank, Calif., Nov. 15—(AP) —A Western Airlines pilot reported today he was "positive" he had found the wreckage of one of the company's passenger planes which disappeared early Wednesday with 11 aboard, including three Canadian women. He said he sighted the big plane at Lebec, on the ridge route 50 miles north of here.

The pilot, Max Krall, was flying an Army training plane in the extended search for the missing airliner, which vanished when within three minutes of its home base after it had been granted permission to land at Lockheed air terminal.

"There were no signs of life", Krall said. "I distinctly saw the tail section of the plane. I'm sure it was ours.

Krall said on his return here that brush and scrub timber around the plane were "smouldering," leading to the supposition that the airliner had exploded and burned.

PARCEL POST SERVICE WITH POLAND

Probe Disposition Of $9,000 Raised For Gorlovka Fund

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 15 (CP) — The executive of the Sydney Steel Union went ahead Thursday with plans to investigate the disposition of $9,000 collected from steel workers for the wartime "Aid to Gorlovka Fund."

The executive was authorized at a union meeting to obtain from the Russian Embassy in Ottawa details of the campaign during the war to aid the Russian steel city.

The money, collected under a plan whereby Canadian workers adopted Russian cities during the war, still lies in a Sydney bank awaiting claim by the Embassy. Last communication received from the Soviet representative regarding the matter was in September, 1945.

Mild Weather And Fuel

Everyone knows that mild weather does lessen the worry of heating homes as well as reducing the amount of coal and wood and other fuel consumed. But it is satisfying also to have an official statement to support one's own views. This has come from Ottawa from the Deputy Fuel Controller, at Ottowa, who says that the situation has much eased the winter problem of the Dominion with dealers having had the opportunity to stock up their yards. The minds of customers have been thereby eased. The slack due to seamen's strike last summer has been about taken up by lake shipping, thanks to the warm weather.

These are real advantages to users of coal and wood and there are others too. The task of looking after heating has lessened. Less coal burned, less ashes to take out and less clinkers to rake and carry out for the garbage collectors and less of this refuse for these men to take to the dumps for disposal.

Incidentally there is the other question of some saving in the cost of heating.

Tourist Trade Volume

Speaking in the United States, the land, from which most of Canada's tourist visitors come in the touring season, Canadian Travel Bureau chief Leo Dolan forecast that the total flux of U. S. visitor tourists into Canada this year would be about 28 per cent over last year's figures and that they will have spent over $200,000,000 in Canada. Every part of Canada knows that there was a great volume of visitors during the past months and will be pleased to know that their opinion is now substantiated by Mr. Dolan.

The outlay of over a fifth of a billion dollars by these guests from the neighboring Republic is a proof of the amount of travel. At the same time it points to even better and bigger tourist seasons when Canada will have articles to sell in greater quantity that she had this year because of shortages.

This cross-border visiting of Canadians and Americans is of great importance in the relations of the two peoples. It means a great deal to international relationship in North America. On this point Mr. Dolan added the significant remark, "if in our hopes and in our ambitions we can foster upon this continent, by means of travel, a friendship so enduring and so genuine, may we not express the fervent hope that peoples of other lands, torn by dissension and distrust will see this example and gain some measure of confidence in one another because of this record of achievement which has been ours."

Canadians in visiting the United States have done their share towards this mutual visiting in North America. It is estimated that they will spend by the end of this year in travel outside the Dominion, most of it in the United States, $120,000,000, an even greater amount per capita.

Such interchange by visits over the border helps in broadening experience and knowledge of peoples who visit one another as Canadians and Americans do.

New "Brain" Machine

Britain is building a mechanical "Brain" machine which will be the most remarkable of its kind in the world.

Experts of the National Psysical Laboratory at Teddington, England, who are responsible for the invention and costruction of this machine, say that it will solve in a few seconds problems which it would take a team of mathematicians years to work out.

This automatic brain, which is called the "Ace (Automatic Computing Engine), will be able to cope by itself with all the abstruse problems for which it is designed. It will, for instance, be able to tackle simultaneous equations with 50 or 100 unknowns.

The potentialities of the Ace are most clearly seen by comparison with the Eniac (Electrical Numerical Integrator and Computer), the amazing new U. S. "Brain" machine.

The Ace will work at the speed of Eniac or possibly higher, and will have a memory capacity greater than that of the U. S. invention—75,000 decimal digits compared with 200.

By means of an exhaustive library of prefabricated instruction contained on specially punched cards, the United Kingdom machine will also be able to deal with more complex instructions.

The organization of these prefabricated instructions will obviate the laborious system of plugs and switches employed in Eniac, and it is here that the scientists of the Mathematics Division of the National Physical Laboratory feel that they have made an important new conrtbution.

The instructions may take a couple of minutes compared to a couple of hours on Eniac.

The numbers are represented by a series of ones and noughts, and answers will be given in the decimal system. The machine will multiply two 10 figure numbers in two-thousandths of a second.

Typical problems on which it will be possible to employ the Ace are: the construction of range tables involving the calculation of trajectories by small arcs for various different muzzle velocities and quadrant elevations, the calculation of radiation from the open end of a rectangular wave guide, and the finding of the potential distribution outside a changed conducting cube.

The Ace will cost in the region of £100,000 to £125,000 ($400,000 to $500,000). The National Physical Laboratory considers it unlikely that other similar machines will ever be made, since so great is the speed at which it will work that this one machine by itself will be able to cope with all the exceedingly abstruse problems for which it is designed. Furthermore the United Kingdom scientists expect that further advances will probably enable them to produce machines designed to do even more than the Ace. It will take two or three years to build.

Leading the team working on the new "Brain" are Sir Charles Darwin, Dr. Turing (who conceived the idea of the Ace), Dr. Womersley and Professor Hartree.

$4,000,000 extension to Oxford University Bodleiam Library has just recently been opened by His Majesty the King. The extension has been in use since its completion in 1940, but war postponed its official opening for six years. Among the oldest libraries in existence the Bodleian Library, with its 1,500,000 volumes, rivals the world's finest. Throughout the years noted treasures have come into the possession of the Bodleian, such as the original copy of the First Folio of Shakespeare acquired in 1623, the Shelley collection, an Egyptian boy's letter of the second or third century, a second confirmation of Magna Carta (1217), the Bay Psalm Book, Chanson de Roland (12th century) and numerous other ancient volumes. The library also houses coin collections, drawings, models of old buildings, autographs, and paintings.

Portable boats for the sportsman seem to be a definite trend. A new one is made of plywood and weighs only eight pounds, complete with oars and locks. The boat is 10 feet long and will seat four people; it is quickly launched. Points where it folds are strengthened with synthetic rubber impregnated canvas to make it watertight says This Week Magazine.

The power of a free press to ferret out the truth was amply illustrated in the recent death of the King of Siam when, through the efforts of A.P. and Reuters correspondents, a medical commission was appointed and the death was attributed to assassination rather than suicide.

GRATEFUL SMILES

These the prettiest sights I've seen:
Smiles once more where pain has been;
The light of joy in loved ones' eyes,
Occasioned by some glad surprise.

In all the world no sight so fair
As that of one relieved of care;
Or children, dancing up and down,
O'er some new plaything brought from town.

Majestic mountains capped with snow,
Blue seas and ships that come and go
And autumn's landscapes glorious are,
But grateful smiles are lovelier far.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 16th., 1926.

Mr. Hugh Middlemiss of the J. J. Cash Company, is spending a few days in Kitchener on business.

Mr. Jack Deacon is home from Toronto to spend the weekend.

Miss Madeline McElrath and Miss Gyneth Arnott will spend the weekend in Toronto.

An orchestra has been organized at the Belleville High School and will be under the direction of H. L. Thomas of the teaching staff. The following will compose the orchestra: H. L. Thomas, trombone; Tom Byrne, banjo; Harry Sprague, violin; Robert Orr, violin; Lee Fletcher, banjo; Bill Farrell, cornet; Arthur Jones, cornet; Laurison Kelly, traps; Ethel Adams, piano.

Mrs. Reg. Bumstead of this city is visiting relatives in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodley, Moira Street West, entertained a number of friends last evening. Progressive five hundred was greatly enjoyed.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 16th., 1916.

Mr. W. B. Riggs has sold his extensive piano and musical instrument business to the C. W. Lindsay Company.

During last night a fair amount of snow fell and as a result a few cutters and sleighs were about the streets today.

There is considerable talk of of forming a hockey league here this season.

In a carpet ball match last evening the Sons of England team defeated the Alpha team by four points. The following composed the teams: Alpha—B. Kelly, J. Robinson, H. Emlaw, F. Naylor, R. Gross and B. O. Frederick; Sons of England—P. K. Fisher, Capt. Ruston, H. Lennox, W. Bennett, C. Sutton and J. Pratt. The referee was Beecher Doolittle and he gave entire satisfaction to both teams.

The following are the delegates from this city to the meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario which will meet in Hamilton shortly: Mayor H. F. Ketcheson, H. W. Ackerman, C. M. Reid, Fred S. Deacon, W. N. Ponton, Ald. W. B. Deacon, and John Elliott.

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 16th., 1906.

Mr. F. Musgrove of Toronto is spending a few days in town.

Mrs. John Perkins has returned home from Fulton, N.Y., where she visited friends.

The hunters who went from this city to the haunts of the fleet-footed deer have nearly all returned home. They report deer as not being plentiful and other game also scarce.

According to the report of experts this county has some of the finest marble quarries in the world. The Princess Quarry Company, it is said, has 800 acres of the finest marble ever quarried, just two miles from Bancroft on a spur line of the Canadian Ontario Railway Company. One quarry of pink marble has a sheer dip of 95 feet, another of yellow and brown marble runs 125 feet. There is also a great quantity of white marble.

Mr. Wesley McCreary returned to Winnipeg today after visiting his parents here.

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 16th., 1896.

Mr. Louis Benmore will leave tomorrow for Southern California where he will spend the winter.

Miss Katharine L. Ward, A.T.C.M., will leave this evening for New York City where she will enter upon a career as a professional vocalist. Her beautiful voice and musical talents warrant her many friends in believing that she will win her way to success. The best wishes of many citizens go with her.

Mr. John A. Forin, an old Belleville boy, son of Mr. John Forin of this city has been appointed County Judge at Rossland, B.C.

Merchants report that the beautiful weather which we are enjoying is not good for business.

Mr. J. Earl Halliwell, Stirling, was in town today.

Captain and Mrs. Sewell left today for Quebec City.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Is alcoholic content greater by weight than by volume?

The alcoholic content of a beverage is about one-tenth of one per cent less when the percentage is based on weight than when based on volume. Beer having five per cent of alcohol by volume would have about four and five-tenths percent by weight, and liquor containing forty-five percent alcohol by weight would contain about fifty percent by volume.

What became of Montenegro?

Montenegro is the name of a district in the northwestern Balkan penninsula. The name is Italian and literally means "Black mountain," "Crna Gora," also signifying "black mountain," is the Serbo-Croat name.

It is a mountainous, inaccessible region with an area of only about 3,733 square miles and a population of about 200,000. Cetinje, the capital, is a own of only about 5,000 inhabitants.

For centuries, under the Serbian and Turkish empires, Montenegro was a virtually independent principality. In 1910 Nicholas I of Montenegro assumed the title of King. During the First World War the tiny Balkan kingdom was captured by the Austrians and after that war it was absorbed by and became an integral part of Yugoslavia. Alexander, the first king of Yugoslavia, was a son of Peter of Serbia. Serbia dominated Yugoslavia at first and her royal family gained the ascendency at the expense of the royal family of Montenegro. In 1941 a national assembly at Cetje proclaimed Monjenegro's independence and her entrance into the "Italian orbit of influence," but nothing came of the movement.

What are eyestones?

Eyestones are various small smooth objects that were commonly used by the "medicine women" of former generations to remove foreign substances from the eye. One of the favorite objects for this purpose was the 'operculum" of a small marine shell. This is merely a small lens-shaped piece of calcareous shell that was inserted under the lid of the eye, usually in the inner corner. The eyestone generally works its way across the eye and out of the outer corner often carrying the foreign matter in the eye with it."

ONE MAN SLAIN

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Uneasy quiet settled today over the May Pen section near Kingston after one man was slain and scores injured Thursday when Jamaica's troubled unemployment situation boiled up and over.

Reinforced squads of police kept a constant watch at May Pen, an agricultural esate area 40 miles from the Jamaican capital, where members of the Bustamante Industrial Trades Union clashed with police called in to quell disorders which broke out during a B.I.T.U. meeting.

Board Chairman Warns Against Relaxing Controls

Ottawa, Nov. 16 (CP)—Canada had a warning today from Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, that relaxation of government controls would hit severely at the public.

Sharp advances in living costs, "near-chaos" in shelter and nose-dives in employment and income were predicted by the prices chief as the probable consequences of uncontrolled prices and rents.

Mr. Gordon spoke last night over a nation-wide network of the CBC in the last of a series of five talks on the facts of price control. He told the country that the decision on continuance of controls rests with the people, rather than with the government.

If people lost interest in maintaining controls, he said, it would not be difficult to break them down. The policy of control could be continued only "if it commands widespread public support."

If Canadians decided on an uncontrolled economy, Mr. Gordon said, they must be prepared to "accept sudden or sharp advances in prices of many necessities, and a condition of near-chaos in the field of shelter.

"We must also be prepared to take the very serious risk—in my view, it is a certainty—of a following slump in prices, in employment, in income, and especially in farm income."

Mr. Gordon said he believed the removal of controls from practically all United States commodities and services was bound eventually to have a marked effect on this country. But he held that it was still possible for Canada to avoid the "sharply inflationary and subsequent deflationary adjustments" evident in the U.S.

Continued price control, he declared, would enable Canada to adjust herself to conditions below the border.

Cattle Stampede At Winter Fair Narrowly Averted

Toronto, Nov. 16 (CP) — A stampede of more than $1,000,000 worth of blue-blooded beef on the hoof was narrowly averted at the Royal Winter Fair last night while an unsuspecting 10,000 spectators at the horse show ring waited the arrival of the parade of livestock on the tan bark. The incipient stampede was quickly nipped and only one man, Don Curl of Ajax, Ont., suffered injuries to his knee when floored by the cattle.

"There was nothing but horns and noses crowding my back," said Bill Hoarse, a herdsman from Pickering, Ont. He was leading one of the prize-winning cattle to the horse ring when the incident occurred.

Along winding corridor from the cattle stalls to the horse ring, running behind the main stands at the ring, was the scene of the difficulties. A chicken-coop obstacle used in the horse ring clattered to the cement floor just as the high-strung champs of the livestock on display at Royal Winter Fair passed in procession on the way to the ring.

There was momentary chaos and several of the animals got away from their guards, pushing, jostling and wheeling. Men were knocked to the floor.

Quick-thinking on the part of experienced herdsmen soon brought order and the cattle were led into the ring to the cheers of the thousands there who were unaware of what might have been.

St. John Ambulance authorities, in charge of the first aid station at the fair, administered quick treatment to Curl's injured knee.

Chinese National Assembly Called Into Session

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, Nov. 16—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek called the National Assembly into session today as the boycotting Communist delegation hinting that China's peace hopes were sunk, packed its bags to leave Nanking.

The departing Communist leader, Gen. Chou En-Lai, said darkly that the government's "unilateral decision" to go ahead with the Assembly would send civil warfare — flaming in North China — blazing higher than ever.

While the Communists and the Democratic League stuck to a decision not to send delegates, the Generalissimo stood before the Assembly and hailed it as the beginning of constitutional government for China.

SENATOR TO DEFEND ACCUSED

Merritton, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Senator J. J. Bench, St. Catharines lawyer, will defend Bernen Nixon, it was announced by the Nixon Trust Fund Committee. The committee is raising funds for the defence of Nixon, who is charged with assault following the shooting of N. S. and T. motorman Peter Wirt. Nixon was this week given a further remand of a week in jail.

MODERN TREATMENT OF HERNIA

Two hundred sixty-eight of my last 2,000 hernia patients had had from one to four operations, reports a physician who has great skill and success in the modern (ambulant) treatment of hernia (rupture, breach), that is, the injection method, which is a series of injections given in the physician's office, generally with little or no pain or discomfort, at intervals of several days or a week, for ten times more or less according to the conditions in the individual case, and without detaining the patient from his or her ordinary occupation or everyday activities.

If 268 out of 2,000 patients under ambulant treatment has already undergone the radical operation (some of them more than once) it is fair to assume, is in not, that hernia surgery is not all it is cracked up to be.

In the British Medical Journal Dr. Bennett-Jones of London reported that in 42 infants and young children three months to five years old only one injection was required to cure small naval (umbilical) hernia in 26 cases, two injections were required in eleven cases, and three or more injections were necessary in five cases.

One physician who has given ambulant treatment with uniform success for many years finds that white collar workers are the best patients because they co-operate and follow the physician's instructions better than industrial workers. I don't quite understand, but this physician seems to think some industrial employees are keen on a hernia operation because they will receive it at company expense and besides draw eight weeks of disability pay! Whereas the ambulant treatment of hernia no disability or loss of time from work. I still can't believe any one would deliberately submit to hernia operation if there is a reasonable chance that injection treatment would cure the hernia.

In some States the industrial commissions permit the employee to choose injection treatment if he prefers it—among them New York, Illinois, California, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Pennsylvania. The Minnesota Industrial Commission reported eight years ago that the modern method was used in 90 per cent of all industrial hernias in Minnesota.

So you see folks and old fogy one-track operators, the injection treatment of hernia is at least as successful as radical operation is and besides it is a good deal safer.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Boy Spurns Milk

Son, three, will not drink milk. He is never sick eats plenty of fruits and vegetables, but spurns milk. Shall I stop putting sugar cocoa etc., in his milk or what should I do? (Mrs. W.K.F.)

Answer— Don't serve any milk for a few days. Then offer him some plain milk in half pint bottle with two straws to drink it through.

GREASE

Have using vaseline on face daily under powder to prevent chafing. No M. Told it would grow hair on my face. (C.F.)

Answer—It will not. Send 25 cents (clean) and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "Save Your Skin."

Sun Lamp

Do you approve of the use of sunlamps? I have in mind buying a sun lamp for $30. (V.H.)

Answer — Harmless enough. Next best thing to exposure to sunlight itself.

Calories

What is the caloric value of potato skin? Artichokes? Iced milk? (H.H.B.)

Answer—Potato skin itself has no caloric value, but skins of baked potato are healthful food and should generally be eaten with the potato. Potato yields 440 calories per pound. Artichokes 365 calories per pound. Milk iced or any other way, 160 calories per large glass (half pint).

Deepest Man-Made Hole in the World

Texas supplies the answer to the correspondent who asks how far into the earth the oil hunters have sent a drill. The record of 16,655 feet was made in Brazos County, and the result was a dry hole that must have cost much more than the $1,000,000 mentioned the other day as a fair estimate of the high cost of deep exploration. For those who do not care to hunt for Brazos among the more than 250 counties of Texas, it should be said that it lies about 95 miles east of Austin. It may be added that the Texas spirit only shrugs off the disappointment of a notable duster, but it turns the failure to account by boasting that there the State has the deepest man-made hole in the world.

No one can say to what depth it might be possible to drive a well a subject on which according to the Independent Monthly of the oil trade, there has been much speculatioin in the industry. But the search for oil has gone on continually deeper ever since Drake drilled the first well near Titusville, Pa. In 1859 he convinced the scoffers and set a vast industry on its way by going down 69 1-2 feet. As recently as 1920 a 3,000-foot well was considered deep but in the '30s improved machinery increased the range to 10,000, a distance since frequently surpassed.

Tradition says Drake probably would have gone deeper had he not lost his drill, a misfortune that never has ceased to plague his followers. It seems the bit fell into a crevice in the rock, and while the derrick crew was trying to improvise a method of fishing for it, the oil rose and began to flow over the ground. Drake then decided to worry no more, to accept the 25 barrels a day which nature was delivering At the end of a year that first first venture was running 15 barrels a day without aid of pumping —no gusher, but a steady source of income and an inspiration to the prospectors who moved in on north-western Pennsylvania.

Two important conditions in deciding the depth to which wells will be drilled are pointed out by the magazine, which remarks that they often are overlooked. One is that oil and gas are not found in the igneous rock which geologists sometimes call the basement. Drillers stop when they reach it, whatever the depth.

The other that oil found at great depth is not likely to be in a form satisfactory to production. Often it has been found so affected by the great pressure it has supported as to be about as serious a disappointment as an ordinary dry well.

Pressure and heat at the greater depths have at times handicapped drillers, but metallurgists have come to their help by improving their equipment. It doubtless would be possible, with modern machinery to go to 20,000 feet. But the drillers who attempted it would have to be strong in the faith that they were not going to strike granite and that what oil they found would be, in quality as well as quantity worth the cost.

The new process of extracting gasoline from natural gas, at an average of little more than four gallons from 1,000 feet, is estimated to make available, in the proved gas reserves, about 560,000,000,000 gallons of engine fuel.

That should not effect opinion about the total motor supply. It merely raises a question as to what is the most economical use of natural gas. At that point the coal interests always speak up, as they did the other day when they reminded the Federal Power Commission that distribution of huge volumes of gas was cutting into their markets.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Sees The Little Sparrow Fall" and the Benediction.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop started to eat his breakfist fast, saying to ma, I've got an erly appointment, I didn't even have time to shave.

Oh, that accounts for your face, ma said, and pop said, I'll have to skip out of the office to the barber shop and let Adolf shave me, and gosh how I dread it.

But my goodness. I always thought it must be a wonderful relaxed pleasure to lie back in a comfortable chair and let an expert barber shave you, ma said, and pop said, Adolf is no expert, my dear. He's short sighted and heavy handed and his razor is always too dull to cut whickers but sharp enough to nick your skin, and he has a nerviss affliction that makes his hand shake at every stroke, and he's got a way of steadying himself by keeping hold of my nose so I cant breethe. I'm afraid I'm in for a dangerous and unpleasant 20 minutes, pop said.

But is this Adolf the only barber in the shop for land sakes? ma said, and pop said, Oh no, there are half a dozen barbers but I wouldn't get into anybody's chair but Adolf's. When you see me this evening my face will probably be ruined, but there's no way out of it, he said.

Now William why are you so silly as to submit to sutch butchery if the man is as bad as you say? ma said, and pop said, Because when the other barbers shave me they trim my few remaining hairs and my eyebrows with a few flicks of their scizzors and throw it in with the shave, but Adolf always looks at me with a straight face and tells me I'm badly in need of a hair cut, and it invaribly makes me feel 15 years younger and sets me up for the rest of the day Well, you might have a little soothing lotion reddy for me when I get home, he said

And he quick finished his last cup of coffee and left for his office.

What Drivers Want in The New Car

(Toronto Financial Post)

Next to woman, North American man seems to find the automobile his most engrossing possession and next to woman it makes the biggest claim on his income.

We have become convinced of the foregoing since the editor of our department, "In Your Opinion," innocently stumbled into what we shall call a hornet's nest. He queried a score of Canadians as to what changes they would like to see in their motor cars in the next five years and that stimulus to public discussion has stimulated a flow of comment both passionate and extensive.

To summarize in a sentence the hopes and wishes of these commentators: They want fewer of their car dollars to go into fancy work and more of their car dollars to go into reducing annoyances and expenses.

Here goes on some of the comments:

"Too vunerable" for traffic and parking lots is the most frequent complaint. Front and rear bumpers are becoming increasingly elaborate and effective, but cars are becoming increasingly vulnerable to bumps on corners and sides. Running boards used to serve a secondary function as protection for bodywork. Now they are gone. Sideway bumps that would have done $2 damage to a running board may now involve a $200 job to body work.

On this batch of comment, No. 1 wish is for some structural and design development which will eliminate or minimize the perpetual—and, for urban drivers—inevitable annoyance, bother and expense of fixing scratched and bashed fenders.

Another driver wants better radiators. He wants a cooling system that works well in Canadian weather something that will last longer and develop leaks less readily. His hope is that the engineers can free him of the wintertime bother of antifreeze.

Another complainant pleads for less money spent on chromium decoration and more money spent on better accessories. Better windshield wipers are one request. Wipers that don't slow down or quit when you are accelerating fast, hence when you need them most, are requested. Automatic windshield washers are another hope.

We were also interested in comments protesting the enforced concentration of wear on the upholstery of the driver's seat. The seat underneath the wheel gets 90 per cent of the wear in most cars. That place gets shabby and soggy while oter three or five places remain fresh and resilient. Why not make it possible to interchange places, distribute wear? Particularly in coupe and coach models, drivers commenting to us are convinced this would be easy to accomplish.

Much of the comment, it seems to us stems from enforced wartime experience with old cars. Almost any one-or-two-year-old car is a mechanical and aesthetic wonder. Thousands of drivers who keep close to current models never until now tasted the trials of mechanical old age.

It is to the credit of the auto engineers and designers that the "complaints" are almost all limited to the comparatively minor things. The complainants don't talk about the engine life or performance, transmission or bodywork—the three basic things that result in mankind being able to sit down and get places.

But our mail recently hints strongly that there is a nice market for the designer who still keeps trouble and bother-free in big letters at the top of his list.

MOBILE UNIT IN SERVICE

New York, Nov. 14 —(AP)— A new $15,000 mobile hospital unit of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will go into service here this month. The unit is a truck and trailer combination 45 feet long, equipped with iron lung, its own electric generator and complete devices for emergency treatment. It will be based in the Bronx, but the Foundation will use it wherever needed.

Heavier Gift Parcels for U.K.

A brighter Christmas for the overseas relatives and friends of Canadians is envisaged by Canadian post office authorities, who announced that this year heavier gift parcels may be mailed. In addition the specially reduced postage rates still apply to mail for the armed services.

The public is urged to mail Christmas parcels for overseas as early as possible. For letters and parcels to the Continent Nov. 18 is the closing date. Parcels to the United Kingdom should be sent by Nov. 25, and letters by Dec. 2.

Gift parcels weighing up to 20 pounds now may be sent to individuals in the United Kingdom. There no longer is any restriction on the quantity of any one food which may be sent in such a parcel, and these parcels no longer are restricted to one a month from a sender to the same addressee. The articles are subject to British customs regulations.

Total value of the contents of parcels sent either to the United Kingdom or other countries without an export permit must not exceed $25.

Postal officials urge mailers to pack parcels firmly in strong corrugated containers, wrapped in several folds of thick wrapping paper and tied with strong twine.

CONGENITAL SYPHILIS CASES

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP) — Of the approximately 265,000 births in Canada every year, there are about 500 reported cases of congenital syphilis, a Health League of Canada report said yesterday.

WEDDINGS

WHITE—PFIEFER

At nine-thirty o'clock on the morning of Nov. 6, St. Peter's rectory, Trenton, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Miss Aileen Edith Pfeifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pfeifer, Lorne Ave., Trenton, became the bride of Mr. James Keith White, son of Mr. Robert White and the late Mrs. White, Toronto, with Rev. Father Lamarche officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length grey-blue crepe dress with draped front and sequin-trimmed sleeves, silver sequined headdress, shoulder-length veil and corsage of Talisman roses. She carried a prayer book, with shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and petal pink carnations.

Miss Beatrice Pfeifer, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore a street-length fuchsia crepe dress, gold sequined headdress and matching shoulder veil, and carried a Colonial nosegay of yellow Talisman roses and pink baby 'mums.

Mr. James Holmes, of Trenton, performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Dutch Mill Inn, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion with lavender and white carnations. In a reception at her home the bride's mother received the guests in a grey crepe ensemble with black accessories and black ostrich-plumed hat. She wore a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The tea table was most attractive with its beautiful lace cloth centred with a bowl of white baby 'mums, flanked by tall ivory tapers in silver candelabra. Toasts were proposed to the bride and groom, and to the bride's parents who were celebrating their 27th wedding anniversary, and also the anniversary of her grandparents wedding.

Mr. Clayton Maxwell rendered the very appropriate solos, "If You Were the Only Girl", and "The End of a Perfect Day".

For a wedding journey to Montreal, Que., the bride donned a two-piece suit of hunter's green, with three-quarter length top-coat, alligator shoes and matching bag.

Out-of-town guests were from Coe Hill, Brockville, Toronto, Brampton, Oshawa and Sudbury.

Mr. and Mrs. White will reside in Trenton.

New Soapless VEL
Outcleans, Outlasts Suds
by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

As a result of constant home tests, my enthusiasm for soapless VEL is mounting daily. At first, like you perhaps, I thought VEL was strangely different. But now that I understand it, I think it's wonderful.

MAKES SUDS UNNECESSARY "FROTH"

Soapless VEL is a fine white granulated powder which acts quite differently from soap flakes or soap powders. The big difference is in the suds. VEL makes plenty of frothy suds, even in cool or hard water, but these suds are quite unlike soap suds. Actually suds are unnecessary to Vel's cleaning action. With soap, heavy suds are essential for cleaning, but not so with VEL.

MAKES THE WATER WORK

When VEL'S frothy suds subside it's extraordinary cleaning power continues in the almost clear water. You'll actually see particles of dirt in your clear water which VEL has so ably removed from your clothes or dishes.

VEL IS NEW—MODERN

So let's get away from the old-fashioned idea that lasting suds are necessary. Now that soapless VEL is here, this modern cleanser quickly cuts grease and makes china and glassware sparkle because it leaves no soapy film. VEL is such a gentle cleanser that it can be used with perfect safety for delicate lingerie, woolens, baby clothes and nylons—and it is very kind to the hands.

NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR SOAP

VEL is not a substitute for soap and should not be compared with soap. It is a so-called "detergent" which is winning widespread popularity with those who use it correctly. 16-V-6D

"VEL" is a registered trademark of the COLGATE-PALMOLIVE-PEET CO. LTD.

YOUNG—FLETCHER

On the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 8, at half-past three o'clock, in the Presbyterian Manse, Trenton, Roberta Ethel Fletcher, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fletcher, Glace Bay, N.S., became the bride of Donald Blake Young, son of Mr. Blake Young and the late Mrs. Young, Carrying Place, Ont., with Rev. R. C. MacLean officiating.

The bride made an attractive appearance in a street-length dress of pale blue wool with matching accessories, her only ornament being a gold locket. She wore a corsage of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Keith Young, was matron-of-honor, in a rose wool dress with matching accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

The groom's brother, Mr. Elmer Young, performed the duties of groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Keith Young, Carrying Place, where the rooms were decorated with pink and white streamers, and a huge white wedding bell was suspended from the centre of the ceiling. Mrs. Young received the guests in a two-piece grey crepe dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Ted Young presided over the silver tea service at a table made lovely with a lace cloth centred with a beautifully decorated three-tier wedding cake. Mrs. Young wore a two-piece dress of American Beauty wool, with matching accessories. During the tea hour the groom responded to a toast to the bride proposed by Mr. Blake Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Young were the happy recipients of many telegrams of congratulations and good wishes.

Following a wedding journey to Buffalo, N.Y., they will reside at 125 Howland Ave., Toronto.

BURLEY—TWIDDY

Chrysanthemums and potted ferns decorated Holloway St. United Church, Belleville, for the marriage at eleven o'clock, on the morning of November 6, of Phyllis Jean Twiddy, daughter of Mrs. P. A. Twiddy and the late Mr. Paul Twiddy, to Charles Alexander Burley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Burley, Bloomfield, Ont., with Rev. C. A. Perkins officiating.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Lyle Twiddy, the bride entered the church to wedding music played by Mr. Wm. Connor, looking very attractive in a floor-length gown of white satin and lace, her long veil falling gracefully from a floral headdress. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by Miss Mabel Cross, as maid-of-honor, gowned in heavenly blue sheer, with matching shoulder-length veil. The bridesmaids were Miss June Bloor, and Miss Doris Burley, sister of the groom, wearing similar gowns of pink taffeta, with matching shoulder-length veils; the flowers for all three attendants being bouquets of pink carnations.

The junior bridesmaid was Miss Lorna Hinchey, wearing a dress of yellow silk jersey, with matching shoulder-length veil, and carrying a nosegay of yellow baby 'mums.

Mr. Carl Brethour, of Belleville, performed the services of groomsman; and the ushers were Mr. Harold Burley and Mr. Bertrand Twiddy.

During the reception at the Hotel Quinte, Mrs. Twiddy was assisted in receiving the guests by the groom's mother, Mrs. E. Burley, and by the bride and groom. Mrs. Twiddy was in a teal-blue gown, with black accessories, and Mrs. Burley wore a black ensemble with matching accessories.

For travelling to Toronto and other western towns the bride donned a suit of olive green, with black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Burley will later take up residence in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Picton, Deseronto, St. Thomas, Plainfield, Wallbridge and Wellington.

Teachers' Federation Holds School Meeting

A meeting of the Teachers' Federation was held in Massassaga School, the guests of Mr. Roy Dulmage and Mrs. D. Garrison on Tuesday evening with 26 present.

The meeting was opened by repeating The Lord's Prayer, after which minutes and treasurer's reports were read and adopted. It was decided to send for blank sheets on Bureau of Information and to have the teachers' list checked for those not receiving Couriers. Miss. Elizabeth Redner gave out a sheet to married teachers regarding Income Tax, and Miss Vera Pyne went over a questionnaire on salary schedules.

The next meeting will be held at S.S. No. 4 Ameliasburg, the guests of Miss Mildred Corke on January 14, at 8 p.m. Those on the program committee are Miss Corke, Mrs. Lovett, Miss Redner and Mr. Chard.

Mr. Dulmage extended a cordial welcome to all, and took charge of the following program. The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Macklem, I.P.S., of South Hastings. He illustrated the pronunciation of some tricky words, which proved very interesting. In reference to salaries, he stated that in Edmonton, Elementary School Teachers receive the same salary as those who teach in High Schools. In British Columbia, teachers of schools in remote areas receive a higher salary than those in urban centres.

Mrs. Diamond and Mrs. Garrison each conducted a quiz. Much interest was shown around the book display from the Clarke Irwin Co. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Refreshments were served and a social time was had by all. A vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. Garrison and Mr. Dulmage for their hospitality. The collection amounted to $3.05.

42nd Anniversary Of Auxiliary Is Observed

In the Y.M.C.A. auditorium on Tuesday evening the members of the local division of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers celebrated the forty-second anniversary of the institution of this order in Belleville.

At six-thirty a delightful banquet was served, the conveners being Mrs. H. Brown and Mrs. L. Grey. The tables were decorated with maple leaves pink carnations, the emblem of the order, red candles in silver candelabra and a birthday cake, which was donated by a past-president.

After the banquet a short toast list, in charge of the president, Mrs. W. A. Morgan, was followed, interspersed with speeches and community singing. Responding to "The King" the National Anthem was sung with Mrs. J. Reid at the piano. Among other toasts was one proposed to the only remaining charter member of the organization, Mrs. W. R. Taylor, who graciously responded to this tribute.

Cards were played during the evening, Mrs. J. Hart being the convener for this part of the entertainment. Prizes were given for the highest scores. Altogether, the "Birthday Party" proved to be another successful social event of the Autumn season.

Mrs. G. Cummings Honored by Shower

A miscellaneous shower was held Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. George (Bud) Cummings, nee Helen Johnson, at the home of Miss Hazel Corby, Railway Terrace.

The evening was spent playing bingo, and with contests, prizes being distributed to the winners.

Later Miss Corby presented a beautifully decorated basket of interesting packages to Mrs. Cummings, on behalf of the assembled friends. After opening the parcels, Mrs. Cummings expressed appreciation for the gifts.

Mrs. Corby, and Miss Hazel Corby served delicious refreshments with the assistance of Mrs. Richard Parm, of Cannifton, bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

V.O.N. to Hold Toxoid Clinic At Kiwanis Centre

Continuing the program of immunization, there will be a toxoid clinic held next Thursday, November 21, under the auspices of the Victorian Order of Nurses at their quarters in the Kiwanis Centre. This will be under the direction of Dr. G. S. Cronk, Medical Health Officer, who stresses the importance of mothers bringing their pre-school age children to the clinic in order to safeguard them against diseases which it is needless for them to have if proper precautions are taken. Mothers are advised to be present with their little ones at three-thirty in the afternoon.

On the same day, there will be a Dental Clinic at three o'clock, in charge of Dr. Jack Marshall, who has devoted much time over a period of several years to this clinic where mothers may receive advice regarding the dental health of their children, a vital factor in their general health in the years to come.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

CANNIFTON UNITED W.A.

The November dinner meeting of the Woman's Association of Cannifton United Church was in charge of Mrs. Harry Tweedy and Mrs. Harry Pound the tables being effectively arranged for the serving of a very delicious meal.

At half past two o'clock in the afternoon the President, Mrs. Harry Farnham, opened the meeting proper. Following a hymn and prayer, Mrs. Furmidge led in a devotional service, and also rendered an appropriate solo.

During the short business period it was decided to buy books for the choir and new hymn books for the church.

Members were delighted to have Mrs. Trumpour present at this meeting, when quilting was the order of the day. One quilt being completed.

W.I. MEETING

Wooler. (Special.)— The November meeting of the Wooler Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Orvis, on Wednesday afternoon, with a good attendance.

Mrs. L. Whitney, president opened the meeting with the singing of the Institute Ode and The Lord's Prayer.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, correspondence was read and discussed. A motion was passed to send $5 to the Dr. Barnardo Christmas' Fund. The request for a donation to the Trenton Hospital was laid over for the time being. It was decided to hold a dance in the Town Hall in the near future. Mesdames Karl Austin, Harry Ewing and Lyal Leavitt were appointed as a committee to make arrangements.

An excellent report of the Belleville Area Convention was given by the delegate, Mrs. R. Redcliffe. Some highlights of "The Wise Buying of Clothing" Conference, recently held in Codrington were given by Mrs. Way. Mrs. Orvis spoke a few minutes on the Consumers' Branch news.

Mrs. P. Gooding was convener of the program, the first number being a vocal solo by Mrs. H. Ewing followed with a reading by Mrs. L. Whitney and a contest. Mrs. Alden Arthur and Mrs. Orvis were the prize winners. Mrs. Gooding moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Redcliffe for her report. Collection was taken and National Anthem sung.

Says Ribbentrop Declared Goering Used 'Blackmail'

Washington, Nov. 15 — (AP)—A story that Hermann Goering "blackmailed" Foreign Minister Ribbentrop into subservience for a decade before the Nazi collapse was brought back today from the Nuernberg trials by a member of the American prosecution staff.

Dr. Robert M. Kempner said Ribbentrop told him in his death cell that Goering's weapon was a suppressed suit filed by Ribbentrop's adopted aunt involving the use of the German aristocratic term "Von."

"In return for authority to use the "Von," Ribbentrop agreed to pay for her support but welched after the Nazis came to power," Kempner told reporters.

"When she filed suit in 1934 in her home town in Thuringia, Goering got possession of the papers and put them in his private safe. Ribbentrop said that because of the threat of scandal he did not dare oppose Goering on major issues."

May Sinclair, Novelist, Dies

Aylesbury, Bucks., England, Nov. 15 — (CP)—May Sinclair, author of the novel "The Divine Fire," died Thursday at her home near here.

Miss Sinclair's first short stories were published in 1895 and "The Divine Fire," her first successful novel, was published in Britain and the United States in 1904.

A Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature since 1916, in 1912 Miss Sinclair wrote a biography of the Bronte Sisters, "The Three Brontes," and during the First Great War she served with the Field Ambulance Corps. In 1915 she wrote a book on her experiences, "Journal of Impressions in Belgium."

Primate to Live In Old Palace In Cathedral City

London, Nov. 16—(CP)—Lambeth Palace will cease to be the London residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have decided, and the Anglican primate will live in the old palace in his cathedral city.

The commissioners, accepting architects' plans for rebuilding bomb-damaged Lambeth-Palace said it will be restored as headquarters of the Anglican communion.

It was unfair to expect the Archbishop to maintain two homes on his income and they agreed with Dr. Geoffrey Fisher the present Archbishop that his rightful home was in the diocese of Canterbury from which Saint Augustine began his work."

Explosion Wrecks Front of House In Newmarket

Newmarket, Nov. 16 —(CP)— An explosion, believed caused by a hand grenade or dynamite, last night wrecked the front of a house were a half hour before a baby was born in it. No one was injured and police could not offer any explanation for the blast.

Only the baby, mother and father were in the house at the time. Police declined to divulge the name of the couple.

Police chief Ronald Martin of Newmarket said he was making inquiries at the Camp Borden Military base to determine whether the explosive, believed hurled from the street, was taken from there.

NOVEMBER

Spmmer seems far away,
Dull days are here,
Lowering are skies of gray
Leaves brown and sere;
Sad is the wind's deep moan,
Chilling the rain,
Nature grieves not alone
With heart of pain.

Silent the hum of bee,
Bird voices dumb,
Frost blight o'er moor and lee,
November's come;
Wraiths of the Summer leaves
Flit in the air,
Trees their bare branches fling
As in despair.

But the bright days will come,
Spring will appear,
Once more the bees' glad hum,
Bird voices cheer;
Flowers will awake at last,
Leaves find their wings,
List! The November blast
Of Maytime sings!

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kinnear, who are removing from their farm home near Melville to Consecon, were honored by their local friends, Saturday evening, with an address and presentation. The school room was filled to capacity and after a musical program, Mr. and Mrs. Kinnear were honored by an address, read by Mrs. W. H. Morton and the presentation of a beautiful lamp and table, Mr. W. H. Morton and Mrs. Ross Cruickshank making the presentation on behalf of the Community.

Mr. Ross Cruickshank capably presided as chairman. Refreshments and a social hour brought the evening to a close.

Those attending the Winter Fair in Toronto include Mr. and Mrs. C. Margetson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Root and Leonard, Mr. Clifford Carley and Miss Muriel; and Miss Marion Mikel and Miss Barbara.

Mr. Clifton Gamble and Mr. Lance Davern are back north deer hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton are celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary on Thursday November 14. Congratulations.

Post Nuptial Reception

Pleasant View Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carley, South Lakeside, was the scene of a pleasant gathering on the evening of Friday, Nov. 8, when a post nuptial reception was held in honor of their son, Clarence, and his bride, (nee Edith MacDonald) after their return from a wedding trip to Rochester, and Lockport, N.Y. as well as other American cities. Some twenty-five guests enjoyed a delicious supper in the dining room, the serviteurs being Miss Muriel Carley, Mrs. Harry Hubbs, Mrs. Clifford Hough and Mrs. Ralph Preston. The rooms had been made gay with pink and white streamers.

A charivari party arrived and after a noisy demonstration, were invited into the home, and lavishly treated to ice cream, cake, candy and cigarettes.

Clarence and his bride have the best wishes of a host of friends for a happy married life.

U.N. Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 15 (CP)—Unless and until a way is found to wean public men from the intoxication that comes from the sound of one's own voice, there seems little hope of progress on the United Nations General Assembly Agenda.

In less than four weeks some 2,000,000 words of oratory have passed through the hands of translators and been buried in the U.N. archives.

Scarcely a dent has been made in the agenda and it would be difficult to point to one single forward step toward completing the structure of what was to be man's greatest effort for establishment of a peace-keeping mechanism.

No one has questioned the necessity of complete discussion of important decisions to which the approval of 51 countries is desired.

But there seems to be a feeling among too many delegates that they must repeat all their arguments and the background for their arguments on the same subject wherever and whenever it arises.

Much of the blame has gone to the Russians and their Slavic neighbors, and justly so because they feel they must be repetitious and exhaustive—and usually their speeches are in Russian and require longer for translation.

But blame attaches also to many other delegations, including the English-speaking.

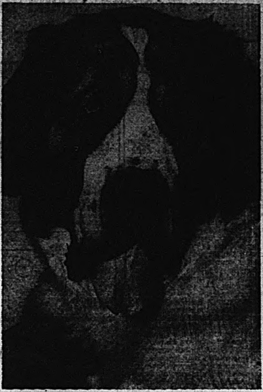
The Canadian proposal for shortening debates and short-cutting procedure, has received little consideration although it has gone to a committee.

Now a sort of underground movement is afoot to organize leading delegates, and the Assembly President, Paul-Henri Spaak, in an unofficial way to recognize a time and set a target for completion of the assembly's work.

It is unlikely to succeed and there seems every possibility that the assembly will either abandon much of its agenda or remain in session here all winter. At the present rate of progress it would seem that the performance at Lake Success and Flushing, N.Y., are as permanent as the stage performance of "life with father" which is in its eighth year on Broadway.

There are about 2,000 people working for the United Nations and they are all well paid. They have to pay United States income tax but then the U.N. refunds the amount of the tax. Why that refund money is not also taxable—since it is part of income—is not revealed. Eventually the Congress is expected to enact a law exempting U.N. personnel from income taxes and similar responsibilities as diplomats in the United States are exempt. But until that law is enacted the business of paying and collecting refunds goes on and Russia is getting sore about it. The Soviet delegate has tried to get a resolution passed to end the refunds on Dec. 31.

Russian delegates and attaches here for the United Nations meetings out-number the Americans by about three to one and the British two to one. The American delegation, appropriately enough, numbers 48.



St. Bernard, Prince Gellert, owned by Mrs. Jean Mercer, Toronto, was really enjoying his first show.

N.H.L. Weekend Should Be Rugged if 'Woodchoppers vs Wrestlers' at Toronto Set Tempo

Leafs and Canadiens Meet and Winners Can Head Loop for Time Being

By JACK MITCHELL

From the building that has seen this contest come to be designated as "wrestlers vs. woodchoppers," National Hockey League fans in Toronto could be pardoned today if they headed for Maple Leaf Gardens expecting to see some mat promoter's surrealistic dream of a battle royal on ice.

Frank Selke, manager of Montreal Canadiens as long as three weeks ago designated Toronto's Maple Leafs as "the best wrestlers in the league" and furthered in the counterblast of Toronto's Conn Smythe, who could see no hockey-ability in the Stanley Cup champions — only first-rate woodchoppers.

The billings for the game also de-emphasize the hockey, describing it as an "atomic clash" featuring "those rugged world champions" against "hockey's fighting gamecocks," also known as Smythe's "bucking buckaroos."

The fireworks may explode. But the chances are they will be interspaced with plenty of bang-up hockey, as will every other game in this five-card weekend which sees the teams starting their second month with but six points separating top and bottom.

Both Leafs and Canadiens go on to a second weekend tilt, so the casualty lists had better not be too heavy. The Leafs play their second tilt Sunday night against the fifth-place Rangers at New York while Canadiens go on to Boston to take on the rugged Bruins.

With Montreal, Toronto and Boston all tied for first place with 13 points each, one of the three has an opportunity to open up a margin in the standings.

The other weekend clashes are a second Saturday night tilt, pitting the last-place Chicago Black Hawks against the Rangers at New York, and a third Sunday night contest, in which Chicago takes on the Red Wings at Detroit. Hawks and Wings are tied for fourth position, each with 8 points.

Meanwhile, rumblings of a move to inject more youth into Canadiens were heard anew in Montreal. The upshoot of a deal involving four players was that George Pargeter, a 22-year-old left winger from Calgary, would join the champions in Toronto in time for tonight's clash.

Pargeter comes to Canadiens from Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League, who get three players in return. Two wingmen, Johnny Quilty and Joe Benoit, go to Springfield from Canadiens.

In addition big Jack Portland is being transferred from Buffalo to the Indians.

ESCAPED NAZI PRISONER BACK

Sudbury, Nov. 16—(CP)—Heinz Kronen, 25, Nazi war prisoner recaptured by Royal Canadian Mounted Police here Saturday, is back in his prison camp at Monteith today.

Two veteran guard members returned Kronen to Monteith yesterday. He had been at large since he feigned illness to escape from a lumbering project at Flanders June 7. It is believed no charges will be laid against him at the prison camp, but it is reported he will lose his former position of camp leader.

SEARCH FOR YOUTH

North Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 16—(CP)—Provincial Police reported last night that a youth, apparently intent on robbery, shot and killed Robert F. Teeporten, 39, in his woodlands cabin east of here, attacked and beat Teeporten's wife and then fled into the bush country near Deep Cove.

A widespread search has been organized for the youth, whose identity is known to police.

Mrs. Teeporten's injuries are not believed to be serious.

HAMILTON TIGERS LEADING LOOP BY CLEAR MARGIN

Last Year's O.H.A. Winners Defeat Toronto Staffords by 9-3 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

The Ontario Hockey Association standing in the senior group took on new light today as last year's champion Hamilton Tigers broke their first-place tie with Toronto Staffords by downing the Torontonians 9-3 at Hamilton last night. Meanwhile Stratford Indians managed to gain their first victory in three starts when they topped Hamilton Patricias, 3-1 at Stratford.

The Tigers, now with four victories in hand in as many starts, are atop the loop. They outscored Staffords in each period as Johnny Conick rang up four tallies, Peer grabbed two solo efforts with the others going to Al Conick, Dinning and Laurent. Mara, Roubell and Williams did the scoring for the Staffords.

With Freddy Sparks in the nets to replace Johnny Gibson, the Stratford team played a sparkling game to top the Pats for their initial points of the season. Sparks repelled the Pats and very nearly earned a shutout.

After a scoreless first period, the Indians struck twice in three seconds in the middle stanza to take a lead and then tallied later in the period. Tom Smelle robbed Sparks of the goose-egg with a late goal in the third period. Wally Zuke scored twice for Indians and Nick Phillips tallied the other.

Five games are slated in the junior 'A' O.H.A. today.

At Toronto, a double bill sees Barrie tangle with Marlboros in a four-point tilt and St. Catharines Falcons meet St. Michael's Majors. At Windsor, another 4-point tussle is slated between Hamilton and the home team, while the third double-points-game is at Oshawa where Young Rangers of Toronto are visitors. Stratford plays at Galt in the 5th game of the day.

London, Nov. 15 — (Reuters)—More than a million German children, in the North Rhine-Westphalia region, will have to go without their extra school meals owing to the food shortage in Germany, Hamburg radio reported today.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

Trinity College School gridiron is the locale of a sudden death game this afternoon between the Johnny Hayman-Pete Beach Albert College gridders who meet the Peterborough Collegiate for the right to meet the finalists in the junior COSSA football series next Saturday.

* * *

The Petes studes knocked off the Oshawa Collegiate knibblers in their series and are said to be a big hard-hitting squad. The Albert lads will be at full strength and the game should prove a thriller. Game starts at 2.30.

* * *

Likewise in Peterborough "Red" Townsend's pigskin juniors tangle with the Lindsay squad in a junior COSSA tussle. Last year's Albert College juniors, if our memory serves us correctly, were called by an out-of-town sports writer the "biggest, hairiest, roughest bunch of juniors I have ever seen". That brilliant piece of alible verbiage, naturally came after the Albert kids had dunked the writer's team so far into the mud, the fishworms tickled their ears.

* * *

The BCI kids are a smart well-coached crew and should give a good account of themselves this afternoon on the Peterborough neutral grounds. But Lindsay was always a hotbed of football and some grand squads have come out of that hamlet. And if the adage "like father, like son" holds good then the Townsend troupers are in for a strenuous day.

* * *

Another W.T. (wishful thinking, that is) bomb, hurtles from out of the wild blue yonder, east of Kingston up around Smiths Falls way to the effect that professional baseball loop is in the suggestive state for Eastern Ontario with a meeting scheduled for Knotty Lee's home town next week.

* * *

* * *

"A well-informed source," a paragraph in the Smiths Falls paper notes, "contended that Hull, Ottawa, Cornwall, Peterborough, Belleville, Brockville, and Smiths Falls had been mentioned as cities interested in the proposition, with possibility of addition of Northern New York towns to give the loop an international flavor. It was said the proposed setup calls for installation of stadium lights in Smiths Falls with this town's entry also to represent the neighboring towns of Perth and Carleton Place."

* * *

Now, draw nigh and listen to what the Peterborough scribe saith anent the matter as far as his hamlet is concerned: "Could it be that the "well-informed source" is Knotty Lee, now a hotel proprietor in Smiths Falls? Anyway, they'd better drop Peterborough from their plans for 1947, as we are by no means assured of having Riverside Park ready for next summer. If the diamond should be ready in time, we still require enlarged stands — particularly to make pro ball pay —and there certainly won't be any lights installed in Riverside this coming year. Same with the Exhibition Grounds, and what other fields here are open to baseball? Nope, Peterborough is not ready for professional baseball, we'd say, and we pay as little attention at this time to the rumor as a pro grappler does to a referee's warning for roughness."

* * *

That goes double for Belleville, Cecil m'lad. In fact this village couldn't field a good senior amateur (as the term is figuratively known) team let alone a professional squad. All we need here is the diamond on the Fair Grounds rejuvenated; new and more spacious stands; the lights; a few sugar daddies; houses for the players to live in; ten miracle men; some inducements to keep players here, as we have run plumb out of eight-day clocks to wind, and janiters now do their own work instead of entrusting it to ball-playing assistants.

* * *

That "well-informed source" as Peterboro suggests, may have been the mind of Knotty Lee, but it's not so far back that we heard the same idea mentioned in that village fifty miles east of here where limestone is king. But on that occasion this source predicted that pro baseball would be flourishing in this district within the next five years.

* * *

Nope, gentlemen of the imaginative minds and optimistic tendencies, you can count Belleville out of that pipe-dream. Unless of course Kilroy appears in the flash with a quarter million bucks, builds us a brand new ball park, (a little Yankee Stadium would do); install the lights; bring in twenty-four players and leave enough mazuma to build houses for them and pay their salaries for the first five years at least.

* * *

What these "well-informed sources" whose imaginative minds soar to the heights when fondling a pet theory might better do, for the good of baseball and for the up-and-coming youth of the country, is to sponsor midget, juvenile and junior teams for the next few years.

* * *

Professional baseball in smaller cities, especially to the east of us last year was not the roaring success it predicted to be despite reports to the contrary. In fact anything but a general spirit of harmony reigned with lots of bickering among players and managements and umpires. In fact on one occasion the arbiters were subjected to physical violence, while players changed uniforms with such rapidity that a pitcher of one team would be hurling against his mates the next day. The only familiar thing to the fans were the names on the uniforms for the most part.

* * *

Baseball last year, enjoyed one of its biggest seasons, insofar as fan interest is concerned. The fever spread from the metropolitan centres to the smallest hamlets. And there is no reason why it should not continue to hold its high place in the hearts and minds of sports fans. But those in the seats of the management mighty might well look forward to the years to come. The baseball goose is laying and will lay the golden egg for the next year or two, but what then. Might better spend some of these shekels proposed to bring in strange baseball players for a season or two, on the young goslings of the diamond who in the future will also prove producers of golden box-office eggs.

* * *

Furthermore the youth of the country is deserving of organized attention. That home town kid of yours can play just as good baseball as the little Joe in the next village, if given the poper training and encouragement. Or hockey or football. So if the gentlemen who can do it, want to do something worthwhile for sport and the youth of the country, they might better invest their time and money, in the youngsters of today, who will pay dividends tomorrow in no uncertain manner.

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Brecon, Wales, Nov. 16 —(CP) —Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien Friday was convicted of manslaughter in the rat-poison slaying of William Lucas, wealthy 49-year-old farmer for whom she was housekeeper. She was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment.

Mrs. O'Brien's lawyer told the jury she had fed rat poison to Lucas, whom he called "a beast of a man," so that she might protect her five-year-old son Johnny in a dreadful house of lust."

ELMER RAY WINS CLOSE DECISION OVER J. WALCOTT

General Impression Neither Would Have Much Success Against Louis

By SID FEDER

New York, Nov. 16 — (AP) — Of all the heavyweights in the world today, Joe Louis is probably palpitating the least at the moment over the close decision Elmer Ray pinned on Jersey Joe Walcott.

Louis, you may recall, is only the heavyweight champion of the world, and the beak-busting in Madison Square Garden last night figured to provide the challenger he's going to take on in a money-making heavyweight defence next summer, since Jersey the Joe and Elmer the Violent were well up there on the priority list.

Elmer came squeaking through with this narrow one over Jersey Joe. This one was as close as your next breath, with two of the 3 officials splitting on their ballots and the third voting it five-rounds-and-five, and giving Ray the "duke" on the slim edge of one point — 9 to 8 — which, incidentally, is what they paid off on.

The Associated Press score card gave it to Ray on his let's-walk-in-and-wallop style, five rounds to three, with two even.

Of last night's job the general impression is that if either fighters have designs on the Brown Bomber's bauble, they'd better show up equipped with tommy gun and flak vest. That's how hot both of last night's nose-mashers were cooking.

So far as heavyweight title hopefuls are concerned, the Violent Ray is sending his broad beam around the landscape — off last night's job of shining anyway — about as brightly as a slightly wet match on Broadway.

GIVEN FOUR YEARS

Toronto, Nov. 15 — (CP)—Edwin M. Dempsey, convicted last Thursday of conspiracy to defraud the public through promotion and sale of Habitant Gold Mines stock, today was sentenced to four years in penitentiary and two associates received letter terms.

Wallace A. Dempsey was given one year determinate and three months indeterminate and Kenneth L. Morgan was given 2½ years.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Probably not many will take him seriously, but for the record it should be noted once more that Annis Stukus — big Stuke of the football-playing Stukus brothers — has decided once again to give up the game.

In the past few seasons that has come to be an annual post-season decision for Big Stuke, yet each fall has found him out there again in a uniform usually persuaded by the fact that he can make a few hundred bucks at something he still can do pretty well in spite of all the knocks he has taken.

Annis, who mixes football with a sports writing chore for the Toronto Daily Star, has worded his retirement communique this season a little differently. aHe's not retiring — he's quitting, and in that lies a distinction as related by Big Stuke's boss, Andy Lytle.
Lytle, sports editor of the Star.

Annis limped into the football officials' room at Varsity Stadium last Saturday. It was the day after Big Stuke's team, Toronto Indians, had been upset in the Ontario Rugby Football Union semi-finals by their inter-city rivals, Balmy Beach.

Telling of this scene Andy wrote:

"Hec Creighton took a look at the sober-faced, deflated man, and said: 'You're not playing any more football, I trust.'

" 'No Hec,' said he, 'this time I'm not retiring. When a player says he's retiring it suggests, like a woman's yet, that he means maybe. This time I'm not retiring, I quit.' "

This may be the season which the 32-year-old Annis actually means is his last, but many won't be convinced until next fall when they'll learn definitely whether he has relented again.

If he's through his last game will be today. The Indians play Hamilton Tigers of the Big Four in an exhibition charity game and Annis may be in the lineup although he says he is physically or mentally unfit for duty.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You should wrestle with a bridjuggler now and then. Start with a few easy ones. Work up to the tougher ones gradually. It will give you a keener interest in future plays. Here is one:

As declarer at a contract of five clubs, south has taken seven tricks. His own south hand is still in the lead. He must take four of the remaining six tricks.

This may not be as tough as you like them. But you can get a bit of a workout with it while waiting for a streetcar. On the other hand, it may stump you. If so, the study will do you good.

Pick out the next lead that south should select. Also any others you think he should make thereafter with his own and dummy cards. Be sure to choose leads that are best for south and north.

In each case, play the cards you think the opponents should use. Keep in mind that they are trying to put up the best possible defence. Have them try to frustrate every move of the declarer.

Against anything the opponents can legally do, declarer has a way of taking four of these six tricks. To get the most exercise out of this, lay out the cards on the table and correct any back plays.

See what would happen if declarer next leads a red card or a black one. At any lead south makes, see what cards west and east can play on it. Always look for an advantage by either side.

After you have played a few cards, you may see that it will not work out for declarer. If so, put back the cards and start over. Somewhere in the plays he can take four tricks.

This is not child's play. It is how good bridge players sharpen their playing ability. It helps them get an advance picture of what could happen in some situations.

It is good skull practice.

Hollywood Wolves Leading Pacific Loop

Hollywood, Nov. 16 (AP)—The hard-skating Hollywood Wolves demonstrated last night why they are leading the Pacific Coast Ice Hockey League—and why San Francisco is third from the cellar—by romping roughshod over the Shamrocks 8-1.

The Shamrocks' lone tally came in the first period, while the Wolves rolled up four counters in the initial period, slapped on three more in the second and added another in the third.

It was Hollywood's 13th victory in 14 starts. Harold Brayshaw, registering three goals for the Wolves, was high scorer

Film Council Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Film Council was held at the Corby Public Library, Thursday evening, November 14.

The election of officers for the year took place with the following results:

President — W. C. Lockyer.
Vice-President — H. S. McElrath.
Secretary Treasurer — Olive Delaney.
Director of Publicity — W. W. Davies.
Assistant — Morley Hancock.

The efforts of the Council to secure religious films for the month of December met with little success. However the National Film Society is loaning one film for the week December 3-9 entitled "Where Love Is God Is"—2 reels and black and white. This film should be excellent for church groups or any groups planning Christmas programs.

HEAVY WEEKEND IN AMERICAN LOOP

(By The Canadian Press)

The leader and runner-up in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League tangle tonight in one of five interesting contests down for decision.

Hershey Bears, Eastern Division leaders, entertain New Haven Ramblers. Hershey has won nine, lost four and tied one, while the Ramblers have seven wins, five losses and two ties on their slate.

In other games tonight, Providence visits last-place Philadelphia, St. Louis is at Pittsburgh, Buffalo at Cleveland and Indianapolis at Springfield.

Indianapolis and Cleveland currently are tied for the leadership of the Western Division.

Tomorrow night, four games are booked, with Pittsburgh invading Buffalo, Indianapolis travelling to New Haven, Hershey visiting Providence and Cleveland going to St. Louis.

Five Teams In Int. 'A' Series Of Hockey Assoc.

(By The Canadian Press)

Four Junior "B" and an Intermediate "A" series were organized today by the Ontario Hockey Association executive committee so as to permit clubs to get into action where artificial ice is available. The Intermediate "A" series comprises Oshawa Legion, Brantford, St. Catharines, Kitchener Legion and Port Colborne. L. T. Pennell of Brantford is the group convener and the series will start Monday, Nov. 18 with St. Kitts at Brantford. Three of the junior groups are in the city of Toronto while the fourth comprises teams from Galt, Stratford, Brantford, Kitchener, Hamilton and Waterloo. J. J. McFayden is the group convener.

Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight champion, knocked out George Martin, champion of France, in the third round of their scheduled 10-rounder last night at Manchester, England. It was Woodcock's 28th victory in 29 fights over four years.

Mahoney Bears, Ontario junior football champions of 1945, last night won the right to defend that crown this year when they blasted Eastwood Lions, 16-1 at Hamilton in the local group title match. The play was close for the first three quarters, but the Bears broke away in the final stanza to tally two touchdowns.

Cornwall Cougars trounced the last place Verdun Eagles 13-1 in a one-sided Provincial Hockey League contest at Cornwall last night.

The prospects of reviving senior football in Kitchener will be discussed at a meeting there next week under the sponsorship of the Canadian Legion. The veterans organization is currently busy with its team in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Gus Lesnevich, world light-heavyweight champion, and Billy Fox, Philadelphian who has won his 41 pro fights by a knockout, were matched yesterday for a 15-round title bout Feb. 28 at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Suspended for the last three years because the courts were used for the storage of motor tires, Badminton is being resumed by the Granite Club at Kitchener, this weekend. More than 250 persons have joined the club.

AT THE BELLE — Above we see Bill O'Connor and Mary Bates, singing stars in the all-Canadian show "Meet the Navy," which begins its engagement at the Belle Theatre today. They are supported by an all-Canadian cast composed of the personnel of the Royal Canadian Navy.

FAIL TO RESCUE BUCK

Niagara Falls, Nov. 15—(CP)—A 200-pound, eight-point buck died in the Queenston hydro forebay yesterday after rescuers were unable to reach the animal. Four men tried to rescue the buck but were hampered because the boat kept for this purpose was being painted at the time.

CHAPTER 15

"You just hint that to your hostess, young lady, and see what happens to you," he warned. "You know your standing with the Bacons—I don't have to remind you of that. They both adore you and sometimes I think you don't appreciate it."

"Oh, I do too," Sally declared, when Bess Hamilton's voice interupted them.

* * *

"We'd better be getting over to the bus stop, Sally," she suggested. "We may not be able to get a seat."

"I'm driving you back," Doctor Hallockk asserted. "What do you mean by suggesting the bus? I brought you, didn't I? When I bring a girl anywhere I take her home."

"Don't be silly," Sally told him. "You were invited for the evening—"

"I'm on call tonight," he explained, gathering up the dishes and stacking them on the table. "I'd like to stay andw ash these, Carolyn," he said almost regretfully, "and I know there will be a moon as only this particular locality can produce; but duty calls, and when duty is combined with pleasure—well, I'm all for it. I'll run down and get the car and come back for you," he suggested, "or will one of you gals walk over with me?" He looked at Sally but Bess Hamilton shook her head.

"Maybe Holden's still over there, doctor," she ponted out. "We'll both go. It has been a real treat," she told the Bacons. "It's lovely out here and I shall certainly come again—if you'll let me."

The ride back to the hospital was accomplished without incident and when Bess suggested he let them out at the bottom of the hill, Jim Hallock made no objection. The afternoon had given him much food for thought and he drove up the long hill to the garage in the rear of the hospital with a feeling something like contentment, while the two nurses changed into uniforms and reported for duty promptly at 7.

Ronald Virgil had suffered uncomplaining for years. Now he was in the hospital for observation. He had been able to eat very little and not much of that had stayed with or nourished him. Being a rather shy, silent man, he had endured stoically, carrying on his normal work—growing thinner and quieter—while his mother worried, advised and dosed him with home remedies to no avail and his sister scoffed at what she dubbed his nerves and urged him to exert a little will power—to forget it—that it was all in his mind, and so on. Then, at long last, he took the advice of his secretary and went to a doctor who promptly ordered him to Linton.

That was the story as it came to Sally and she took over day duty in his room with a feeling of relief. Here was a case that called for the best she had to offer.

The patient's mother and sister came posthaste. The mother was greatly excited and flustered. It was cancer, her son had, she had feared it from the very first. Five years ago she had told him that [illegible] and urged him to set his affairs in order. Time had proved her right. His sister, on the other hand, informed his nurse there was nothing wrong with her brother except nerves and on active imagination, plus, she went on. "Ann Niles" continued sympathy."

"Ann Niles?" Sally asked.

"She's his secretary. She's been after him for years and if he had an ounce of gumption he would have sent her packing long ago—the hussy! If she comes here to see him she is not to be admitted. Do you understand?" Etta Virgil's intensely black eyes glowed venomously.

"I doubt if anyone will be able to see him for some time," Sally said coolly, trying to maneuver them from the room. "It looks to me as if he needed complete rest and quiet—for some time to come. Now if you will please leave, I will see that he is made comfortable before I go off duty."

She received a glare of dislike from Etta while the weeping Mrs. Virgil paused at the door to make further observation. "Cancer—how long, Nurse?" she asked in a whisper perfectly aduible to the patient.

"It isn't cancer your son is suffering from, Mrs. Virgil," Sally said, a bit impatiently. She disliked crape-hangers and she felt instinctively this woman was a member of that breed. "I have enough cancer, to feel confident it is not that. We shall know very soon now."

Ronald Virgil had lain with eyes closed but with a tenseness to his face and body that Sally didn't like. Now she saw him relax and a sigh escaped his lips. Why were his mother and sister crucifying him like this? It was inhuman! Sally quickly and firmly thrust them both from the room and closed the door, standing with her back against it while she eyed the patient with something like curiosity.

* * *

It wasn't until near morning that she heard definitely, what his trouble was. Diverticulum of the esophagus. Sally smiled as she listened to the Chief make this pronouncement. The patient gazed at him wide-eyed in something like trepidation.

"It is just as we thought from the preliminary examination," he continued. "We shall be ready to operate at 2 this afternoon, Maynard." He departed and the patient stared after him.

"It sounds much worse than it is, Mr. Virgil," Sally told him "There is a pouch or sac, easily operable, on that portion of the alimentary canal between pharynx and stomach. No wonder you couldn't eat in comfort or retain what did get that far. You'll be quite all right after this—better than you have ever been in your whole adult life. Don't worry. Just relax. You have the best surgeon in the world to do the job, you know."

A little color had come into the patient's thin face as Sally talked. Now he spoke. "Will you do something for me, Nurse?" he asked diffidently.

"Of course," Sally told him "That's what I'm here for. What is it? Get word to Miss Niles?"

"W-why, how did you know? Has she called?"

"Several times; but you know, of course, a hospital doesn't give out much information. I'll get in touch with your people after the operation and will put in a call for Miss Niles right away. What shall I tell her? Don't you want to send her some message?"

The man closed his eyes for a moment and then said softly: "Tell her I'm going to be all right and that I shall be glad to see her—after—When could she come, Nurse?"

"Possibly not for several days or a week but why not wait and see how you react? I can always call her, you know. Anyone else?"

"No. No one else. I don't want to see anyone—else—for a long, long time." He sounded very tired and Sally lowered the shades and suggested that he try to sleep for an hour.

"You're going to need a lot of sleep, Mr. Virgil," she told him, "and I'm here to see that you get it."

"You're kind," he murmured and soon slept.

The operation was performed that afternoon as scheduled and Sally telephoned the patients' family as she had promised and got in touch with Miss Niles. From the tremor in her voice, Sally suspected she was very fond of her boss and assured her she would let her know his condition in the morning and from time to time thereafter.

"He won't be able to have visitors for several days, Miss Niles," she told the girl; "but you are the one he wants to see first, so just as soon as he is able to have callers, I will let you know."

It was a week later that the feeding tube was removed and Ronald Virgil was able to have soft food.

"I wonder if you have any idea of how I feel, Nurse," he asked as he ate the semi-liquid offered him. "This is the first time in years that I have been able to eat with any degree of comfort or enjoyment. I think, perhaps, this afternoon I might have a caller. Perhaps Miss Niles could come. Do you suppose she could, Nurse?"

"I can telephone and see, Mr. Virgil. You are looking so much better that I feel sure we can take down the No Visitors sign from your door."

"Please don't," he pleaded. "Not for a day or two, anyway. I—I dont feel up to much and—"

"Of course you realize your sister has been here every day, dont you? It has been very hard to keep her away from you."

"I suppose so; but—please let me have a few more days—alone. Then, I feel I shall be able to cope with anything.

Sally patted the hand on the arm of the chair and said impulsively: "I understand, Mr. Virgil, and it shall be as you wish. Now I'll call Miss Niles and then you'd better nap for an hour so that you will be rested when the young lady comes. Shall I help you back to bed now?"

"She's lovely, Nurse," he said softly, "and so very—very sweet."

"You love her, don't you?"

"With all my heart," he replied simply.

* * *

Ann Niles arrived soon after two that afternoon and Sally left her with her patient while she found a seat in the corridor where she could keep close watch against interruptions. She felt those two needed some time to themselves and was determined they should have it. When Etta Virgil came hurrying down the long corridor, she headed her off.

Doctor Willoughby happened to be passing by just then and stopped for a moment.

"What goes on, Sally?" he asked curiously. "Just why did you refuse the sister admittance?" He isn't worse?"

Sally shook her head and standing close to him whispered mysteriously: "He's entertaining his sweetheart and the family hate her!"

"Now—now!" the resident chided, shaking a finger at the nurse.

"She's sweet," Sally said softly. "I wish you could see them together. It—it's—well, it's wonderful. I was so afraid I shouldn't be able to keep that sister of his out; but Miss Niles has stayed quite long enough for the first day. I hate to do it; but I'll have to send her off."

"I want to see her—I'll stick around for a minute." The doctor grinned.

Sally opened the door, after knocking discreetly, and entered. The shining faces of the two inside spoke volumes and her smile was sympathetic as she interrupted them.

"This is our patients first day for callers, Miss Niles, and we mustn't let him get too tired. I'm sure you can come back tomorrow—in the morning, if you like. Probably his family will want to come in the afternoon," she explained tactfully.

The girl blushed and thanked her, while the eyes of the patient watched his beloved adoringly. "Good-by, darling," he said softly, and she stooped to kiss him quit as if it were customary.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding her mail at breakfist, saying to pop, Oh dear, here's an answer from Jeen Nittjacker.

Isn't she the snooty person that the rest of the crowd didn't want at the class reunion till they found out that he husband is a big holesale meat deeler? pop said, and ma said, Well yes, but you can hardly blame us. I mean if we could garantee to serve a genuine fillay steak to every one present, the attendance would break all records and it would be quite a red feather in my cap as Chairman of the Committy. But unfortunately I had already been egged on to send Jeen Nittjacker a rather chilly letter of invitation which she promptly rejected in no uncertain tones, ma said.

Then how the dooce could you ask her again? pop said, and ma said, Well, it took considerable thought and planning, but finally I sent her one of the reguler engraved invitations with a special personel poem in my own handwriting, saying, "To have you at the reunion, Is each one's dearest wish. The menu is distinctive—From soup to nuts it's fish." I thought the part about the fish was very clever, because it would tend to give her the idea that we were interested only in her, rather than in her husband's meat. And here's her answer, also in the form of a poem. I'll read it to you, ma said.

Which she did, being, "To attend your reunion I have no wish, I'm sure it will be a mess, But just in case you find me there, Send my body to the following address." And then she meerly adds her home address and sines her name. Do you suppose she means to imply that we can only get her there over her own dead body? ma said, and pop said, That's what I read between the lines.

What to do about Colds

Prevent Check
Relieve
Don't Neglect

In these days when so much is to be done and so few to do it, the loss of time caused by colds becomes more serious than ever. Isn't it about time we considered colds seriously and did something about them?

Here are some timely suggestions which, we believe, will help you to escape having colds or to check them and save valuable time.

1. The cold germ gets you when your general health is under par or when you are tired out by overwork or worry. You can largely avoid this condition and often escape colds by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to help build up your health to high water mark. Rich red blood is the greatest of germicides and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the food minerals and Vitamin B-1 which make the blood rich and nourishing.

2. If you do feel a cold coming on, act quickly and you may check it entirely or at least shorten its course. Try this. Take Dr. Chase's Paradol, a good drink of hot lemonade or ginger tea, and rest in bed. Repeat this treatment if necessary. Paradol does not disappoint.

3. Should you be so unfortunate as to have a cold in its later stages, with coughing and irritation of the throat and bronchial tubes, use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. This treatment has been a great favourite in many thousands of homes for over half a century. It is pleasant to take and remarkably effective in helping to relieve coughs, colds, croup and bronchitis.

Instead of neglecting colds, plan ahead by having these medicines in your home. Someone is sure to need them. The wise course is to prevent colds by keeping the health at high water mark. Let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you to do this.

UPTOWN BILLIARDS

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

NOTICE is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between James Yeotes and James Trakas under the trade name of "Uptown Billiards" at 316 Front Street, Belleville, Ontario, was dissolved as of November 8th., 1946.

Mr. James Yeotes is now sole proprietor of "Uptown Billiards" and all claims and accounts of creditors against the partnership should be rendered to him for payment.

KEEN CONTESTS

Mayor Frank S. Follwell is expected to have opposition in his third-term bid at Belleville from Alderman Harold Woodley. At Woodstock Mayor Charles Burston will run for alderman and two members of the council — W. A. McLeod and D. A. Thomson — seek to succeed him.

Lawrence Faces Opposition

Mayor Sam Lawrence of Hamilton faces opposition from controller Don Clarke whom he defeated for the mayoralty just two years ago. At Sudbury, Mayor W. S. Beaton seeks his seventh term in office and there are reports that two others may oppose him. At Niagara Falls, Mayor George Inglis will be opposed by William L. Houck, former Ontario Liberal cabinet minister and former vice-chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Aaron Horowitz, who has been mayor at Cornwall for 10 terms, faces opposition from alderman Lloyd Gallinger. A four-way contest is expected at Timmins, where nominations are Dec. 3.

Several centres are to vote on money and other bylaws. Cornwall will decide on a $25,000 grant to assist the Canadian Legion branch in obtaining a community centre and clubrooms, $75,000 for new municipal buildings and a two-year term for mayor and council. Hamilton is to decide on a $500,000 downtown street-widening.

Votes on Four By-laws

North Bay votes on four bylaws — $60,000 for purchase of the arena and installation of artificial ice, $650,000 for a municipal sewage disposal plant, $110,000 for a municipal bus system and garage and daylight saving.

RAWDON

Springbrook W.A. Pays Honor To War Brides

Rawdon — On Wednesday afternoon Nov. 13th about forty ladies of the Springbrook Woman's Association and Junior Bible class gathered at the home of Mrs. Grenville Meiklejohn to honor three war brides, ie., Mrs. R. McKeown, Mrs. F. Hodge and Mrs. George Bateman. The afternoon was spent in games and contests and a very dainty afternoon tea served buffet style was enjoyed by all.

The guests of honor were invited to prominent seats and addresses of welcome were read by Mrs. Hiram Mumby followed by the presentation of a silver casserole to each bride. All three graciously replied thanking their new friends for the lovely gifts.

At this juncture Mrs. J. R. Holden of Springbrook visited the church parsonage and was invited to a seat of honor and Mrs. Carman Sine read to her an address of appreciation. Mrs. Holden was the recipient of a lovely wool blanket. It was the wish of the ladies that Mrs. Holden would find many new friends in Coldwater, Ont., where Mr. and Mrs. Holden will move in the near future.

Mrs. Holden graciously replied thanking the ladies for their kindness.

As the occasion was also the birthday of Mrs. Ralph McKeown the ladies gave her a special ovation by singing "Happy Birthday to You."

Mrs. R. McKeown was formerly Miss Wilhemina Entel of Heemstede, Holland. Mrs. Fred Hodge was Miss Elizabeth Borsje of Den Haag, Holland, and Mrs. George Bateman was Miss Clara Simmonds of Portsmouth, Eng.

Public Relations Officer Charges 'Discrimination'

Toronto, Nov. 16 — (CP) — "Discrimination" against his industry in the advertising field had forced brewers and distillers into other forms of public relations, Charles S. Watson, Director of Public Relations for Canadian Breweries, Limited, told the Association of Canadian Advertising today.

"Fantastically — and incredibly — the ... industry stands alone as the only legalized business in the history of the world that cannot defend itself against attacks by purchasing space in the press or time on the radio," he said.

In consequence the industry had to gain public goodwill through providing good working conditions — "before the unions ask for them" — and subscribing liberally to charities.

Australia Passes First Stage of Transition Period

By WILLIAM STEWART
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Canberra, Nov. 16—(CP Cable) — Prime Minister Chifley told parliament as he presented his budget Thursday that Australia had, in the 15 months since the end of the war, successfully completed the first stage of post-war transition.

Mr. Chifley, also the Commonwealth's treasurer, reported that during the last year the number of persons employed in Australian factories had risen to 770,000 which was 20,000 better than the wartime peak and more than 200,000 above the 1939 level.

The Prime Minister said production was rising in most fields, overseas trade prospects were favorable and prices had been held in check while Australia's debts abroad had been reduced. He added that plans called for the reduction of strength of the services from 137,000 last June to 67,000 by next June.

The new budget was described by newspapers which have been campaigning for income tax cuts as "drab." It gave no income tax relief but sought to increase citizens' purchasing power through the elimination of a variety of indirect wartime charges.

SAULT PAPER UP IN PRICE

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 16 —(CP)—Following the example of several Ontario newspapers which increased prices in the last few months, the Sault Daily Star today goes on sale at five cents a copy or 25 cents a week. In the past the paper sold for three cents and 18 cents a week.

Announcing the price rise, the management said it resulted from increased newsprint prices, enlarged staff and higher wages. Newsprint alone, it said, will cost the Star $14,000 more in 1947 than in 1946.

5 FIXING PARKED CAR JUMP CLEAR FIRE DESTROYS TRUCK, DRIVER HURT

TRUCK DRIVER WAS PULLED FROM WRECKAGE

A transport truck loaded with paint, varnish and flour went up in flames near here Wednesday morning when it collided with a parked auto, sideswiped a tree and caught fire after going into the ditch. Driver William Clarke, Bloor St., Toronto, is in Belleville hospital suffering from severe head and body injuries. He was pulled from the truck by a party of five motorists from St. Johns, Que. The St. Johns car, owned by Rene St. Germain, had stopped at the edge of the highway for repairs when the collision occurred. They jumped clear.

Capital Closeups

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 15 (CP)—Some lifted eyebrows are going to be in order when watchdogs of the treasury get to checking over the expense accounts of Canada's delegates to the United Nations assembly at New York.

Bulletins trickling back home from the U.N. front report that living prices around there are getting fantastic. For instance, breakfast of a couple of eggs, toast and coffee at the hotel where the Canadians are staying had risen to $1.75 at last reports, and was threatening to climb clear out of sight.

Incidentally, despite the widely divergent views of Canada's U.N. delegates on domestic affairs, the word from the conference is that they are working together in complete harmony.

As an example, when opposition leader John Bracken spoke Wednesday on how the costs of operating U.N. should be shared, he was actually setting forth the official view of the delegation, despite his position on the opposite side of the political fence from the government.

Mr. Bracken himself confirmed this view of the smooth-working Canadian combination at New York in an interview here this week in which he told how the delegates met daily and consulted on what position they, as representatives of Canada, should take.

The Canadians aren't taking any particular stand in the battle raging over the permanent home of the U.N. organization. They feel that with the United States settled upon as the country, the actual locus should be left to countries more distantly separated to settle to their own convenience. Best guess of Canada's delegates is that San Francisco will pick off the plum.

Trade Winds: Some changes in the Empire preferences likely will develop from the deliberations of the international trade organization at London. Before the I.T.O. meets again in April to draft a charter, Empire delegates will gather to deal with the special interests of the Empire countries.

It can be taken, though, that there will be no general abrogation of the preferences by Canada for the sole purpose of joining in a world-wide trade organization. What is more likely is that any preference given up will be bargained off for a quid pro quo in some other direction.

Cartels, a subject in which Canada has considerable interest, can be counted on to give the I.T.O. considerable worry. Different countries have diametrically opposite views on the question.

The Canadian viewpoint, it is believed, is that there should be no general stand either for or against cartels: That is, that each case cropping up should be considered on its own merits or demerits.

$10,500,000 EXTRA WAGES

Honolulu, Nov. 15 — (AP) — The Hawaiian Sugar Planters Association today announced it had signed an agreement granting $10,500,000 additional yearly wages to employees. The agreement must be ratified by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (C.I.L.) and by 33 plantations. Quick ratification could return the 25,000 strikers, idle 75 days, to work Tuesday.

Ivanhoe

Ivanhoe —((Special)— At the November meeting of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church held in Tamworth, on Wednesday, the call of James R. Holden, Springbrook, to the Coldwater pastoral charge in the Toronto conference was confirmed, also the call of Rev. J. W. Houston, of Tabernacle United Church to Renfrew United Church in Renfrew Presbytery. Mr. Houston's transfer takes place on December 31st., when he will succeed Rev. Harold B. Neal, ex-president of the Bay of Quinte Conference and formerly of Holloway United Church, Belleville. Mr. Holden is to take over his new work on December 1st.

Just before lunch Rev. N. C. Anderson, of Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, assisted by his brother Rev. J. E. Anderson, Brighton, in the Cobourg Presbytery, gave a very thoughtful, instructive and inspiring address on "Visitation Evangelism." Both brothers told of the possibilities facing Christian laymen and ministers with the courage and nerve to approach adults as well as older young people, in the interests of personal salvation and personal religious activities. Speaking of church attendance Rev. J. E. Anderson, asked a question once raised in an address by the Rev. Chancellor Bowles, "How far would you preachers travel to hear the sermons that some of you preach?"

Rev. George McKenzie, reporting for the Pension Fund Deductions in lieu of Transportation, explained that under unusual circumstances where a minister had an extra amount of driving to do on account of taking on added appointments in an effort to prevent congregations from being left without religious leadership and preaching services, he was permitted to deduct $300 per annum instead of the customary $200 previously allowed from Pension Fund assessments.

White Lake cheese factory closed for this season a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Orland J. Bertand and Miss Helen of Corbyville were guests at the parsonage on Monday.

Mr. Clarence Douglas has been confined to the house for several days with an injured knee as the result of having been struck with a falling limb from a tree while working in the woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer and Miss Beverly spent a day recently with friends in Belleville.

Rev. J. F. Everson and Mr. Earl Holland represented the Ivanhoe pastorial charge at the Presbytery meeting held in Tamworth on Wednesday.

Mr. Earl Benson has been unable to assume his regular work at the West Huntingdon gravel pit for a number of days due to an injury received to his left arm while working with some hot bolts.

Mr. Percy Wood of London and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blackburn of Orillia, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood. Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn are leaving this week to spend the winter in the South.

Mr. John Wright has installed a new heating system in his garage.

Miss Myrtle Reid, of Ottawa, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Baldwin Reid and her brother, Mr. Harold Reid and Mrs. Reid and William.

The many friends of Mr. Wm. Ashe will be glad to learn that he is convalescing favorably since his operation for appendicitis in Belleville General Hospital.

Friends and neighbors will be sorry to learn that Mr. Fred Kellar, who passed his 92nd birthday on August 20th., is in very poor health at present, being under the doctor's care.

FILE NOTICE OF APPEAL

Toronto, Nov. 16 — (CP)—Two Toronto men convicted Nov. 7 on charges arising from the promotion of Habitant Gold Mines stock and sentenced to penitentiary terms filed notices of appeal yesterday, claiming that Judge J. Ambrose Shea's ruling was contrary to law.

They were Edward M. Dempsey, found guilty of the theft of $25,000, conspiracy to defraud and publishing false information and sentenced to four years, and his brother, Wallace A. Dempsey, given one year after being convicted on a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

Miners Begin Laying Down Tools

Days in Advance Of Deadline Set By Union Head

Truman Starts Drive To Crack Lewis' Leadership

By NORMAN WALKER

Washington, Nov. 18 — (AP)—Defying the prospect of a government crack down on John L. Lewis, thousands of soft coal miners in the United States today laid down their tools three days ahead of a deadline set by the United Mine workers chief.

As the walkouts spread, President Truman called for a showdown fight with Mr. Lewis and Attorney General Tom Clark summoned aides to another emergency session to expore possible court action against the U. M. W. leader. It was the second such conference in as many days.

Mr. Truman was vacationing in Florida but intimates said he had left orders for subordinates in Washington either to smash Mr. Lewis' leadership of the miners or bring him to terms on a deal to keep mines going.

Mr. Lewis, rejecting a government proposal for a truce, has "terminated" the miners' wage contract effective Wednesday midnight — a signal for a complete shutdown in the mine fields. The government insists the contract still is effective.

In an effort to avert paralysis of American industry, the government already has taken these steps:

1. Posted notices at all mines appealing to the miners to stick at their jobs, despite Mr. Lewis, and pledging to "keep the mines open regardless of any action" by the union boss.

2. "Froze" coal stocks in dealers' hands and instituted rationing of deliveries. The regulations permit deliveries to public utilities, railroads, laundries, hospitals, food processing plants and refrigerator plants, tugboats and domestic consumers having less than 10 days' supply.

Justice Department lawyers were reported to be exploring possible legal action against Mr. Lewis and his United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) in event of a strike. The Smith-Connally Act makes it a criminal offence to incite or encourage a strike in government-seized mines or plants.

President Truman was saying nothing publicly, but at Key West, Fla., intimates of the vacationing president reported he is determined to "fight this one out to the finish."

He was said to have delegated strategy to Interior Secretary J. A. Krug before leaving Washington.

Mr. Lewis withheld comment. The 66-year-old mine union chief has declared his union's contract with the government 'terminated' effective at midnight Wednesday, despite Attorney General Clark's ruling that the pact is binding so long as the government holds the 3,300 soft coal mines it seized last May to end a strike.

The notices posted at the mines and handbills the government directed mine managers to distribute to miners said in bold black letters over the signature of Mr. Krug:

"Notice: To all members of the United Mine Workers of America—

"This mine is in government possession and will remain open. Your contract with the government remains effective, as it very plainly says, for 'the period of government possession.' The government and all the people of the country expect the miners to honor their contract and to mine the coal which the nation needs."

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 18—(CP)—Synopsis: Clear cold weather prevailed over most of the province Sunday night. There is an intensifying snowstorm south of Saskatchewan. This storm is moving northeastward and will cause snow to spread across all of Northern Ontario today. However, the weather over the central United States remains clear and clear weather is expected to prevail over Southern Ontario for Monday and Tuesday.

Cold Wave Relaxes Grip on Prairies But Snow Remains

Winnipeg, Nov. 18 — (CP)—A cold wave which sent temperatures tumbling to as low as 13 below zero relaxed its grip on the prairies today but its place was taken by a snow storm which blanketed the area from the Rockies to the Ontario border.

The snow, expected to last until today, would be followed by another cold wave, meteorologists said.

One death was blamed indirectly on the storm. Bjarni Olafson, 42, drowned in Lake Winnipeg Friday when he fell from an open skiff which was racing to a winter fishing station before the snow closed down. He sank almost immediately in the freezing water and Royal Canadian Mounted Police said dragging operations were abandoned when ice began to form.

Temperatures during the day were expected to rise to 20-25 above zero — a relief from the below-zero recordings over much of the prairies Saturday and Sunday — but another mass of cold air was moving down from the north.

The snowfall up to early today had totalled about five inches in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan. High winds, prevalent in some districts, threatened to bank it along country highways and block them. Snow-removal equipment was in readiness for its first task of the year if required.

There were no immediate reports of flights being cancelled by any of the air lines operating in the west. Communications were not immediately disrupted.

Coldest spots were Prince Albert and Regina, with 11 and 12 below respectively. Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, in southern Alberta, had highs of 25 degrees.

VATTICAN DENIES REPORTS

Vatican City, Nov. 18 —(Reuters)— Vatican sources last night denied Moscow radio reports that a special Christmas consistory of the College of Cardinals would be held at which Archbishop Alojzijc Stepinac of Yugoslavia would be elevated to the rank of cardinal. Moscow radio, quoting "Rome journalistic circles," said the Pope planned to appoint at such a consistory five new cardinals among them the Yugoslav archbishop who is under a 16-year-prison sentence on war crime charges pronounced by a people's court in Crotia.

Leader of Party Revolt Charges Split Of World Into American-Russo Blocs

London, Nov. 18. (CP)—R. H. S. Crossman, leader of a Labor Party revolt in the House of Commons against Foreign Secretary Bevin, charged today that the formation of "a complete and exclusive Anglo-American tie-up"— as urged by Winston Churchill—had been followed by a steady split of the world into American and Russian blocs.

Mr. Crossman, opening a tensely-waited debate as chief spokesman for 58 Labor "rebels", told the House of Commons:

"Go to Paris or any other capital and you will find there is no doubt whatsoever that in the course of the last 18 months Great Britain has lined up on the American side in this struggle."

Prime Minister Attlee, ready to call for a vote of confidence, listened as the young magazine editor-legislator who represents Coventry East, defended his contention that Britain should follow an "Independent" Socialist, Foreign policy.

Mr. Crossman said the Labor government had "drifted away' from its pre-election stand that Britain should be a mediator between the United States and Russia and that 'this gradual drift into the American camp" had occurred without any clear government statement.

"There was," he said, "only one clear statement—that made (by Church) at Fulton, (Mo). That was a clear and downright assertion of a certain policy. It stated quite clearly that there would be an Anglo-American alliance.

"I am assured in America that the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff still exist. I was told on a relatively good authority that most secret intelligence is still pooled between the two countries.

"Now that Germany, Japan and Italy have disappeared, about whom is that most secret intelligence being collected, and if it is being pooled is it not committing us de facto to an alliance?"

DAVID G. LUNAN GIVEN FIVE YEARS FOR ESPIONAGE

Guilty of Conspiring To Communicate Secret Information To Russia From Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (CP). — David Gordon Lunan, former Canadian Information Services officer, was convicted today by Judge A. G. McDougall of conspiring to communicate secret information to Russia and was sentenced today to five years' imprisonment.

Lunan's speedy trial — before the judge alone — ended Friday and Judge McDougall said he would announce his judgment today.

Lunan was said by the Royal Commission on Espionage to have been the leader of a group of Canadian agents operating in Ottawa for the Soviet-inspired espionage ring which had its headquarters in the Soviet Embassy here.

He was one of the original thirteen persons detained last Feb. 15 when the spy inquiry was launched.

Makes Statement,

Given a chance to make a statement, before sentence was pronounced, Lunan told Judge McDougall "I have only this to say in the greatest of respect . . . that I don't consider myself guilty of the charge either in law or in fact."

Judge McDougall, in announcing his decision, said he was convinced that Lunan was guilty and that he had persuaded other government officials to give information for the Russian Embassy.

He described the accused as "an educated, capable man who chose to follow this course of your own free will".

Lunan accepted the sentence stoically and said later he intended to appeal the conviction.

His was the first of a series of espionage trials in county court. The next is that of Agatha Chapman, 39-year-old Bank of Canada economist, who will appear next Monday on a charge of conspiracy.

Lunan was the fifth person convicted of espionage activities as a result of the Canadian spy probe. Three others have pleaded guilty and another three have been acquitted.

TOO MANY YOUNG PEOPLE LEAVE FOR U. S.

Toronto, Nov. 18 —(CP)— One of the saddest features of Canadian history is that we have lost more than 20,000 of our young men and women to the United States, Health Minister Kelley said in an address before the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Occupational Therapy. "It is not right or sensible that we should pay money to educate our young people and then have them move to the United States," the health minister said. He added that another 20,000 young people are waiting permission to leave Canada.

Youth Arrested After Man Dies In Hospital

Toronto, Nov. 18 (CP). — Thought to have been slugged with a pop bottle in his small east end tobacco store early today, Alfred Hull, 45, died in hospital.

Police arrested Raymond Hamilton, 19, said to have lived in Hull's house, on a vagrancy charge. He was remanded a week when he appeared in magistrate's court.

Police said they believed Hull was severely beaten. Doctors used 21 stitches to close a cut extending from the right side of his forehead to the top of his head and his skull was fractured.

Robbery, they said, apparently was not the motive. A sum of money was in Hull's pocket and the interior of the store appeared undisturbed.

Lanes Searched.

Police said it was possible Hull had been beaten with a pop bottle but they found no bottle with bloodstains. They searched lanes and streets in the area for the weapon.

Police found Hull on a couch at the rear of the store where, they learned, he had been in the habit of sleeping.

nly the couch bore bloodstains and investigators said that indicated to them that Hull was attacked as he slept and had no chance to defend himself.

Hull's tobacco store usually remained open most of the night, police said. Hamilton worked there as a night clerk. About 5 a.m. Hamilton called police to the shop where they found Hull unconscious and bleeding on the couch.

Hamilton told police he left the shop for five minutes to go to a restaurant in the same block for coffee. He said it was his custom and that of Hull to leave by the back door, which they left unlatched, when they were to be gone only a short time.

BELLE THEATRE ENTERED, LARGE AMOUNT TAKEN

Burglars Gain Entrance To Theatre Office And Smash Open Wall Safe

Smashing their way through a heavy brick wall to the office vault after gaining entrance to the building by a roof-top pent house, marauders early Sunday morning escaped with the Saturday box-office receipts at the Belle Theatre.

The break-in was discovered shortly after nine o'clock Sunday morning when the janitor, Harry Fuller, went to the theatre.

According to the police entrance to the building was effected by the marauders by means of an iron ladder running up the east end of the theatre. Then smashing their way into the pent-house structure which houses stage operating machinery, the thieves sawed their way through the roof and lowered themselves to the rear of the stage by means of a long rope.

Went to Box Office

After gaining admittance to the theatre the thieves then went to the box office and there attempted to force the heavy steel door of the theatre vault. The combination lock was broken off. Failing to gain entrance to the vault by the door, the thieves used sledge hammer and chisels and bars to remove bricks and mortar from the wall of the vault, following which one of the thieves crawled through the opening to hand out the cash. Tills and trays in the vault were smashed to get at the money.

Two Arrested for Questioning In Holdup Wounding of 3

Toronto, Nov. 18 — (CP)—With drawn guns detectives raided a McGill Street rooming house in downtown Toronto and arrested two men for questioning in connection with the shooting of three persons, one a constable, during a drugstore holdup, police said today.

The two, identified as Fred Passmore, 19, and James Halsey, 22, were charged with breaking into a suburban North York residence and with having offensive weapons in their possession. Police said two .38 calibre revolvers were found on them.

Two young women also found at the rooming house were arrested at the time of the raid, Saturday night, on charges of vagrancy. Passmore and Halsey appeared in court today and were remanded without bail.

The arrests brought to a halt one of the most intensive manhunts in Toronto's history after provincial and Quebec police had been notified to join in the search for what police said were "ruthless killers". The hunt had been conducted on a "shoot it out" basis.

Toronto police said that a wounded man who refused to give his name or reveal the circumstances of his injuries was held under guard by Windsor officers for questioning regarding the Toronto shooting.

Wounded in the gunfight Friday night were Constable Dougald MacKay, 41, shot through the right side; Silvio Lombard, 61, drugstore clerk wounded in the shoulder, and Mrs. Nora Webb, 43, wife of the proprietor, shot in the hip. None is seriously hurt.

The firing began as Constable MacKay, who was in the dispensary, walked out after the gunmen came up to Mrs. Webb and said: "This is it, hand over the cash."

The men fired at the sight of the police uniform and Constable MacKay, wounded in the first volley, replied. Eleven shots were fired at close quarters before the men ran out of the store.

Rescue Party Returns Without Bodies of Victims

Burbank, Calif., Nov. 18—(AP)—An eight-man rescue party came down from 6,000-foot White Mountain last night without the bodies of 11 passengers and crew members killed Wednesday in the crash of a Western Air Lines plane.

Deputy Sheriff Dolney Cummings of Ventura county, leader of the group, said they found 5 bodies, all badly burned, in the plane. The rest presumably were beneath wreckage. Cummings said his party lacked facilities for removing the bodies. Three of the victims were Canadian women.

The co-pilot, Cummings reported, still had a hand on the controls.

No attempt at identification was made, and removal awaited a conference of Ventura and Los Angeles county officers with Western Air officials.

Coroner Suggests Doctor Attached To Police Force

Toronto, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Coroner Smirle Lawson suggested today that a physician be attached to the Toronto police force to examine anyone in the cells who complained of feeling unwell.

The suggestion was made as Dr. Lawson ordered a full probe of the death of Norman Brown, 56, who died in hospital of a fractured skull and other injuries after being held eight hours in jail on a drunk charge.

Employees of a hotel where Brown spent some time Saturday said he fell downstairs during the afternoon. He later was arrested when found in an alley, kept in a police station cell for six hours and then transferred to Don jail. Two hours later he began to show signs of illness, jail officials said.

Freak Accident Injures Three Near Napanee

Napanee, Nov. 18 (CP).—Three persons were injured in a freak accident on No. 2 highway two miles west of Napanee yesterday.

Cecil Kelly of Trenton, was driving east when his 3-year-old daughter Janet rolled out of his car on to the highway when the left rear door opened. Vivian Kelly, 11, jumped out after her sister before the car was stopped.

Baden Lewis, Napanee, driving west, saw the youngster fall from the car 20 feet in front of him, swerved his car to the right to avoid running over her and turned over in the deep ditch. His wife, Daisy, is suffering from concussions.

Kelly told police he was driving about 40 m.p.h. when his daughter fell out. Both Kelly children were treated by Dr. E. R. Ellicott of Napanee.

2 German Generals Deny Massacre Of 335 in Reprisal

Rome, Nov. 18 —(AP)— Two German generals pleaded innocent today before a British military court in Rome to charges that they had ordered the reprisal massacre of 335 Italians in Rome's Ardeatine Caves two months before the Allied liberation of the capital.

The defendants, Col.-Gen. Eberhard von Mackensen and Lt.-Gen. Kurt Maeltzer, are accused of putting the Italians to death in revenge for the killing of 32 Nazi S. S. troops who were ambushed as they marched along a street.

Electric Power Restriction May Come Before '47

Toronto, Nov 18 (CP)—To conserve electric power, restrictions similar to those of wartime may be introduced in Ontario before the end of the year, Dr. T. H. Hogg, Chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said today in an interview.

"We have no reserves of power and if the increase in consumption continues at the present rate we may have to introduce rationing through means of regulations" he said.

The regulations would follow the wartime conservation pattern —reduced street lighting, curtailment of electric signs and store window displays. Coupled with them would be an appeal to the

Husband Attending Morning Chores as Tragedy Strikes

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Staff Reporter)

Madoc, Ont., Nov. 18 — Trapped in the metal-sheeted little home on the outskirts of this Hastings County village, Mrs. Thelma Ray, wife of Ephraim Ray, 32, truck-driver, and her six children were burned to death early today while a distracted husband looked on unable to help his family.

The dead are: Mrs. Thelma Ray, 30; Douglas, 13; Doreen, 10; Allen, 9; Ella, 5; Dianne, 3, and Emerson, 1 year.

The bodies were recovered by a searching party of villagers headed by Ontario Provincial Police Constable J. H. Hatch, who raked the ruins in clouds of smoke and steam after the structure had been reduced to smouldering ashes.

Dr. S. R. Beatty, coroner of the district, stated later that no inquest would be held.

Starts From Stove.

The fire, that turned the little home into a flaming bier within the course of a few minutes, is believed to have started from a kitchen stove. Ray, who owns a small barn and two cows, had risen shortly before six o'clock and lighted a fire in the cooking range located in the southeast corner of the kitchen.

Upstairs, his wife and family slept in one room. Ray, according to police, is said to have gone to the barn after lighting the fire in the stove thinking that, as usual, his wife would get up.

A few minutes later as he was attending his cattle he thought he heard the sound of a window crashing. He rushed out of the barn and as he did, a small explosion, believed to have been caused by combustion, blew out other windows of the house.

Flames roared into the air from one of the two chimneys, while the other gushed a thick volume of smoke. Inside the metal-covered home his family trapped, Ray was helpless to do anything as slowly the red glow of flames began to show through the walls of the house.

Assistance Futile

Villagers rushed to the scene headed by the local volunteer fire department under Chief Mulrooney. Water was poured into the blazing building but the heat was so intense that all efforts to reduce the blaze were futile.

Later the search party battling clouds of smoke and steam entered the razed foundation and succeeded in extricating the charred bodies of the seven victims. The body of one-year-old Emerson, the baby was found burned beyond recognition near the door.

Mrs. Ray, apparently had died in her bed, as had the other members of the family. The bedstead was found in the ashes of the ground floor with the smoking ruins of the mattress partially covering the burned body of the thirty-year-old mother. The other children all of whom slept in the same room of the small two-storey house, were found huddled in death, their arms, legs and heads terribly burned.

Died of Suffocation

It is believed that the entire family died of suffocation or at least were so affected by the thick smoke that they were unable to help themselves. This was apparent from the positions in which the charred remains were found.

Provincial Police Constable Jack Hatch, took charge of the searching party, among whom were Clarence Farrell, Fire Chief Mulrooney, Ralph Smith, Percy Gunn and Frank Boomhour, brother of the young mother. The searchers felt their way through blinding, choking clouds of smoke and steam in a successful effort to extricate the bodies.

"It was so bad at times," said Constable Hatch, "that I could not see the man who was working next to me The terribly burned body of the baby was found near the door where it had fallen from the upstairs room."

House Reconverted

The house was a reconverted barn and was a two-storey affair with one bedroom on the second floor. Ray had sheathed the sides and roof with corrugated steel to ensure additional warmth in winter. The little barn which housed his livestock was approximately 100 feet away from the home.

Ray, it is stated, entered the barn after he had lighted the fire in the kitchen stove and went about his daily round of morning chores. The morning was bright but cold with the mercury hovering about the twenty above mark. He had closed the doors of the barn to keep out the chill morning air.

His first intimation that anything was wrong, according to police, came when he heard the sound of crashing glass. He rushed outside and saw flames shooting out of a chimney. Then came a second minor blast and other windows crashed to the ground.

Flames Spread Quickly

The flames, it is believed, swepty almost instantaneous through the house. Confined inside the structure dense volumes

Tojo Admits Responsibility For Sneak Attack at Pearl Harbor

By FRANK WHITE

Tokyo, Nov. 18 — (AP)—Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo, has admitted responsibility for the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor which began the Pacific War, the International War Crimes Court was told today.

Associate Prosecutor John W. Fihelly read excerpts from the recorded questioning of Tojo Feb. 7 and March 1. Said the record:

". . . You realize that you are the one primarily responsible for the December, 1941, attacks on Pearl Harbor and on American and British possessions?"

"Yes, I am responsible . . . from the standpoint of assistance to the throne, the cabinet is jointly responsible, and, hence, other cabinet members bear responsibility. However, I, as senior member, am the one chiefly responsible. The army chief-of-staff and navy chief-of-staff also bear responsibility."

"Did you not, as premier, know of and approve the attacks which were to be made on Pearl Harbor, Hong Kong, Malaya and the Philippines . . .?"

"Of course. I did know about them, and approved."

The Japanese note handed to State Secretary Cordell Hull an hour after Pearl Harbor was attacked, Dec. 7, 1941, contained no word of war, British Ambassador Sir Robert L. Craigie declared in an affidavit read to the court.

Sir Robert's statement said he was handed a copy of the note, and "hastily perusing it, I discovered there was not a word in it about war."

His affidavit was introduced by the prosecution in support of its charge that Japan violated international treaties by attacking without warning.

Assistance Futile

Villagers rushed to the scene headed by the local volunteer fire department under Chief Mulrooney. Water was poured into the blazing building but the heat was so intense that all efforts to reduce the blaze were futile.

Later the search party battling clouds of smoke and steam entered the razed foundation and succeeded in extricating the charred bodies of the seven victims. The body of one-year-old Emerson, the baby was found burned beyond recognition near the door.

Mrs. Ray, apparently had died in her bed, as had the other members of the family. The bedstead was found in the ashes of the ground floor with the smoking ruins of the mattress partially covering the burned body of the thirty-year-old mother. The other children all of whom slept in the same room of the small two-storey house, were found huddled in death, their arms, legs and heads terribly burned.

Died of Suffocation

It is believed that the entire family died of suffocation or at least were so affected by the thick smoke that they were unable to help themselves. This was apparent from the positions in which the charred remains were found.

Provincial Police Constable Jack Hatch, took charge of the searching party, among whom were Clarence Farrell, Fire Chief Mulrooney, Ralph Smith, Percy Gunn and Frank Boomhour, brother of the young mother. The searchers felt their way through blinding, choking clouds of smoke and steam in a successful effort to extricate the bodies.

"It was so bad at times," said Constable Hatch, "that I could not see the man who was working next to me The terribly burned body of the baby was found near the door where it had fallen from the upstairs room."

House Reconverted

The house was a reconverted barn and was a two-storey affair with one bedroom on the second floor. Ray had sheathed the sides and roof with corrugated steel to ensure additional warmth in winter. The little barn which housed his livestock was approximately 100 feet away from the home.

Ray, it is stated, entered the barn after he had lighted the fire in the kitchen stove and went about his daily round of morning chores. The morning was bright but cold with the mercury hovering about the twenty above mark. He had closed the doors of the barn to keep out the chill morning air.

His first intimation that anything was wrong, according to police, came when he heard the sound of crashing glass. He rushed outside and saw flames shooting out of a chimney. Then came a second minor blast and other windows crashed to the ground.

Flames Spread Quickly

The flames, it is believed, swepty almost instantaneous through the house. Confined inside the structure dense volumes

Miners Begin Laying Down Tools

Days in Advance Of Deadline Set By Union Head

Truman Starts Drive To Crack Lewis' Leadership

By NORMAN WALKER

Washington, Nov. 18 — (AP)—Defying the prospect of a government crack down on John L. Lewis, thousands of soft coal miners in the United States today laid down their tools three days ahead of a deadline set by the United Mine workers chief.

As the walkouts spread, President Truman called for a showdown fight with Mr. Lewis and Attorney General Tom Clark summoned aides to another emergency session to expore possible court action against the U. M. W. leader. It was the second such conference in as many days.

Mr. Truman was vacationing in Florida but intimates said he had left orders for subordinates in Washington either to smash Mr. Lewis' leadership of the miners or bring him to terms on a deal to keep mines going.

Mr. Lewis, rejecting a government proposal for a truce, has "terminated" the miners' wage contract effective Wednesday midnight — a signal for a complete shutdown in the mine fields. The government insists the contract still is effective.

In an effort to avert paralysis of American industry, the government already has taken these steps:

1. Posted notices at all mines appealing to the miners to stick at their jobs, despite Mr. Lewis, and pledging to "keep the mines open regardless of any action" by the union boss.

2. "Froze" coal stocks in dealers' hands and instituted rationing of deliveries. The regulations permit deliveries to public utilities, railroads, laundries, hospitals, food processing plants and refrigerator plants, tugboats and domestic consumers having less than 10 days' supply.

Justice Department lawyers were reported to be exploring possible legal action against Mr. Lewis and his United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) in event of a strike. The Smith-Connally Act makes it a criminal offence to incite or encourage a strike in government-seized mines or plants.

President Truman was saying nothing publicly, but at Key West, Fla., intimates of the vacationing president reported he is determined to "fight this one out to the finish."

He was said to have delegated strategy to Interior Secretary J. A. Krug before leaving Washington.

Mr. Lewis withheld comment. The 66-year-old mine union chief has declared his union's contract with the government "terminated" effective at midnight Wednesday, despite Attorney General Clark's ruling that the pact is binding so long as the government holds the 3,300 soft coal mines it seized last May to end a strike.

The notices posted at the mines and handbills the government directed mine managers to distribute to miners said in bold black letters over the signature of Mr. Krug:

"Notice: To all members of the United Mine Workers of America—

"This mine is in government possession and will remain open. Your contract with the government remains effective, as it very plainly says, for 'the period of government possession.' The government and all the people of the country expect the miners to honor their contract and to mine the coal which the nation needs."

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 18—(CP)—Synopsis: Clear cold weather prevailed over most of the province Sunday night. There is an intensifying snowstorm south of Saskatchewan. This storm is moving northeastward and will cause snow to spread across all of Northern Ontario today. However, the weather over the central United States remains clear and clear weather is expected to prevail over Southern Ontario for Monday and Tuesday.

Cold Wave Relaxes Grip on Prairies But Snow Remains

Winnipeg, Nov. 18 — (CP)—A cold wave which sent temperatures tumbling to as low as 13 below zero relaxed its grip on the prairies today but its place was taken by a snow storm which blanketed the area from the Rockies to the Ontario border.

The snow, expected to last until today, would be followed by another cold wave, meteorologists said.

One death was blamed indirectly on the storm. Bjarni Olafson, 42, drowned in Lake Winnipeg Friday when he fell from an open skiff which was racing to a winter fishing station before the snow closed down. He sank almost immediately in the freezing water and Royal Canadian Mounted Police said dragging operations were abandoned when ice began to form.

Temperatures during the day were expected to rise to 20-25 above zero — a relief from the below-zero recordings over much of the prairies Saturday and Sunday — but another mass of cold air was moving down from the north.

The snowfall up to early today had totalled about five inches in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan. High winds, prevalent in some districts, threatened to bank it along country highways and block them. Snow-removal equipment was in readiness for its first task of the year if required.

There were no immediate reports of flights being cancelled by any of the air lines operating in the west. Communications were not immediately disrupted.

Coldest spots were Prince Albert and Regina, with 11 and 12 below respectively. Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, in southern Alberta, had highs of 25 degrees.

VATTICAN DENIES REPORTS

Vatican City, Nov. 18 —(Reuters)— Vatican sources last night denied Moscow radio reports that a special Christmas consistory of the College of Cardinals would be held at which Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac of Yugoslavia would be elevated to the rank of cardinal. Moscow radio, quoting "Rome journalistic circles," said the Pope planned to appoint at such a consistory five new cardinals, among them the Yugoslav archbishop who is under a 16-year-prison sentence on war crime charges pronounced by a people's court in Crotia.

Leader of Party Revolt Charges Split Of World Into American-Russo Blocs

London, Nov. 18. (CP)—R. H. S. Crossman, leader of a Labor Party revolt in the House of Commons against Foreign Secretary Bevin, charged today that the formation of "a complete and exclusive Anglo-American tie-up"— as urged by Winston Churchill—had been followed by a steady split of the world into American and Russian blocs.

Mr. Crossman, opening a tensely-waited debate as chief spokesman for 58 Labor "rebels", told the House of Commons:

"Go to Paris or any other capital and you will find there is no doubt whatsoever that in the course of the last 18 months Great Britain has lined up on the American side in this struggle."

Prime Minister Attlee, ready to call for a vote of confidence, listened as the young magazine editor-legislator who represents Coventry East, defended his contention that Britain should follow an "Independent" Socialist, Foreign policy.

Mr. Crossman said the Labor government had "drifted away" from its pre-election stand that Britain should be a mediator between the United States and Russia and that "this gradual drift into the American camp" had occurred without any clear government statement.

"There was," he said, "only one clear statement—that made (by Church) at Fulton, (Mo). That was a clear and downright assertion of a certain policy. It stated quite clearly that there would be an Anglo-American alliance.

"I am assured in America that the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff still exist. I was told on a relatively good authority that most secret intelligence is still pooled between the two countries.

"Now that Germany, Japan and Italy have disappeared, about whom is that most secret intelligence being collected, and if it is being pooled is it not committing us de facto to an alliance?"

DAVID G. LUNAN GIVEN FIVE YEARS FOR ESPIONAGE

Guilty of Conspiring To Communicate Secret Information To Russia From Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (CP). — David Gordon Lunan, former Canadian Information Services officer, was convicted today by Judge A. G. McDougall of conspiring to communicate secret information to Russia and was sentenced today to five years' imprisonment.

Lunan's speedy trial — before the judge alone — ended Friday and Judge McDougall said he would announce his judgment today.

Lunan was said by the Royal Commission on Espionage to have been the leader of a group of Canadian agents operating in Ottawa for the Soviet-inspired espionage ring which had its headquarters in the Soviet Embassy here.

He was one of the original thirteen persons detained last Feb. 15 when the spy inquiry was launched.

Makes Statement,

Given a chance to make a statement, before sentence was pronounced, Lunan told Judge McDougall "I have only this to say in the greatest of respect . . . that I don't consider myself guilty of the charge either in law or in fact."

Judge McDougall, in announcing his decision, said he was convinced that Lunan was guilty and that he had persuaded other government officials to give information for the Russian Embassy.

He described the accused as "an educated, capable man who chose to follow this course of your own free will".

Lunan accepted the sentence stoically and said later he intended to appeal the conviction.

His was the first of a series of espionage trials in county court. The next is that of Agatha Chapman, 39-year-old Bank of Canada economist, who will appear next Monday on a charge of conspiracy.

Lunan was the fifth person convicted of espionage activities as a result of the Canadian spy probe. Three others have pleaded guilty and another three have been acquitted.

TOO MANY YOUNG PEOPLE LEAVE FOR U. S.

Toronto, Nov. 18 —(CP)— One of the saddest features of Canadian history is that we have lost more than 20,000 of our young men and women to the United States, Health Minister Kelley said in an address before the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Occupational Therapy. "It is not right or sensible that we should pay money to educate our young people and then have them move to the United States," the health minister said. He added that another 20,000 young people are waiting permission to leave Canada.

Youth Arrested After Man Dies In Hospital

Toronto, Nov. 18 (CP). — Thought to have been slugged with a pop bottle in his small east end tobacco store early today, Alfred Hull, 45, died in hospital.

Police arrested Raymond Hamilton, 19, said to have lived in Hull's house, on a vagrancy charge. He was remanded a week when he appeared in magistrate's court.

Police said they believed Hull was severely beaten. Doctors used 21 stitches to close a cut extending from the right side of his forehead to the top of his head and his skull was fractured.

Robbery, they said, apparently was not the motive. A sum of money was in Hull's pocket and the interior of the store appeared undisturbed.

Lanes Searched.

Police said it was possible Hull had been beaten with a pop bottle but they found no bottle with bloodstains. They searched lanes and streets in the area for the weapon.

Police found Hull on a couch at the rear of the store where, they learned, he had been in the habit of sleeping.

nly the couch bore bloodstains and investigators said that indicated to them that Hull was attacked as he slept and had no chance to defend himself.

Hull's tobacco store usually remained open most of the night, police said. Hamilton worked there as a night clerk. About 5 a.m. Hamilton called police to the shop where they found Hull unconscious and bleeding on the couch.

Hamilton told police he left the shop for five minutes to go to a restaurant in the same block for coffee. He said it was his custom and that of Hull to leave by the back door, which they left unlatched, when they were to be gone only a short time.

BELLE THEATRE ENTERED, LARGE AMOUNT TAKEN

Burglars Gain Entrance To Theatre Office And Smash Open Wall Safe

Smashing their way through a heavy brick wall to the office vault after gaining entrance to the building by a roof-top pent house, marauders early Sunday morning escaped with the Saturday box-office receipts at the Belle Theatre.

The break-in was discovered shortly after nine o'clock Sunday morning when the janitor, Harry Fuller, went to the theatre.

According to the police entrance to the building was effected by the marauders by means of an iron ladder running up the east end of the theatre. Then smashing their way into the pent-house structure which houses stage operating machinery, the thieves sawed their way through the roof and lowered themselves to the rear of the stage by means of a long rope.

Went to Box Office

After gaining admittance to the theatre the thieves then went to the box office and there attempted to force the heavy steel door of the theatre vault. The combination lock was broken off. Failing to gain entrance to the vault by the door, the thieves used sledge hammer and chisels and bars to remove bricks and mortar from the wall of the vault, following which one of the thieves crawled through the opening to hand out the cash. Tills and trays in the vault were smashed to get at the money.

Not content with smashing open

Two Arrested for Questioning In Holdup Wounding of 3

Toronto, Nov. 18 — (CP)—With drawn guns detectives raided a McGill Street rooming house in downtown Toronto and arrested two men for questioning in connection with the shooting of three persons, one a constable, during a drugstore holdup, police said today.

The two, identified as Fred Passmore, 19, and James Halsey, 22, were charged with breaking into a suburban North York residence and with having offensive weapons in their possession. Police said two .38 calibre revolvers were found on them.

Two young women also found at the rooming house were arrested at the time of the raid, Saturday night, on charges of vagrancy. Passmore and Halsey appeared in court today and were remanded without bail.

The arrests brought to a halt one of the most intensive manhunts in Toronto's history after provincial and Quebec police had been notified to join in the search for what police said were "ruthless killers". The hunt had been conducted on a "shoot it out" basis.

Toronto police said that a wounded man who refused to give his name or reveal the circumstances of his injuries was held under guard by Windsor officers for questioning regarding the Toronto shooting.

Wounded in the gunfight Friday night were Constable Dougald MacKay, 41, shot through the right side; Silvio Lombard, 61, drugstore clerk wounded in the shoulder, and Mrs. Nora Webb, 43, wife of the proprietor, shot in the hip. None is seriously hurt.

The firing began as Constable MacKay, who was in the dispensary, walked out after the gunmen came up to Mrs. Webb and said: "This is it, hand over the cash."

The men fired at the sight of the police uniform and Constable MacKay, wounded in the first volley, replied. Eleven shots were fired at close quarters before the men ran out of the store.

Rescue Party Returns Without Bodies of Victims

Burbank, Calif., Nov. 18—(AP)—An eight-man rescue party came down from 6,000-foot White Mountain last night without the bodies of 11 passengers and crew members killed Wednesday in the crash of a Western Air Lines plane.

Deputy Sheriff Dolney Cummings of Ventura county, leader of the group, said they found 5 bodies, all badly burned, in the plane. The rest presumably were beneath wreckage. Cummings said his party lacked facilities for removing the bodies. Three of the victims were Canadian women.

The co-pilot, Cummings reported, still had a hand on the controls.

No attempt at identification was made, and removal awaited a conference of Ventura and Los Angeles county officers with Western Air officials.

Coroner Suggests Doctor Attached To Police Force

Toronto, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Coroner Smirle Lawson suggested today that a physician be attached to the Toronto police force to examine anyone in the cells who complained of feeling unwell.

The suggestion was made as Dr. Lawson ordered a full probe of the death of Norman Brown, 56, who died in hospital of a fractured skull and other injuries after being held eight hours in jail on a drunk charge.

Employees of a hotel where Brown spent some time Saturday said he fell downstairs during the afternoon. He later was arrested when found in an alley, kept in a police station cell for six hours and then transferred to Don jail. Two hours later he began to show signs of illness, jail officials said.

Freak Accident Injures Three Near Napanee

Napanee, Nov. 18 (CP).—Three persons were injured in a freak accident on No. 2 highway two miles west of Napanee yesterday.

Cecil Kelly of Trenton, was driving east when his 3-year-old daughter Janet rolled out of his car on to the highway when the left rear door opened. Vivian Kelly, 11, jumped out after her sister before the car was stopped.

Baden Lewis, Napanee, driving west, saw the youngster fall from the car 20 feet in front of him, swerved his car to the right to avoid running over her and turned over in the deep ditch. His wife, Daisy, is suffering from concussions.

Kelly told police he was driving about 40 m.p.h. when his daughter fell out. Both Kelly children were treated by Dr. E. R. Ellicott of Napanee.

2 German Generals Deny Massacre Of 335 in Reprisal

Rome, Nov. 18 —(AP)— Two German generals pleaded innocent today before a British military court in Rome to charges that they had ordered the reprisal massacre of 335 Italians in Rome's Ardeatine Caves two months before the Allied liberation of the capital.

The defendants, Col.-Gen. Eberhard von Mackensen and Lt.-Gen. Kurt Maeltzer, are accused of putting the Italians to death in revenge for the killing of 32 Nazi S. S. troops who were ambushed as they marched along a street.

Electric Power Restriction May Come Before '47

Toronto, Nov 18 (CP)—To conserve electric power, restrictions similar to those of wartime may be introduced in Ontario before the end of the year, Dr. T. H. Hogg, Chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said today in an interview.

"We have no reserves of power and if the increase in consumption continues at the present rate we may have to introduce rationing through means of regulations" he said.

The regulations would follow the wartime conservation pattern —reduced street lighting, curtailment of electric signs and store window displays. Coupled with them would be an appeal to the

Tojo Admits Responsibility For Sneak Attack at Pearl Harbor

By FRANK WHITE

Tokyo, Nov. 18 — (AP)—Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo, has admitted responsibility for the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor which began the Pacific War, the International War Crimes Court was told today.

Associate Prosecutor John W. Fihelly read excerpts from the recorded questioning of Tojo Feb. 7 and March 1. Said the record:

". . . You realize that you are the one primarily responsible for the December, 1941, attacks on Pearl Harbor and on American and British possessions?"

"Yes, I am responsible . . . . from the standpoint of assistance to the throne, the cabinet is jointly responsible, and, hence, other cabinet members bear responsibility. However, I, as senior member, am the one chiefly responsible. The army chief-of-staff and navy chief-of-staff also bear responsibility."

"Did you not, as premier, know of and approve the attacks which were to be made on Pearl Harbor, Hong Kong, Malaya and the Philippines . . .?"

"Of course. I did know about them, and approved."

The Japanese note handed to State Secretary Cordell Hull an hour after Pearl Harbor was attacked, Dec. 7, 1941, contained no word of war, British Ambassador Sir Robert L. Craigie declared in an affidavit read to the court.

Sir Robert's statement said he was handed a copy of the note, and "hastily perusing it, I discovered there was not a word in it about war."

His affidavit was introduced by the prosecution in support of its charge that Japan violated international treaties by attacking without warning.

INJURED IN FALL FROM BOX CAR

Sustaining severe injuries when he fell from the top of a box car, Mr. Frank Simmons, railroad foreman for the Canada Cement Company at Point Anne, was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday. According to reports Mr. Simmons suffered concussion and a broken hip as well as other injuries and is in critical condition. He is being attended by Dr. J. J. Robertson.

TAXI HITS HYDRO POLE

That it pays to stop an automobile when closing a door was learned over the weekend by a local taxi driver who came to grief on West Moira Street where he collided with a hydro pole breaking it off. In endeavoring to close the tax door the driver inadvertently crossed onto the wrong side of the street and collided with the hydro pole, causing damage to the taxi estimated at approximately $100.

PROJECTORS' UNION MEETS INFORMALLY

Members of the Kingston district branch of the Moving Picture Projectors' Union, Local 523, together with their wives, enjoyed an informal get-together at the Hotel Quinte on Sunday evening when about 35 persons were served dinner by the hotel staff. Union members from Belleville, Napanee, Kingston and Gananoque attended the informal function.

Plans for the dinner party were arranged by Mr. Arthur Sweet, local Capitol Theatre projectionist, who acts as secretary treasurer for the Kingston district branch of the operators' union. The operators' get-together, although an annual affair for the "men behind the machines," was held for the first time in Belleville.

PARTITION ABLAZE IN OPTICAL CO. BLDG.

Firemen were called to the Consolidated Optical Company building on Coleman Street shortly after two-thirty this morning when fire of an undetermined origin set a partition ablaze. Firemen reported small damage as result of the blaze which was discovered by the night watchman.

One other alarm, a chimney fire on Murney Street, was answered by the department over the weekend.

PETERBOROUGH 30-YR. PLAN VIEWED BY LOCAL OFFICIALS

Belleville civic officials, including Mayor Frank S. Follwell, Alderman Harold Armstrong, chairman of regional planning; Robert Pringle, chairman of the industrial commission; Harry Rollins, parks commissioner, and Alderman William Harvey, visited Peterborough Thursday evening for the official opening of the exhibition to present the 30-year program of the development of that city.

Returning officials reported a splendid program which was well presented, showing in detail the contemplated development plans for the city for the next 30 years.

In keeping with the foresight shown by members of the Peterborough council Belleville council has retained planning engineers who are now working on a 20-year plan for this city.

International Arctic Studies Possible in '47

Washington, Nov. 18 —(AP)— Government officials said today that projected international studies of the Arctic regions can get underway next summer if other nations agree.

The program calls for establishing weather stations throughout the Arctic, possibly covering more than 2,000,000 square miles. Studies of the tides and ocean currents also are proposed.

Charles J. Hubbard, the United States weather bureau's Arctic expert, said the United States plans no monopoly on the information that it gathers and scientists who participate will be free to publish their findings.

A.Y.P.A. Debate Winners Over Tweed Team

Bancroft (Special)—The first round of the Hastings-Prince Edward Anglican Young People's Association debating contest saw the elimination of the Tweed debaters when they lost the affirmative side of the resolution "Resolved that the sale of milk in towns and cities should be taken over by the municipal authorities for the benefit of the public." The winners of the debate held in Bancroft Wednesday evening, November 13th were the members of the Bancroft A.Y.P.A. debating team.

The affirmative presented by Mr. Graham Mouck and Miss A. Thompson of Tweed argued that the socialization of the dairy industry would bring lower prices by the more efficient operation possible is larger plants and the elimination of expensive overlapping. For the other hand Miss Grace Maybee and Mr. Donald Russell of Bancroft claimed that better service actually is obtained from private enterprises than from those publicly owned, that prices and health are already controlled by the government and a lowering of prices could only be accompplished by the granting of subsidies at the expense of the taxpayers, and that there was always danger of political interference and preference actually destroying the service.

The judges, Mr. W. Morrison of Bancroft and the Rev. W. J. Robinson of Tweed gave the decision to the negative speakers. The Bancroft debaters will now take on the winner of the Stirling-Frankford debate.

C.N.R. Veterans Hold Smoker

Members of the Canadian National Railways War Veterans Association held their Remembrance Day smoker at the Quinte Hotel on Friday evening with Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church, acting as guest speaker for the evening. President H. McElrath presided over the meeting.

In keeping with the solemnity of the occasion a rehabilitation technicolor sound film showing how the Amps. are overcoming war disabilities was shown while a silent toast was observed in memory of fallen comrades of two wars.

As guest speaker of the evening Rev. Smith replied to the toast to fallen comrades and ably led his audience through his own version of the four freedoms—Freedom from Want, Freedom from Fear, Freedom of Speech, and Freedom of Worship. The speaker represented each phase with a soldier comrade who to him characterized each freedom and followed his army activity until the soldier paid the supreme sacrifice.

Musical entertainment during the evening's program consisted of Mr. E. Brown, solo number; George Gulliver and his accordion, with Mrs. Bradley providing the piano accompaniment and also playing for a spirited period of community singing. Vote of thanks to the guest speaker and to the visiting artists was expressed by Albert Jones.'

Tyendinaga Girl Wins 2nd Place In Public Speaking

Winner of the public speaking contest sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association, Miss Joan Shannon, S.S. No. 22 Tyendinaga, won second place in the district contest held at Brighton on Friday evening. The Brighton contest was held under the auspices of the Northumberland Trustees and Ratepayers' Association.

Second place winner in the Hastings contest, Miss Joan Churchill of Foxboro won fourth place at Brighton. Miss Shannon spoke on "Hastings County" and as second prize winner was awarded a silver cup and book. Miss Churchill spoke on "Madame Curie".

Seven contestants were represented in the contest, coming from Hastings, Northumberland, Durham and Peterborough. The winner was a Northumberland County girl who spoke on "Country and City Life" and won the right to represent Belleville district in Toronto in the spring.

Hastings County was well represented at the Brighton meeting with three officers of the South Hastings Educational Association, President J. A. Warren, Frankford; Vice-president Harry Harrison, Thurlow, and Secretary Mrs. Wanda Sine being present, also Inspector R. H. Macklem.

Among the judges were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Darling of Belleville and Mr. F. Anderson, principal of Frankford Continuation School.

Obituary

THOMAS ANDREWS
(Rawdon Township)

Stirling, Nov. 18 (Special). — Thomas Andrews died in his sleep early Monday morning at his home in the Fourth Concession of Rawdon Township.

Born at Deloro sixty-two years ago the late Mr. Andrews was a son of the late John Andrews and his wife, the late Jane Scrimshaw. For thirty-five years he lived in Rawdon and for a number of years was the carrier of the mail on a rural route. Of late years he was engaged in farming. He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, and fraternally he was a member of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Jessie Liddle of Detlor; three daughters, Mrs. Everett (Emma) Sine of Harold; Mrs. Clarence (Elva) Scott of Mount Pleasant and Mrs. Herbert (Fay) Higgs of Oshawa; two brothers, John Andrews, Belleville, and William Andrews, Springbrook.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

LATE ROBERT H. REID

The funeral of Robert Havelock Reid, late of Holloway, who died in Oshawa on Thursday, Nov. 14th., was held from the home of his son, Mr. James Reid, at Holloway on Saturday afternoon. The service there and at Stirling Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. A. L. Shorten, minister of the Foxboro United Church circuit.

The bearers were Lorne Brough, Herbert Casey, Harold Beattie, Ernest Wilson, Blake McMullen and Norman Parks.

ON CHAN
(Trenton)

On Chan, a native of China, and formerly of Trenton, died in hospital at Kingston on Friday evening after an illness of one year's duration. He was 59 years of age and resided in this district for thirty years.

Surviving him are his wife and one son in China, and two brothers, Wing Chan of Trenton, and Lun Chan of Toronto.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. C. Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church.

MRS. RACHAEL GRAYDON

Mrs. Rachael Graydon died Sunday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. M. Moorman, 12 Charlotte Street, after an illness of six weeks' duration.

Born at Bridgewater, now Actinolite, the late Mrs. Graydon was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Booth. At one time she lived in Cobourg and for the past sixteen years she made her home in this city. She was a member of Bridge Street United Church.

Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. A. W. Stinson of Ville La Salle, Quebec; Mrs. K. E. Moult, Kingston; and Mrs. M. M. Moorman, Belleville; three sons, William A. Graydon of Detroit, Mich.; Theran F. Graydon of Toronto, and H. V. Graydon of New Liskeard; three sisters, Mrs. W. C. Clegg, Pasadena, California; Mrs. J. B. McGinnis, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mrs. M. J. Stanyer, Deseronto.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

SEVEN KILLED

London, Nov. 18 — (Reuters)— Seven persons were killed and 9 seriously wounded in last month's mine disposal operations in the Aachen district of the British zone in Germany, Hamburg radio said today. A total of 9,500 mines were rendered harmless.

James Walker, Former Mayor Of New York, Ill

New York, Nov. 18 —(AP)— The condition of New York's former mayor, James J. (Jimmy) Walker, critically ill at Doctor's Hospital, was reported unchanged early today.

Mr. Walker is suffering from cerebral thrombosis, a hospital bulletin said, and was given the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church yesterday.

Relatives, close friends and associates of the debonair and colorful Walker left the hospital after 1 a.m. today but his personal physician, Dr. Sym Newman, remained at the institution.

Mr. Walker, who had been suffering from headaches of increasing intensity for the last two weeks, was taken to the hospital yesterday morning. Dr. Newman said Walker had been ill for several months and had taken a turn for the worse Saturday night.

Sidney to Buy Road Machinery Worth $12,000

Road machinery worth over twelve thousand dollars was authorized purchased by Sidney township at the last meeting of council held Friday. Councillors authorized the purchase of a D-6 caterpillar tractor at $6,790; a bulldozer at $2,380 and a Frink snowplow at $3,300. Prices are f.o.b Toronto with delivery to be made on or about December 15th 1946.

Four by-laws were passed in council (1) A by-law applying to the minister of municipal affairs to extend the time 60 days for completing the 1947 assessment of the township (2) A by-law to appoint deputy returning officers and poll clerks and to provide polling places, also to appoint a place for holding nomination. (3) A by-law to amend by-law 1208 re school debenture in S.S. No. 2 Sidney. (4) A by-law to licence and regulate public halls in the township of Sidney.

Council recommended that Gordon Phillips be paid $75 for injury to a horse while employed on the township crusher. Reeve S. Nicholson was authorized to sign the November road voucher.

Duplessis Won't Do Business With Ottawa On Present Basis

Gatineau, Que., Nov. 18 (CP)— The door to financial collaboration with the Dominion has been left open to Quebec, but Premier Duplessis says his province won't do business with Ottawa on the basis of present Federal proposals.

While charging Ottawa with actions threatening to disrupt confederation, the Quebec Premier declared in a speech here Saturday his government wants to collaborate" on taxation but on terms other than those now offered.

The latest proposals advanced in last June's Federal budget speech, he said, were "even worse" than those put forward at the Dominion-Provincial conference.

"We have deep-rooted traditions to safeguard," he said. "We say to the other provinces and the Dominion, 'We want to collaborate with you, but remember that collaboration is not a one-way street.' The Federal government today is using the extraordinary powers it abrogated to itself in order that they may administer the affairs of this country any way they see fit.

"The Dominion government is following the very policy which tens of thousands of Canadians sacrificed their lives to defeat—the policy of Fascism, Nazism, Centralization."

The Dominion's policy of dealing individually with the provinces on financial agreements was described by Mr. Duplessis as "encouraging the corruption of confederation." It would cause disunity and set one province against another.

Speaking at the opening of the Canadian International Paper Company's plywood mill here, Premier Duplessis also lashed out at Communist labor leaders. He said Quebec was on the verge of the greatest industrial development of any Canadian province.

The ideal temperature for long storage of potatoes is about 40 to 50 degrees Fahreheit.

Wheat Movements Underway Will Relieve Shortage

By R. K. CARNEGIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (CP).—Movements of wheat now underway are expected to bring quick relief in the shortage of grain in Montreal elevators for overseas shipment, official sources said today.

The shortage has been so great that ships wishing to load wheat have been kept waiting in Montreal harbor for as long as five weeks. Present indications are that the nine ships now waiting will get their cargoes before the danger of the river freeze-up is pressing.

Officials give the following as the reasons for the shortage:

1. The pressing need of wheat overseas during the summer resulted in the elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William being cleared almost entirely of old wheat by the end of the crop year, July 31, and there was an hiatus between the departure of the old wheat and the arrival of the new crop.

2. The maritime strike on the United States Atlantic seaboard caused charterers of ocean space to route several of their ships to Montreal which normally would have been routed to United States ports.

3. The Canadian seamen's strike on the upper St. Lawrence and Great Lakes this summer put back the normal movement of coal and other commodities. To this was added the coal strike in United States. Consequently many lake boats which usually turned to wheat in the fall, remained in the coal carrying business later than they normally would. The excellent fall weather now has relieved this situation considerably.

4. Steamboat companies, knowing of the shortage of grain in the elevators at the head of the lakes in August, preferred to keep their boats in the coal and iron business where there was not the same danger of delays.

5. With the shortage of boats throwing a greater burden on the railways to move wheat to Montreal resulted in a serious shortage of box cars.

Officials here said there has not been any concerted hold-up of deliveries of wheat by the Prairie farmers.

Supporting the contention that formers are not holding back grain, the deliveries of wheat from the Prairie farms to the elevators from Aug. 1 to Nov. 7 this year totalled 188,427,895 bushels and for the corresponding period last year 149,990,642, the increase corresponding generally with the bigger crop this year.

The latest igure for the amount of wheat at lakehead this year, is 21,600,000, compared with 44,796,511 a year ago. The larger 1945 carryover accounts for the higher figure last year.

New Ferry Steamer To be Christened

Kingston, Nov. 18 — (CP) — The new ferry steamer Wolfe Island docked in Kingston harbor today after an 11-day trip from Collingwood. The vessel will be christened today by Mrs. H. A. Stewart wife of Dr. Stewart, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Kingston. The Wolfe Island will be dedicated by Dr. George Brown, Minister of Chalmers United Church, after which Ontario Highways Minister George Doucet will formally present it to members of the Wolfe Island township council.

The ship was converted for ferry service at Collingwood after being purchased by the Highways Department from War Assets Corporation for $225,000. It was originally designed for service in Chinese waters but never left Canada.

The ship, a shallow draft landing craft, is expected to eliminate the complaints of Wolfe Islanders about their lack of ferry service. The Ontario Highways Department bought the vessel and Highways Minister George Doucet will be on hand this afternoon for her christening and a presentation service to members of Wolfe Island township council.

COLLISION WITH DEER INJURES TWO PEOPLE

Stratford, Nov. 18—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Ballantyne, R. R. 3, suffered back injuries when their car was smashed after collision with a 100-pound deer on Highway 19, north of Stratford, last night.

The deer jumped into the path of the car, driven by Mr. Ballantyne, was rolled along the highway for a few yards. Then the car went over it and into the ditch.

Provincial Traffic Officer Charles Anderson of Stratford was called to shoot the animal. The carcass was taken to the Perth County Home.

BELLE THEATRE

the theatre vault the marauders proceeded upstairs to the theatre offices and after jimmying open office doors filing cabinets were searched. Police then believe that the thieves left by the theatre door, leaving their tools behind them.

Some Time Sunday Morning

According to Theatre Manager George Forhan the robbery took place some time after two-thirty as it was then that the janitor Harry Fuller left the building after doing some painting following Saturday evening show.

Today police expressed the opinion that the break-in was conducted by professionals and stated that the mode of operation was similar to that when a drug store in Napanee was entered some weeks ago. The same tactics were also used in Toronto over the weekend when a large number of fur coats were stolen.

FAMILY

of smoke poured up the stairs to envelope the sleeping family. It is thought the upstairs part of the home was the first to crumble under the fierce onslaught of the fire as flames were seen shooting high into the air from a chimney even as the metal-covered sides and roof remained intact.

The distraught husband was helpless. He sent in an alarm and within a few minutes help had arrived. But the villagers unable to do anything were forced to stand by while seven lives snuffed out in the flames.

The bodies were taken later to the Tufts and Kelly Funeral Home. Mr. Ray was taken to the home of his father-in-law, J. Boomhour, where he was given attention by Dr. Beatty. Ray was employed as a truck driver with the Reliance Fluorspar Mining Syndicate. His vehicle which stood near the former home was undamaged by the flames.

There were no classes today at the Madoc Public school where officials, stunned by the disaster ordered it closed.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY

By ROGER WHITE

The news is out! Yes, we are to have two big B's in the school, one for athletics, and one for other outstanding achievements. John O'Flynn announced the joyous news and from the cheers of the audience, it is easy to see that the majority of the students are well satisfied.

Boyd Upper informed us that a course in public speaking is being offered under the direction of Mr. Bowden. This is a wonderful opportunity for students interested in this line.

The ultra-smart school Christmas cards have arrived and are on sale at 80c a dozen. There is a limited quantity, so we are urged to do our shopping early.

A movie entitled "Water — Friend or Foe" was offered on the stage. It dealt with the danger of the seepage of germs into wells. Came noon hour, many students rushed home to check on the location of their outhouses, while the band did justice to "The Queen City — Toronto".

GIRLS' SPORTS

By RUTH MEADES

There were no scheduled games this week in the girls' gym due to the fact that men were walking all over the ceiling. That is to say — the girls' gym was being repaired.

On Monday evening at seven o'clock a girls' team from Napanee High School is coming down to challenge our girls to a volleyball game. After the game both teams will retire to the cafeteria where hot chocolate, sandwiches and cookies will be served. This should be a very enjoyable evening for both teams and the resulting score will be in next week's issue.

XII-B THROWS FORM PARTY

By RUTH MEADES

Well, well, well! Is everybody happy? Quote and unquote (B. D.). XII-B had a form party last Wednesday night in the form of a hay-ride which later adjourned (or conjourped) to Mary Hamilton's home six miles out of Belleville. Has anybody got a remedy for a "stiff neck?" If so, please notify a few kids in our form.

After walking half the way during the hay ride we returned to Mary's where a phonograph was playing sweetly and joyously — "Put that kiss back where you found it". Mrs. Hamilton very kindly served hot-dogs, cokes and apples. After every last morsel of food was devoured (even the plates, it seems) we wandered, and I do mean wandered, due to a certain car that took the whole road. Most of us were home by 12 o'clock. (Most of us, that is).

On behalf of our form I wish to thank Mary very much for a most enjoyable evening and I do hope your house is still intact.

BOYS' SPORTS

By GEORGE WARD

The last game of the season was shoved over by our juniors who triumphed over the Albert boys to a tune of 24 to 5, winning the Bay of Quinte championship. The B.C.I. boys really outdid themselves by catching high and low passes, making long broken-field runs and kicking high and far ones.

Their next game was played on Saturday, in Peterboro against Lindsay. Yeah Team!!

HOUSE LEAGUE

Watkins vs. Garrow was the first game last week. The score being, Watkins 19, Garrow 9.

Miller's team had a field day over Vaughn's team, when they ran off 34 points to Vaughn's 2.

The lowest scoring game yet was played between Vaughn's and Garrow's teams, Garrow 7, Vaughn 3.

Spaffords', runners-up for first place were taken out by Watkins' team last Tuesday. In a hard game Watkins' chalked up 13 points to Spafford's 3.

The senior basketballers have started practice for another season, helped out by some juniors.

Junior practice isn't determined yet as rugby isn't over.

All eligible juniors should turn out for this fast, artful game. If "Red" calls you farmer, don't believe him.

The athletic big "B" is still in circulation, and gives all you men(?) a chance to become the proud possessor of one.

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE

By Boyd Upper

"Mr. Bennet, Mr. Bennet, (Leo Marcus) the great house at Netherfield has been let at last to some rich young man. Wouldn't he make a wonderful husband for one of our girls?"

Always interested in a heaven-sent romance, I stopped to hear more. A stifled yawn and a leisurely stretching was the immediate reply to this excited query of Mrs. Bennet (Lois Flindall). What manner of cad was this to react so slowly to such an important question?

Just then Miss Merry dashed into view, followed by business manager, Dick Stackhouse, and four paint-smeared stage hands. What was going on? Suddenly the light dawned and I realized that this was a rehearsal for "Pride and Prejudice" that colossal production to be staged November 28 and 29 with an all star cast in our auditorium. Not wishing to spoil the play for myself later, I tiptoed out leaving Lois still pleading for enthusiasm and Leo still yawning.

CUFF NOTES

If Jack Kuntze and fourteen assistants look like fugitives from a haunted house, blame the "Elevator." Jack and his crew of coworkers belong to that dauntless breed of man known as salesmen. With utter disregard for life and limb these noble fellows and girls have undertaken to sell advertising for the school magazine.

They have consented to canvass the entire city for ads with an enthusiasm that defies description. Every store, factory and place of business is to be covered. Like a well-drilled team these salesmen and saleswomen have gone about the task of selling the school magazine to the business men of the city.

Last Friday morning these sales teams assembled at the school for zero hour instructions. The city had been divided into seven districts with one team of salesmen to each district. A few final instructions were issued, followed by an exhortation not to let the storekeepers pass up such an opportunity, and the party was off.

ART EXHIBIT

Special by Harriet Cronk

Did you know that there is to be an exhibition of paintings in our cafeteria next week? I am sure everyone will want to see these works as they are done by local artists; several being former students of this school. I understand that George De Carlo and Bill Davies have made quite a name for themselves in Toronto, winning all kinds of honors at art school. They, along with Margaret Williams, Bob McCormick, several members of Mr. Allen Cameron's art class and many others are exhibiting. Also there is to be one room devoted entirely to student art. Be sure to come either Tuesday evening (Nov. 26) or Wednesday afternoon or evening. The admission is only 15c.

POETRY?

There seems to me to be in anatomy,
No case like the human heart,
For they take it apart with dextrous art
To see what there is to see.
It's not what they find that makes me mind,
For the things they are able to see,
Are nothing more than flesh and gore,
Though they say it with fiendish glee,
That with one more rhyme and a little more time
They'd reveal to both you and me,
The part of the heart that holds the love
That's given to all by the God above.
It may not be true but I'm forced to say,
I hope I never live to see the day.

FROGS' LEGS BRING PROFIT

Carleton Place, Ont., Nov. 18 —(CP) — So long as frogs' legs are considered a tasty dish in Montreal and other cosmopolitan centres, three Carleton Place natives will continue to provide them — at a handsome profit.

George and Henry Willis and Archie Knox have been in the frog-catching business for several years, selling their catch on Montreal markets at an average of 30 cents per pound.

Henry Willis, one of the oldest frog catchers in town, said he had shipped as much as 2,300 pounds of frogs' legs in a season, worth roughly $700. He has become so expert in spearing frogs from his boat that he can catch close to 50 pounds within a short time. He then cuts off the legs and skins them ready for shipment.

Dozen Persons Die Accidently In East Canada

(By The Canadian Press)

Eastern Canada fatalities recorded during the weekend by a Canadian Press survey showed that 12 persons lost their lives — six in Ontario, five in Quebec, and one in New Brunswick.

In Belleville Louis Duquette, 87, died Saturday from injuries suffered when he was pinned to the ground by the branches of a tree he had felled.

Mrs. John Upper was killed late Friday when struck by an automobile on No. 3 Highway near Dunnville.

At Staffa, near Stratford, a 63-year-old farmer, Charles Tuffin, died in hospital Saturday of injuries suffered in a fall from a hay mow several days ago.

Morris H. Solomons, 71-year-old pensioner, died in hospital at London 18 hours after he was found unconscious on the highway between Talbotville and St. Thomas. Police are investigating the possibility the man was struck by an automobile.

In Toronto, Norman Brown, 56, arrested Saturday on a charge of drunkenness, died in hospital yesterday as a result of a fractured skull and lacerated brain. An inquest has been ordered.

Percy Adams, 28, of Granby, Que., died in hospital from shock and exposure after a canoe in which he was paddling capsized Sunday in the Ottawa River near Deep River.

Struck by Car

In the Montreal area weekend accidents killed four persons.

Helene Chalkousky, 15, Lachine, died when struck by an automobile driven by Hubert Hudson, who was held on a charge of drunk driving.

Frank Meduri, 81, a painter, broke his neck in a fall from an eight-foot stepladder at Point Claire. He died almost instantly.

Hector Nadeau, 48, died in an ambulance Saturday afternoon after he was struck by an automobile in Montreal's north end.

At Sa. Philippe, Lionel Laurin, 51, was knocked from his bicycle by a passing car and was killed.

At St. Nicolas, Robert Gosselin, 13, was shot dead by his cousin Yvon Gosselin, also 13. The youths were playing with a rifle when Yvon pointed it at his cousin and it discharged, sending the bullet through Robert's head.

In the only fatal accident reported from the Maritimes, Alphonso Leblanc, 33, was killed when struck by a car on the highway near Baie Verte, N.S.

65 YEARS AS CHEESE MAKER

Lonsdowne, Nov. 18 —(CP)— William Kaiser, 78, one of Canada's oldest cheese makers, after 65 years in the business, has sold his factory and intends to retire. In his long career he has been decorated at exhibitions by American and Canadian governments, once winning a medal at the Buffalo N.Y., World's Fair for a cheese 98¾ per cent perfect, a score still considered an enviable one.

B.C. University Freshette Wins Beauty Award

Vancouver, Nov. 18 — (CP) — University of British Columbia could boast today that when it comes to campus queens it has the best in the west.

Tall, 17-year-old Marion Albert, dark-haired Vancouver freshette at U.B.C., Saturday night was the unanimous choice of 3 judges as the college 'dream girl' of Western Canada.

It wasn't an easy choice for the judges, three impartial males from Seattle, for they had to choose among eight beautiful girls in evening gowns. There were two each from the Universities of British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba, and Regina College in Saskatchewan.

But it was over and Marion, youngest of the eight, who never thought she'd win, was crowned queen of them all. Even the seven Saskatchewan students at U.B.C. who started the whole thing by writing home to Regina that the prairies had the most beautiful girls were satisfied.

Said Allan Blyth, 27-year-old engineering student from Regina and one of the seven instigators: "After seeing all those queens I've got to admit it's hard to choose. But it was a good show and I think the contest should be an annual affair."

Roy Olson, 25-year-old Reginan, had to admit the U.B.C. campus had some mighty fine-looking girls after all. "She was the best-looking of the lot," he said of Marion.

That was the thought too of 4,000 students and others who attended the Saturday night dance at which the contest took place. When the judges came in with their unanimous decision it was the signal for hilarious bedlam.

Highway Code

A new Highway Code has been adopted in Britain and there has been a house-to-house distribution through the post office, commencing in London and one or two of the larger provincial towns. It will take 14,000,000 copies to carry out the plan.

This code has been issued by the Ministry of Transport with approval of the British Parliament. It sets a standard of road conduct to which every road user — the pedestrian and cyclist as well as the motorist—is asked to conform in the interests of the safety of all.

Safety on the roads is being more and more emphasized in every land with the purpose of cutting down accidents and so preventing the heavy loss of life and materials and toll of injuries. Reports of highway department carry comment on conduct on the roads and emphasize the absolute requirement of safety precautions with the idea of educating everyone who uses the roads and highways to the supreme need of exercising care to safeguard drivers and all others using them.

Japan's Prospects, U. K. Policy

Economic conditions to be applied to Japan are being worked out by the Far Eastern Commission in Washington consisting of eleven countries with interests in the Far East. Detailed decisions are not yet made but Sir Stafford Cripps, President of the British Board of Trade, indicated the considerations that weigh with the United Kingdom Government in framing instructions to their representative.

These are governed by the Potsdam Declaration, stating "Japan shall be permitted to maintain such industries as will sustain her economy and allow the exaction of just reparations in kind but not those industries which will enable her to re-arm for war. To this end access to, as distinguished from control of raw materials shall be permitted. Eventual Japanese participation in world trade relations shall be permitted."

Japanese economic power, said Cripps, will ultimately emerge weakened as a result of two operations, neither of which is directly related to any commercial consideration. Restrictions will be imposed on Japanese industry to render Japan permanently incapable of waging another aggressive war. These restrictions will include regorous pruning and, where necessary, the total elimination of certain industries. It is certain that Japanese steel, heavy engineering, chemicals, shipping, aircraft, and metals industries will, on security grounds, undergo at least a severe reduction.

Secondly, there will be reductions in other industries consequential on the above so as to leave Japan with a balanced economy. Finally all Japanese physical and economic assets abroad will be taken away. The surplus equipment thrown up by these operations will be available as reparations.

When these measures have been taken Japanese economy, already dislocated by the war in which plant and equipment suffered severe damage from the air, will be in a gravely if deservedly crippled state. Japan lost its overseas assets and the Empire and population of 80,000,0000 will henceforth be concentrated in the home islands. Economic recovery will, therefore, be beset by acute difficulties. It will be the United Kingdom policy to endeavor to eliminate unfair competition not only in Japan but wherever it arises by international agreement and in any way that offers. The United Kingdom Government will also make all efforts to ensure that any international agreement or general understanding which can be arrived at on these matters is accepted and carried out by Japan. It is to be hoped that Japan herself is in the course of being set on new economic paths and that the forcible breaking up of the oligarchic corporate system of industry will clear a way for development on more democratic lines with the rising standards of wages and living that that implies.

The United Kingdom Government do not, however, consider it practicable to reduce or eliminate Japanese competition in the export markets by yet another surgical operation on those export industries which have no direct war potential. Japan must be left in such a position that she can become and remain internationally solvent, otherwise she will require permanent foreign support in the form of direct or indirect subsidies. It is highly improbable that any nation will be prepared to contribute continuously to Japan's support in this way.

To balance her payments Japan must export and after the severe curtailment which will be imposed for security reasons on her heavy industries she will have to concentrate on the lighter industries including textiles.

The Coming Season

Childhood and parents and salespeople have become conscious of the near approach of the Christmas season. Five weeks hence will be Christmas week. That may seem almost impossible for fine weather has tended to make people forget that not much time is to be lost now in preparing for the season which reaches the height of the year, the year's great event.

Shops are displaying and have already for some time been displaying presents and gifts of all sorts so that buyers will have no one to blame if they delay purchase. As expected the toymakers and others who prepare for the Christmas trade have used materials, suggestions and ideas for the coming festival of Christmas which will go far to make Yuletide season one long to be remembered by the young especially, though the older will not lack and never have lacked for gifts. The war has been over for about a year and a half and materials which went into preparations for war have been becoming available for manufacturing of peacetime articles which include toys and other desirable articles.

So Santa Claus will soon make his appearance. He has already made a pre-Christmas arrival in Toronto to the delightful of tens of thousands of youngsters and in every community boys and girls will be waiting for the time to pass so that Santa and his bag of gifts may come.

It will not be long now before in Sunday schools the plans will begin for annual entertainment in those crowded evenings about Christmas time.

New Forms of Transfusion

Blood transfusions are being used more and more in new ways for treating every sort of disease, it is reported from England. An outstanding success has been achieved there by a Blackpool doctor in combatting rheumatism. The blood with which the doctor injects his patient is not drawn from a healthy person but from the patient himself. The blood is then exposed to the rays of an ultra-violet lamp and is finally put back into the rheumatic patient.

Look Who's Here

It's a small world—so small that nations jostle each other at every move and privacy appears unattainable.

Searching for a secluded and chilly corner in which to conduct secret naval training, America picked Antarctica, leaving the Arctic out of consideration so as not to further fray over-sensitive Russian nerves.

But will she find seclusion in the shadow of the more distant pole? We fear not. Russia, it is announced, is also organizing an Antarctic project.

Newspaper Facts

The fundamental nature of daily newspapers in daily life was pointed out recently by Clarence S. Brigham, Director of the American Antiquarian Society, when he said: "No history of a town or city can be written without recourse to its newspapers."

Haste and rashness are storms and tempests, breaking and wrecking business; but nimbleness is a full fair wind blowing it with speed to the haven.—Fuller.

MORE EXCITEMENT

There is no dullness where children are thriving.
Pride of achievement seems daily arriving.
Wake in the morning, the telephone, ringing,
News of remarkable progress is bringing.
Only turned six, and discarded her tricycle!
Ellen Elizabeth's riding a bicycle.

Only turned six, and the truth, if she knew it,
Ten years had gone before grandpa could do it.
Her Dad was slower, and so was Aunt Janet
But skill is a mystery. No one can plan it.
Pluck seems to rise when the lure's so "enticical."
Ellen Elizabeth's riding a bicycle.

Here's an achievement deserving gold medals.
Legs scarcely able to reach to the pedals.
Last time her birthday had only six candles.
Soon she'll be steering her hands off the handles.
Cheer! For wouldn't were cold as an icicle.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 18th., 1926

Mr. and Mrs. H. McCreary of Latta, are attending a meeting of the Canadian Independent Telephone Association in Toronto.

Mrs. Hines has left for her home in Sault Ste. Marie after visiting Mr. and Mrs. David Silvester in this city.

Mrs. John Rickett, 13 Earl St., discovered a most unusual specimen of hen's egg when she visited the chicken coop this morning. The egg, which measured eight inches in length and 6½ inches in circumference, weighs one quarter of a pound. It was laid by a grey Plymouth Rock pullet and is double-yolked.

Mr. V. D. Lemon of the Madoc branch of the Bank of Commerce, has been transferred to the bank's branch in this city.

30 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 18, 1916

Mr. Thomas C. Thompson has returned home after a business trip to the western part of the province.

Mr. J. H. Brown, of St. Paul, Minn., is here on a visit to his sister, Mrs. W. A. Watts.

Under the auspices of Quinte Chapter, I.O.D.E., a tea was given Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. E. B. Fraleck, Moira Street West, which was a most enjoyable and successful affair. Over $100,000 was realized and this money will be applied to a worthy object. A beautiful cloth, the gift of Mrs. George McCarthy, was won by Mrs. Hope McGinnis.

40 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 18, 1906

The roadway on Front St. has been cleaned and the work was not done before it was badly needed.

The directors of the West Hastings Women's Institute met in the city on Saturday and appointed Mrs. A. Loucks, of Foxboro, as delegate to the Institute convention which is to be held in Guelph on December 12th. These wide-awake and progressive women are very enthusiastic about the benefits of the Women's Institute to those who attend the meetings.

Messrs. Robert Foy, D. Grass and G. Wardhaugh have returned home after hunting at Little Weslemkoon Lake. They brought home their full complement of deer.

Miss Katharine Shea, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. John Shea, Church St.

Mrs. M. J. Hendrick is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Brown, formerly of this city, now of London, Ontario.

50 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 18, 1896

Mr. R. H. Casement's hardware store in Madoc was broken into on Tuesday night last and a cash register carried off, also a quantity of goods including four revolvers.

The following have been elected Stewards of Holloway Street Methodist Church: Messrs. Lewis Grills, Charles Clapp, N. M. Ostrom, W. J. Magrath, D. Bush, P. W. Fairman and P. Canniff.

Harry Lindley and the members of his company who are here on a two weeks' engagement are stpping at Hotel Carman.

Last night Mr. C. H. Vermilyea's fine mastiff dog was poisoned, as was also a spaniel belonging to Mr. William Cook. Both dogs were valuable and their owners feel keenly their loss.

Surgeon Major Robert Tracy of the 49th. Hastings Rifles, Belleville, has been granted the honorary rank of Surgeon Lieut.-Colonel.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is the difference between yams and sweet potatoes?

Sweet potatoes were confused with yams at an early date because they belong to somewhat similar families of plants.

True yams belong to the "Dioscoraeceae" and are not botanically close relatives of the true sweet potatoes.

It was natural for the early explorers to confuse the two. 'Yam' is believed to be of African Negro origin. In 1492 Columbus described the sweet potatoes found in the West Indies as "Niames resembling carrots, with a savor of chestnuts." Twenty-four years later a writer said the pariahs in India "live on the inane (yam), which are like the root of incca or batate found in the West Indies."

The sweet potato is found nowhere in the truly wild state, but there are about 200 known species of wild yams, most of them indigenous to Africa, although one species at least is native to both Europe and North America.

Now "yam" and "sweet potato" are virtually synonymous in the South. There "yam" is applied to any variety of sweet potato that is large, mealy, deep-colored and sugary, while "sweet potato" is restricted to any variety of sweet potato that is comparatively small and dry.

The subject is further confused by the fact that in Scotland white or Irish potatoes are called yams.

True yams are cooked in the same way as sweet potatoes, but are coarser and less palatable. Many varieties are cultivated in the West Indies, Polynesia and other tropical regions, where the tuberous roots replace potatoes as the chief starch food.

BREAD AND REJUVENATION

I might have known it would happen. In fact I had intended to explain about it when I gave the outline of the Vite Diet here two or three weeks ago—the menu for the Corrective Protective Diet, the Regeneration or Rejuvenation or Basic Health Diet—but it slipped my mind. So now a lot of readers are inquiring whether I really meant to exclude bread from the diet or whether bread was left out by the printers.

What I had intended to explain is that the menu as it stands — incidentally it is an excellent reduction diet for persons over 18 years of age—is merely a kind of pattern to follow in building your own health or vite diet. As it stands it yields approximately 2250 calories a day. That is not enough for an adult who is reasonably active.

It is up to you to choose for yourself what additional item or items you shall eat to provide the extra calories you need to keep fit. Bread, toast, rolls, crackers, pancackes, cake, corn pone or fried corn meal mush—ow, wow, wow—I'm off again, far, far away, dreaming of those old-fashioned yeast-raised all buckwheat pancakes mother used to make when Birkett's price buckwheat flour from Penn Yan and maple syrup from Milan, Pa., arrived—please, now, folks, don't send me any surefire recipes, for I have a file bursting with 'em, but a fellow can't eat recipes—and of crisp gloden-brown slabs of fried corn meal mush along with coffee and more coffee brewed without boiling so it keeps all the flavor which so many alleged cooks drive off into the atmosphere as aroma—oh, well, no harm in just dreaming, is there?

Instead of white bread make it whole wheat bread — not just white bread containing a dash of near whole wheat, but bread made of wheat flour from which nothing has been removed. This supplies not only the same calories as refined white bread supplies, but also a considerable amount of vitamin B complex which almost everybody needs for the improvement of metabolism and the building of vite.

Along this line let me suggest once more that the smart home manager should keep on hand a supply of plain wheat just as it comes from the threasher and a handmill or a small power mill to grind the wheat into meal or flour for use in the everyday family dietary. On written request (do not use a clipping, please), if you inclose a self addressed envelope, I'll send you a pamphlet "What to Eat" that gives recipes and other information which will help you to restore wheat to its proper place in domestic economy.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Make Face and Hear Better

I owe you my gratitude for the great improvement in my hearing which has occurred since I began following the exercises described in your pamphlet. I have followed the exercises faithfully for six months and my friends are amazed at my improvement.

(Mrs. J. E. M.)

Answer—Thank you. I promise no definite improvement in hearing but some deaf patients regain improved hearing by means of the exercises described in pamphlet "Tinnitus and Deafness"—for copy send stamped envelope bearing your address.

Symptoms

You of all people should know the powerful effect of auto-suggestion. When you describe the symptoms of a disease many people will think they have the symptoms. Are you interested in improving health or in drumming up trade for your profession?

(Mrs. A. R. E.)

Answer—Thank you. I try hard to avoid suggesting symptoms. If you would cite the instance which occasioned your criticism it would be more helpful. But anyway I thank you for the comment — it will not go for naught.

British Note To Make Protest To Romania

London, Nov. 16 (Reuters) — Adrian Holman, British Minister in Bucharest, has been instructed to deliver a new British note to the Romanian government protesting against preparations now under way for next Tuesday's general elections, it was learned on good authority here today.

The British note is believed to express regret that reports from Romania still show that full freedom is not being accorded to the opposition parties.

The note maintains that Britain has every right to press for the fulfilment of assurances—given by the Romanian government at the time of its recognition last spring—that civil liberties would be guaranteed.

About Thousand Want to Come Home After All

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Nov. 16 (CP)—About 1,000 Canadian ex-servicemen living in Britain want to go home after all.

Among them are some of the 2,413 discharged overseas from the Canadian Army since the war ended and some of the estimated 3,500 ex-servicemen who have returned to Britain since discharge in Canada.

Their reasons for seeking repatriation are numerous. Many chose to stay here becouse of wives and sweethearts. Now they have settled down to married life there seems no further point in living under the austere post-war conditions which still prevail.

A number of Canadians attracted by jobs in Britain have since discovered that wages and labor conditions are not as favorable as in Canada.

Temporary jobs led many to seek discharge in Britain. When these jobs ceased they had to take less attractive work offered by National Employment agencies.

And an official of Canadian Legion War Services said Canadian servicemen — particularly young men—were rather "deluded" by the welcome extended to them when they came over in uniform.

"When they took off their uniforms, they became just ordinary civilians, scarcely distinguishable from British civilians, and some of the hospitality to which they had been accustomed seemed to diminish," he said in an interview.

The post-war British diet may have been responsible for turning some ex-servicemen's thoughts in the direction of home.

TRENTON

Winnipeg Chaplain Being Moved To Trenton Command

Trenton — Squadron Leader J. W. T. VanGorder, the Protestant Chaplain at No. 2 Air Command Headquarters in Winnipeg will take over the Command Chaplaincy at No. 1 Air Command Headquarters, Trenton, in November.

Squadron Leader J. W. T. VanGorder was born at Jordan Station, Ontario, and educated at Central Collegiate and McMaster University in Hamilton, graduating in Theology at Emmanuel College in Toronto. During the last year of college VanGorder was the student assistant to the Reverend Norman Rawson at Centenary United Church in Hamilton.

Ordained at Galt, Ontario, in June, 1938, VanGorder was sent to the Parish of St. David's in Queensboro, Ont. In the spring of 1940 he received a call to the Memorial United Church in St. Catharines and remained there until he entered the chaplain service of the R.C.A.F. in January, 1942.

In February, 1944, VanGorder went overseas and became the squadron chaplain for the R.C.A.F. 405 Pathfinder Squadron, remaining with that Squadron until December, 1944, when he became a travelling chaplain working with No. 3 District Headquarters overseas. He was repatriated to Canada in November, 1945, and was posted to No. 2 Air Command Headquarters in Winnipeg where he served as the Command Protestant Chaplain up to the present time.

At a meeting of the Trenton V.O.N. held on Tuesday evening last, December 5th was set as the tentative date for V.O.N. day in Trenton, marking the launching of a drive to raise $1,500. The organization is under the direction of Councillor Norman Banfield, who outlined plans at the meeting. The V.O.N. treasury is greatly depleted at the present time owing to the fact that no carnival was held this year for obvious reasons.

W. I. Meeting

The monthly meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. George Kerr. Mrs. W. D. Lavender presided over a good attendance of members. Following the opening exercises response to the roll call was made with "an Ontario County and what it is noted for". The treasurer's report as given by Mrs. J. Gordenier was most encouraging. A letter of gratitude was received from the Salvation Army thanking the branch for the fine result of the canvass undertaken on the Army's behalf. As in former years, a donation was voted for the work of the Navy League. Mrs. E. C. Prentice gave the report of the Girls' Work. Thirty-four girls have joined and meetings will be held in St. Andrew's Hall. As district delegate to the Area convention held in Belleville, last month, Mrs. J. Gordenier gave a splendid report. Yarn and sewing materials were distributed to members to be made into articles for the work of the Salvation Army.

Mrs. M. Kouri gave an autobiography of Princess Elizabeth.

Mrs. P. Gordon, then took charge of the meeting for the presentation of the program. A pianoforte solo was played by Mrs. E. Belanger.

An interesting reading on "The Women of Yellowknife", was given by Mrs. W. G. Chrysler, who also was the winner in a "Remembrance Day" contest which followed.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Connor.

WEDDINGS

KRELL—DRUMMEY

The marriage of Mary Lourdes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Drummey, Marysville, Ont., to Peter Krell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Krell, of Stoughton, Saskatchewan, took place at St. Basil's Church, Toronto, on Nov. 9th., Rev. Father Diemer officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was unattended. She wore a powder blue wool crepe dress and matching hat trimmed with ostrich plumes. Red roses and bouvardia made up her bouquet.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the groom's brother. Later the couple left for a motor trip to Buffalo, N.Y.

JAMIESON—MURPHY

Marmora. (Special.)— Sacred Heart Church decorated with white and yellow 'mums, was the scene of a pretty Autumn wedding on Thursday morning at 9.30 when Teresa Suzanne Murphy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierie Murphy, of Deloro, became the bride of Donald George Jamieson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jamieson, of Kingston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. J. Farrell.

The wedding music was played by Miss Rita Deacon and Mrs. Hugh Brady sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "On This Day". During the Nuptial Mass the Children's Choir rendered the hymn "O Sacred Heart".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a floor-length gown of white slipper satin fashioned on princess lines with matching veil and a gold locket and chain, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Miss Maurice Maloney, a classmate of the bride was bridesmaid. Her gown was a blue satin with matching headdress of ostrich plumes. She carried a nosegay of fuchsia and roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Irvin Joseph Albertson, of Kingston, and the ushers were Messrs. Clarence and Hanley Murphy, brothers of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received wearing a dress of black crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of baby 'mums and roses. She was assisted by Mrs. George O'Neill, aunt of the groom, on behalf of the groom's mother, who was ill. Mrs. O'Neill wore a turquoise dress and a corsage of 'mums and roses.

For a trip to Toronto and points west, the bride chose a cerise wool dress with matching feather hat and smoke blue topcoat. On their return they will take up residence at Kingston.

Out-of-town guests included Misses Ruth, Helen and Dorothy Jamieson, Mrs. Alice McKnight, Mr. Vernon Morrison, Miss Ethyl Hopkinson, Mrs. Charles Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Verney, Miss Mary Cakin, Miss M. McGlade, Miss D. R. Alfred, Mrs. John McIlroy and Miss Pauline Jackson all of Kingston.

FLUKE—ARCHER

Marmora. (Special.)—At St. Andrew's United Church parsonage on Friday, November 8th., at 2.30 p.m., Lois Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Archer and Otis Niles Fluke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Niles Fluke, were united in marriage. Rev. E. M. Cadigan performed the ceremony. The attendants were Aletha Doreen Nicholas and John Albert Fluke. They will reside in Marmora.

GROSJEAN—WAITE

Wooler, (Special.)—On Saturday afternoon, November 9th., at 2 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Waite, the marriage of their daughter, Bertha Genevieve, to Francis Charles Grosjean, son of Mrs. Grosjean and the late Mr. F. Grosjean, of Orland, was solemnized with Rev. W. Delve officiating. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Delve.

The ceremony took place beneath an arch from which a large white bell was suspended. Pink and white streamers tall pink candles and baskets of 'mums decorated the rooms.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white satin made with dropped shoulder, nylon yoke, full gathered skirt and bodice buttoned down the back. The sleeves were long with pointed cuffs. Her fingertip length veil of double tulle was held with a lace headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white baby 'mums.

Her sister, Mrs. Jack Cameron, of Codrington, was her only attendant. She chose a frock of white taffeta, shoulder-length veil and carried a nosegay of red roses and white 'mums.

Mr. James Grosjean, of Oshawa, brother of the groom, performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, when the bride's mother, received wearing a two-piece brown crepe dress, with a corsage of yellow baby 'mums. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore black crepe and a corsage of white 'mums.

A buffet luncheon was served to about 60 guests, the dining room being decorated in pink and white. The bride's table was centred with a wedding cake decorated in white and silver. The serviteurs were four nieces of the groom, Misses Barbara, Joan and Anne Grosjean and Shirley Harnden.

The groom's gift to the bride, was a double strand of graduated pearls. The matron-of-honor received silverware, the best man a set of brushes and the serviteurs glamour pins.

The happy couple left for a trip to Peterborough and points north, the bride travelling in a gold-colored alpine cloth dress and moss green topcoat with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses and white baby 'mums. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Grosjean will take up their residence on their farm a short distance west of Brighton Village.

A delightfully arranged miscellaneous shower was held on Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Grosjean at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Waite. As master of ceremonies, Rev. W. Delve called the gathering to order for a short program of music and speeches after which many useful gifts were presented to the young couple for which the groom graciously thanked their friends. Delicious refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening brought to a close.

RAWDON

Friends Welcome Dutch Bride To The Community

Rawdon, (Special.)—Springbrook L.O.L. Hall was filled to capacity when a large number of relatives and friends gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hodge. The bride was formerly Miss Elizabeth Borsje of Der Hagg, Holland, and she was heartily welcomed to the Springbrook community.

Mr. Clayton Burkitt was Master of Ceremonies and a short program was presented which included duets by the Ray sisters.

Mr. Mac Mason read an appropriate address and the young couple were presented with a large array of miscellaneous articles.

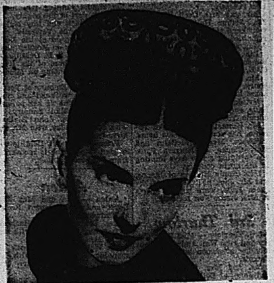
Puffed Pillbox



By ALICE ALDEN

The puffed pillbox riding high above a sleek coiffure isn't the easiest hat in the world to wear, but when it's right, it's perfect and especially when it is designed by Lenesta. Shown here, is the clever designer's new puffed pillbox which she has made in basic black felt and trimmed with passementerie and jet over red. It is a unique design for a sleek upsweep, and nice with a jet or braid trimmed dinner suit.

Church War Unit Holds Meeting

A meeting of the members of the Holloway Street Church War Unit was held in the church parlor recently with the President, Mrs. Hitchon, in charge.

The treasurer reported a considerable sum of money on hand. After some discussion re the several objectives presented as possible uses for this sum, a committee of three ladies was appointed to make inquiries concerning these various projects, i.e., Mesdames W. Symons, G. Woodley and A. Hitchon. The committee will bring a report of its findings before any disposition of funds is made.

Mrs. Morton gave a brief resume of the work of the unit during the years of the war, and stated that so much could not have been accomplished had it not been for the splendid leadership of the president, Mrs. Hitchon, who gave so unsparingly for this worthy cause. The remark was passed that this was an occasion for rejoicing as the society may now disband because the war was over, but it also was a time for regret as the members have enjoyed wonderful fellowship in their meetings and will miss, the regular coming together in this happy manner.

Mrs. W. Jones and Mrs. W. Symons were asked to come forward. They carried gifts for Mrs. Hitchon, who was asked to receive them as a token of the appreciation of the members for her untiring efforts in the welfare of the unit. A vase, rose bowl, and sheaf of chrysanthemums were then presented Mrs. Hitchon, who was taken completely by surprise, modestly remarked that she didn't deserve this recognition, as all had pulled together and, that so much could not have been done if she hadn't received such loyal support.

The meeting was closed and refreshments were served.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

Berlin, Nov. 18 — (AP) — The American military government disclosed today that 300 Germans are ill with typhoid fever in Bavaria. Some 200 more cases are expected to develop before the outbreak is brought under control.

Stirling

Stirling — The funeral of the late John Arthur Juby was held on Friday afternoon from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. C. Devolin, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The minister, Rev. H. V. Walker officiated at the service. The late Mr. Juby was a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 251, Holloway, and the members walked in a body preceding the cortege to Stirling cemetery. The graveside services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Walker with the lodge assisting. The pall bearers were Messrs. Will Maynes, John Bateman, H. Donnan, Tom McGee, Ewart Bailey and Tom Fleming.

Chicken Supper.

The annual chicken supper under the auspices of St. James Church was held in the Community Hall on Wednesday evening with a good attendance. There was plenteous supply of food and al lenjoyed a delicious and promptly served meal. The fancy goods table was well patronized as well as the bingo and other games. A dance was enjoyed later in the evening with music furnished by the "Rhythm-Airs" orchestra from Tweed. The prize winners in the drawings were: First prize, $20, Harry Cook, Stirling; second prize, electric iron, G. Ackerman, 106 Cedar St., Belleville; third prize, blanket, Mrs. C. O'Brien, Stirling; 4th. prize, electric lamp, Herbert Rodgers, Marmora; fifth prize, mystery prize, Sheila Trudeau, Tweed. The large doll was won by John Sheridan, of Frankford.

W. A. Bazaar.

The bazaar sponsored by the St. Paul's Women's Association, which was held in the church parlors on Thursday afternoon, was a well attended event and proved to be a great financial success. The various booths were attractively decorated in different colors and displayed home cooking, farm produce, aprons, fancy needlework and knitted goods. There was also a children's booth which sold popcorn, small books and Christmas cards. The tea was served from 2.30 to 5.30 from the main table, effective with lace cloth, centred with baby mums of bronze, yellow and mauve, flanked with tall white tapers in silver holders. Different ladies took a turn pouring tea for the guests who were seated at small card tables. All testified to the tastiness of the delicate sandwiches, pickles, small cakes and cookies.

GOOD EXPLANATION

Colorado Springs, Colo., Nov. 18 — (AP) — A young matron explained away a parking ticket in court Saturday by saying: "I was trying on a dress at a sale. When I went to take it off the zipper became entangled in my slip and tore it. Before the dress and slip could be loosened and the damage repaired, the time on the parking meter expired." The ticket was torn up by the city manager.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S. MEET

Stirling. —The St. Andrew's Missionary Society held their November meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ernie Cain with a splendid attendance. The President, Mrs. William Anderson was in the chair and the meeting opened with the reading of the Scripture Lesson by Mrs. Foster. Mrs. Hermiston and Mrs. Munroe were elected for the visiting committee in December and Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Louis Rodgers were named as the nominating committee for the year 1947. The program of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. M. Tompkins and opened with a reading on 'Armistice Day' by Mrs. M. Tompkins. Mrs. Walker read the 20th Psalm and gave some very interesting comments on it. An inspiring talk on "How to Make Prayer Real" was given by Mrs. Harper Rollins and the meeting was brought to a close with the reading of the 207th Psalm, The Lord's Prayer.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Don McIntosh. A vote of thanks was tendered by Mrs. Hermiston to Mrs. Cain and to Mrs. McIntosh and also to Mrs. M. Tompkins for her efforts in supplying such a good program.

W.M.S. ANNUAL MEET

The W.M.S. of Eldorado and Union held its annual meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 6, at the home of Mrs. Cecil Robinson, with a fair attendance. The President Mrs. C. Blackburn conducted the business period when it was decided to have a quilting and pot-luck dinner at the home of Mrs. Albert Empey on Nov. 20. Mrs. Cecil Robinson reported for the Temperance Dept.

Mrs. Chidley had charge of the Worship Service consisting of a hymn followed by The Lord's Prayer and Psalm 23, repeated in unison. A synopsis of that portion of the study book based on "Family Life in India" was ably presented by Mrs. Crabbe. With Mrs. Clayton Blackburn in charge of sing-song of old favorite hymns was conducted, followed by a reading by Mrs. Blackburn entitled "Little Places". A solo contributed by Mrs. Albert Empey was much enjoyed, and a Bible history contest was conducted. Mrs. Clayton Blackburn and Mrs. Cecil Blackburn brought reports from the W.M.S. Sectional Rally recently held in Tweed.

Rev. Mr. Crabbe had charge for the election and installation of officers for 1947. It was decided that each officer continue for the coming year. The meeting was dismissed and refreshments served by the hostess and her assistants.

C. W. L. HOLDS MEETING

The ladies of the Catholic Women's League met in John Street High School on Tuesday evening. After prayer a short business period was conducted. Mrs. Boyd, convener of membership urged the councillors to hand in returns as early as possible. Mrs. Lally read the correspondence. Mrs. Robertson asked to be relieved of duties as hospital visitor, and Mrs. M. J. O'Callaghan very kindly offered to carry on the work. The Chaplain, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, spoke briefly and also thanked the ladies for their donation of homemade pickles and fruit. Father Carley, the new curate, was introduced and extended best wishes to the League.

Mrs. Hudon read the report of graduation exercises after which Miss McAvoy read a paper on "The Ideal Parishioner", which was thoroughly appreciated by all.

An anniversary tea sponsored by Bleecker and Baldwin wards, was planned for the near future.

Refreshments were then served and a social hour enjoyed.

CARMEL—W. M. S.

The November meeting of the Carmel W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. John Homan. The President, Mrs. Seldon Homan, conducted the worship service the theme being "Christian Homes" and also gave some highlights of the cavalcade crusade at Belleville and of the W.M.S. Sectional Rally at Cannifton.

Letters of appreciation for cards were read from Muriel Homan and Mrs. M. Robinson.

Mrs. Pitman reported for Temperance dept.

Mrs. Russell Stapley, president of Eggleton W.M.S., brought greetings from her society.

The Autumn Thank-offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. Ross.

Mrs. John Reynolds took charge of the meeting and very ably presented the chapter of the Study Book on "Women of India". Readings were given by Mrs. Brintnell, Mrs. Moorman and Mrs. Patterson. Mrs. Stapley rendered a pleasing solo and the meeting closed with prayer after which Mrs. Homan served delicious refreshments.

Empey Hill

SOCIAL EVENING

Empey Hill — Selby United Church was the scene of a happy gathering on Thursday evening of last week when nearly all the members of the Selby circuit gathered to hear a former pastor, Rev. W. E. L. Smith, of Grafton, who saw overseas service as Protestant Chaplain. He gave a very graphic account of the Italian campaign and also told of the effect war had on the soldier as far as religion was concerned. Following the service a social hour was enjoyed in the Sunday School rooms when refreshments were served and all had the privilege of speaking to Dr. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Breen and Mary of Deseronto, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Hutchinson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winter called on Mr. Clifford Reid in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday evening.

Empey Hill United Church was filled on Saturday afternoon with friends to witness the marriage of Betty Waddingham and Roy Stapley, with Rev. W. R. Merrick performing the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Akey.

Welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Marisett to this community. They have purchased and moved to the farm of Mr. James McFarlane.

Mrs. Chas. Akey, Mrs. Fred Kimmerly and Mrs. Robt. Harvey attended the meeting of the Women's Institute at Plainfield, on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Akey as district president, gave a short address.

Miss Lila Penny, of Sunbury, was the weekend guest of her sister, Mrs. Delbert Harvey.

New Soapless VEL Makes Suds Old Fashioned
by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority
Have you tried soapless VEL yet? It's the newest thing in washing helps. Over a million dollars have been spent in developing this new cleanser. It does everything that any good soap will do—yet it is not soap and doesn't act like soap.
OUTCLEANS—OUTLASTS SOAP SUDS
When you add warm—or even cool water to VEL, it forms light, billowy suds instantly. But just like a frothy drink, the bubbly foam soon subsides, leaving a clear solution that cuts grease and lifts out dirt in double-quick time.
WATER STAYS CLEAR
Unlike the cloudy, milky-white water which soap produces, VEL keeps the water almost transparent so that you can see what you are doing . . . see the things you are washing. A teaspoonful or so of VEL in the dishpan quickly dissolves grease making that inevitable chore of dishwashing less tedious. VEL contains no soap so leaves no soapy scum—makes china and glassware sparkle so that drying is unnecessary.
VEL LIFTS OUT DIRT
VEL literally lifts out the dirt from soiled clothes and deposits it at the bottom of basin or wash tub. Lack of suds has nothing to do with VEL's new and scientific cleansing action, so don't contrast it with soap products. You need have no fear of VEL's effect on colours or fabrics for it's a mild gentle cleanser which is as safe for woolens and nylons as it is for the weekly family wash.
WONDERFUL FOR FLOORS—WOODWORK
For the speedy removal of greasy dirt from floors, walls and woodwork, just put about a tablespoonful or two of soapless VEL in a pail and add hot or warm water. You'll find VEL makes hard rubbing and rinsing unnecessary.
THOROUGHLY TESTED
My own rigid tests with soapless VEL prove that it's foolish to cling to old-fashioned ideas about suds. And don't think VEL is just a temporary substitute for soap. It has a permanent place of its own in every home.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Why Not Let Things Ride For a While, Henry?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young man of 23, and I go with a girl whom I love very much and I think she loves me, too. I want her to marry me.

Now, since I asked her to marry me, she has been out on a couple of dates. Should I go out and have dates, too? I really don't want one, but I hate to see her go out. What shall I do?

"Henry"

Well, Henry, it doesn't look to me as though this girl had made up her mind yet whether or not she loves you enough to marry you.

You don't say what her answer was to your proposal. If she accepted it, you naturally would have a right to take it for granted that she was in love with you and liked to be with you as much as you like to be with her. On the other hand, if she declined your offer, or stalled on it, then there is no reason why you should feel that she ought to spend all her time with you.

As I see it, if your girl wishes to go out with other people, I wouldn't think she was wildly in love with you. In which case, I would suggest that you keep up your friendships with other girls, yourself. Perhaps, if she sees you paying attention to others, she will decide that she wants you for herself. In any event, it sounds as though it were all too indefinite yet for you to pin either yourself or her down. Wait a little while and just play along, and see what happens.

It Is Always Best to Speak Out, "C.D."

Dear Miss airfax:

I go with a boy whom I love very much. He gave me his ring. We had a few arguments, but always made up right away.

He lives quite a way from where I live and I have heard that he goes out with other girls. When I heard this, I called him up and acted cold to him. He asked me what was wrong, but I told him nothing. I just didn't know how to tell him about having heard that he went out with other girls when we go steady, so I lost my temper and hung up. Now he thinks I am mad and hasn't come around for three weeks.

I love him very much and I want to know what I should do. It was foolish of me to hang up before telling him what was wrong.

"C. D."

If you realize that you did a foolish thing in holding out on your boyfriend, when he asked you what was wrong, there is one way you can remedy the situation. That is, you can write him a note and tell him, quite frankly, what the trouble was.

You are quite right; it was very foolish, indeed, to get angry and hang up without telling him why you were angry. It was doubly foolish when all you were going on was a rumor that he goes out with other girls. Certainly it wasn't very fair of you to judge his conduct before you gave him a chance to explain things.

I think it is definitely up to you to make a new approach, apologize for your hasty conduct, and see if you can get things straightened out.

You Can't Help People Unless They Ask For Help

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Did you ever see someone on a downward slide and find yourself powerless to do anything? I am writing to you for the sake of two children; one 9, one 18, whose parents are both from grand families, but who seem intent on destroying themselves. This is their history:

Twenty years ago, very much in love, they were married. They had their ups and downs, and somewhere along the way the husband began stopping off, on the way home, for a few beers and then he started to go out, alone, evenings. This started quarreling between them, but then the wife began to go along with him in the evenings and things got worse all the time. Their drinking makes them both quarrelsome and when they get home they disturb the neighbors. Their older boy is shamed by other boys, and what is crueller than feeling shamed for one's' own mother?

What this couple needs to realize is, that if they get worse, their young son is going to be taken away from them by the courts through the action of incensed onlookers. Could you write something about this in the hope of saving four grand people?

"Anon."

It is a very sad, but very real, fact of life that you can't help people unless they know they need help and ask for it. It is a very heart-breaking thing to have to stand by and watch people for whom you care hurting themselves and those close to them. But unless in some way they begin to realize the tragic mistake they are making and decide, themselves, that they want to live differently, there is almost nothing anyone else can do. Talking to people in such a situation rarely accomplishes anything.

In this particular case, the writer of this letter might try to befriend the two boys as much as possible, in an attempt to make life a little happier for them. But, as far as altering the behavior of the parents is concerned, about all she can do is to wait and hope that something will happen to wake them up.

Have More Confidence in.... Yourself, "C. I."

Dear Miss aFirfax:

I am a boy of 22 and I am in love with a girl of 21.

I would like to go steady with her, but I haven't the nerve to ask her. I took her out several times, but when I wanted to ask her to go steady, the words just wouldn't come out. Whenever I do get up the nerve to ask her, it seems she is never alone.

I can't get her out of my mind; I love her so much. I would be very grateful to you if you could tell me what I can do about it.

"C. I."

What could there possibly be about a girl that would make you feel so nervous about asking her to go steady? I am sure you are just as worth-while a person as she is and have just as much to recommend you. Keep your mind on your good points and don't let an inferiority complex get the best of you.

Why make such a point right now, anyhow, of asking her to go steady? Why not just keep on asking her out on dates, making it as often as you can get away with it? When she sees that you are that much interested in her, she will probably get the idea, herself, that you'd like her to go steady, and the thing may just happen of itself, without the necessity for any definite words.

If she is interested in you, she will just naturally respond to your invitations, which will make it easier for you to speak your piece when the right time comes. And on the other hand, if she doesn"t accept your frequent invitations, you will get the idea, painlessly, that she is not interested in going steady and won't be embarrassed by being turned down in so many words. Don't you think this is a good idea?

Come and see why...

DAD'S NEW GIRL

...Is the Same Old Girl!

Talk of a second honeymoon! It's more like a second courtship. And only a few months ago, she felt old, neglected, discouraged. She lost interest in friends, church work, even her music. She was deaf—and, according to her, the deaf didn't have fun. They just grew old.

Dad was desperate, for she wouldn't wear a cumbersome hearing aid. Then they were invited to a free demonstration of the new all-in-one Acousticon, world's smallest, lightest, most powerful hearing aid.

They're sweethearts again. And she is as active socially as ever. Thanks to the Acousticon.

If you, or any member of your family, are hard-of-hearing, you are invited to this free, private demonstration of the Acousticon hearing aid. If you prefer, you may have a free demonstration in your own home—without obligation. Simply call the Acoustician at the above address and arrange a time convenient to you.

Plan to have a private demonstration . . . now! Remember, there is no obligation and you won't be urged to buy.

No embarrassment . . . No discomfort

You can wear an Acousticon "Super-Power" Unipac without embarrassment or discomfort! Its natural-colored plastic ear-piece and cord are hardly noticeable. And because of its trifling 7½ oz. weight, it's as easy to carry as a spectacle case. New Hair-Do for the Winter

A touch of lavender-scented brilliantine gives lustre to dry and brittle hair.

By HELEN FOLLETT

AFTER buying that cute hat the other day you may have discovered that it didn't quite hit it off with your hair-do. A good thing, maybe. Because hair stylists have some wonderful offerings right now and a new coiffure does set one up.

This is the season of the year when one is likely to be bored with one's complexion, which is slowly shedding its tanned surface, and with one's hair which seems to need a little something to give it spirit. A course of facial and scalp treatments, a new arrangement of the silky thatch, will prepare the woman for the winter. It will give her a good start along the beauty way.

Time-Saving Hair-do

The tailored type of hair arrangement seems to be going well. It is ideal for the career girl to whom rolls and ringlets are a bother, taking too much time when she has to make a dash for shop or office early in the morning. Tailored charm is simple, almost classic. Don't add any tricky arrangement, if you have adopted plainness as your mode; those kind of additions will spoil the effect. Wide undulations, upswept on a young face will often import an elfin quality to the features. They give one that nice, clean, freshly-washed appearance.

Whenever there is a new twist to the hair mode, it means taking extra-special care until the growth is trained. Hair, like some children, resents being pushed around in new directions.

Many a chic coiffure does not quite make the grade because the shafts are dull-looking. Hot oil applications the night before the shampoo will soon correct this condition. Sometimes it is caused by careless shampooing when all the soap suds are not laved away. A touch of brilliantine on the teeth of the comb, when dressing the hair, will impart listre to a growth that is dry and brittle.

DRIVING IS NO FUN WITH A SICK AUTO

Don't take a tired, old car on the road. Drive yours in and let us get it ready for Winter driving.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Analyze Your Face, Experiment With Make-up

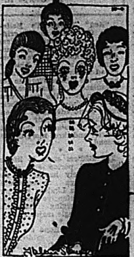
Handle your beauty props with care. Use a strong mirror, a steady hand, restraint and a keen eye when laying on the peaches and cream complexion. You will take no chance then of having a tawdry face. Tawdry is a word that expresses the results obtained by hasty and excessive use of synthetic aids. Use them; do not abuse them. It is no longer smart to appear too artificial. The complexion should be softly vivid. An excess of rouge adds age to the feminine map; a touch gives radiance and vitality. All this is what the beauticians are preaching at the present time.

Avoid sharp lines of demarkation where rouge and powder meet. Have a separate lamb's wool pad for blending. Before you start, be sure that the skin surface is scrupulously clean. If you're going to paint, it is necessary to have the right kind of canvas. Begin with a foundation cosmetic, putting on the tiniest bit, frictioning it in until every bit has disappeared. A heavy film will give the complexion a coarse appearance; on the elderly woman it will give accent to every line.

If the foundation is an oily preparation, wipe it off soon after it has been massaged into the flesh. If it is a cream or paste, let it remain on five minutes after the friction, then remove it with tissues.

Face the light. If it is evening, have a strong light above your dressing table. Keep the facial tissues relaxed. If you feel that your eyes are not as lovely as you would wish them to be, give emphasis to the lips.

You should use a powder slightly darker than your skin. Don't slap the heavily laden pad on your nose first. Begin powdering on the throat. Follow a policy of addition rather than substraction, adding a little more of the fluff-stuff if you think you need it.



It is no longer smart to look too artificial

When powdering under the eyes, stretch the flesh smooth. A powder brush is convenient for removing the surplus.

The general place for rouge is high up on the cheek bones. Place the pad under the eye, sweep toward the temple, then straight down and back to starting point, fill in the middle. To wear rouge low is to give the face a heavy, drawn look. It is a common make-up mistake. You'd think the mirror would tell a woman not to do it.

If you bring the cheek coloring too close to the nose, the effect will be anything but flattering. If the cheeks are thin, highlight them, never use the pigment in the centre, that practice will make the face appear even more gaunt.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Christmas Card Signature for Name Ending in "s"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our name (let's say) is Ralmas; that is, it ends in s.

I would like to know whether or not I am correct in signing our names to Christmas cards as "The Ralmases." Our family consists of my husband, two young sons, a daughter and myself. I received a Christmas card last year which had written on it above the printed greeting, the personal inscription "To the Ralmas's." This started me wondering, so I want to be sure before I sign this year's cards.

R. R.

"The Ralmases" is the correct form. You want, of course to use the plural of your name; and the plural of a name ending in s is formed by adding es, Ralmases, Joneses, Adamses, Rosses. (The 's written after your name by the card-sender last year indicates the possessive case, and so was incorrect. It should have been "To the Ralmases"; as yours should be from "The Ralmases."

Procedure for Bridal Showers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to be maid of honor for my dearest friend, and I would like to have you tell me if I am expected to give a shower for her. If so, would it be proper for me to ask the four bridesmaids to join with me in giving the shower? (It wouldn't be very easy for me to give it alone.)

2. If I give this shower, either alone or with the bridesmaids, do I give the guest of honor a shower gift?

3. Who buys the corsage for the bride-to-be to wear to the shower? Do I also wear a corsage and if so, who buys this?

4. Are the bride's mother and the groom's mother invited to the shower?

5. If we serve cocktails at the shower, do we have a toast to the bride-to-be? If so, who proposes this toast, and when?

6. How many weeks before the wedding should the shower be given. And how long before the shower should the invitations be sent?

Gloria

1. There isn't any "must" as to who gives the bridal shower. You give it or not, according to your wishes and conveniences. However, very often the bride's attendants join together to give the shower, and so it would be entirely proper for you to suggest to the four bridesmaids that they be co-hostesses of the shower.

2. Yes, the hostess gives the guest of honor a shower gift.

3. If the guest of honor is to wear a corsage (this isn't necessary, of course) it would be provided by the hostess (or hostesses); and the hostess, or each hostess, provides her own.

4. It is gracious to invite the girl's mother and her fiance's mother to a shower to which intimate friends are invited. Friends who know the mothers should perhaps be given this opportunity of meeting them. However, this is optional, and each hostess must decide for herself.

5. It would be appropriate, and very charming, for you, the hostess (or if there are to be several hostesses, you, the one who considered giving the shower) to propose a toast to the guest of honor, just after the cocktails have been served.

6. Usually a bridal shower is given two, perhaps three, weeks before the wedding. And the shower-invitations are sent out about two weeks before the date of the shower.

KICKED BEAR IN FACE

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 18 (CP)—Kicking the animal in the face with his bare foot was the method used by Arvo Servio, railroad section foreman, to drive a bear out of the yard of his home near here during the weekend. "Algoma residents are either getting braver or the bears are getting soft," was the comment of Al Jones, veteran guide and trapper, on hearing of Servio's claim.

Leafs Set Consistent Pace Winning at Home Saturday And Beating Rangers Sunday

Largest Crowd in History of Hockey in Canada on Hand When Habitants Defeated

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

In case any lingering doubts remained about the quality of this new Toronto Maple Leafs machine, all should have been dispelled after a National Hockey League weekend from which Conn Smythe's fighting youngsters emerged as the only consistent club to date.

Leafs started a two-game weekend tie for first place with the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens and the bruising Boston Bruins. They knocked off Canadiens threat with a brilliant 3-0, triumph in Toronto and went to New York for a 5-4 decision over Rangers.

Bruins, with only one game scheduled, slipped all the way back to third place when a Montreal team that looked travel-worn in Toronto rebounded for a 4-1 triumph at Boston last night.

Among the lower three clubs, Rangers were left in the cellar all alone when Chicago Black Hawks whipped them 6-2, at New York Saturday night to start a double weekend losing performance by the blue shirts. Hawks, pasted 5-2 by Red Wings at Detroit last night, fell back into 5th position a point behind Wings.

Leafs, first club to win two games on successive nights, did it for the second time on a pair of triumphs that saw them lead all the way in one and came smashingly from behind in the other.

Largest Crowd in History

With 16,315 fans on hand at Toronto Saturday night — largest crowd ever to watch a hockey game in Canada — Leafs never appeared threatened by Canadiens, playing their third game in four days. Goalie Walter (Turk) Broda got stout protection for his first shutout while Ted Kennedy, with two, and Syl Apps, scored Toronto's counters.

Behind three goals after six minutes, to Rangers, Leafs tied it up in the first period and outscored the New Yorkers 2-1 in the last frame. Kennedy picked up another goal and two assists while other Toronto scores went to Howie Meeker, Garth Boesch, Vic Lynn and Nick Metz. For Rangers, Alf Pike, Tony Leswick, Edgar Laprade and Grant Warwick potted goals.

New Lease on Life

Toe Blake, veteran winger, of Montreal's punch line, gave Canadiens a new lease on life before a crowd of 13,900 at Boston. With the clubs battling for second place, Blake tallied the first three counters for Montreal and Bill Reay added another before Bill Cowley spoiled goalie Bill Durnan's shutout.

A great scoring outbreak by Alex Kaleta, speedy Chicago forward sank Rangers before a Saturday night crowd of 15,518 at New York. Kaleta scored three times himself and helped Red Hamill on two other Black Hawk tallies, Rookie Hank Blade notched the other as goalie Paul Bibeault held Rangers to tallies by Ab Demarco and Bryan Hextall.

Hawks were tied 2-2 at the halfway mark of their Sunday night game before a crowd of 13,334 at Detroit but Wings came through with three last half counters. For Detroit, Sid Abel bagged two and Ted Lindsay, Billy Taylor and rookie Pat Lundy one apiece. Hamill got his third weekend tally for Chicago while Doug Bentley was the other marksman.

VIC CHRISTIE TO MEET "KRIPPLER"

World famous Vic Christie will wrestle in Belleville next Friday night according to announcement of Manager Walt Gerow today. Christie the perennial "Baby-face" of the wrestling rings has also earned the nick-name of California Comet and there's a reason. Valiant Victor has just about the greatest amount of speed, pep and generally explosive qualities of any wrestler ever seen on this continent.

The glamorous mat star however, is not being given any set-up for his introduction here. Vic will meet Karl Krippler Davis and if that's doing him a favor then this old earth of ours is flat. One thing that Davis can positively be counted on for, is his uncanny ability to make things miserable for the most scientific wrestlers. They may or may not beat him eventually, but before they catch him most of them go through a series of manoeuvres that can only be described as torture. Big Karl is one of the most ruthless matmen the game has developed and his "Shoulder-Smash" has literally ruined a number of fine grapplers.

Vic Christie, besides being one of the most personable young giants of the sport has the best elbow-smash in the business. When the two "Smashes" (Elbow and Shoulder) get going in the Arena ring, something is bound to give way.

Two other big young giants, Ben and Mike Sharpe of Hamilton will be on this card against Olaf Olson of Sweden, and Henry ers of Holland.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

"Red" Townsend's Belleville Collegiate junior gridders were eliminated from COSSA competition on Saturday afternoon in Peterborough by a starry Lindsay squad which took full advantage of the local's efforts to get organized in a heartbreaking first quarter, the score was 20-6. Lindsay sensing their realy game advantage put on a sterling first half display scoring 17 points in the first quarter and three more in the second.

• • •

The BCI'ers came to life in the second period and struck back savagely having by far the advantage in territorial play. But the Lindsay kids put up a great defensive action and held the surging Belleville squad to a single major score.

• • •

Up in Port Hope on the Trinity College gridiron a fighting Albert College senior COSSA team wilted before the heavy attacks of the classy Peterborough C.I. team and were buried beneath a 41-0 avalanche of Pete points. According to reports from the game, the Peterborough squad outmatched and outplayed the collegians in all departments of the tussle.

• • •

Back to that Lindsay-Belleville Collegiate game for a moment, Billy McMormack sturdy Belleville backfielder was easily the star of the game. Bill's outstanding play was the feature of the tussle and even the enemy admitted that point.

• • •

In a thrill-packed game that had an all-time Canadian attendance record of over 23,000 shrieking fans, and paced by the mighty King (Joe) Krol, Toronto Argonauts smoothly-working football machine defeated the Montreal Alouettes on Saturday 12-6 for the right to continue on to the Dominion championship. Argos now move into the Eastern Canadian finals against Toronto Balmy Beach who ousted Hamilton's Tigers 13-6 also on Saturday.

• • •

According to reports from the scene of battle in Montreal Krol, by his mighty display and bullet-passing and fearless plunging eliminated any other contenders to his title of football king of the season. He played for 60 minutes. He tossed three successful forwards to set up Royal Copeland for the first touchdown. In the second quarter he heaved two passes that took Argos to the Alouette four, and then barged over himself for the score. He successfully booted both converts. He tackled repeatedly. He was in on every hot play.

• • •

It was purely a case of too much Krol, much too much, so Montreal sports writers admitted.

• • •

Gus Mell, Montreal's little Blonde Bomber is back on that long trail to the world's championship. In a savage, all-out two-fisted attack he dropped Irish Pat Scanlon of New York nine times before Referee Mickey McGowan stopped the brawl, before a howling crowd of Montrealers, Saturday night. Scanlon had twice beaten Tony Pellone who recently defeated Johnny Greco at Madison Square Garden.

• • •

Shades of Howie Morenz. Tomorrow night in Montreal former stars of the National Hockey League augmented with a couple of pro wrestlers will stage a charity bout with the current edition of the Canadiens.

• • •

Such former famous ice stars as Battleship Leduc, Sylvia Mantha, Armand Mondou, Pit Lepine, Lei Gaudreault and Newsy Lalonde will be seen in action along with the puck-chasing pachyderms Jean Pusie and Larry Moquin.

• • •

That "psychological angle" which some American sports writers claimed might mean the difference between victory and defeat for those mighty titans of Yankee football, Army and Notre Dame, didn't have the predicted effect. Some thought the natural reaction and letdown after that memorable tie between these squads of a week ago might be so severe that they could not get back into stride for their important games against Penn and Northwestern respectively on Saturday. Here's the answer: Army 34, Penn 7; Notre Dame 27, Northwestern 0.

• • •

It will be succulent venison steaks smothered with onions and plenty of dressing and other trimmings for the Batawa Shoemen, Belleville City Baseball League champions and Intermediate OBA finalists at the St. James Hotel, Trenton, this evening. It appears one of the Shoemen who fires a mean rifle, dropped his sight on a caverting buck back north this week, and he is donating it to his mates of the team and their guests.

• • •

Tis reliably reported that genial Bill Easton, will doff his managerial garb at the function for that of a chef, and will preside over the steaks as they sizzle in the pan. The boys are looking forward to a grand time in what will probably be their last feed-bag get-together for the current year. A grand program has been arranged and it look like a fine time will be had by all.

• • •

Hizzoner Mayor Frank Follwell is the guest speaker of the evening while other guests from Belleville and other parts of the district will be on hand.

• • •

The mayor, incidentally is in training for that bout of fisticuffs to which he has been challenged by Mayor Bill Eaton of Sudbury. Mayor Follwell accepted the challenge of the Sudbury "His Nibs" to a speed-skating race at a big winter sports function being held in the northern Ontario city in February for a side bet of ten pounds of Belleville cheese against a live bear cub.

• • •

The Sudbury chief magistrate countered with a callenge to a couple of rounds of boxing "with or without gloves, and no horse shoes allowed. 'Tis said, our mayor came back with a defi to put on the gloves with the northern bloke over a fifteen round battle.

• • •

Sad is the story of a certain bigtime Cleveland bettor who flew to Pittsburgh and the Ezzard Charles-Jimmy Bivins fight Thursday—almost sad enough, indeed, to touch the heart of a bookmaker.

• • •

A few minutes before leaving Cleveland, our here phoned a fat wager to his book on a galloping horse that shortly would be going in Kentucky. On his arrival in Pittsburgh he called up one of Pennsylvania's leading books, to learn, alas, that the gallant 'steed had finished somewhere up the home stretch.

• • •

He had intended to invest rather heavily on the second choice when he climbed into the plane here, but he was touted off Ebony Ezzard as fight time approached, and his money rode with Bivins, who as you may have heard, could do no better than place.

• • •

Back at the Pittsburgh airport to board a plane for home, he decided to take out some flying insurance on himself. But the plane made Cleveland without mishap, and thus he was heard to wail as he stepped, on the good earth again:

"So I blew that one, too! Can't do nuthin' right!"

Nfld. Will Allow Trapping of Beaver

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 18 — (CP)— For the first time in 23 years the Newfoundland government has decided to permit the hunting of beaver, which in 1923 were threatened with extermination.

The government, estimating that the beaver population now has reached 50,000, has decided to issue beaver hunting licenses to about 600 trappers. Each trapper will be allowed to take ten pelts, which will be turned over to the department of natural resources for marketing.

On delivering the pelts the trapper will be paid $15 a pelt. He will be paid the balance after the department has completed the marketing.

It is estimated that the pelts will each bring about $40.

ARMY TEAM WILL CONSIDER BID TO ROSE BOWL

Unbeaten in Three Years Squad Defeats Penn Team 34-7

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Nov. 18. (AP)— This is pay-off week in college football. Bowl chances and conferences titles are the stakes up for grabs all over the United States next Saturday with the Pacific Coast conference and Big Nine contests having the most important bearing.

The best game of the week sends the formidable Bruins of U.C.L.A. against Southern California on the Pacific Coast with the Western Rose Bowl nomination hinging on the outcome. U.C.L.A., along with Georgia the only unbeaten and untied major elevens in the country, trampled Montana 61-7 last Saturday in a tuneup for the Coast classic. Southern California had an open date.

While the Western Rose Bowl team will be easy to pick after Saturday, the naming of the Eastern eleven shapes up as quite a dilemma. Army, unbeaten in three years and 34-7 conquerors of Pennsylvania Saturday, was reported receptive to a Pasadena bid today.

Tuesday the coast conference and Big Nine officials will get together to draw up the details of a five-year pact between the two leagues for Rose Bowl appearances, and it is more than likely that Illinois or Michigan, contenders for the Western conference crown will get the game.

Illinois Needs One Victory ..

The big nine season winds up this week with Illinois needing only a victory over Northwestern to clinch the flag. However, if the Illinois, 16-7 winners over Ohio State, should lose, Michigan's Wolverines could capture the championship by defeating Ohio state.

Meanwhile, most of the other powers with th eexception of Texas, rolled on to decisive victories. Texas was knocked out of the Southwest conference running by Texas Christian's Horned Frogs, 14-0.

HOCKEY RULES

By BILL GRAY

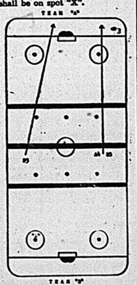
ICING THE PUCK

Rule 61, Sec. (a):

For the purpose of this rule the centre line will divide the ice into halves. Should any player of a team, equal or superior in numerical strength to the opposing team, shoot the puck from his own half of the ice, beyond the GOAL LINE of the opposing team play shall be stopped and the puck faced-off at the end rink spot of the offending team, unless on the play the puck shall have entered the net of the opposing team, in which case the goal shall be allowed.

Illustration:

Puck is shot by player "B" and goesover goal line of Team "A" play shall be stopped and face-off shall be on spot "X".



Rule 61, Sec. (b):

If the puck was so shot by a player of a team below the numerical strength of the opposing team, play shall continue without toppage.

Rule 61, Sec. (c):

If, however, from a face-off, the puck shall go beyond the Goal Line in the Opposite half of the ice, it shall not be considered a violation of the rule.

Illustration:

From face-off between players A4 and B5 the puck shall go directly over the Goal Line of team "A", play shall not be stopped. This is not considered Icing the Puck.

N.Y. YANKEES CLINCH EASTERN DIVISION TITLE

Qualify to Meet Western Champs, Probably Cleveland, on December 22nd

New York, Nov. 18 —(AP)— Coach Ray Flaherty's New York Yankees clinched the Eastern Division title in the All-America Conference yesterday with a 10-9 victory over San Francisco Roers while the runnerup Brooklyn Dodgers were bowing to Los Angeles 19-14.

The Yanks thus qualified to meet the Western champions, probably Cleveland, on Dec. 22.

The powerful Cleveland Browns, who now need only one more decision to clinch their Western crown, drubbed Chicago Rockets 51-14. With Otto Graham pitching four touchdown passes, the Browns piled up 51 points, a league record.

In the National Football League, Chicago Bears downed Washington 24-20. Sid Luckman regained his old scoring "touch" in the final minutes of play to hurl a game-winning touchdown pass.

New York Giants were held to a 28-28 tie against the winless Boston Yanks while Pittsburgh dumped Philadelphia 10-7 on a 14-yard field goal by Bill Dudley in the last 40 seconds.

Green Bay held tight to second place in the Western Division, behind Chicago Bears, by blanking Detroit Lions 9-0, with fullback Ted Fritsch doing all the scoring.

Los Angeles Rams rallied to trip Chicago Cardinals 17-14.

BORDER LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Nov. 18 (AP) —Owners in the Border League of professional baseball clubs voted yesterday to boost the maximum number of players and salaries permitted to the extent decided by the National Association of Professional Clubs at its meeting in Los Angeles next month.

The Border League group, at its annual meeting, also voted to increase umpires' monthly salaries from $200 to $300 and planned a 126-game schedule.

The league comprises clubs of Ogdensburg, Auburn, Watertown, Kingston, Ont., and Granby and Sherbrooke, Que.

The league took over the Ogdensburg franchise from owner Clinton W. Hodgen, of Victoria, B.C. Ogdensburg local interests made application for the franchise. They were asked to submit a financial statement.

Granby and Sherbrooke interests announced plans to transfer their clubs to other cities. Applications for franchises were received from Seneca Falls, Geneva and Oswego in New York, and Ottawa.

A CLOSE FINISH

Toronto, Nov. 18 —(CP)—In one of the closest finishes in the history of Canadian distance running, Walter Fedorick of Hamilton won the Gladstone five-mile annual race here Saturday. Fedorick barely edged out Ab Morton of Galt at the line.

The two leaders covered the distance neck and neck and Morton was inches behind the Hamilton runner as they sprinted for the end, H. Poce of Toronto was third.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

You may remember a time when you could not make your contract with a lead pencil. But after the cards were laid out on a table, the necessary plays were easier to figure out.

Do that with the bridgjuggler you see here:

Trumps are clubs. South is the declarer and is still in the lead. He must take four of these six remaining tricks. He must do so against any defence the east and west players can think up.

If you were south, you would not lead a heart. This would give east two tricks in that suit. East will also get a diamond trick a little later. So, this plan is no good.

You would not lead a diamond. This would be sure to give east a diamond trick. Your later heart lead would give away two hearts. So, you would not start with a lead in either red suit.

See what would happen if you lead both remaining trumps at once. On them sluff two north dummy diamonds. Ignore the cards held by west. But discards by east will tell you what to do next.

On your two trumps, suppose east sluffs two diamonds. Lead your jack and six of diamonds to get the other two tricks you need. The only two tricks you will lose are your two hearts.

When you lead both trumps, east may sluff two hearts instead of two diamonds. If so, lead a heart for east to win. You will get one heart and one diamond that way.

Instead of sluffing two hearts or two diamonds, east may chuck away one heart and one diamond. In that case, win your diamond jack and give up a second diamond. You will get a heart trick that way.

You have to see these things to believe they can happen. What many have lacked is enough of this practice.

HERSHEY BEARS LEAD DIVISION BY FIVE POINTS

Hornets and Barons Tied in Other Section With Capitals Point Behind

(By The Canadian Press)

Hershey Bears lead the American Hockey League's Eastern Division by five points today while Pittsburgh Hornets and Cleveland Barons are tied for the Western Division top rung with Indianapolis Capitals only a point behind them.

Hershey picked up four points during the week-end by blanking the runner-up New Haven Ramblers 3-0 Saturday and trimmed Providence Reds 4-1 last night.

The Bears, after spotting the Reds a 1-0 first period lead on Bus Bradshaw's goal, tallied three times in the middle session and once in the final to wrap up the game. Gordie Bruce, Mark Marquess and Frank Mario counted in the second period and Armand Gaudreault in the third.

Pittsburgh also racked up four points by nosing out St. Louis Flyers 6-5 Saturday and downing Buffalo's Bisons 4-2 yesterday.

Hornets took a 3-2 lead against Bisons in the opening period with Peanuts O'Flaherty netting twice. Armand Lemieux clinched victory for the Hornets in the final frame to move them into a first-place tie with Barons. Pete Langelle collected the other Pittsburgh goal while Murdo McKay and Tommy Cooper scored for the losers.

Cleveland missed an opportunity to go out in front by bowing 7-4 to St. Louis last night after whipping Buffalo 6-3 Saturday.

Flyers tallied three times within the first five minutes and coasted the rest of the way. Hec Pozzo and Paul Gladu each scored two goals for Flyers. Jud McAtee, Carl Liscombe and Pat McReavy accounted for the winners' other goal while Johnny Holota, Jack La Voie and Pete Leswick tallied Baron points.

Indianapolis also blew a chance to hold onto the Western section lead by playing Springfield Indians to a 3-3 tie Saturday and dropping an 8-4 decision to Ramblers yesterday.

Led by Norm Burns with two goals, New Haven piled up a 4-2 advantage and after Caps tied it up in the third period, Ramblers stormed back with a four-goal flurry to sew up the contest. Ott Heller, Gordie Bell, Mel Read, Joe Levandowski, Alex Shibicky and Johnny Bend scored for New Haven. Tony Licari tallied twice for Caps. Other Indianapolis scorers were Jim Conacher and Nelson Podolsky.

Philadelphia Rockets, who played Providence to a 4-4 tie Saturday, were idle along with Springfield yesterday.

Brockville Dog Best in Show

Toronto, Nov. 18 —(CP)— A hundred and thirty-five pounds of brindled beauty, Gilbert's Nancy of Brae Tarn — Great Dane owned by Mrs. G. N. Hyslop of Brockville — was named best in show late Saturday night as Canadian Kennel Club judging ended at the Royal Winter Fair.

No stranger to dog-show fans, Nancy added the top Canadian honors to a string of triumphs compiled in recent campaigns in the United States, including the best-of-breed awards at Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1945 and the specialty show at the Westchester Kennel Club at Rye, N.Y., this year against 1,600 competitors.

More than 700 dogs — highest figure ever recorded in the Dominion — entered the Canadian Kennel Club show which vied for its three-day run with the horse-show in the Coliseum's main arena as a drawing-card which pulled a record-shattering 73,000 through the gate Saturday to build up a 250,000 total for the fair's first five days.

THE BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

National Hockey League scoring leaders cashed in on five weekend games but holders of the first to third berths were unchanged. Billy (The Kid) Taylor of Detroit Red Wings notched a goal and an assist to hold down first position with 18 points, six goals and 12 assists. Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Montreal Canadiens, notched two assists to boost his total to 10 goals and six assists for 16 points. Roy Conacher, Detroit, holds down third place with five and nine for 14 points. Ted (Teeter) Kennedy, Toronto, had a prosperous weekend and moved into a tie for fourth place with Max Bentley, Chicago. Each had six and six for 12 points. Syd Abel, Detroit, and Doug Bentley and Red Hamill, Chicago, added to their totals to end in a three-way mix-up for fifth position with 11 points apiece.

The Leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.

Ted Kennedy, Toronto, who scored twice.

Alex Kaleta, Chicago, who scored three goals and was awarded two assists as Black Hawks defeated New York Rangers 6-2.

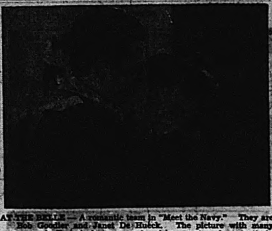
Roy Conacher, Detroit, who notched three assists as Red Wings defeated Rangers 5-2.

Syd Abel, Detroit, whose two markers aided in the victory.

Toe Blake, Montreal, whose three goals led Canadiens to a decisive 4-1 victory over Boston Bruins.

BUCKETS OF MONEY

London (CP) — An old farmer handed a bucketful of money to a post office clerk with the statement: "Here's £1,000 ($4,000) for the bank and national savings." Two countings came out at £900. "Oh," said the farmer, "my wife has given me the wrong bucket."



AT THE BELLE — A romantic team in "Meet the Navy." They are Bob Goodier and Janet De Hueck. The picture with many scenes in Technicolor, was produced by a cast made up entirely of Canadian Navy Personnel, and introduces to the screen Belleville's own Mary Forster.

POLICE PROTECTION NEEDED

Toronto, Nov. 18. (CP)—Police protection for Referee Billy Bunting was necessary Saturday following a soccer game in which Toronto Ulster defeated Toronto Greenbacks 3-2 to even their play-off total-goals series at 5-5.

Some of the crowd of 3,500 fans surrounded Bunting after the match protesting his decisions in awarding two penalty kicks to the victors and one to the beaten team.

A spectator also engaged Phil McKay, Greenbacks' centre-half, in a short-lived fistic bout.

Toronto Clubs To Battle Over Site of Game

Toronto, Nov. 18 — (CP) —Toronto, which until Saturday appeared to be bowing from the senior football picture, today faced an incipient dispute over which of the city's stadia would be the site of the Eastern Canada final next Saturday between its surprise winners — Argonauts and Balmy Beach.

University of Toronto officials said the Canadian Rugby Union had reserved Varsity Stadium, largest with its capacity of some 19,000, for this date last June. That choice met no argument from Argos, who divided scheduled Big Four games between Varsity and Oakwood Stadium, but some Beach officials expressed opposition.

Ted Reeve, Beach vice-president, pointed out that the "boys from across the tracks" had played all their scheduled Ontario Rugby Football Union games at Maple Leaf Stadium and said he saw no reason why the baseball park should be snubbed for the final.

With C. R. U. officials, who have the deciding voice, not available for comment, a meeting between the two teams and the C.R.U. was expected to be called to settle the question.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Killers"

A stairway is one of Robert Siodmak's favorite "tools" in creating a film drama. The director of "The Spiral Staircase" has used a stairway prominently in nearly every picture he has done in Hollywood.

In Ernest Hemingway's "The Killers", now at the McCarthy Theatre, produced by Mark Hellinger for Universal release, he employs a long straightway leading to the second floor of an old rooming house where a murder takes place.

Lengthy Stairway

Siodmak insisted on such a lengthy stairway that it approached the ceiling of the sound stage, and set designers had to build the murder room at the top just underneath the stage's roof.

In Siodmak's "The Suspect," a man kills his wife on a stairway, while in "The Strange Affair of Uncle Harry" a cup of poisoned cocoa is carried up a flight of stairs to the victim.

"Christmas Holiday" also had a stairway, on the outside of a New Orleans home, figuring pointedly in the action.

Other Objects Favored

Other favorite objects Siodmak likes to use to bring suspense to the screen are mirrors, beds and small confining sets.

The director put his own special skill with psychological melodrama to bear on the underworld in "The Killers," which introduces sensational Burt Lancaster opposite Ava Gardner.

Heading the long featured cast are Edmond O'Brien, Albert Dekker, Sam Levene, John Miljan, Virginia Christine and Vince Barnett.

General Duty Nurse

By Lucy Agnes Hancock

Chapter 16

"We're engaged," he said triumphantly as the door closed behind her.

"Oh, I didn't know," Sally said "Then—"

"My family doesn't approve," he said baldly. "I've been a fool and a coward, but not any longer. Now that I shall be well and like other men I feel I can face them. Mother and Etta are not dependent on me for support. Mother has plenty for both her and Etta; but somehow they have never wanted me to marry—to leave them. Ann and I have been in love for years. She understands; but now we shall be married just as soon as I am on my feet. I shall not do any explaining until it is all over. You have no idea how I feel, Nurse—now that I shall be as other men—well and strong."

• • •

It was barely seven when Sally finally went off duty that afternoon and Margaret Adams met her on the stairs leading to the dining room. She had a letter in her hand.

"Special Delivery, Sally," she said, holding it out. "I signed for it. I hope it isn't bad news. It's from Washington."

Sally couldn't have told what she ate that evening. The letter in her pocket weighed heavily. She knew it was from Richard Gregory. What had he discovered—if anything? He must have found out something else he wouldn't have written. In her room some time later she drew out the typewritten pages and scanned them with foreboding. Our sentence stood out from the page in letters of flame:

"Capt. Blair Canfield is due in Washington on July 7th at which time he is to receive the Congressional Medal from the hands of the President of the United States."

Sally sat down suddenly in the nearest chair. What should she do? What could she do? It would be in all the papers. Jim Hallock would know she had lied and despise her. She picked up the letter again. Blair Canfield lived in Iowa. His father would accompany him to Washington. Oh, why had she chosen that name? What evil spirit had possessed her? She read on, scarcely comprehending the information Richard Gregory had written.

"The elder Canfield has connections in the East—believe it or not, my dear—in Lintonville. They plan to stop off in your town for a visit with certain distant relatives but—and this is a break for you—there is to be no fanfare—no entertaining just a quiet family get-together. I knew I had heard that name somewhere, Sally. The Canfields are prominent in the mid-west and last fall young Blair was interviewed by one of the slick paper magazines because of his amazing success as a farmer. He was once the pride of the mid-west you know—state golf champion and famous tackle—made the All-America, I believe. Now he raises hogs—thousands of them. He is older than you thought—28 to be exact, so you see he can't be your Blair after all. But it will be hard to convince people if news of his visit leaks out. I don't know what to advise you to do. Perhaps the best thing would be to let it ride.

"How is Jim Hallock? Are you being a little kind to him?"

Had she been kinder to him? She had refused Carolyn's invitation for dinner tonight because she felt sure Jim would be there. Suddenly she wanted him desperately. She jumped up and ran dow the stairs to the telephone. She dialed the Bacon number and when Mrs. Bacon answered asked if she could reconsider her refusal. She would like to come out if it wasn't too late. It wasn't and she bathed and dressed in record time. Then she flew down the stairs.

She had to catch that bus due at the stop at the foot of Main Street Hill in just a few minutes. She didn't notice the insistent honking of a horn and it wasn't until a small, shabby car slid up to the curb on which she stood that she recognized Jim Hallock. Her heart skipped a beat. This was luck—better luck than she deserved.

"Going my way, Sally?" he asked as she hesitated for a brief moment. "Hop in and we'll go together."

She got in beside him just as the crowded bus lumbered past. Sally sighed in relief. "I'm glad I didn't have to sandwich myself into that crowd," she told him gratefully. "You must be gifted with second sight, Jim," she went on impulsively. "I was wishing you would come along."

• • •

"Honestly, Sally?" he asked, his face flushing with pleasure. "I wish I dared believe that."

"You may," she told him honestly and the little care swerved dangerously as he turned to look at her. "But— do you know where I'm going, Jim?"

"Sure. Where I intend taking you. Out to the Bacon cabin. Right?"

"Right. Were you invited for dinner, too?"

"I was, and I knew you were; but was told you couldn't make it. Then when you changed your mind, Carolyn phoned me and I stuck around hoping to pick you up before the bus did. Swell people, the Bacons!"

Sally laughed. "Swell matchmakers or they think they are," she said demurely.

"Do you mind?" he asked almost dubiously.

Sally laughed again. "Not a bit," she told him. "It is all so terribly obvious a child could see through them. Of course," she went on softly, "if it were any other man it might prove embarrassing, but—"

"But what, Sally?" he whispered and the car slid gently into the shallow roadside ditch and settled with what appeared to be permanence while the two in the shabby, battered coupe were quite unaware of what had happened.

"You—you're nice, Jim!" the girl whispered in her turn.

"O-oh, Sally!" he breathed and held her close while his lips found hers and clung for a long ecstatic moment.

Eons passed while the earth spun crazily and the stars sang together the age-old melody reserved for lovers.

"Hey there!" a raucous voice shouted. "Want some help?" A grinning face appeared beside Doctor Hallock and that young man stared at the intruder blankly.

"What-what?" he asked. "Wh-what did you say?"

"Say, young feller, what ails you? Don't you know you're in the ditch? Or don't it matter?" He grinned wisely, and Sally blushed rosily.

"Oh. Sure. The car swerved and—we are in a ditch, aren't we? Will you give us a hand, sir?" the bemused doctor asked, still too dazed by his sudden good fortune to think clearly.

"Sure. I'll get a rope. Sit tight. Won't be a second."

He was as good as his word and it wasn't long until the coupe was back on the road again and the farmer said slyly as he removed the rope, "Better concentrate on one thing at a time, young feller. It's safer that way."

"Thanks!" Jim said, grinning as he held out a cigar to the entirely unappreciated aide. "I could almost wish he had gone on about his business, darling," he said softly to the girl beside him. "He sort of broke the spell—such a lovely spell!"

"But we have to get to the Bacon's for dinner," Sally pointed out.

"Shall we tell them?"

"I don't think it will be necessary." Sally laughed. "We both seem to have fine open countenances. I'm wondering what we are going to do when we get back to Linton. Rules are rules, you know, and you're still a member of the staff."

"To heck with the rules!" he scoffed. "I'm going to tell Sunderlin first thing in the morning. But I'm wondering how your aunt will feel about me—if she still considers you bound to young Canfield—"

"Don't!" Sally cried, shrinking away from him. "Please —please don't talk about him—"

• • •

For a long moment Jim Hallock drove in silence. His face had lost some of its color and his mouth was grim. Sally stole a glance at him and suddenly wanted to cry.

They approached the lake and the young man said shortly:

"You still love that fellow, don't you? Or you think you do. Then where do I come in? Where does that leave us?"

"No. No, Jim," Sally whispered, choked with a feeling of guilt. "I don't love him—not at all. It—it was a bad time in my life. I—I want to forget it." Oh, why had she ever resorted to such deceit? She asked herself that question over and over in the split second that Jim Hallock took to park the car beneath an overhanging apple tree and turn to take her in his arms.

"That suits me perfectly, Sally Maynard," he told her with conviction. "And now, will you marry me at once—before I leave or—"

"Aunt Clem won't approve of that Jim," she told him, rubbing her cheek against his shoulder.

"But it isn't Aunt Clem I'm wanting to marry, Sally. How about you? Do you disapprove of wartime marriages? I'll be leaving in less than a month and we could have a little time together—"

"But the hospital, dear," she reminded him.

"I know; but during wartime hospitals can't be too finicky. You're practically indispensable to Linton and they know it. I doubt if they will object because you're married. And in my case—Carolyn has at long last been asked to join the staff. Did you know that? Well, about our marriage. Is that your only objection, Sally. Not afraid?"

• • •

"Afraid, Jim?" she whispered and was suddenly struck with the memory of Richard Gregory's letter. She sat up abruptly. She was a coward as well as a liar. She was using Jim's love for her as a cloak—a protection against Blair Canfield's visit. She met his questioning look with one of pleading. "Perhaps it would be wiser to wait until after the war, darling," she said. "After all, we don't really know each other very well and—"

"Then you are afraid," he countered, his arms dropping from her shoulders.

Sally caught the arm nearest her in a fierce grip. "Don't you dare hint at such a thing, Jim Hallock!" she cried. "I wasn't thinking of you—wondering if you really know me well enough. After all—"

His kiss was proof of his conviction that he knew his own mind. That he loved her better than anything in the world and that nothing else mattered.

"That's settled," he said and sighed in relief. "Tomorrow evening we'll go see your Aunt Clem, Sally, and break the news to her. After all, she should be the first to know, I suppose. I hope she approves of me, darling."

"She will," the girl said, with a conviction she wasn't too sure was warranted. After all, Aunt Clem knew very little about Jim Hallock. In fact, Sally told herself, she didn't know very much herself. She only knew she loved him and asked nothing better of life than to spend it with him.

They were late arriving at the Bacon cabin but after on glance at their radiant faces, neither Carolyn nor her mother asked questions. The meal was delightful and the four spent a long quiet evening beside the calm waters of the lake, sometimes exchanging interesting bits of news but often sitting silent while the shadows lengthened and a big round moon climbed above the trees and headed for the opposite shore.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

This Big Boy
Has Nerves Too,
Just ask his dentist.

Every human being—large or small, old or young—is dependent on his nervous system.

The nervous system supplies the energy to run the machinery of the body. Every time you breathe or move a muscle you consume some nervous energy.

At some time, in nearly every life, the supply runs short and you are left nervous, irritable and bodily tired. The night's sleep, if you can sleep, does not rest you.

You must call in outside help and this suggests the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

There are two reasons. First Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the mineral tonics and Vitamin B1—the essentials for new pep and energy.

Second, after fifty years on the market this product has more than doubled in sales during the last five years.

More and more men are proving its benefits, for men as well as women are subject to nervous troubles, especially nervous indigestion, restlessness and tired feelings.

5 Britons Killed Near Tel-Aviv Truck Hits Mine

Jerusalem, Nov. 18 (CP)—Police, using trained dogs, attempted today to trail attackers responsible for the death of an R.A.F. sergeant and four British police officers who were killed last night when the truck in which they were riding was blasted by a mine on the outskirts of Tel Aviv. Six other policemen were critically injured in the explosion.

The blast shattered windows in houses and caused panic among residents in the area. During a roundup of suspects in the neighborhood, police said, six Jews were slightly injured in a scuffle.

Earlier the government announced that a British officer was killed and a soldier was injured while attempting to neutralize a mine in the Haifa area near Sirkin.

The same announcement disclosed that a freight train had been slightly damaged by a mine explosion near Rehovot, south of Tel Aviv.

(In London, Scotland Yard officals revealed yesterday they had strengthened guards at all government buildings against possible attack by Jewish Extremists, following receipt of an anonymous warning. A previous message had threatened the life of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.)

Ex-Mayor Walker Of New York Ill

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—James J. (Jimmy) Walker, 65, mayor of New York from 1925 to 1932, was critically ill at Doctors Hospital today.

A bulletin issued at 9:25 a.m. E.S.T. said "there is no improvement" in the condition of the former mayor. At that time he had been in a coma more than 26 hours.

Mr. Walker is suffering from cerebral thrombosis. His physician Dr. S. Sym Newman, said his condition is "ext.emely grave."

Mr. Walker has been in ill health several months but continued to go to his office until last Wednesday. His condition took a turn for the worse Saturday night and he entered the hospital Sunday. A few hours later he was given the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

He resigned as mayor in the midst of a hearing demanding his removal from office. He spent the next five years in Europe. On his return he held several public posts, the last being the $20,000-a-year head of the City's Cloak Industry. He resigned in Feb. 13, 1945, to become President of Majestic Records, Inc.

Milk Industry In All Phases To be Studied

Toronto, Nov. 18 (CP)—Legislation governing Ontario's milk industry is both provincial and federal and under the British North America Act the federal law will prevail in event of a conflict, Beverly Matthews today told a Royal Commission which opened hearings into the province's milk industry.

Mr. Matthews is counsel for the commission which will sit all this week before Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, adjourn for a week and then resume later. Briefs to be read at the various hearings here and when the commission visits Ontario's principal cities, originally were scheduled to be in by Nov. 21 but an "informal" extension was granted by Mr. Justice Wells.

All phases of the industry, including a recent three-cent increase in the price of milk which brought the price for a quart to 16 cents, will be investigated.

His Lordship suggested that the inquiry first deal with the Ontario Milk Control Act.

Wilson E. McLean of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, said that group represented 15,000 of 20,000 producers in that province. He also represented the Ontario Cream Producers' Association.

"I understand there are 75,000 cream producers in Ontario and the association is in the process of reorganization," he added.

C. H. Kemp appeared for 25,000 farmers who sell milk to the cheese factories organized as the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association. Joseph Sedgwick of the Ontario Milk Distributors, said its 400 members did in excess of 75 per cent of the business in Ontario.

Brief from Toronto

Counsel for the Commission, Beverley Matthews, said J. Palmer Kent, solicitor for the City of Toronto, would submit a brief.

Mr. Matthews presented an inerary of the Commission's hearings and said: "As we travel around the country I know we will hear from numerous consumer representatives." He said lawyers for interested groups would be given full opportunity to examine and cross-examine witnesses.

J. C. Hay, solicitor for the Department of Agriculture, was the first witness called by the Commission counsel and presented a brief outlining provincial and federal legislation relative to the inquiry.

Outside of various wartime provisions and subsidies, only three federal acts deal with dairy products," he said.

Mr. Hay said the consumer's subsidy on milk of two cents a quart and paid by the Dominion government ended May 31. On Sept. 30 the distributors' subsidy of 55 cents a hundredweight on fluid milk and 23 cents on concentrated milk expired.

Under the orders-in-council, the 10 cent subsidy per pound of butter fat and the 30-cent subsidy on cheese will expire April 30, 1947.

An Ontario subsidy of two cents a pound on cheese was repealed in October, said Mr. Hay. It was paid on cheese requisitioned for Great Britain.

Extensive Search For Lost Guide

Sudbury, Nov. 18 (CP)—Swampland bordering the western shore of Mudge Bay, between Kagawong village and Maple Point six miles north, will be thoroughly probed today by a posse searching for Stanley Richards 43-year-old guide, missing from his bushland shack, one mile west of the Kagawong-Maple Point highway, on Manitoulin Island, since Nov. 2. The area from which Richards vanished is 26 miles west of Little Current.

The search launched yesterday by more than 100 volunteers failed to produce Richards or a clue to his whereabouts.

Volunteers were divided into two posses, the one searching the Kagawong section, south of Richards' home territory and the other combing the northern limit towards Maple Point.

Provincial Constable J. L. Needham will lead a smaller search party today in the investigation planned for the Mudge Bay swampland area. Today's probe will make the ninth day of searching for the missing guide.

However, police still discount a theory of foul play.

Kagawong district residents are voicing the opinion that Richards has been the victim of a killer's weapon and that his body has been disposed of.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 18 —(CP)— The market lost ground in the early session, the industrials leading the decline with a drop of 1.99 in the index. The golds were down .87 and the base metals .45. Volume was comparatively light at 655,000 shares for the first hour.

The liquor, steel, food and utility stocks were heavy. Hiram Walker fell back 1¾, Distillers-Seagram ¾ and point losses appeared for Great Lakes Paper Pfd., Canadian Locomotive, Agnew-Surpass and Power Corporation.

In the golds sizeable losses were boarded by MacDonald, Macassa, Central Patricia, Conwest, Donalda and Diversified. Pend Oreille, Noranda, Sherritt and Golden Manitou were weaker base metals.

Western oil issues showed little net change, Mid-Continent, Pacific Pete and Highwood had minor gains.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, Nov. 18—(AP)—The stock market resumed its decline today after an early selective recovery attempt met with scant response.

Light selling throughout again was blamed mainly on the threat of an imminent country-wide coal strike. Further adjustment of accounts for income tax purposes also was a factor in the general unsettlement.

Canadian issues were weak at mid-day. Hiram Walker slipped a point, Distillers Seagram 1/4 and Canadian Pacific 1/8.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Grade A, dressed, bacon-hogs were unchanged at Brantford $20.35 delivered, in market reporting early today.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 18 —(CP)— Cattle prices were generally unchanged and veal calves, hogs, sheep and lambs, steady, in trade on the livestock market here up to mid-session today.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: cattle 5,100, calves 1,100, hogs 900, sheep and lambs 1,800. Unsold from last week were 700 head of cattle. Today's supply included 2,400 stockers.

Prices in the trade included:

Cattle: Weighty steers $11.50-$13.75, butcher steers and heifers $10-$12.25 with a few at $12.50, fed yearlings $12.50-$14.50, butcher cows $7.75-$10, canners downward to $5.50, bulls $8-$10.75, stockers firm $9.75-$12, with stock calves up to $13.25.

Calves: $15-$16 choice vealers, heavies $10-$13, grassers mostly $9.50-$9.75.

Lambs: $14.75-$15, good ewes and wethers, bucks $1 discount, culls $10-$12.

Sheep: $4-$8.50.

Hogs: Dressed, Grade A $20.50, Grade G1 $20.10, sows mostly $18.

ST. MIKES REST ATOP JR. RACE BY THEMSELVES

Oshawa Generals Move Into Third Place With Win Over Rangers

(By The Canadian Press)

Running their win streak to six in as many starts, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors rested atop the Ontario Hockey Association junior standing by themselves today.

A five-game weekend in the junior series proved rough on all clubs — especially from the point of view of penalties; penalty boxes were full throughout the full Saturday schedule.

At Toronto, the Majors swamped St. Catharines Falcons 9-0 in the opener of a twin bill. Marlboros upset Barrie Flyers 3-2 in the nightcap to set the Flyers into second place in the loop. Oshawa Generals took over third spot with a 11-2 trouncing they handed Toronto Young Rangers.

The Red Wings treated Galt fans to a 9-1 walloping over Stratford Kroehlers and Hamilton Szabos visited Windsor Rockets to win 10-8 in a last-minute effort.

The St. Mikes-Falcons game was the exception on the weekend, with no penalties meted out. The Barrie-Marlboros tilt saw 5, but 14 were handed out at Galt, 15 at Oshawa and 12 at Windsor.

Mackell Leads Irish

Fleming Mackell led the Irish with two tallies, Kelly, Hannigan, Migay, Sandford, Psutka, Wolt and Costello adding the others.

For Marlboros the goal getters were Ray Timgen, Frank Ment and George McLagen, Larry Zeidel and Rusty Aikens were the Barrie scorers.

Jimmy Uniac and Scott each tallied twice for Galt, the other goals going to Wiseman, Robertson, McBride, Bert Giesbrecht and Bruce Giesebrecht. Both tallied for Stratford.

At Oshawa Leo Curik performed the hat trick and Hildebrand netted two more. Gamble, Bauer, Lowe, Blair, Ceresino and Pogue garnered the balance while Ringer and Samanski tallied for Young Rangers.

The free-scoring tilt at Windsor saw goals by Dennis Barnes and Val Delory break on 8-8 deadlock. Barnes scored at 19:29 and Delory at 19:47 of the last stanza.

Delory and Barnes each tallied four goals for the winners with Bill Wysynski and Pierre Cadieux getting the others. For Windsor Gord Haldy, Harry Marchand and Elvon Kavanaugh each got two and George Chin and Carl Evon tallied the others.

A senior tilt between Hamilton Tigers and Toronto Staffords is slated for Maple Leaf Gardens tonight. In the junior league St. Michael's is at Hamilton and Oshawa at Barrie.

Toronto Huskies Defeated By Boston Celtics

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Huskies of the Basketball Association of America came close to victory over the Selics at Boston Saturday night but a rally gave the homesters a 53-49 win, their first in six league contests. In two overtime fixtures New York defeated Pittsburgh 64-62 and St. Louis trimmed Cleveland 83-74.

In a luncheon speech at Los Angeles, Manager Leo Durocher of Brooklyn Dodgers revealed Saturday he had turned down an offer to manage New York Yankees next season because of a prior verbal agreement with President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers.

Bert Couzens, 47, claimed a world record Saturday at Romford Stadium, London, as he finished a 3,000-mile walk in 1,136 hours and 15 minutes. He wore out six pairs of shoes.

Marcel Cerdan of Paris, European middleweight champion is scheduled to box Joey Abrams of Washington Dec. 6 ,at New York after which Cerdan will journey to England to face Ace Hopkins, British titleholder, in January.

Jack (Spider) Armstrong of Toronto takes on Raul Zenit, lightweight from Mexico City in the 10-round main bout of the boxing show at Boston tonight. Zenit recently knocked out Tommy Greb of Boston.

Fires broke out yesterday in three barns at the Bowie, Md., race track where the Fall meeting opened Saturday. One barn, with a race horse and a pony, were destroyed. Cause of the fires was not determined immediately.

New York Yankees yesterday captured the Eastern Division title of the All-America Football conference by timming San Frisco 49ers 16-9. In the National pro circuit Green Bay Packers blanked Detroit Lions 9-0 in a feature game.

In a Sunday fixture of the Basketball Association of America at Cleveland, Chicago Stags outlasted the rebels in a hectic tussle to win 78-76. It was the first lose at home for the Clevelanders.

BEWITCHING WORDS

London (CP) — People have allowed themselves to be "Bewitched by words," Robert R. Hyde, director of the Industrial Welfare Society, said in an address in which he told of a chimney sweep who called himself a "fluonomist" and charged sixpence more than an ordinary sweep.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Nov. 18 — (CP) — The shakeup in Montreal Canadiens is definitely on now, and it's becoming plainer every day that the management of the Stanley Cup holders doesn't intend to stand idly by and see the championship squad crumble away through old age, as has happened to so many great machines in the past.

True, the rejuvenation has been gradual. First there was Leo Gravelle, that blond rightwing speedball from amateur ranks, and burly Roger Leger, highscoring defenceman and most valuable player of the American Hockey League the past two seasons. The latest reconstruction recruit was 22-year-old George Pargeter of Calgary, brought up from Springfield Indians in the A.H.L.

Coach Dick Irvin, plagued by a string of injuries that kept his squad under strength right from the start of the season, has been trying to build another championship combination and isn't afraid to try some experiments.

Irvin's next worry is to restore his "punch" line to its oldtime effectiveness. Veteran Toe Blake is still a clever ice general and a potent threat in the enemy defensive zone, but his 34-year-old legs can't keep up with Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach on the attack and on the backchecking.

Canadiens had three goals scored against them in Detroit last Sunday when the punch trio were on the ice. In past years that was almost unheard of, as the scoring boot was usually on the other foot.

Blake won't be sold down the river. He still is too valuable, and probably will be kept for tough spots where his ice generalship is needed, playing fewer minutes a game.

If Irvin could find a leftwinger to go with Lach and Richard, he'd be happy.

Amateur? Shamateur?

Charlie (Ottawa Le Droit) Daoust, looking over the withdrawal of Hull Volants from the Quebec Senior Hockey League, suggests the building of a modern artificial ice plant in Hull and the return of "truly amateur hockey."

Financial difficulties and threatened suspension of three Volants for not reporting to N.H.L. training camps — the Q.S.H.L. is almost a farm loop for the N.H.L. — prompted the removal of Volants and almost Daoust's plea for amateurism in Hull hockey.

If the Q.S.H.L. had defied the suspensions, it ran the risk of becoming an outlaw league, and some high-price hockey timber would be lost to the N. H. L., particularly Canadiens.

UNDERDOG TEAMS WIN PLACES IN EASTERN FINAL

Argos Defeat Alouettes in Montreal and Beaches Take Cats in Hamilton

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Even Toronto's most loyal grid fans had to admit they were surprised. There were few persons —anywhere —who had the remotest idea that both Toronto Argonauts and Toronto Balmy Beach would win their way into Eastern Canada Football final.

Yet both underdog teams unleashed a series of powerhouse plays which caught their opponents flat-footed and rolled them right into the Eastern final. At Montreal Argos overwhelmed Montreal Alouettes with a first half rush to trim them 12-6 and at Hamilton the hometown Wildcats were shaken 13-6 by the Beaches' fourth quarter aerial attack.

Torontonians today were assured of two more games. Next Saturday, the Argos meet the Beaches and the winner plays host to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Grey Cup classic on the last day of the month.

The Big Four final at Montreal packed in a crowd of more than 23,000. Liberal passes brought Argos two touchdowns in the first half to give the visitors a 12-0 lead.

Joe (King) Krol was the sparking power behind the 12-point drive. His bullet-like passes to Royal Copeland and Pete Titanic resulted in Copeland crossing for the first major, which Krol converted. Then in the second quarter Krol carried the ball himself for touchdown No. 2, again booting the placement convert.

The Alouettes came out on the field a determined team in the third quarter. But Montreal fans' hopes were shattered after steamroller drives ended in fumbles and Argo recoveries.

One sure touchdown saw starry Virgil Wagner drop the ball less than a foot from the Argo goalline. Byron Karrys recovered and was rouged for a single. A fourth quarter drive saw Wagner finally go across after Montreal recovered a Krol fumble, but another try minutes later again ended in failure as Wally Spencer fumbled and the Argos prevented the home team from getting untracked again.

Two Converted Touches

The East's surprise team—Balmy Beach— waited until the dying minutes of their game against the powerful Frank Gnup-coached Wildcats. Though they scored a single in the first quarter, Beaches found themselves down 6-1 by the half and unable to do anything in the third quarter.

Behind the aerial efforts of playing-coach Bobby Porter, the Beaches untracked in the last stanza and scored two converted touchdowns while the stunned 'Cats offered taken resistance. Climaxing a sustained drive was Tommy Ford's major, converted on a forward from Porter to Bill Stockman.

Right after the kick-off, Beaches rolled again when Don Toms fumbled and Beaches recovered. Bob Cummingham ripped through the line for 15 yards and the winning score which Johnny Lake converted.

Porter kicked the first quarter single and the Wildcats' points were garnered on a major by Toms, converted by Murmylyk.

In an exhibition game at Toronto, Indians of the O.R.F.U. scored a 13-9 victory over Hamilton Tigers of the Big Four.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

Liverpool, England (CP) — Nine people were injured by a mysterious explosion in a refuse bin outside a seed-crushing works here. The bin was seen smouldering as workers were leaving, and blew up when a fire extinguisher was played on it.

KOREAN CHILD LABOR

Seoul, Korea (CP) — The American military government in southern Korea has forbidden employment in any business of children under 14 during school hours.

LINDSAY JUNIORS DEFEAT B.C.I.

Peterborough, Nov. 18. (Special.)—Lindsay Collegiate Institute, Lakeshore group winners, advanced into the finals of the COSSA junior football playdowns at Toronto next Saturday by smashing Belleville Collegiate, Bay of Quinte titlists, 20-6 in a sudden-death battle Saturday.

Three touchdowns and two converts in the first quarter and a placement kick in the second frame gave Lindsay the margin. The lone Belleville converted major came in the last quarter on a plunge after a Lindsay fumble.

Norm Barker, Dick Walling and Lou Hennessy each counted a major for Lindsay. Bill Newton kicked two converts and the field goal. Lawrence Skitch, Murray Davis and John Elliott also were prominent for the winners.

Petes Overpower Albert Collegians

Port Hope, Nov. 18.— Blanking Albert College, Bay of Quinte champions, 41-0, Peterborough Collegiate seniors advanced in the COSSA finals Saturday at Trinity grounds. It was a sudden-death semi-final, and the PCVS crew were much too powerful for the Belleville squad. Matthews led the winning scorers with 11 points, while Sisson, Richardson, W. Graham, Green, Delaplante, and Thomson each accounted for five.

Albert College— Flying wing, Scott; halves, Woodrow, Lill, McCullough; quarter, Merkley; snap, Wiley; insides, McChesney, Spencer; middles, Cook, Sheppard; outsides, Banchin, Aiken, alternates McKendry, Taugher, Griffith, Burns, Lemon, Nicholson, McIntyre, Middleton.

Peterborough — Flying wing, Sisson; halves, McIlveen, Matthews, Thomson; quarter, Richardson; snap, H. Graham; insides, Rush, Patterson; middles, Lech, Moyles; outsides, Davidson Langhorne; alternates, Chapman, Boorman, Delaplante, W. Graham, Green Peirson, Hampstead, Flowers.

Tradition of "Giant" Clings to Manor

Rye, Sussex, England, Nov. 16 — (CP Cable) — The haunted "giant's house" — Sussex name for Brede Place, a 14th century stone manor-house which the late Sir Edwin Lutyens once termed the most interesting inhabited house in England — is for sale at £27,000 ($108,000).

Tradition has it that the house, standing in a fine park, is haunted by the ghost of its 15th century owner, a giant named Sir Goddard Oxenbridge whose body, impervious to steel, was cut up by Sussex children with a wooden-toothed saw.

At "Groaning Bridge" over a little stream just outside of the property it is said that one can still hear at midnight the giant's groans.
